Key Findings

Molinaro Was An Ineffective, Ethically Challenged Career Politician Who Repeatedly Wasted And Mismanaged New Yorkers' Tax Dollars

Molinaro was investigated for pay-to-play allegations, then cleared by a board he appointed. In 2018, Molinaro came under investigation over his connection to Tinkelman Bros Development Corp, a firm that received over $200,000 in tax breaks and contracts from Dutchess County. Molinaro's wife was employed by Tinkelman and received tens of thousands of dollars from the company, and the firm's managing member, Steven Tinkelman, donated thousands to Molinaro's campaigns. During the investigation, Molinaro originally admitted to signing two of the contracts, then reversed himself and claimed he wasn't sure he did. Molinaro was ultimately cleared of wrongdoing by the Dutchess County Ethics Board, a board considered a "partisan joke" by Dutchess County legislators, and the members of which were appointed by Molinaro.

Molinaro accepted hundreds of thousands of dollars in campaign contributions from firms doing business with Dutchess County. A quarter of Molinaro's campaign contributions to his county executive campaigns came from people or entities that got payments from Dutchess County. In October 2018, Dutchess County legislators demanded that Molinaro return $330,000 in campaign contributions from companies that received $89 million in government contracts. Between 2011 and 2018, twenty firms from outside Dutchess County that won $34 million in Dutchess County contracts contributed at least $134,000 to Molinaro. BSG Engineering, Molinaro's largest contributor in the 2015 cycle, contributed $11,350 five months after bidding on a $185,000 contract. Compass Company Consultants, part of Manhattan Lobbying Firm Park Strategies, contributed $8,500 to Molinaro after signing a $20,000 contract with Dutchess County. William McGahay, an owner of campaign firms that worked for Molinaro, lobbied Molinaro on behalf of his client, Triad Group. Molinaro's county executive campaigns and Dutchess County both paid the Casale Group. Molinaro's largest donors were associated with Kearny Realty and Development, which received almost $1 million in Dutchess County contracts. Molinaro moved the Dutchess County Department of Health into offices owned by one of his campaign donors, despite them not having the cheapest bid.

Molinaro claimed to support good government, but he opposed measures to rein in pay-to-play in Dutchess County. Molinaro called for a state law banning campaign contributions from individuals or businesses that had or were pursuing government contracts but opposed a bill that would bar Dutchess County executives from accepting campaign contributions from contractors. Molinaro claimed laws banning "pay to play" would create an unfair playing field for incumbents and claimed "pay to play" was impossible in Dutchess county. While Molinaro called for taking politics out of ethics enforcement, he also claimed to increase ethics legislation in Dutchess county.

Molinaro repeatedly violated ethics rules and potentially federal campaign law by using county-level resources and official resources to campaign for federal office. In 2023, Molinaro allegedly illegally transferred thousands of dollars from his County Executive Committee to his Congressional Campaign Committee, only returning the money two years later, after a complaint was filed. In April 2021, Molinaro transferred $7,500 from his county account to his gubernatorial account days before the gubernatorial account spent $7,500 on campaign mailers. Molinaro possibly violated federal election law by utilizing his county executive campaign to fund Facebook ads on federal issues after saying he was considering a run for Congress. Molinaro also operated a single Twitter and Facebook account that he used for both official and campaign business in violation of the Dutchess County Code of Ethics. He additionally violated county ethics rules by using official county materials in Facebook ads for his county executive campaign. Molinaro fundraised for his congressional campaign in connection to official actions in violation of House Ethics Rules. In 2024, Molinaro had multiple campaign ads removed from Facebook because of improper disclaimers.

