

Boebert has been arrested and ordered to appear in court three times over the past decade. While others must show up in court when summoned Boebert seems to think she doesn't have to – and failed to appear in court – twice. She was even arrested for disorderly conduct for interfering in police activities.

December 2015: Boebert Was Arrested For Failing To Appear In Court. “The court was less accommodating that time, records indicate. On Dec. 1, 2015, Boebert was arrested by sheriff's deputies for failure to appear, according to Colorado Bureau of Investigation arrest records.” Denver Post, [8/27/20]

June 2015: Boebert Was Charged With A Class One Petty Offense After A Verbal Altercation With Law Enforcement. “Congressional candidate Lauren Boebert of Rifle, who has defended ‘law and order’ and recently called for protesters to start ‘behaving’ in the wake of widespread demonstrations against police brutality, was detained and handcuffed herself after a verbal altercation with law enforcement at a 2015 country music festival, records show. A petty offense charge for disorderly conduct — which the Mesa County district attorney later dismissed — arose from an incident at the Country Jam music festival near Grand Junction, where sheriff's deputies said Boebert encouraged people arrested for underage drinking to break free and repeatedly said she had ‘friends at Fox News’ who would report on her subsequent ‘illegal arrest,’ according to deputy accounts in a case report. [...] When Boebert didn't stop yelling after being asked multiple times by law enforcement, two deputies ‘advised her she was under arrest for disorderly conduct’ and handcuffed her, according to the statement.” Colorado Newsline, [8/13/20]

Boebert Was Given A Court Summons But Failed To Appear For Two Separate Hearings In The Case. “Boebert was given a court summons and released but later failed to appear for two separate hearings in the case, court records show. The Mesa County district attorney's office dismissed a class 1 petty offense charge against Boebert ‘in the interest of justice,’ writing that there was ‘no reasonable likelihood of conviction should (the) case go to trial.’ Under current Colorado law, a class 1 petty offense carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail, a $500 fine or both.” Colorado Newsline, [8/13/20]

September 2010: Boebert Was Arrested In An Animal Complaint Case. On September 21, 2010, Lauren Boebert was listed as a suspect in an animal complaint case of two counts of “05-48 (8.1) Dog at Large” and one count of 05-48 (5) “Dog License – required.” The reporting party was Michele Soet. Boebert was arrested under the charged and issued a summons. [Garfield County Sherriff’s Office, Case No. 2010-00020256, 9/21/10]
