Garcia Voted For Extending The Time States Have To Recover Fraudulent COVID-19 And Unemployment Insurance Payments By Extending The Statute Of Limitations By Five Years. In May 2023, Garcia voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would extend the length of time that states have to recover fraudulent COVID-19 and regular unemployment insurance benefit payments and allow states to retain certain percentages of recovered overpayments to use for UI program integrity initiatives. Specifically, the bill would extend from five to 10 years the statute of limitations for criminal charges or civil enforcement actions alleging that an individual engaged in UI benefit fraud. It would extend, from three to 10 years after a payment is made, the amount of time states have to recover UI overpayments made due to fraud under pandemic unemployment assistance programs, the mixed earner unemployment benefit program established during the pandemic, extended UI benefits during the pandemic, and the first week of regular benefits that were fully federally-funded during the pandemic. It would allow states to retain 25 percent of any such recovered funds and require states to use such funds for certain UI program integrity activities, including hiring fraud investigators and prosecutors and modernizing unemployment compensation systems. Beginning two years after enactment, it would allow states to retain five percent of any recovered overpayments of regular and extended unemployment insurance benefits, unless the overpayment was caused by a state agency's error, to be used for UI program integrity and administration costs, including deterring, detecting and preventing improper payments; payments to the Treasury Department on a state loan from the unemployment trust fund; and modernizing state UI technology infrastructure. It would establish requirements for states to be eligible for retention of such funds, including that they use a system for crossmatching UI claimants, use a national new hires directory to identify individuals who may have become employed, and take actions to prevent payments to incarcerated and deceased individuals. It would also reinstate and extend through 2030 certain flexibility for states to hire temporary staff to identify and prosecute fraudulent pandemic UI benefits. As an offset, the bill would repeal a provision in the March 2020 coronavirus response law (PL 116-136) that provided $2 billion for the Labor Department to detect and prevent fraud, promote equitable access, and ensure timely payment with respect to unemployment compensation programs.” The bill passed by a vote of 230-200. Garcia Voted For Lifting The Debt Ceiling Until January 1, 2025. In May 2023, Garcia voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through Jan. 1, 2025. It would also set discretionary spending caps for the next two years and include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, rescind unobligated funds and streamline environmental permitting processes. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits for defense and nondefense spending for fiscal years 2024 and 2025, capping defense spending for fiscal 2024 at $886.4 billion -- an increase of approximately 3 percent -- and nondefense spending at $703.7 billion -- a cut of more than 5 percent. Both caps would increase for fiscal 2025 by 1 percent. Through fiscal 2025, it would also include specific annual cap adjustments for specified programs; provide $44.8 for the veterans’ toxic exposure fund established by the PACT Act (PL 117-168); and provide $22 billion for a Commerce Department IT modernization and facility improvement fund. If appropriations legislation for fiscal years 2024 and 2025 is not enacted by Jan. 1 of each year, the bill would set discretionary spending limits for funds provided under a continuing resolution at levels reduced 1 percent from the previous fiscal year. For the subsequent four years, the bill would set overall discretionary spending limits for the purpose of congressional budget enforcement, establishing a cap of $1.62 trillion in fiscal 2026, increasing 1 percent annually to $1.67 trillion in fiscal 2029. The bill would rescind approximately $27.7 billion in unobligated funds, primarily for coronavirus response, including $10.4 billion for the Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund, $3.2 billion for Agriculture Department food supply chain and other activities, $2.2 billion for highway infrastructure programs, and $1.7 billion for Centers for Disease Control and Prevention virus tracking and vaccine development activities. It would also rescind $1.4 billion for IRS enforcement provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169). The bill would temporarily raise from 49 to 54 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, while also exempting homeless individuals, veterans, and individuals under age 25 who aged out of foster care. It would reduce from 12 to 8 percent the maximum number of individuals that states may exempt from SNAP work requirements. It would update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program and provide for a pilot program for states to establish work outcome benchmarks and reduce assistance to beneficiaries who refuse to meet work requirements. The bill would establish an ‘administrative pay-as-you-go’ requirement for federal agencies, requiring agencies to submit to the Office of Management and Budget an estimate of the budgetary effects for any proposed administrative action and, if the action would increase direct spending by at least $1 billion over the next 10 years or $100 million in any one year, include a proposal for an action to reduce spending by at least an equal amount – effective through 2024. The bill would statutorily end the pause on student loan repayments on Aug. 29, 2023. Among provisions to streamline the permitting process under the National Environmental Policy Act, the bill would set deadlines of one year for environmental assessments and two years for environmental impact statements; limit the page length of such documents; adjust thresholds for levels of review; limit the scope of reviews to ‘reasonably foreseeable’ environmental effects of an action; and limit the definition of major federal actions under NEPA to those subject to ‘substantial federal control and responsibility.’ The bill would also legislatively approve the West Virginia-to-Virginia Mountain Valley Pipeline.” The bill passed by a vote of 314-117. Garcia Voted For The Lower Energy Costs Act. In March 2023, Garcia voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and critical minerals, accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, and reverse or repeal certain recent policies related to energy and climate change. Among provisions to boost oil and gas leasing and production, the bill would require the Interior Department to resume quarterly oil and gas lease sales on federal lands; complete certain proposed sales on the Outer Continental Shelf; and implement at least two lease sales per year in each of the Gulf of Mexico and the Alaska regions of the Shelf. It would roll back increased fees and royalties for onshore and offshore oil and gas development and production established by the 2022 budget reconciliation package (PL 117-69). It would adjust revenue sharing requirements for onshore and offshore production to generally decrease federal shares and increase state shares, particularly for coastal states. It would also require annual geothermal lease sales; terminate a moratorium on new coal leasing; and provide for final approval of previously authorized coal leases. It would prohibit the president from declaring a moratorium on the use of hydraulic fracturing and from taking any action that would delay new leases, sales and drill permits for oil and gas, coal or mineral exploration. It would remove restrictions on the import and export of liquified natural gas and prohibit the Chinese Communist Party or a person acting on its behalf from acquiring any interest with respect to lands leased for oil or gas. Among provisions to streamline the permitting process under the National Environmental Policy Act, the bill would set deadlines for the completion of NEPA environmental reviews and adjust thresholds for levels of review; limit the scope of reviews to ‘reasonably foreseeable’ effects and codify 2020 regulations removing requirements to consider climate change impacts in the review process; and direct agencies to use previously completed reviews to satisfy NEPA requirements for substantially similar proposed actions. For oil and gas projects, it would limit the scope of environmental reviews to areas within or immediately adjacent to affected plots and prohibit the consideration of downstream, indirect effects of oil and gas consumption. To expedite certain energy production and infrastructure projects, it would establish procedures and a 120-day expedited deadline for federal agencies to review applications for cross-border oil and natural gas pipelines; and expand the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission’s role as the lead agency for natural gas pipeline permitting. To address critical mineral supply, the bill would require the Energy Department to conduct ongoing assessments of and develop strategies to strengthen domestic supply chains for critical energy resources, including through increased mining and processing and permit the EPA to temporarily waive certain pollution regulation requirements for processing and refining projects at critical energy resource facilities to address supply chain concerns. It would make coal and critical mineral mining projects eligible for certain expedited infrastructure permitting processes; provide for appointment of a lead agency to coordinate the permitting process for mineral exploration; and limit the withdrawal of federal lands and waters from mineral leasing. The bill would also repeal certain climate-related programs established by the 2022 budget reconciliation package, including the $27 billion ‘Greenhouse Gas Reduction’ fund to support low- and zero-carbon projects, a program imposing fees on methane emissions from oil and gas drilling sites on federal lands, and energy rebate programs to incentivize energy-efficient homes and buildings.” The bill passed by a vote of 225-204, with 221 Republicans and 4 Democrats voting for the bill, 1

H.R. 1 would do just the opposite, replacing pro-consumer policies with a thinly veiled license to pollute. It would raise costs for American families by repealing household energy rebates and rolling back historic investments to increase access to cost-lowering clean energy technologies. Instead of protecting American consumers, it would pad oil and gas company profits – already at record levels – and undercut our public health and environment. The Administration strongly opposes this bill. H.R. 1 would double the cost of energy efficiency upgrades that families need to reduce household bills and would repeal the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund that will cut energy costs and boost economic development in rural and urban communities across the country.” White House, Statement of Administration Policy, [3/27/23]
- Joseph Minott Op-Ed: H.R. 1 Eliminated The Methane Emissions Reduction Program (MERP) And The Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund, Which Helped Families Reduce Energy Consumption And Therefore Their Energy Bills. “In addition to a series of handouts to fossil fuel corporations and the removal of vital environmental protections, H.R. 1 truly takes money away from the communities that need it most by eliminating both the Methane Emissions Reduction Program (MERP) and the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund, both passed within the Inflation Reduction Act last August. [...] EPA is proposing to allow third-party air monitoring experts to help communities identify and resolve pollution incidents, but the SERP needs MERP to fund that air monitoring. Without it, it is unclear how air monitoring experts will work with local communities. In addition, MERP funds can be used to update ventilation systems and improve insulation in homes, businesses and public spaces impacted by the gas industry, truly reducing energy consumption and utility expenses. The Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund could also be used to upgrade ventilation and improve overall energy efficiency in low-income communities across the country, in addition to supporting clean energy like rooftop solar and geothermal heating systems.” Pennsylvania Capital-Star, Op-Ed, [4/2/23]
- National Parks Conservation Association: The Lower Energy Costs Act Was Bad For Climate Change, Environmental Laws, And Air And Water Pollution. “The Lower Energy Costs Act should be a nonstarter for anyone who wants to preserve our national parks and everything they protect. Here are five reasons why: 1. The act would worsen climate change [...] The Lower Energy Costs Act would deepen our nation’s dependency on fossil fuel energy, slowing the benefits from our efforts to transition to clean energy, such as wind and solar. If enacted, hundreds of thousands of acres of public lands and waters would be vulnerable to mining and oil and gas development, with little regard to the effects these activities would have on our national parks, communities and climate. [...] 2. The act would gut existing environmental laws Even worse, the Lower Energy Costs Act would undercut bedrock environmental laws that address the impacts of climate change on our environment and give people a voice in how their public lands are managed. 3. The act would pollute air and water The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that 40 percent of the watersheds in the western United States are already contaminated by pollution from hard rock mines. For decades, mining and drilling activities across the country have wreaked havoc on our environment and communities, polluting the air we breathe and water we drink. The Lower Energy Costs Act would make matters worse, opening up swaths of public lands for unabated mining and oil and gas drilling.” National Parks Conservation Association, Blog, [3/27/23]
- The Lower Energy Costs Act Codified A Trump Administration Rule That Weakened The National Environmental Policy Act. “U.S. President Joe Biden would veto a Republican energy legislation package if it were to pass Congress, citing cost increases that the legislation could lead to, the White House said on Monday. ‘H.R. 1 (Lower Energy Costs Act) would double the cost of energy efficiency upgrades that families need to reduce household bills and would repeal the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund that will cut energy costs and boost economic development in rural and urban communities across the country,’ the White House said. [...] The bill would codify into a law a Trump administration rule that sought limits on reviews and public input on fossil fuel projects and road building, weakening the fundamental conservation law the National Environmental Policy Act, or NEPA.’ Reuters, [3/27/23]

- Johnson's Bill Faced Strong Opposition In The Senate Where The Bill Was Already Rejected By Democratic Leader Chuck Schumer. "While Johnson found quick political success in his first week on the job with House passage of the Israel aid package, he is keenly aware it is a short-lived victory. The package, with its plan to pay for the aid with cuts to the IRS, would actually end up costing the government billions in lost revenue from tax dodgers, according to budget scorekeepers. and is headed toward a dismal defeat. The Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer has already rejected it. The speaker took the risk, ceding to the far-right's demands to reduce the size of government, and calculating that doing so will position House Republicans with the strongest hand as they fight Biden and the Senate." To enhance physical border security, the bill would require DHS to resume all previously planned border wall construction on the U.S.-Mexico border. It would require DHS to design, install and operate at least 900 total miles of physical barriers and other infrastructure and technology along the border, until the department achieves ‘operational control’ of the border, defined under current law as the prevention of all unlawful entries into the country. To bolster operations and capacity of Customs and Border Protection, the bill would require CBP to maintain at least 22,000 full-time agents by Sept. 30, 2025, and authorize up to $100 million for agent retention bonuses. It would authorize $110 million annually through fiscal 2028 for new DHS grants to law enforcement agencies in border states to assist with CBP operations. It would authorize funding for CBP to upgrade license plate readers and install cameras, microphones, and surveillance and intrusion detection systems at the northern and southern borders. It would require CBP to issue and regularly update a strategic plan to enhance U.S. border security, including to address security gaps between ports of entry, staffing requirements and information sharing. It would require DHS to ensure that the CBP Air and Marine Operations carries out at least 110,000 flight hours annually and operates unmanned aircraft systems over the southern border 24 hours per day. As amended, the bill would require Congress to commission a report that contains a national strategy to address Mexican drug cartels, including a determination of whether there should be a designation established to address such cartels. Among provisions limiting eligibility for asylum within the United States, the bill would specify that noncitizens are eligible for asylum only if they arrived at an official U.S. port of entry. It would tighten standards for determining whether an individual has a ‘credible fear of persecution’ and is persecuted as part of a ‘social group’ or based on a ‘political opinion.’ It would expand reasons disqualifying individuals from asylum eligibility, including convictions for certain offenses such as using a false ID, domestic violence, child abuse, certain drug possession or trafficking, and repeated or serious driving while intoxicated; traveling through but not seeking asylum in at least one other country party to certain refugee protection treaties; and ability to avoid persecution by relocating to another part of their home country. It would require DHS to return asylum seekers who cannot be detained to a safe third country during their immigration proceedings. Among other immigration enforcement provisions, the bill would require DHS to reopen or restore the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021. It would require DHS to detain parents and their children together and return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin. It would limit ‘parole’ authority allowing noncitizens to temporarily live and work in the U.S. allowing DHS to grant parole only on a case-by-case individual basis. The bill would require DHS to create a system based on the E-Verify pilot program to verify whether prospective employees are eligible to work in the U.S. and gradually require all employers to begin using the new system over 24 months, with 36-month deadline for agricultural sector employers.” The bill passed by a vote of 219-213. Specifically, it would increase the maximum $2,000 child tax credit for inflation for the tax years of 2024 and 2025. Beginning in 2023, the bill also would increase the amount that is refundable each year while allowing families to base the tax credit on the prior year's income. It would increase the 9 percent ceiling for low-income housing tax credit allocations by 12.5 percent and reduce the bond-financing requirements from 50 percent to 30 percent for projects financed by bonds issued before 2026. It would extend through 2025, the "bonus depreciation" provision in the 2017 tax law that allowed 100 percent of the cost of an asset (except structures) to be deducted in the year the asset is placed in service. The bill also would reinstate through 2025 the ability of businesses to expense 100 percent of research and experimentation costs in the year they occur. It would retroactively apply this authority to 2022, the year the 2017 tax law required businesses to start taking deductions for those costs over five years. It would permanently increase both the maximum amount a business can deduct for first-year depreciation of assets, and the threshold at which businesses must report what they pay contractors and subcontractors. It would exempt wildfire relief payments received between 2020 and 2025 and East Palestine train derailment payments received on or after Feb. 3, 2023 from taxable gross income. It also would offset the estimated $79 billion cost of tax changes by terminating the COVID-19 era Employee Retention Tax Credit (ERTC) program for any claims filed after Jan. 31, 2024 and increase penalties on under-reporting of the credit. It also would create a new section of the tax code to provide Taiwan citizens, residents, corporations, partnership, trusts and estates with benefits similar to a typical tax treaty. The provisions would apply only if Taiwan extends the same benefits to U.S. residents and businesses operating in Taiwan.” The bill passed 357-70. Garcia Voted For Reauthorizing The Health And Human Services Department’s Maternal, Infant, And Early Childhood Home Visiting Program Through FY 2027. In December 2022, Garcia voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would reauthorize through fiscal 2027 the Health and Human Services Department’s Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting Program, a mandatory spending program that makes grants to states, tribes and nonprofits to provide home visiting services to connect families with health and social services, particularly in communities with greater risks and barriers to achieving positive maternal and child health outcomes. It would gradually increase program funding from $500 million in fiscal 2023 to $800 million in fiscal 2027. It would establish a 25 percent non-federal cost share requirement and prohibit grants to an entity if its non-federal spending for MIECHV programs in a state is less than the amount spent in 2019 or 2021, whichever is lesser. It would base the program’s allocation formula on each state’s share of children and poor children under age five. The bill would allow home visits under the program to be conducted virtually, effective Oct. 1, 2023, but require at least one in-person visit per year. It would require HHS to establish a public website including an annually updated dashboard to track each funded entity's success in improving family outcomes, including information related to applicable statutory benchmarks; comparisons of outcomes between all program operators in relation to the benchmarks; and a link to the state needs assessment identifying high-need communities. Among other provisions, the bill would limit administrative spending to 10 percent of grant funding; require HHS to review and streamline program data collection and monitoring processes to reduce administrative work; and require HHS to annually submit a report to Congress on grants made in the past fiscal year, including information on program outcomes compared to applicable benchmarks; the demographic makeup of families served; the estimated share of the eligible population receiving home visits under the program; and a description of non-federal funds used for matching requirements. As an offset, it would reduce the Medicare Improvement Fund by $2.9 billion." The bill passed by a vote of 390-26. H.R. 8876, [Vote #500, 12/2/22; CQ, 12/2/22]

- June 2022: Justice Thomas Wrote The U.S. Supreme Court Should "Reconsider" To "Correct The Error" In All "Substantive Due Process Precedents, Including Griswold, Lawrence, And Obergefell." "For that reason, in future cases, we should reconsider all of this Court's substantive due process precedents, including Griswold, Lawrence, and Obergefell. Because any substantive due process decision is 'demonstrably erroneous,' Ramos v. Louisiana, 590 U. S. ___, ___ (2020) (THOMAS, J., concurring in judgment) (slip op., at 7), we have a duty to 'correct the error' established in those precedents, Gamble v. United States, 587 U. S. ___, ___ (2019) (THOMAS, J., concurring) (slip op., at 9). After overruling these demonstrably erroneous decisions, the question would remain whether other constitutional provisions guarantee the myriad rights that our substantive due process cases have generated. For example, we could consider whether any of the rights announced in this Court's substantive due process cases are 'privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States' protected by the Fourteenth Amendment." The rule would provide for automatic adoption of the Pallone, D-N.J., manager's amendment to HR 8373 that would, among other provisions, specify that the bill's definition of 'contraceptive' includes biological products and is limited to products legally marketed under existing Food and Drug Administration regulations; clarify the bill's definition of "health care provider" to state that providers must be authorized by the state to provide health care services; specify that the bill may not be construed to sanction sterilization procedures without a patient's informed consent; and make technical

changes. The rule would also provide for automatic agreement, upon adoption of the rule, to a resolution (H Res 1230) that would modify standing House rules for the 117th Congress to allow a rule to be called up for floor consideration when the text has been made available to members prior to the convening of the legislative day; allow motions to suspend the rules to be considered on any day of the week; and allow for proxy voting in the Committee of the Whole House, thus allowing delegates and the resident commissioner of Puerto Rico to vote by proxy on amendments. Finally, the rule would authorize, through the legislative day of Thursday, July 21, 2022, non-debatable motions by the majority leader or a designee to suspend the rules and consider, en bloc, measures considered under suspension of the rules on Monday, July 18, 2022.” The rule was adopted by a vote of 219-200. Specifically, it would prohibit any person acting under color of state law from preventing, restricting or retaliating against health care providers’ ability to provide abortion services that are legal in the provider’s state to patients who do not reside in that state; a person’s ability to assist in providing such services; or a person’s ability to travel or assist another person traveling across state lines to obtain an abortion. It would also prohibit individuals from preventing, restricting or retaliating against the interstate movement of any drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration for the termination of a pregnancy. It would allow the U.S. attorney general or a harmed individual to bring a civil action in U.S. district court for declaratory and injunctive relief against an individual who violates the prohibitions.” The bill passed by a vote of 223-205. And in states where abortion is lawful, the bill seeks to make it illegal for facilities to limit access to the medical procedure for individuals who arrived from out of state. Additionally, the measure includes a provision to protect people who assist others in receiving an abortion in a state where they do not reside. It also shields the state-to-state transportation of abortion drugs that have received approval from the Food and Drug Administration.” The Hill, [7/15/22]

Garcia Voted Against The Women’s Health Protection Act To Establish The Statutory Right For Patients To Receive And For Providers To Provide Abortions And To Prohibit Certain State Restrictions On Abortion. In July 2022 Garcia voted against: “Passage of the bill that would statutorily establish that health care providers have a right to provide and patients have a right to receive abortion services, and it would prohibit certain restrictions related to abortion services. The bill would specify that rights established by the bill may not be restricted by certain requirements or limitations related to abortion services, including prohibitions on abortion prior to fetal viability, or after fetal viability if a provider determines that continuation of a pregnancy would pose a risk to a patient's life or health; requirements that patients disclose reasons for seeking an abortion or make medically unnecessary in-person appointments; requirements that providers provide medically inaccurate information or perform specific medical tests or procedures in connection with the provision of abortion services; limitations on providers' ability to prescribe drugs based on good-faith medical judgment, provide services via telemedicine or provide immediate services when a delay would pose a risk to a patient's health; and requirements for facilities and personnel that would not apply to facilities providing medically comparable procedures. It would also prohibit requirements or limitations that are similar to those established by the bill or that impede access to abortion services and expressly or implicitly single out abortion services, providers or facilities. It would specify factors that courts may consider to determine whether a requirement or limitation impedes access to abortion services, including whether it interferes with providers' ability to provide services; poses a risk to patients' health; is likely to delay or deter patients in accessing services or necessitate in-person visits that would not otherwise be required; is likely to result in a decreased availability of services in a state or region; is likely to result in increased costs of providing or obtaining services; or imposes penalties that are not imposed on other health care providers for comparable conduct. It would require a party defending a requirement or limitation to establish that it significantly advances the safety of abortion services or patient health and that such goals cannot be advanced by a less restrictive alternative measure. It would authorize the Justice Department, health care providers and private individuals and entities to bring a civil action in U.S. district court for injunctive relief against any state or government official charged with implementing or enforcing a requirement or limitation challenged as a violation of rights established by the bill. It would authorize district courts to award appropriate equitable relief, including temporary, preliminary or permanent injunctive relief, and to award costs of litigation to a prevailing plaintiff. It would require courts to 'liberally construe' provisions of the bill to effectuate its purposes. The bill is substantively identical to HR 3755, which the House passed in September 2021, but adds findings related to the June 2022 Supreme Court decision in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization." The bill passed by a vote of 219-210. H.R. 8296, [Vote #360, 7/15/22; CQ, 7/15/22]

- The Women's Health Protection Act "Enshrine[d] The Protections Of Roe V. Wade Into Law." "The House on Friday passed legislation that would protect access to reproductive health care, including the ability to travel across state lines for an abortion, as part of Democrats' efforts to minimize the consequences of the Supreme Court overturning Roe v. Wade last month. One bill, the Women's Health Protection Act, would enshrine the protections of Roe v. Wade into law. The House already passed the bill last year, but it did not advance in a Senate vote in May. The House passed the bill, 219-210, prompting applause from Democrats in the chamber." Washington Post, [7/15/22]
- The Women's Health Protection Act Prevented States From Prohibiting Abortions Before Fetal Viability Or After Fetal Viability When The Patient's Life Or Health Is At Risk. "The bill would prevent state governments from limiting a health care provider's ability to prescribe certain drugs, offer abortion services via telemedicine, or immediately provide abortion services when the provider determines a delay risks the patient's health, according to CRS. It also prevents states from requiring patients to make medically unnecessary in-person visits before receiving abortion services or forcing women to disclose their reasons for obtaining abortions and related services. WHPA would ban states from prohibiting abortion services before or after fetal viability when a provider determines the pregnancy risks the patient's life or health." ABC News, [3/7/22]

Health Protection Act (HR 8296), and the Ensuring Women’s Right to Reproductive Freedom Act (HR 8297). The rule would provide for up to one hour of general debate on each bill and floor consideration of 650 amendments to HR 7900. It would provide for automatic adoption of a Pallone, D-N.J., manager’s amendment to HR 8297 that would change the title of the bill from the ‘Ensuring Access to Abortion Act of 2022’ to the ‘Ensuring Women’s Right to Reproductive Freedom Act.’ The rule would authorize, through the legislative day of July 15, 2022, non-debatable motions by the majority leader or a designee to suspend the rules and consider, en bloc, measures that were previously considered under suspension of the rules on June 21 through July 12. Finally, it would authorize through July 19, 2022, certain routine authorities for House proceedings, including for consideration of motions to suspend the rules and same-day consideration of Rules Committee resolutions.” The rule was adopted by a vote of 217-204. The bill would provide funding for federal government operations and services through Dec. 23, 2022, at fiscal 2022 levels. It would extend, for the duration of the continuing resolution, a number of expiring programs and authorities extended by the prior continuing resolution (PL 117-180), including the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, the National Flood Insurance Program, the U.S. Parole Commission, the Indian Health Service, the Federal Communications Commission’s authority to auction radio spectrum and issue licenses, and various Medicare and other health care authorities, offset by a reduction of $30 million for the Medicare Improvement Fund. It would provide an additional $1.7 million for various Food and Drug Administration programs extended by the bill, including incentive programs for developing pediatric drugs, humanitarian devices and orphan drugs. The bill would also include provisions of the Providing Research and Estimates of Changes In Precipitation (PRECIP) Act, which is the vehicle for the continuing resolution. It would authorize $1.5 million for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration to conduct a study with the National Academies and report to Congress on research needs for precipitation estimation to inform local governments and emergency management agencies on flood risk and infrastructure planning. The bill would provide for one hour of general

The rule would also provide for automatic agreement to a resolution (H Res 1516) that would approve regulatory changes to implement the Federal Employee Paid Leave Act, applying provisions of the Family and Medical Leave Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act to employees of the House of Representatives, including to allow employees to take up to 12 weeks of job-protected unpaid parental leave, or paid leave if eligible, in a 12-month period and to revise the applicable definition of spouse to include same-sex couples. The rule would also provide for the automatic passage of a bill (HR 2617) regarding federal agency performance plans with amendments allowing it to serve as the legislative vehicle for fiscal 2023 omnibus appropriations. Specifically, it would provide for automatic concurrence in the Senate amendments to HR 2617 with a House amendment inserting the text of the House-passed Agriculture appropriations bill (HR 8239, passed as part of HR 8294) and House-passed COVID-19 vaccine tax provisions (HR 4346). Garcia Voted Against Blocking Consideration Of Striking Consideration Of The FY 2023 Continuing Resolution From The Rule For Bills To Consider. In November 2022, Garcia voted against: “DeSaulnier, D-Calif., motion to order the previous question (thus ending debate and possibility of amendment).” According to the Congressional Record, Rep. Reschenthaler said, “Mr. Speaker, instead of addressing any of the crises that are actually facing this Nation, House Democrats are allowing the Senate to ram through a huge omnibus spending bill that was written without the input of House Republicans and was written behind closed doors. In September, House Republicans were very clear in opposition to postponing a government funding fight to the Democrat-controlled lame-duck session. Once again, House Democrats failed to meet the fundamental duty of funding the government despite spending most of the year passing trillions of dollars in wasteful spending that has fueled inflation and driven up our debt. That is why if we defeat the previous question, I will personally offer an amendment to the rule to immediately strike sections 8 and 9 from the rule, which would strike the omnibus vehicle from this rule.” A vote for the motion was a vote to block consideration of the bill. The motion was agreed to by a vote of 212-210. Mark Zandi, chief economist at Moody’s Analytics, found that a prolonged impasse over the debt ceiling would cost the U.S. economy up to 6 million jobs, wipe out as much as $15 trillion in household wealth, and send the unemployment rate surging to roughly 9 percent from around 5 percent.” Washington Post, [9/21/21]

- Washington Post: Failing To Raise The Debt Limit Threatened $20 Billion In Social Security Payments For Seniors. “If Congress fails to increase the debt limit, Treasury would be unable to pay debts as they come due. Treasury Secretary Janet L. Yellen said earlier this week that such a default would be unprecedented in U.S. history. Moody’s ‘best estimate’ is that this date is Oct. 20, although Treasury has not given a more precise day. At that point, Treasury officials would face excruciating choices, such as whether to fail to pay $20 billion owed to seniors on Social Security, or to fail to pay bondholders of U.S. debt — a decision that could undermine faith in U.S. credit and permanently drive federal borrowing costs higher.” Washington Post, [9/21/21]

Interest rates would spike as investors demand a higher rate of return for the risk of taking on U.S. debt given uncertainty about repayment. An increase in interest rates would ripple through the economy, raising costs not only for taxpayers but also for consumers and other borrowers. The value of the U.S. dollar would also decline long term as investors questioned the security of purchasing U.S. treasuries. The cost of auto and home loans would rise.” Washington Post, [9/21/21]

- The Fraternal Order Of Police Supported The Active Shooter Alert Act To “Improve The Ways Officers And Agencies Communicate With The Public About Active Threats.” “I am writing on behalf of the members of the Fraternal Order of Police to advise you of our support for H.R. 6538, the ‘Active Shooter Alert Act.’ Responding to an active shooter event is chaotic and can be fraught with peril, especially when the incident is not confined to one location. Law enforcement officers must prioritize preserving lives and ending the threat. Simultaneously, they need a way to notify the public about the incident, whether that is to avoid a certain area, shelter in place, or announce when the area is once again safe. The bill you have introduced is designed to improve the ways officers and agencies communicate with the public about active threats. [...] We believe as you do—having a network for informing the public during these critical incidents will save lives. On behalf of the more than 364,000 members of the Fraternal Order of Police, I thank you for your efforts on this legislation and look forward to working with you to get it passed. - The National Education Association Supported The Active Shooter Alert Act To “Reduce Harm During A Shooting.” “On behalf of the 3 million members of the National Education Association, who educate and support 50 million students in 14,000 communities across America, we urge you to vote YES on the Active Shooter Alert Act of 2022 (H.R. 6538). Votes on this legislation may be included in the NEA Report Card for the 117th Congress. [...] The Active Shooter Alert Act is a pragmatic response to our epidemic of gun violence. The legislation would create a national system for sending AMBER-style alerts

during an active-shooter emergency. This would be crucial in disseminating accurate information quickly, warning people in the vicinity who are vulnerable. [...] The members of NEA know that our nation's students will not truly be safe until we address the root of our crisis: There are far too many guns on our streets, from small towns to major cities. We support the Active Shooter Alert Act because it attempts to reduce harm during a shooting, and we continue to ask members of Congress to work toward passing the commonsense gun reforms, such as raising the minimum age for purchasing semiautomatic weapons from 18 to 21 and requiring universal background checks, that Americans are demanding. We ask that you vote YES on the Active Shooter Alert Act.” National Education Association, Letter, [7/13/22]

Garcia Voted Against The Bipartisan Safer Communities Act Gun Violence Package. In June 2022 Garcia voted against: “Nadler, D-N.Y., motion to concur in the Senate amendments to the House amendment to the bipartisan gun violence package that would provide over $4.6 billion in emergency funding through fiscal 2026 to address gun violence and mental health, and tighten restrictions on firearm purchases. Within total appropriations, the bill would provide $2.1 billion for Education Department support for school-based mental health services and student engagement activities and $990 million for Health and Human Service Department mental health programs, including $50 million for grants to states to implement or expand school-based health programs under Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program. It would require the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services to provide guidance to states on increasing access to telehealth care, including mental health services, under Medicare and CHIP. It would expand a Medicaid community behavioral health clinic demonstration program, allowing up to 10 new states to opt into the program every two years. It would reauthorize the Pediatric Mental Health Care Access grant program for five years and authorize teleconsults for emergency departments and schools under the program. It would require the Homeland Security Department, in consultation with the Education, Justice and Health and Human Services departments, to establish and publish online a federal clearinghouse for evidence-based practices and recommendations to improve school safety. It would prohibit the use of certain existing Education Department school grants to provide or train staff in the use of dangerous weapons. Within total appropriations, the bill would provide $1.6 billion for Justice Department activities to support school security, community violence intervention, community-oriented policing and background check system improvements, including $750 million for new grants under the Byrne JAG program to implement state crisis intervention programs, including mental health, drug and veterans courts, as well as extreme risk protection order or 'red flag' programs, provided they include certain due process protections. It would expand background check requirements by requiring the National Instant Criminal Background Check System to check juvenile criminal and mental health adjudication records for gun purchasers under 21 years of age and apply the existing criteria for disqualification based on crimes committed as a juvenile or adjudication of mental illness at 16 years or older. It would narrow the definition of a federally licensed firearm dealer to require registration by all individuals who sell firearms to predominately earn a profit to register. It would close the 'boyfriend loophole' by applying restrictions on gun ownership for individuals convicted of domestic violence to include violence against a current or former dating partner. It would prohibit firearm trafficking and 'straw purchases,' or the knowing acquisition of firearms on behalf of another individual who is prohibited from owning a firearm or intends to use the firearm to commit a felony. As an offset, the bill would extend for one year, until Jan. 1, 2027, a moratorium delaying implementation of a rule eliminating anti-kickback statute safe harbor protection for prescription drug rebates. It would increase funding available for the Medicare Improvement Fund from $5 million to $7.5 billion." The motion was agreed to, (thus cleared for the president), by a vote of 234-193. - BBC: “The Most Significant US Gun Control Bill In Nearly 30 Years” Was Signed Into Law By President Biden After It Passed With Bipartisan Support. “The most significant US gun control bill in nearly 30 years has been signed into law by President Joe Biden. It imposes tougher checks on young buyers and encourages states to remove guns from people considered a threat. Congress approved the legislation with bipartisan support this week, following a spate of mass shootings. [...] The new legislation is also significant because it is the first time in decades that the reforms have received support from both Democrats and Republicans. Historically, efforts to strengthen US gun laws have been blocked by the Republican party. The National Rifle Association (NRA) opposed the bill, arguing that it would not stop the violence.” BBC, [6/25/22]

Schumer: “This Is The First Time In 28 Years That The Tight Grip That The [National Rifle Association] Has Had Over Congress Has Been Broken.” “The Senate on Thursday passed bipartisan gun safety legislation, Congress’ most significant response to mass shootings in nearly 30 years. In a 65-33 vote, 15 Republicans joined all Senate Democrats in passing the legislation. [...] ‘I had talked to a few Republicans and there seemed to be a different mood, they understood how serious this was and how getting something done was important,’ Schumer said in an interview. ‘This is the first time in 28 years that the tight grip that the [National Rifle Association] has had over Congress has been broken.’” Politico, [6/23/22]

[...] ‘It funds crisis intervention, including ‘red flag’ laws. It keeps guns out of the hands of people who are a danger to themselves and to others,’ Biden said. ‘And it finally closes what is known as ‘the boyfriend loophole.’ So if you assault your boyfriend or girlfriend, you can’t buy a gun or own a gun.’” Advisory Board, [6/28/22]

[...] The gun legislation will expand the background check system for prospective gun buyers under the age of 21, giving authorities up to 10 business days to examine juvenile and mental health records. It sets aside millions of dollars so states can fund intervention programs, such as mental health and drug courts, and carry out so-called red flag laws that allow authorities to temporarily confiscate guns from any person found by a judge to be too dangerous to possess them. It pours more federal money into mental health resources in communities and schools across the country, and it sets aside millions for school safety.” New York Times, [6/25/22]

Heinrich said the Bipartisan Safer Communities Act will make it easier to prosecute straw purchasers, which are those who purchase firearms for other people that should not own firearms. It would require objections to a state's electors to be signed by one third of members in each chamber and only allow objections on the grounds that a state was not a valid state at the time electoral votes were cast; a state submitted more votes than it is constitutionally entitled to; an elector is constitutionally ineligible to be an elector; an electoral vote was cast for a candidate who is ineligible to be president or vice president; or an electoral vote was cast in violation of certain election law requirements. It would include various provisions to limit the length and numbers of recesses in the joint session. Among provisions related to the electoral college process in the states, the bill would establish procedures for state governors to appoint and certify electors no later than Dec. 14; set Dec. 23 as the date for electors to meet and cast their votes in the electoral college; require certified electoral college votes to be transmitted electronically as well as physically; and increase the fine for electors who fail to properly submit required election certificates from $1,000 to $25,000. It would allow candidates to file for federal judicial relief against a governor who fails to properly appoint and certify electors or against any individual who fails or refuses to tabulate, count or report a legally cast vote or certify election results. The bill would also replace existing law allowing a state legislature to appoint electors if the state has ‘failed to make a choice’ on Election Day with provisions allowing a U.S. district court panel to extend voting in a state up to five days beyond Election Day in the event of a ‘catastrophic event’ -- defined as a major natural disaster, act of terrorism or widespread power outage -- that prevents a ‘substantial portion’ of the electorate from voting or ballots from being counted.” The bill was passed by a vote of 229-203. - The Presidential Election Reform Act Strengthened The Integrity Of Future Presidential Elections By Outlining The Vice President’s Role In Certification, Defining A Process To Raise Objections, And Ensuring The Will Of The People Is Not Subverted. “Today, the House begins consideration of the Presidential Election Reform Act: strong, bipartisan legislation that will strengthen the integrity of future presidential elections. This legislation takes four urgent, necessary steps: · Reaffirms that the vice president has no authority or discretion to reject official slates of electoral or delay the count in any material way. · Limits the type of objections that can be raised during certification, adhering to only those outlined in our Constitution. All objections would require one-third of each chamber to be entertained – and a majority to be sustained. · Requires governors to transmit lawful election results to Congress in a timely fashion – or be compelled to by a federal court. Under this proposal, no rogue Governor can unlawfully subvert the will of the people. · Makes crystal clear that states cannot change the rules governing an election after it has occurred, preventing radical state legislators from attempting to alter the outcome.” Speaker of the House of Representatives Nancy Pelosi, Press Release, [9/21/22]

- Washington Post: The Presidential Election Reform Act “Will Prevent Congress From Illegally Choosing The President Itself,” To Ensure “That What Happened On January 6 Never Happens Again.” “The Presidential Election Reform Act, written by Reps. Liz Cheney (R-Wyo.) and Zoe Lofgren (D-Calif.), explicitly cites the Capitol attack as a reason to amend the Electoral Count Act of 1887, ‘to prevent other future unlawful efforts to overturn Presidential elections and to ensure future peaceful transfers of Presidential power.’ ‘Legal challenges are not improper, but Donald Trump’s refusal to abide by the rulings of the courts certainly was,’ Cheney said Wednesday during House debate on the measure. ‘In our system of government, elections in the states determine who is the president. Our bill does not change that. But this bill will prevent Congress from illegally choosing the president itself.’ Later, Cheney added, ‘This bill is a very important and crucial bill to ensure that what happened on January 6 never happens again.’ [...] The Presidential Election Reform Act would clearly reaffirm that the vice president has no role in validating a presidential election beyond acting as a figurehead who oversees the counting process, barring that person from changing the results. It also would expand the threshold necessary for members of both chambers to object to a state’s results, as well as clarify the role governors play in the process. Finally, it would make clear that state legislatures can’t change election rules retroactively to alter the results.” Washington Post, [9/21/22]
- NBC News: Inspired By The Investigation Of January 6, The House Passed A Bill To Prevent The Subversion Of Future Elections. “The House voted 229-203 on Wednesday to pass a bill aimed at preventing future election subversion, inspired by the investigation into Jan. 6 and a determination to prevent such an attack from occurring again. [...] The bill would amend the 1887 Electoral Count Act to remove any doubt that the vice president’s role in counting Electoral College votes is simply ministerial. It would lift the threshold for members of Congress to force a vote on discounting presidential electors from just one member of the House and the Senate each to one-third of both chambers. And it would require governors to send electors to Congress for the candidate who won, based on state law set before Election Day, which cannot be retroactively changed. Democrats unanimously supported the bill and were joined by just nine Republicans; 203 Republicans voted ‘no.’” NBC News, [9/21/22]

The bill would effectively restore preclearance requirements under the Voting Rights Act for any changes to voting practices in states and localities with a history of voting rights violations within the previous 25 years. It would establish formulas to identify such jurisdictions, which would be required to submit proposed changes to the Justice Department for review and approval before they may be implemented. It would establish an "administrative bailout" provision allowing jurisdictions to apply for exemptions to preclearance requirements if they meet eligibility standards related to not implementing discriminatory practices in the previous 10 years. It would also require states and localities to review any newly enacted or adopted election practices to identify whether they include certain practices that could impact the ability to vote based on race, color or language minority group, such as changes to impose stricter voter identification requirements; changes to jurisdictional boundaries or voting locations in jurisdictions with large minority populations; and changes that prohibit the provision of food or drinks to individuals waiting to vote. It would require jurisdictions that adopt such practices to submit them for federal preclearance. It would codify or expand various requirements for court evaluation of "vote denial" and "vote dilution" discrimination claims and other voting rights violations, including to provide for violations in the case of voting practices that have the purpose or will have the effect of denying or abridging the right to vote on account of race or color, including rules that have not yet been implemented. - The Lower Food And Fuel Costs Act Lifted Summer Restrictions On E15 Gas, Which Was Cheaper Than Regular E10 Gas. “The Lower Food and Fuel Costs Act contains a number of separate agriculture provisions aimed at addressing food costs and supply chain issues. On the energy side, it would remove summertime restrictions on the sale of a 15 percent ethanol blend, a policy similar to provisions included in an executive order signed by President Biden earlier this month. [...] The Renewable Fuels Association, the primary lobbying group for biofuels, hailed the passage in a statement Thursday. ‘E15 typically sells for 10 to 40 cents per gallon less than regular E10 gasoline today, meaning consumers are saving several dollars each time they fill up their vehicle’s tank with E15 instead of E10,’ RFA President and CEO Geoff Cooper said in a statement.” The Hill, [6/16/22]
- Renewable Fuels Association: Households Could Save Over $300 A Year By Switching To E15 Gas. “The Renewable Fuels Association welcomed passage of the bill. ‘By expanding the availability of cleaner, more-affordable ethanol blends, this legislation will help deliver immediate economic relief to American families who are feeling unprecedented pain at the pump,’ said Geoff Cooper, president and CEO of the RFA. ‘E15 typically sells for 10 to 40 cents per gallon less than regular E10 gasoline today, meaning consumers are saving several dollars each time they fill up their vehicle’s tank with E15 instead of E10. That means the typical household can save more than $300 on fuel expenses over the course of a year simply by choosing lower-carbon E15. Garcia Voted Against The Consumer Fuel Price Gouging Prevention Act To Bar Excessive Or Exploitative Fuel Prices. In May 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would prohibit the sale of consumer fuel at excessive costs during a presidentially declared energy emergency. Specifically, the bill would allow the president to issue an energy emergency proclamation for any U.S. area for a renewable period of up to 30 days. It would specify aggravating and mitigating factors in determining violations including whether the price grossly exceeds the average price of fuel offered in the 30 days before the emergency proclamation or during a benchmark period established by the FTC; whether the price grossly exceeds the average price offered during the emergency period by other sellers in the same area; and whether the quantity of fuel produced, distributed or sold increased in an area during the emergency period, accounting for usual seasonal variation. Among other provisions related to enforcement, it would require the FTC to prioritize enforcement against companies with sales over $500 million annually; allow state attorneys general to enforce the prohibition through civil action and allow the FTC to intervene in such cases; and establish the Consumer Relief Trust Fund for funds collected from penalties, to be used to provide energy assistance to low-income households. It would also increase from $1 million to $2 million the maximum penalty under existing law and expand FTC enforcement authority for market manipulation and sharing false information with respect to transportation fuel pricing. It would require the Energy Department's Energy Information Administration to conduct surveys of energy companies to collect information on U.S. crude oil and transportation fuel markets and share survey results and related analyses with the public and the FTC. - March 2022: 87% Of Voters Supported “A Crackdown On Price Gouging By Oil Companies, Including 63% Who Strongly Favor It.” “Of all the actions the President and Congress might take to address the problem of rising gasoline prices and long-term energy costs, the one voters support most strongly and most broadly is cracking down on price gouging and excessive price increases by oil companies. Eighty-seven percent (87%) of voters favor a crackdown on price gouging by oil companies, including 63% who strongly favor it. One reason voters are so emphatic about cracking down on price gouging is that they believe oil company CEOs are “profiteering” off of the war between Russia and Ukraine and are using the war as an opportunity to raise gas prices just to increase their profits. [...] 49% say the prices at the pump are a reflection of oil companies wanting to increase their profits as much as possible.” Hart Research Associates, [3/15/22]

May 2022: The Average Gas Price Hit A Record High Of $4.59 Per Gallon And Was Expected To Remain High Through The Summer. “Gas prices continued to rise across the U.S. this week, and pressure on the pump is unlikely to decrease as the summer travel season begins. The average price for a gallon of regular unleaded gasoline in the U.S. hit a record of $4.59 on Thursday, according to AAA. It is the highest national average recorded by AAA since they began tracking fuel costs in 2000. On average, prices are about 50 cents more a gallon than they were a month ago. A year ago, the average cost of a gallon of gas was $3.04, according to the group. [...] Prices are expected to remain high throughout the summer. Among other provisions, the bill would establish a public-private partnership -- made up of federal, state, and local government officials, and private stakeholders -- to facilitate environmental remediation of federal lands and waters in California damaged by illegal marijuana operations. It would preserve a number of existing rights and usages on designated lands, such as low-level helicopter operations and high altitude training by the military. As amended, it would establish a formal system for designation and management of National Heritage Areas; reauthorize the Cape Cod National Seashore Advisory Commission for 10 years; and designate or require studies on additional lands in several other states, including to expand two national monuments in Arizona and establish the island of St. Croix in the Virgin Islands as a National Heritage Area.” The bill passed by a vote of 227 – 200. ## Equal Rights & Workplace Fairness Issues

Garcia Voted Against Considering The FY 2023 Omnibus Appropriations Package, A One-Week Continuing Resolution, An Enrollment Correction Resolution For The Omnibus, A Rideshare Safety Bill, And Resolutions On Motorcycle Profiling And Condemning White Supremacy. In November 2022, Garcia Voted Against: “Adoption of the rule (H Res 1531) providing for floor consideration of the Senate amendment to the fiscal 2023 omnibus appropriations package (HR 2617), as well as automatic passage of / agreement to: an additional one-week continuing resolution (HR 4373); an enrollment correction resolution (S Con Res 51) for the omnibus; a bill (HR 1082) related to rideshare safety; and two resolutions (H Res 366 and H Res 1382) related to motorcycle profiling and condemning white supremacy, respectively. HR 4373 would provide funding for federal government operations and services for an additional week through Dec. 30, 2022, at fiscal 2022 levels and extend, for the same period, expiring programs and authorities extended by the prior continuing resolutions (PL 117-180, PL 117-229). S Con Res 51 would direct the clerk to make enrollment corrections to HR 4373, including to update the bill’s title and strike a section related to a river designation study already signed into law as part of the fiscal 2023 defense authorization. HR 1082 would require the Government Accountability Office, within one year of enactment and every two years thereafter, to conduct a study and report to Congress on incidents of assault and sexual assault between rideshare and taxi passengers and drivers and assaults perpetrated by individuals posing as rideshare drivers, as well as information on background checks and additional safety measures taken by rideshare, taxi and other for-hire vehicle companies. H Res 366 would state that the House of Representatives promotes increased public awareness on the profiling of motorcyclists by law enforcement officers, encourages collaboration and communication with the motorcyclist community and law enforcement to end profiling, and urges state law enforcement to condemn motorcyclist profiling in written policies and training materials. H Res 1382 would state that the House of Representatives condemns the actions of white supremacist mobs that attacked Black residents of Atlanta, Ga., in 1906; honors the memory of the victims and acknowledges the lasting impact of the incident on Atlanta’s Black community; expresses support for the designation of a national day of remembrance for the victims of forced migrations of Black Americans throughout U.S. history; and reaffirms the commitment of the federal government to combat white supremacy and seek reconciliation for racial injustice.” The rule was adopted by a vote of 215-206. Garcia Voted For Requiring The U.S. Olympic And Paralympic Committee To Ensure Athletes Who Represent The U.S. In Amateur Athletic Event Receive Nondiscriminatory Compensation, Wages, Benefits, Medical Care, Travel, And Expense Payments. In November 2022, Garcia Voted For: “Nadler, D-N.Y., motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill that would require the U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Committee to ensure that female and male athletes who represent the United States in international amateur athletic events receive, from funds directly provided by the committee to the athlete, equivalent and nondiscriminatory compensation, wages, benefits, medical care, travel arrangements and expense payments. It would specify that the committee may consider merit, performance, seniority or quantity of play in determining contracts or other terms of participation, and may provide more beneficial terms to athletes to address disparities in outside income. It would require the committee to take ‘all reasonable steps’ to advocate to international sports federations to equalize athlete compensation and regularly report to Congress on the equal treatment of athletes, including information on the stipends and bonuses provided to athletes disaggregated by gender, race and status of participation on a professional sports team.” The motion was agreed to, thus cleared for the president, by a vote of 350-59. Garcia Voted Against Considering A Resolution To Provide Seven Days Of Paid Sick Leave To Railroad Employees Under Their Prior Union Agreement. In November 2022, Garcia Voted Against: “Agreeing to the resolution that would make an enrollment correction to add language to H J Res 100 to require any tentative agreement ratified before enactment of the joint resolution or made binding by the joint resolution to provide for seven days of paid sick leave for railroad employees each year, the use of which may not result in penalties related to attendance. It would require parties to the rail labor dispute — railroads represented by the National Carriers’ Conference Committee and their employees represented by labor organizations — to negotiate implementation of the sick leave policies within 30 days of enactment. If the parties fail to meet the deadline, it would require them to enter into binding arbitration to reach a resolution.” The rule was adopted by a vote of 221-207. The Senate passed the bill compelling unions to accept the deal brokered by the White House, but the addition of sick days did not get enough senators’ votes to pass.” Washington Post, [11/30/22]

Garcia Voted Against To Make The Sept. 15, 2022 Tentative Union Agreement For Railroad Workers Binding To Prevent Striking. In November 2022, Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the joint resolution that would make binding the Sept. 15, 2022, tentative agreement to provide for settlement of the railroad labor-management dispute between railroads represented by the National Carriers’ Conference Committee and their employees represented by labor unions — thereby preventing the unions from striking or the companies from taking unilateral actions. It would specifically make binding the most recent tentative agreements, side letters and local carrier agreements entered into by the parties, including agreements that previously failed ratification. It would specify that the parties may still enter into a mutual written agreement to terms and conditions different from those in the tentative agreement, or to implement the tentative agreement.” The bill passed by a vote of 290-137. - Rail Unions Threatened Strike In Their Fight For Paid Sick Days. “Rail union leaders and carriers agreed to a tentative deal in September that included pay raises for members. But many union workers voted against the deal, in part because they have been pushing for paid sick days, which they currently do not receive. There is also widespread dissatisfaction over a grueling scheduling model that they say has taken a toll on their mental and physical well-being. One of the largest rail unions, SMART Transportation Division, announced earlier this month that its members had voted down the tentative deal. Three smaller unions also rejected the contract. Together, the four unions represent more than half of the unionized rail workers. A strike could have occurred as soon as Dec. 9. If one union strikes, all probably would walk out in solidarity. [...] A crucial issue in the dispute is a points-based attendance policy adopted by some of the largest carriers earlier this year. Those policies penalize workers, up to termination, for going to routine doctor’s visits or tending to family emergencies. Conductors and engineers say they can be on call for 14 consecutive days without a break and that they do not receive a single sick day, paid or unpaid. Rail carriers have said their employees can take time off when they are sick by using paid vacation days, but some unions have said their members are typically asked to schedule time off months in advance. The tentative deal does not include any sick days. It does include one paid personal day that needs to be scheduled in advance, and some workers would have the ability to call out of work three times a year for doctor’s appointments, which would also need to be scheduled. ‘The biggest thing we wanted is sick days,’ Steve Sample, 54, a rail maintainer in northern Ohio who voted against the agreement, told The Washington Post. ‘We get one personal day.’” Washington Post, [11/30/22]
- The Railway Labor Act of 1926 Allowed Congress To Intervene In Rail Carrier And Union Deals To Prevent The Economic Impact Of Strikes. “Congress can vote to force the rail carriers and unions to adopt the tentative deal. U.S. union members generally have the right to go on strike to pressure companies to offer strong contracts. But the Railway Labor Act of 1926 imposed barriers to such walkouts, including intervention mechanisms from Congress, given the potential economic effects of these work stoppages.” Washington Post, [11/30/22]

- The Cost Of A Rail Strike Was Estimated At $2 Billion Per Day. “The cost of a railway shutdown has been estimated to be $2 billion per day and could lead to millions of job losses in the first week of a strike. One-third of the nation’s grain, three-fourths of new automobiles and countless other natural resources and commodities are shipped by rail. Cutting off that flow for even a few days would have a ripple effect throughout the entire economy and would certainly frustrate a lot of holiday plans this time of year.” Rutgers University, Rutgers Today, [12/1/22]

Garcia Voted Against Considering The One Stop Shop Community Reentry Program Act (HR 3372); The Pregnant Women in Custody Act (HR 6878); The Jackie Walorski Maternal and Child Home Visiting Reauthorization Act (HR 8876); And A Joint Resolution (H J Res 100) Related To Settlement Of The Railroad Labor Dispute. In November 2022, Garcia Voted Against: “Adoption of the rule (H Res 1499) that would provide for House floor consideration of the One Stop Shop Community Reentry Program Act (HR 3372); the Pregnant Women in Custody Act (HR 6878); the Jackie Walorski Maternal and Child Home Visiting Reauthorization Act (HR 8876); a joint resolution (H J Res 100) related to settlement of the railroad labor dispute; and a concurrent resolution (H Con Res 119) making an enrollment correction for H J Res 100. The rule would provide for up to 10 minutes of debate on H Con Res 119 and up to one hour of debate on each of the other measures. For HR 3372 and HR 6878, it would provide for automatic adoption of a manager’s amendment and floor consideration of one additional amendment to each bill. The Nadler, D-N.Y., manager’s amendment to HR 3372 would, among other provisions, require community reentry center grant recipients to identify methods to increase participant enrollment in vocational and technical training programs; expand program reporting requirements; and specify additional services that reentry centers may provide to formerly incarcerated individuals — including safety planning for victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and human trafficking; assistance securing documentation relating to citizenship, immigration and employment; and assistance applying for vocational services for individuals with disabilities. The Nadler, D-N.Y., manager’s amendment to HR 6878 would require the Bureau of Prisons to offer all women of reproductive age a pregnancy test upon entry to a BOP facility; and clarify language requiring the agency to ensure that all incarcerated women of reproductive age have access to contraceptives and testing for pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases. The rule would also provide for automatic agreement to H Res 1495 and H Con Res 118. H Res 1495 would designate the caucus room in the Cannon House Office Building (room 390) as the ‘Speaker Nancy Pelosi Caucus Room.’ H Con Res 118 would authorize use of the Capitol Rotunda for a ceremony to award Congressional Gold Medals to the U.S. Capitol Police and others who protected the Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021. Finally, the rule would authorize, through the legislative day of Friday, Dec. 2, non-debatable motions by the majority leader or a designee to suspend the rules and consider, en bloc, measures considered under suspension of the rules on Tuesday, Nov. 29, through Friday, Dec. 2. It would also prohibit motions to instruct conferees with respect to the competitiveness and innovation package (HR 4521) through the remainder of the 117th Congress.” The rule was adopted by a vote of 216-202. Garcia Voted For The Speak Out Act To Make Predispute Nondisclosure And Nondisparagement Employment Contract Clauses Unenforceable When Related To Sexual Assault Or Harassment Disputes. In November 2022, Garcia Voted For: “Passage of the bill that would make predispute nondisclosure and nondisparagement clauses, which are common in employment contracts, unenforceable with respect to sexual assault or harassment disputes under federal, state or tribal law, thus allowing parties to such disputes to disclose information on conduct and settlements related to the dispute. The bill would specify that states and localities may enforce laws that are at least as protective as the bill’s provisions regarding individuals’ rights ‘to speak freely,’ and that it would not supersede any federal, state or local law governing the use of pseudonyms in the filing of claims involving sexual assault or harassment.” The bill passed, thus cleared for the president, by a vote of 315-109. nondisclosure and nondisparagement clauses. It would provide for up to one hour of general debate on S 4524. The rule would also provide for automatic agreement, upon adoption of the rule, to a resolution (H Res 1463) that would state that the House of Representatives supports the goals and ideals of ‘move over’ laws, which generally require motorists to move at least one lane over when there is an emergency or rescue activity taking place on the side of the roadway, or to slow down and pass with caution if unable to safely change lanes. It would urge relevant federal and state agencies, as well as nongovernmental organizations involved in traffic incident management response, to spread awareness of and promote such laws, and to educate the public on the dangers and potential loss of life if they are not observed. The rule would authorize, through the legislative day of Nov. 18, 2022, non-debatable motions by the majority leader or a designee to suspend the rules and consider, en bloc, measures that were previously considered under suspension of the rules on Nov. 14 or Nov. 15. Specifically, it would establish the presumption with respect to chronic obstructive pulmonary disease; a sudden cardiac event or stroke within 24 hours of being engaged in fire protection or emergency response duties; and 14 specified types of cancer, including brain cancer, lung cancer, leukemia and mesothelioma. It would require the Labor Department, in consultation with the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, to periodically review the list of diseases and add a disease to the list by rule upon a petition or determination by the department that there is ‘significant risk’ to firefighters of developing the disease based on the best available scientific evidence. It would establish a process for individuals to petition for the addition of a disease and require the department to substantively evaluate and either grant or deny such petitions within 18 months of receipt. It would require the department, within three years, to evaluate and determine whether to add breast cancer, gynecologic cancer or rhabdomyolysis to the list. Garcia Voted Against Considering Several Bills Including The Rights For The TSA Workforce Act, The Federal Firefighters Fairness Act, The Community Services Block Grant Modernization Act, And Supplemental Funding For Ukraine. In May 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “Adoption of the rule (H Res 1097) that would provide for floor consideration of the Rights for the TSA Workforce Act (HR 903), the Federal Firefighters Fairness Act (HR 2499), the Community Services Block Grant Modernization Act (HR 5129) and legislation to provide supplemental funding for Ukraine (HR 7691) and provide for automatic agreement to a resolution recognizing the right of House employees to unionize (H Res 1096). The rule would provide for one hour of debate on each measure; automatic adoption of managers' amendments to each of the first three bills; and automatic agreement to H Res 1096. It would provide for a structured rule on HR 903, HR 2499, and HR 5129. The rule would also provide for automatic adoption of the Thompson, D-Miss., manager's amendment to HR 903 that would, among other provisions, add language to specify that federal air marshals who are Transportation Security Administration employees are eligible for ‘availability pay,’ which is premium pay for federal criminal investigators, as well as overtime pay at rates no lower than they would receive if they were subject to Fair Labor Standards Act overtime pay provisions; require the TSA to provide a one-time $3,000 bonus payment to each employee whose duties require substantial contact with the public during the COVID-19 national emergency; and require the Homeland Security Department to ensure that TSA employees are provided appropriate leave during national emergencies. The rule would provide for automatic adoption of the Scott, D-Va., manager's amendment to HR 2499 that would designate continuation of pay as a payment type subject to federal workers' compensation subrogation policies related to adjustments to compensation paid by the United States in cases where legal liability for damages as a result of an injury or death falls on a third party. The rule would provide for automatic adoption of the Scott, D-Va., manager's amendment to HR 5129 that would add requirements related to conflict of interest policies of organizations eligible for funding under the bill's provisions, including to specify that such policies must require members to recuse themselves from proceedings relating to any contract or transaction from which they or an immediate family member would receive a direct financial benefit and that members do not receive compensation beyond ‘reasonable expenses’ for serving on the board. The rule would provide for the automatic adoption of the DeLauro, D-Conn., manager's amendment to HR 7691 that would increase from approximately $8.75 billion to $9.05 billion funding provided by the bill that may be used to replenish defense article stocks and reimburse defense services and training provided by the Defense Department to Ukraine and other countries in support of Ukraine. The rule would provide for automatic agreement, upon adoption of the rule, to a resolution (H Res 1096) that would approve the August 1996 regulations issued by the Office of Compliance, now the Office of Congressional Workplace Rights, with respect to House of Representatives employees. The regulations would allow employees of member, committee, leadership, caucus and certain other congressional offices to form labor unions. Finally, the rule would authorize through June 10, 2022, certain routine authorities for House proceedings, including for consideration of motions to suspend the rules and same-day consideration of Rules Committee resolutions. It would also allow proceedings on measures considered under suspension of the rules on May 10 or May 11 to be postponed through May 18.” The rule was adopted by a vote of 217-202. [H. Garcia Voted Against The CROWN Act To Prohibit Race-Based Hair Discrimination. In March 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “This bill prohibits discrimination based on a person’s hair texture or hairstyle if that style or texture is commonly associated with a particular race or national origin. Specifically, the bill prohibits this type of discrimination against those participating in federally assisted programs, housing programs, public accommodations, and employment. Persons shall not be deprived of equal rights under the law and shall not be subjected to prohibited practices based on their hair texture or style. ### Garcia Voted Against The FAIR Act To Prohibit Forced Arbitration Agreements And Class Action Waivers.

In March 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the bill that would prohibit the enforcement of predispute arbitration agreements that would require a future employment, consumer, antitrust or civil rights dispute to be resolved through arbitration. It would also prohibit the enforcement of predispute joint-action waivers that would interfere with an individual’s right to participate in a collective action with respect to such disputes. It would permit the voluntary use of arbitration after a dispute arises; require federal courts, not arbitrators, to determine the applicability of the bill’s provisions to a contract; and specify that the bill’s provisions would not apply to arbitration provisions in collective bargaining agreements between an employer and a labor organization or between labor organizations, as long as such agreements do not effectively waive an employee’s right to seek judicial enforcement of a right arising under existing federal or state law.” The bill passed by a vote of 222-209. - Forced Arbitration Agreements And Class Action Waivers Took Away Worker And Consumer Due Process Rights, Made It Difficult To Address “Systemic Discrimination Or Widespread Violations Of Law,” And Allowed Corporations To Escape Accountability. “The FAIR Act would prohibit corporations from forcing working people and consumers into pre-dispute forced arbitration agreements and class action waivers, which are hidden in many non-negotiable employment and consumer contracts. [...] Pre-dispute forced arbitration agreements and class action waivers harm working people and consumers while allowing corporations to escape accountability for wrongdoing. Forced arbitration clauses are written to benefit corporations: they select the arbitrators, pick the rules, choose the state in which the proceeding will occur, and decide the payment terms. Private arbitration lacks guaranteed due process protections and proceedings are secret. [...] In addition to making people more vulnerable to abuse by bad corporate actors, forced arbitration agreements and class action waivers are an impediment to the enjoyment of basic civil and human rights. [...] Additionally, the use of class action waivers also substantially diminishes access to justice. Of employees subject to forced arbitration, nearly half are also subject to a class action waiver, making it nearly impossible to address systemic discrimination or widespread violations of law.” Leadership Conference On Civil And Human Rights, [3/17/22]
- 2017: 60.1 Million American Workers Lacked Access To Protect Their Employment Rights Due To Forced Arbitration, Which Reduced Employers’ Liability For Employment Law Violations. “Extrapolating to the overall private-sector nonunion workforce, this corresponds to 60.1 million American workers who are now subject to mandatory employment arbitration procedures and no longer have the right to go to court to challenge violations of their employment rights. [...] Given the finding that 60.1 million American workers are now subject to these procedures, this means that only 1 in 32,000 employees subject to these procedures actually files a claim under them each year. These findings indicate that employers adopting mandatory employment arbitration have been successful in coming up with a mechanism that effectively reduces their chance of being subject to any liability for employment law violations to very low levels.” Economic Policy Institute, [9/27/17]

- The FAIR Act Was Step Toward Expanding A Law To Prevent Enforcement Of Agreements For Workers Alleging Sexual Harassment Or Assault. “The U.S. House passed a bill that would void all pre-dispute mandatory arbitration agreements in employment, antitrust, consumer, and other matters, following on the heels of a new law that specifically banned the agreements for #MeToo allegations. The House voted 222-209 to advance the FAIR Act (H.R. 963), moving closer to expanding a bill President Joe Biden signed into law that bars the enforcement of the agreements for workers alleging sexual harassment or assault. Garcia Voted For Expanded Employer Requirements To Provide Reasonable Breaks And A Non-Bathroom Private Place For Breastfeeding. In October 2021 Garcia voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would expand requirements for employers to provide breaks for employees to pump breast milk and allow employees to seek restitution for violations of such requirements. Specifically, the bill would require all employers to provide reasonable breaks as needed and a private place other than a bathroom for employees to express breast milk for a period of two years after such need arises. It would specify that employers would not be required to compensate employees for break time provided unless otherwise required by federal, state or local law. It would specify that break time would be considered hours worked if the employee is not completely relieved from duty during the entirety of the break. It would establish an effective date of 120 days after enactment and require the Labor Department, within 60 days of enactment, to issue guidance with respect to employer compliance. In seeking legal remedy against an employer that does not comply with the bill's requirements, it would generally require the employee to inform the employer and give them 10 days to provide accommodations prior to commencing legal action. It would provide an undue hardship exemption for employers of fewer than 50 employees. For air carriers, it would establish a separate effective date of one year after enactment; specify that accommodations would not have to completely relieve crewmembers from duty during in-flight breaks or provide breaks during critical phases of flight; and require the Federal Aviation Administration to propose regulations identifying appropriate means for air carrier compliance and updating federal law to ensure that expressing breast milk is considered a ‘physiological need.’” The bill passed by a vote of 276-149. Garcia Voted Against Reversing A Trump Administration Rule That Changed What Information The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Would Share With Companies Accused Of Discrimination. In June 2021, Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the joint resolution that would provide for congressional disapproval of a January 2021 rule modifying requirements for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission conciliation process, by which the agency is required to attempt to settle unfair employment practice claims with an employer prior to taking legal action against the employer, including through an agreement that the employer will eliminate the practice and provide affirmative relief. The rule went into effect on Feb. 16, 2021, and requires the EEOC to present employers with certain information related to a claim, including to provide a written summary of the legal basis for its determination that there is reasonable cause to believe an unlawful practice occurred; identify individuals who filed the claim unless they requested anonymity; and explain its decision-making related to the basis for affirmative relief and the legal designation for the case. Garcia Voted For An Amendment To Delay Implementation Of The Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act Until A GAO Study Determined If SCOTUS Rulings Discouraged Individuals From Filing Age Discrimination Or Employment Retaliation Charges. In June 2021, Garcia Voted For: "Adoption of the Scott, D-Va., en bloc amendments no. 2 that would postpone the bill's effective date until the Government Accountability Office reports to Congress the results of a study determining whether Supreme Court decisions in 2009 and 2013 employment discrimination lawsuits have discouraged individuals from filing age discrimination or employment discrimination retaliation charges and cases with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and whether the success rate for such cases has decreased. It would prohibit the bill's provisions from taking effect if the study shows that such filings and success rates have not decreased. It would strike language that would allow mixed-motive retaliatory claims in which a complainant demonstrates that a protected characteristic under existing law was a motivating factor for any employment practice, even if other factors also motivated the practice." Garcia Voted Against Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act Of 2021. In June 2021, Garcia Voted Against: "Passage of the bill, as amended, that would specify a that adverse actions by an employer in which age was a motivating factor shall be considered unlawful under federal employment law regarding age discrimination. It would specify that a complaining party under such law would not be required to demonstrate that age was the sole motivating factor of an adverse action, thus effectively reversing the 2009 Supreme Court decision in Gross v. FBL Financial Services, Inc. It would establish the same standard of proof in the case of employment discrimination based on disability or retaliation against an employee who opposes unlawful employment practices or participates in investigations or litigations related to such practices. In age-based employment discrimination cases where a court determines that an adverse action would have been taken in the absence of age-based motivation, the bill would allow courts to grant declaratory or injunctive relief and attorneys fees, but prohibit courts from awarding damages or ordering reparative actions by the respondent. As amended, it would require the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to submit reports to Congress on the number of age discrimination in employment claims brought under the bill's provisions; disparities faced by individuals with characteristics protected under existing anti-discrimination law in pursuing employment discrimination relief under the mixed-motive evidentiary standard; and the number of pending or filed claims by women impacted by age-based employment discrimination." It would prohibit employers from denying employment opportunities to or retaliating against such employees based on the need to provide accommodations. It would prohibit employers from requiring such employees to take paid or unpaid leave if reasonable accommodations can be provided or to accept any accommodation other than a reasonable accommodation arrived at through an interactive process between the employer and employee. It would also provide legal remedies for employees denied reasonable accommodations, including rights to compensatory damages, lost pay and reasonable attorney fees, and it would require the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, within two years of enactment, to issue regulations to carry out the bill's provisions, including to provide examples of reasonable accommodations for pregnant workers.” The bill passed 315 to 101. All other territory of the current district would be part of the new state. It would provide that district executive, legislative and judicial officers at the time of admission would serve in the respective offices of the state; the state would be considered the legal successor to the district in continued judicial proceedings; and the federal government would retain control of lands currently held for defense or Coast Guard purposes. It would prohibit federal law enforcement agencies from enforcing state laws without state authorization. It would also allow residents of the new federal district to vote in federal elections by absentee ballot in their last state of residence and provide for the repeal of the 23rd amendment to the Constitution, which granted District of Columbia residents the right to vote in presidential elections.” The bill passed 216 to 208. Garcia Voted Against The Paycheck Fairness Act. In April 2021, Garcia voted against: “Passage of the bill that would narrow the legal defense an employer may use in a lawsuit alleging pay discrimination on the basis of sex. Specifically, it would require employers to demonstrate that a difference in pay between employees is based on a business-related ‘bona fide factor other than sex, such as education, training, or experience’ as opposed to being based on ‘any factor other than sex.’ It would prohibit employers from retaliating against employees involved in lawsuits under fair labor standards law; prohibit employers from relying on a prospective employee's wage history for hiring or wage determinations; increase employers' liability for compensatory or punitive damages related to pay discrimination violations; and provide for automatic inclusion of all affected individuals in class action lawsuits related to pay discrimination. Among other provisions, the bill would authorize a new Labor Department grant program for public and private entities to carry out negotiation skills training programs to address pay disparities. It would establish an annual national award for an employer that made a ‘substantial effort to eliminate pay disparities between men and women.’ It would require the Labor Department to conduct a number of studies on sex-based pay disparities and require the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to collect compensation data disaggregated by employees' sex, race and national origin. It would require the Labor Department and EEOC to provide technical assistance for small businesses to comply with the bill's provisions. It would add a definition of ‘sex’ with respect to federal fair labor standards law, which would include sexual orientation or gender identity.” According to CNBC, the Paycheck Fairness Act “aims to eliminate the gender pay gap and strengthen workplace protections for women.” The bill passed 217 to 210. Additionally, he said the Paycheck Fairness Act would make it illegal for employers to ask

It would prohibit employers from requesting or relying on the wage history of a prospective employee for consideration of employment, unless a prospective employee voluntarily discloses such information. Garcia Voted Against Expanding Whistleblower Protections For Federal Employees, Including With Respect To Petitions To Congress, Whistleblower Identity, And Protected Disclosures. In September 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would expand whistleblower protections for federal employees. The bill would elaborate on federal employees' right to petition or furnish information to Congress and prohibit other federal employees from interfering with, denying or retaliating against the exercise of this right. It would prohibit retaliation against employees who disclose violations of law to their supervisors and expand the list of prohibited retaliatory personnel actions to include investigations or adverse actions related to an employee’s security clearance or other access. It would prohibit the disclosure of the identity of an actual or suspected whistleblower and allow individuals to seek corrective action from the Merit Systems Protection Board with respect to violations of the prohibition. It would specify that the MSPB may stay personnel actions if there is a ‘substantial likelihood’ that whistleblowing activity was a contributing factor and allow applicants to appeal a decision to deny a stay within seven days of the denial. It would allow individuals seeking corrective action from the MSPB with respect to whistleblower retaliation to bring a case in federal district court if the board does not reach a decision within 180 days. If an employee prevails in such cases, it would require the agency responsible to pay the employee’s attorney fees. Garcia Voted Against A Family Or Household Member Or Law Enforcement Initiated Red Flag Law Authorizing Judges To Prohibit The Purchase And Possession Of Firearms By People Who Pose An Imminent Danger. In June 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would allow a family or household member of an individual, or a law enforcement officer, to petition a federal district court to issue an extreme risk protection order to prohibit an individual from purchasing or possessing a firearm or ammunition, if the court finds that such purchase or possession poses a risk of imminent personal injury to the individual or others. It would require courts to grant or deny a petition for a temporary order, valid for 14 days, on its date of submission. It would require courts to hold a hearing on a petition for a long-term order, valid for a renewable period of 180 days, within 72 hours of issuing a temporary order or 14 days after submission of the petition. In evaluating a petition, it would require courts to consider recent threats or acts of violence by the respondent, recent acts of cruelty to animals and evidence of ongoing substance abuse. It would also allow courts to consider a respondent’s reckless use or display of a firearm or history of violence or attempted violence. It would establish procedures for the surrender and removal of firearms pursuant to an extreme risk protection order and prohibit the possession of firearms by individuals subject to an order under federal firearm law. It would also specify that there would be no costs for filing a petition and establish a penalty of up to $5,000 or five years imprisonment for making false or frivolous petitions. The bill would also require the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services within the Justice Department to establish a grant program to assist state, tribal and local governments in implementing legislation allowing individuals to petition state or tribal courts to issue extreme risk protection orders, including to enhance the capacity and training of law enforcement agencies and courts to carry out the legislation.” The bill passed by a vote of 224-202. - U.S. Secret Service: In 41 School Violence Incidents Between 2008-2017, “All Attackers Exhibited Concerning Behaviors” “Often Observed By Peers, School Staff, Family Members, Or Others.” “To aid in these efforts, the U.S. Secret Service National Threat Assessment Center (NTAC) studied 41 incidents of targeted school violence that occurred at K-12 schools in the United States from 2008 to 2017. [...] The analysis suggests that many of these tragedies could have been prevented [...] All attackers exhibited concerning behaviors. Most elicited concern from others, and most communicated their intent to attack. The initial indicators of a student who was in distress or exhibiting concerning behavior were often observed by peers, school staff, family members, or others in their immediate community systems. The behaviors that elicited concern ranged from a constellation of lower-level concerns to objectively concerning or prohibited behaviors. Most of the attackers communicated a prior threat to their target or communicated their intentions to carry out an attack. In many of these cases, someone observed a threatening communication or behavior but did not act, either out of fear, not believing the attacker, misjudging the immediacy or location, or believing they had dissuaded the attacker. These findings continue to highlight the importance of encouraging students, school personnel, and family members to report troubling or concerning behaviors, in order to ensure that those in positions of authority can intervene. These same community members need to be trained on identifying risk factors for student violence and students in crisis.” United States Secret Service National Threat Assessment Center, Report, [11/7/19]
- Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice: A Study Of 15 Of The Worst Mass Shootings Showed Most “Were Indeed Preventable” And “The Deadliest Mass Shooters Exhibited More Warning Signs” Compared To Other Active Shooters. “This study examined the 15 deadliest public mass shootings in the United States from March 1998 to February 2018 to assess (a) leakage of violent thoughts/intent, (b) leakage of specific interest in mass killing, (c) concerning behaviors reported to law enforcement, (d) concerning interest in homicide reported to law enforcement and (e) firearms acquisition. We then compared our findings on the deadliest public mass shooters with the Federal Bureau of Investigation’s (FBI) findings on active shooters in general. Overall, the results suggest that most incidents were indeed preventable based on information known about offenders in advance, and that the deadliest mass shooters exhibited more warning signs and were more often reported to law enforcement than other active shooters. Future prevention efforts should aim to educate, encourage, and pressure the public to report warning signs to law enforcement, educate and train law enforcement so that they can more effectively investigate potential threats, and limit firearms access for people who have admitted having homicidal or suicidal thoughts or being interested in committing a mass shooting. These relatively straightforward steps could significantly reduce the prevalence of future attacks.” Journal of Contemporary Criminal Justice, Research Article, [4/2/19]

[...] On average, each active shooter displayed 4 to 5 concerning behaviors over time that were observable to others around the shooter. The most frequently occurring concerning behaviors were related to the active shooter’s mental health, problematic interpersonal interactions, and leakage of violent intent.” U.S. Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Report, [6/20/18]

Garcia Voted Against The Protecting Our Kids Act To Increase Gun Safety. In June 2022 Garcia Voted Against: “Passage of the bill that would contain several provisions related to limiting gun access. Specifically, it would increase from 18 to 21 years the age at which an individual can legally purchase a semiautomatic weapon; prohibit ‘straw purchases,’ or the acquisition of firearms for sale to another individual other than in the case of gifts between family members or purchases for lawful use in a business; and prohibit individuals from selling or transferring a firearm or ammunition if they have reason to believe the recipient intends to use them in violation of federal law or sell or dispose of them in another state in violation of that state’s law. It would prohibit the import, sale, manufacture, transfer or possession of large capacity ammunition feeding devices, other than for certain law enforcement or testing purposes; prohibit the manufacture, sale or transfer of ‘ghost guns,’ or firearms that lack a serial number issued by a licensed manufacturer, and make such weapons and the assembly of such weapons subject to federal firearm regulations; and authorize the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives to regulate bump stocks, which are devices intended to increase the rate of fire of a semiautomatic weapon in the same manner as a machine gun. It would prohibit the storage of a firearm in a private residence where a minor is likely to access it without permission or where a resident of the household is ineligible to possess a firearm, unless the weapon is secured with a gun storage or safety device, in a reasonably secure location or on the person of the owner. It would authorize $10 million annually through fiscal 2033 for Justice Department grants for state and tribal programs to distribute safe firearm storage devices to the public, and it would require the department to publish best practices for safe firearm storage and gun manufacturers to include such information on weapon packaging. Among other provisions, it would authorize the use of federal law enforcement grants for state and tribal buy-back programs for large capacity ammunition feeding devices; require the FBI to submit to Congress a report regarding the operation of its public access tip line; and require the Justice Department to submit to Congress an annual report including the demographic data of individuals who were determined to be ineligible to purchase a firearm based on a background check performed by the National Instant Criminal Background Check System during the previous year.” The bill passed by a vote of 223-204. Specifically, it would require private insurance plans to cover at least one of each dosage form of each type of insulin, such as short-acting, long-acting and premixed insulin; prohibit the plans from applying a deductible for the insulin products; and cap cost-sharing for the insulin products at the lesser of $35 or 25 percent of the plan's negotiated price for the product per 30-day supply. For Medicare plans, it would similarly prohibit the application of a deductible for covered insulin products and cap copayments at $35 per 30-day supply. The bill would also increase funding available for the Medicare Improvement Fund from $5 million to approximately $9 billion. As an offset, it would delay for an additional year, through Jan. 1, 2027, implementation of a November 2020 rule ending a safe harbor provision that protects pharmacy benefit managers from federal anti-kickback laws for prescription drug rebates provided to health insurers under Medicare Part D." Garcia Voted For Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene’s Motion To Prematurely Adjourn The House In Protest Of Democratic Legislation. In March 2021, Garcia voted for: Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene’s motion to prematurely adjourn the House. Newsweek described the motion: “A group of 18 House Republicans has voted against Georgia Representative Marjorie Taylor Greene's most recent attempt to prematurely adjourn the House—her third such attempt over the last six days. Each of Greene's attempts has been in protest of Democratic legislation and comments introduced in the lower congressional chamber. Each of her attempts has also disrupted congressional work by forcing House members to return to the floor to vote on the matter. ‘I rise today to inform Democrats the radical path you're taking will cause you to lose in 2022,’ Greene said before asking the chamber to adjourn on Wednesday, according to Washington Post congressional reporter Paul Kane.” The motion was rejected by a vote of 182 - 222. Greene, an ardent supporter of former president Donald Trump, has kept her promise. Her repeated motions to adjourn legislative debate over the past several weeks have forced members to scramble to the House floor and vote to remain in session, a move that is infuriating Democrats and, increasingly, members of her own party.” Washington Post, [3/10/21]

Garcia Voted Against The House Rules Package For The 117th Congress. In January 2021, Garcia voted against “Agreeing to the resolution that would establish the rules of the House for the 117th Congress. It would modify rules providing for a motion to recommit a measure to a committee, removing language that allows such motions to include instructions to report a measure back with amendments. It would also make such motions non-debatable. It would authorize the House Budget Committee chair to exempt legislation addressing the economic or public health consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic and legislation addressing the consequences of climate change from certain budgetary requirements, including discretionary spending caps and pay-as-you-go rules. Among other provisions, it would establish a Select Committee on Economic Disparity and Fairness in Growth; reauthorize a number of select committees established in the 116th Congress, including the Select Committee on the Climate Crisis; and codify the Office of Diversity and Inclusion established in the 116th Congress. It would prohibit any House member, officer, or employee from ‘knowingly and willfully’ disclosing a whistleblower’s identity in most circumstances. It would require the House Ethics Commission to report to the House by the end of 2021 any recommended amendments to the House code of conduct related to discipline for knowingly disseminating distorted or manipulated media with the intent to mislead the public. It would bar former members from the House floor if they have been convicted of a crime related to their election to or service in the House. It would also extend procedures authorizing remote voting by proxy for House members and remote committee proceedings during the COVID-19 public health emergency, and it would require the House Administration Committee to identify ‘operable and secure’ technology that could be used to conduct remote voting.” The resolution passed, 217-206. The impact of the change is that Republicans will not be able to use the MTR to alter bills on the floor, which they successfully did eight times last Congress. Instead, under the change the minority would only be able to use the motion to send a bill back to committee. That makes the MTR more of a procedural move designed to kill a bill, which is easier for Democrats to oppose.” Roll Call, [1/4/21]

- White House Projected The $1 Trillion Bipartisan Infrastructure Deal Would Add About 2 Million Jobs Per Year For A Decade. “The $1 trillion infrastructure plan that now goes to President Joe Biden to sign into law has money for roads, bridges, ports, rail transit, safe water, the power grid, broadband internet and more [...] The new law promises to reach almost every corner of the country. It’s a historic investment that the president has compared to the building of the transcontinental railroad and Interstate Highway System. The White House is projecting that the investments will add, on average, about 2 million jobs per year over the coming decade.” Associated Press, [11/6/21]
- CNN: Experts Agreed The Infrastructure Spending Was “Sorely Needed To Ensure Safe Travel” And “Efficient Transport Of Goods And Produce.” “Congress passed a $1.2 trillion infrastructure package Friday, approving a signature part of President Joe Biden's economic agenda. It will deliver $550 billion of new federal investments in America's infrastructure over five years, touching everything from bridges and roads to the nation's broadband, water and energy systems. Experts say the money is sorely needed to ensure safe travel, as well as the efficient transport of goods and produce across the country. The nation's infrastructure system earned a C- score from the American Society of Civil Engineers earlier this year.” CNN, [11/5/21]
- Washington Post: Infrastructure Spending Included $16 Billion For “Major Projects That Are Too Large Or Complex For Traditional Funding Programs.” “The $1.2 trillion infrastructure bill adopted late Friday creates a multibillion-dollar fund to spur the type of complicated, ambitious projects that have been stymied by decades of tentative investment and inattention from Washington. Modern-day equivalents of megaprojects like the Hoover Dam can benefit broad swaths of the United States, but infrastructure experts say they have often stagnated. [...] Among the projects that could see a boost: the Gateway rail project, a vast plan to expand capacity for train traffic between New York and New Jersey; and a long-delayed effort to replace the outmoded Brent Spence Bridge connecting Kentucky and Ohio, which is one of the nation's worst bottlenecks. [...] The infrastructure bill includes about $16 billion for 'major projects that are too large or complex for traditional funding programs,' but that have big economic benefits, according to the White House.” Washington Post, [11/6/21]

- Bipartisan Infrastructure Deal Would Provide $110 Billion For Repairs To Highways, Bridges, And Roads. “The bill would provide $110 billion to repair the nation’s aging highways, bridges and roads. According to the White House, 173,000 total miles or nearly 280,000 kilometers of America’s highways and major roads and 45,000 bridges are in poor condition. And the almost $40 billion for bridges is the single largest dedicated bridge investment since the construction of the national highway system, according to the Biden administration.” Associated Press, [11/6/21]
- Axios: The Infrastructure Bill Included $65 Billion For “Building High-Speed Internet Networks, Helping Low-Income Families Pay For Service And Digital Equity Programs.” “The infrastructure bill heading to President Biden's desk includes $65 billion to improve high-speed internet access and affordability. [...] By the numbers: The funding is aimed towards building high-speed internet networks, helping low-income families pay for service and digital equity programs. $42.45 billion in grants to states for broadband projects, which can range from network deployment to data collection to help determine areas that lack service. $14.2 billion to provide a $30-a-month voucher to low-income Americans to pay for internet service. It will replace the current $50-a-month Emergency Broadband Benefit program, offering less money monthly, but increasing the number of those eligible. $2.75 billion for digital inclusion and equity projects, such as improving digital literacy or online skills for seniors. $2 billion each for a rural broadband construction program called ReConnect, run by USDA, and to the Tribal Broadband Connectivity Program run by the Commerce Department's National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA). $1 billion to build so-called 'middle mile' infrastructure to connect local providers to larger internet access points. $600 million for private activity bonds to finance broadband deployment projects in rural areas.” Axios, [11/8/21]
- The Infrastructure Bill Included $1.75 Billion To Increase The Accessibility Of Transit Systems. “A $1.75 billion fund in the infrastructure package will aim to guarantee that transit stations are accessible, decades after campaigns by disability rights activists to demand lifts on buses helped to spur passage of the Americans With Disabilities Act. Almost a fifth of transit stations were not fully accessible in 2019, according to the most recent Federal Transit Administration data. [...] The bill also includes language about Amtrak, requiring that a person with disabilities be appointed to the railroad’s board and mandating spending on accessibility, which Duckworth said helped show that accessibility was a national issue and not only an urban concern. About 25 million people in the United States report having a disability that limits their transportation options, and the Labor Department attributes lower rates of employment among people with disabilities, in part, to those obstacles. People with disabilities are almost twice as likely as others to use public transit to get around, according to the Transportation Department.” Washington Post, [11/6/21]
- Bipartisan Infrastructure Deal Would Invest $44 Billion On Water And Wastewater Infrastructure, Including $15 Billion To Replace Lead Pipes And $10 Billion To Address PFAS Water Contamination. “The legislation would spend $55 billion on water and wastewater infrastructure. It has $15 billion to replace lead pipes and $10 billion to address water contamination from polyfluoroalkyl substances — chemicals that were used in the production of Teflon and have also been used in firefighting foam, water-repellent clothing and many other items.” Associated Press, [11/6/21]
- Bipartisan Infrastructure Deal Would Invest $65 Billion To Improve The Reliability Of The Power Grid And Boost Clean Power Generation. “To protect against the power outages that have become more frequent in recent years, the bill would spend $65 billion to improve the reliability and resiliency of the power grid. It would also boost carbon capture technologies and more environmentally friendly electricity sources like clean hydrogen.” Associated Press, [11/6/21]

- Bipartisan Infrastructure Deal Would Invest $7.5 Billion In Electrical Vehicle Charging Stations And $5 Billion In Electric And Hybrid School Buses. “The bill would spend $7.5 billion for electric vehicle charging stations, which the administration says are critical to accelerating the use of electric vehicles to curb climate change. Specifically, it would prohibit any person acting under color of state law from denying full faith and credit to, or any rights based on, a marriage between two individuals on the basis of the individuals' sex, race, ethnicity or national origin. It would allow the U.S. attorney general or a harmed individual to bring a civil action in U.S. district court for declaratory and injunctive relief against an individual who violates these provisions. The bill would also replace the current federal definition of marriage, which defines marriage as a union between one man and one woman, to define a marriage as valid if it is between two individuals and valid in the place where the marriage was entered into and would be considered valid in a U.S. state. It would specify that no provisions in the bill may be construed to diminish or abrogate religious liberty and that religious organizations and their employees would not be required to provide services for the celebration of a marriage, consistent with First Amendment protections. It would also specify that the bill would not authorize federal recognition of polygamous marriage and that it would not impact any benefits, status or rights that do not arise from marriage.” The motion was agreed to, thus cleared for the president, by a vote of 258-169. The bill passed 267-157, with 47 Republicans joining every Democrat voting in favor of the bill. Congressional Democrats mounted the legislative response this week to a concurring opinion by Justice Clarence Thomas suggesting that Supreme Court decisions involving access to contraception and same-sex marriage should be reconsidered, with lawmakers holding votes on a pair of bills that aim to address concerns that more rights could be rolled back. While the Supreme Court struck down sections of DOMA in U.S. v. Windsor and Obergefell v. Hodges, the law still remains on the books.” CBS News, [7/19/22]

Because any substantive due process decision is ‘demonstrably erroneous,’ Ramos v. Louisiana, 590 U. S. ___, ___ (2020) (THOMAS, J., concurring in judgment) (slip op., at 7), we have a duty to ‘correct the error’ established in those precedents, Gamble v. United States, 587 U. S. ___, ___ (2019) (THOMAS, J., concurring) (slip op., at 9). After overruling these demonstrably erroneous decisions, the question would remain whether other constitutional provisions guarantee the myriad rights that our substantive due process cases have generated. For example, we could consider whether any of the rights announced in this Court’s substantive due process cases are ‘privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States’ protected by the Fourteenth Amendment.” U.S. Supreme Court, *Dobbs v. The rule would also provide for automatic agreement, upon adoption of the rule, to a resolution (H Res 1230) that would modify standing House rules for the 117th Congress to allow a rule to be called up for floor consideration when the text has been made available to members prior to the convening of the legislative day; allow motions to suspend the rules to be considered on any day of the week; and allow for proxy voting in the Committee of the Whole House, thus allowing delegates and the resident commissioner of Puerto Rico to vote by proxy on amendments. - S. 589 Amended The Internal Revenue Code And Employee Retirement Income Security Act To Ensure The Ability Of The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation To Provide Guaranteed Benefits Of Retirees On Multiemployer Plans. “This bill makes various changes with respect to the administration of multiemployer pension plans. Among other provisions, the bill allows qualified multiemployer plans to apply for special partition assistance from the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC). Partition assistance generally authorizes the PBGC to take financial responsibility for a portion of the liabilities of a plan at risk of insolvency. Subject to certain exceptions and conditions, special partition assistance expands eligibility for partition assistance and does not require plans to repay the amount of assistance received. The bill also revises the PBGC rules for determining whether a plan is insolvent and the procedures for terminating a plan that fails to meet certain standards. Additionally, the bill sets forth the discount rates used to estimate a plan's future benefit payment obligations, which affect an employer's minimum contribution to the plan. It also establishes a stable funding status and an unrestricted funding status and revises the criteria for plans that are in endangered, critical, and critical and declining statuses. Finally, the bill establishes rules for new composite plans. Composite plans provide annuity benefits to plan participants, establish fixed contributions from employers, and require realignment measures if the plan's projected funded ratio falls below 120%. A composite plan's projected funded ratio is the actuarial projection of the plan's assets compared to liabilities as of the first plan day of the 15th plan year following a given plan year.” [S. 589, Summary, [3/4/21]

The bill would require employers to enroll eligible employees automatically in their sponsored plans beginning in 2024; establish or expand various tax credits for small businesses that establish retirement plans, including credits related to early eligibility for military spouses; and decrease to two consecutive years the time period after which employers must allow long-term part-time employees to participate in certain retirement plans. It would gradually increase the initial starting age for mandatory retirement plan distributions from 72 to 75 by 2033; reduce tax penalties for individuals who do not take the required distributions; and allow older employees to make increased ‘catch-up’ contributions to their retirement plans. Among other provisions, it would allow retirement plan fiduciaries to choose not to recoup retirement benefit overpayments and place certain limits on recoupment procedures; require the Labor Department to establish an online database allowing individuals to search for the contact information of the administrator of their retirement plans; permit employees to receive matching retirement plan contributions from employers for certain student loan payments; and allow employers to offer small financial incentives, such as gift cards, to boost employee participation in retirement plans.” The motion was agreed to by a vote of 414-5. - The Securing A Strong Retirement Act Of 2022 Included Retirement Reforms Expanding Auto-Enrollment And Raising The Age For Required Minimum Distributions To 401(k)s. “The House passed the Securing a Strong Retirement Act of 2022 in a vote of 414 to 5 on Tuesday. Known more colloquially as Secure 2.0, Tuesday's legislation builds off The Secure Act that passed on a bipartisan basis in late 2019 and provides a number of retirement reforms, including expanding auto-enrollment, helping those still paying student loans, assisting both small and large businesses offer more retirement savings options, and raising the age for required minimum distributions (RMDs) to tax deferred retirement accounts like 401(k)s.” Fortune, [3/29/22]

- The Securing A Strong Retirement Act Required All But The Smallest Employers To Offer Auto-Enrollment Retirement Plans. “Perhaps the biggest expansion included in the bill would require all but the smallest employers to offer auto-enrollment in retirement plans, a proven way to get more Americans participating in retirement savings. A 2021 survey found 84% of auto-enrolled employees appreciated the benefit and said it helped them get started at an earlier age. Participants would be automatically enrolled at a contribution rate of 3% of their pay initially and then unless workers opt out, the contribution rate would increase by 1% annually until it hits a maximum of 10%.” Fortune, [3/29/22]
- The Retirement Plan Allowed Employers To Match Student Loan Payments As Contributions To Retirement. “Student loan borrowers would also get a retirement boost via the legislation, which would basically allow employers to match student loan payments as contributions to retirement. ‘Let’s say you have somebody with significant student loans and really can’t contribute much to their 401(k),’ said Featherngill. ‘This would allow them the opportunity to still get an employer match on the amount paid on their student loans.’” CNBC, [3/29/22]

Garcia Voted Against Preventing Sequestration Cuts To Medicare And Providing The Senate With Procedures To Increase The Debt Limit. In December 2021 Garcia voted against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would extend from Dec. 31, 2021, to March 31, 2022, a temporary suspension of the 2 percent annual sequester of Medicare payments, and provide for payment reductions of 1 percent for the period of April 1 through June 30, 2022. As an offset, it would increase sequestration percentages above 2 percent in fiscal 2030. It would also require budget year debit for 2022 to be rolled over to the 2033 scorecards under statutory pay-as-you-go requirements, thus delaying spending cuts to Medicare and other mandatory programs subject to sequestration that would otherwise be triggered in January. It would delay a number of other Medicare payment reductions and policies, including to extend a temporary increase in payment amounts for physicians to provide a 3 percent increase for services furnished in 2022; delay for one year a provision that would phase in payment reductions for clinical diagnostic laboratory tests, prohibiting any reductions for 2021 and 2022 and prohibiting reductions greater than 15 percent for 2023 through 2025; and delay through 2022 the implementation of the Medicare radiation oncology model. It would decrease from $165 million to $101 million funding that may be expended from the Medicare Improvement Fund for fiscal 2021. Finally, the bill would establish procedures to expedite Senate consideration of a joint resolution to increase the debt limit by a specific dollar amount. Specifically, it would provide for a non-debatable motion to proceed to the joint resolution and, if the motion is agreed to, up to 10 hours of debate on the measure with no amendments or other motions in order, immediately followed by a vote on passage. Such procedures would be valid for consideration of one joint resolution by Jan. 16, 2022.” Passed by a vote of 222-212. S 610, [Vote #404, 12/07/21; CQ, 12/07/21]

It would also modify a deadline for changes to payments for rural health clinics enrolled in Medicare and restore a transition rule related to

- Med Page Today: House Voted To Rescind A Scheduled 2% Medicare Cut Under Budget Sequestration. “The House voted 384-38 Tuesday evening to rescind one of two scheduled Medicare cuts, sending the bill on to President Biden for his signature. [...] The measure addresses one of the two budget cuts the Medicare program is facing. One cut, part of the normal budget process, is a 2% -- or $18 billion -- cut in the projected Medicare budget under a process known as "sequestration." Sequestration allows for prespecified cuts in projected agency budget increases if Congress can't agree on their own cuts. Medicare's budget had been slated for a 2% sequester cut in fiscal year 2020; however, due to the pandemic and the accompanying increased healthcare needs, Congress passed a moratorium on the 2% cut.” Med Page Today, [4/14/21]

It would also extend from March 31 to Dec. 31, 2021, a temporary suspension of the 2 percent annual sequester of Medicare payments. Among other provisions, it would exclude certain pandemic-related unemployment compensation from being classified as income for the purposes of Medicaid and Children's Health Insurance Program eligibility.” The bill passed 246 to 175. [...] Most favored nation status ensures that any member of the World Trade Organization receives equal trade treatment from other members and grants each designee immunity from a raft of steep import penalties. ‘There are two categories you can be characterized under U.S. law: One gets lower tariffs, and one gets higher,’ said Clete Willems, a partner at law firm Akin Gump and a former U.S. attorney at the WTO. ‘All other WTO members get this lower [tariff] rate — the average is about 2.8%,’ he added. ‘And then for non-MFN, the

- H.R. 4772 Required The Veterans Affairs Department To Provide Clothing Allowance Until A Veteran Opt's Out Or Is Determined Ineligible And To Conduct Reviews Of Clothing Allowance Claims For Eligibility. “This bill modifies the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) clothing allowance policy for veterans who, due to a service-connected disability, wear a prosthetic, use an orthopedic appliance (e.g., a wheelchair), or use a prescription skin medication that the VA determines causes irreparable damage to clothing. The bill requires the VA to continue the clothing allowance for such a veteran on an annual basis until the veteran elects to no longer receive the allowance, or the VA determines the veteran is no longer eligible for the allowance, whichever occurs first. The bill sets forth a procedure by which the VA must conduct reviews of clothing allowance claims to determine the continued eligibility of veterans. Specifically, the VA must conduct a review (1) five years after the date on which a veteran initially receives a clothing allowance and periodically thereafter, and (2) whenever the VA receives notice that the veteran no longer meets eligibility requirements. If a veteran is eligible for a clothing allowance based on a circumstance that is not subject to change, the VA does not need to review whether the veteran has continued eligibility. If the VA determines, as the result of a review of a claim, that a veteran no longer meets the eligibility requirements for a clothing allowance, the VA must provide notice of the determination and discontinue the clothing allowance. The notice must include a description of applicable actions that may be taken following the determination (e.g., filing a notice of disagreement).” H.R. 4772, Summary, [7/28/21]

Maxine Waters (D-CA), who is the Chairwoman of the U.S. House Committee on Financial Services, is sounding the alarm on what she says will be an eviction crisis in the U.S. after the COVID-19 pandemic. [...] But the resulting economic shutdown has led to over 40 million people filing for unemployment — over 20 percent of the U.S. labor force. On June 29, nearly 60 days ago, Rep. Waters introduced H.R. 7301, the Emergency Housing Protections and Relief Act of 2020. However, typical of the state of play with a U.S. House run by Democrats and a U.S. Senate run by Republicans, Waters’ legislation remains stalled by Republican Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell. Speaking on the House floor, Waters said, ‘this bill includes several provisions that were included in the Heroes Act and independently led by a number of Members of the Financial Services Committee. Some people hearing about this bill won’t understand what we are trying to do in this bill today. As I said, this was part of the Heroes Act that passed this House, but we have been waiting on the Senate to take up the Heroes Act. They are not taking it up, they don’t seem to care, they don’t seem to understand that there are people out there who are going to be evicted, and so we have pulled it out of the Heroes Act and we are taking it up independently so that we can send a message to the Senate that we want this measure heard and so we have a number of Members who participated in putting this legislation together and who had independent bills to do so.’” Seattle Medium, [8/28/20]

Title I of the bill would expand eligibility for federal tax subsidies toward insurance premiums and increase the percentage of premiums such subsidies would cover. It would provide $10 billion annually beginning in fiscal 2022 to help states lower costs of ACA plans, including to provide reinsurance payments to health insurance issuers and subsidies to individuals. It would provide $200 million for grants to states to establish and operate state-based ACA health insurance marketplaces; $100 million annually for Health and Human Services Department consumer outreach related to ACA marketplace plans; $100 million annually for the HHS "navigator" program, which helps individuals enroll in qualified plans; and $200 million annually through fiscal 2024 for grants to states to encourage plan enrollment. It would also prohibit implementation of August 2018 regulations related to health insurance plans that are not required to meet ACA patient protection requirements, including short-term, limited-duration plans. Title II of the bill would provide for full federal reimbursement of state Medicaid expansion costs for new enrollees for three years, then gradually decrease the federal medical assistance cost-share to 90% for those enrollees. It would authorize HHS to reduce the federal cost-share percentage for states that do not expand their Medicaid programs by 0.5% quarterly beginning in fiscal 2023, and by 10% beginning July 2027. It would permanently authorize funding for the Children's Health Insurance Program. It would allow states to expand eligibility for Medicaid and CHIP programs to include children whose family income exceeds certain amounts, and it would make citizens of the Freely Associated States residing in the U.S. eligible for Medicaid. Title III of the bill would establish a fair price negotiation program under which the Health and Human Services Department would enter into agreements with drug manufacturers to negotiate a "maximum fair price" for insulin and up to 250 other Medicare-eligible, brand-name drugs that do not have generic competition and account for high levels of spending. It would require the department to negotiate the maximum price of at least 25 drugs for 2023 and at least 50 drugs in each subsequent year, with maximum prices not exceeding 120% of a drug's average international price or 85% of the average manufacturer price for that year. It would subject manufacturers who do not reach a negotiated agreement for a drug to excise taxes based on gross sales of that drug. It would require manufacturers to offer negotiated prices to private health insurers. Title I would also prohibit drug manufacturers from engaging in 'product hopping' in which drug manufacturers make small changes to a drug so as to receive a new period of patent protection and impede the entry of generic or biosimilar products. - The No Ban Act Would Vacate Trump's Existing Travel Bans On Countries His Administration Deemed To Be Threats To National Security And Put Measures In Place To Prevent Similar Bans In The Future. "The No Ban Act would vacate Trump's existing travel bans on countries his administration deems to be threats to national security, as well as put in place measures to prevent future such bans. Under the first version of Trump's travel ban, unveiled in January 2017, citizens of seven majority-Muslim countries, including those who held US green cards and dual US citizenship, were held for questioning for many hours at airports across the country and were denied entry to the US. A de facto 'Muslim ban,' the policy appeared to be the execution of Trump's call on the campaign trail for a 'total and complete shutdown' of Muslims entering the US and sparked widespread protests throughout the country. [...] The No Ban Act would dial back the president's authority to issue such bans under the Immigration and Nationality Act, which was 'not intended to provide carte blanche authority to the president to ban large categories of individuals without justification, or to rewrite immigration laws with which he disagrees,' Chair Jerrold Nadler said on the House floor Wednesday."