Molinaro repeatedly spent millions in tax dollars on a Dutchess County Baseball stadium and proposed a widely criticized plan to spend $12.5 million of American Rescue Plan Relief Funds on stadium upgrades. In 2013, Molinaro called for $1 million in stadium upgrades to boost tourism and keep the stadium competitive with others in the region. In 2018, Molinaro called for a $3 million bond to upgrade the stadium; the county legislature approved $2.4 million. In 2021, Molinaro wanted to spend $12.5 million of American Rescue Plan relief funds on baseball stadium upgrades, before backtracking following criticism. Spending American Rescue Plan money on baseball stadium upgrades might have been illegal and subject to clawback from the Treasury Department as an “ineligible” spending project. Dutchess County Auditor found the stadium operated at a deficit from 2015 to 2020 and the county had mismanaged the stadium’s funding. Molinaro received $60,072 from companies and associated individuals of companies which received contracts from Dutchess County for the renovation and improvement of Dutchess Stadium into his congressional and county executive campaign committees. In 2021, The Renegades were acquired by Diamond Baseball Holdings, a subsidiary of Entertainment Giant Endeavor. Molinaro’s wife, Corinne Adams, worked for the Hudson Valley Renegades, the tenants of Dutchess County Stadium, through 2015. Molinaro attended at least 102 events at the stadium while county executive, including 63 games and said the county should not give up stadium ownership.

Molinaro led the building of a new jail in Dutchess County, despite a declining inmate population – the most expensive project the county had ever taken on, dragging Dutchess County into jail debt. Molinaro supported building a new jail in Dutchess County to deal with overcrowding, at a cost of up to $200 million. In 2016, the Dutchess County Legislature approved a $192 million bond for a 569-bed jail. The size of the new jail was repeatedly downsized and estimated completion date was delayed. The Dutchess County Jail inmate population declined after New York’s bail reform law was passed. In 2020, Dutchess County was using PODS to house the homeless at Dutchess County Jail. Under Molinaro, it cost $16 million to house inmates out of county, far lower than the debt service cost for the new jail. As of 2021, the new Dutchess County Jail was the largest capital project in county history. Debt from the jail was more than all other county projects combined, forcing an increase in county debt service that was estimated to last into the 2040s. Molinaro praised the impact of County Stabilization Center on reducing jail population but opposed additional funding for it. In March 2024, Dutchess County opened the 308-bed Dutchess County Justice and Transition Center.

Taxpayers foot the bill for millions of dollars spent on Molinaro’s salary, perks, travel, reimbursements, and luxury vehicles over the decades he held office while campaign donors funded his extravagant vacations. While he was County Executive, taxpayers spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on luxury vehicles for Molinaro, sparking an audit. Between 1995 and 2023, Molinaro earned more than $2.2 million in salary as an elected official. While Dutchess County Executive, Molinaro received almost $20,000 in reimbursements; while in Congress, he received over $30,000. Between 2006 and 2011, Molinaro received over $80,000 in taxpayer reimbursements to cover some of his long stays in Albany. Over his career, taxpayers have spent nearly $100,000 on Molinaro’s travel. While campaigning, Molinaro spent “unusually” high amounts on trips, entertainment, and food, despite claiming too many politicians used campaign funds for personal use.

While County Executive and Mayor, Molinaro repeatedly mismanaged the budget process, boosting the budget for his own office while increasing debt and attempting to layoff county employees. Molinaro touted a 2022 reduction in debt service in a tax-funded mailing, but his budget planned millions more in debt service from 2025-2027 than in previous budgets. While county executive, Molinaro signed two budgets that resulted in a deficit. In 2013, under Molinaro’s leadership, Moody’s downgraded Dutchess county’s credit rating to AA1, increasing debt service costs to county taxpayers. Molinaro’s 2021 budget cut Health Department funding during the COVID-19 pandemic while Molinaro and county legislators received a pay raise. Molinaro bragged his 2021 budget included no layoffs after pushing 150+ county employees to take buyouts, while still including pay raises for himself and other elected officials. Molinaro repeatedly attempted to lay off county staff. Molinaro nearly doubled the Dutchess County Executive Office budget. A state audit criticized Tivoli’s budgeting process while Molinaro was mayor, highlighting “sub-standard bookkeeping” and a failure to adhere to competitive bidding.

Molinaro was a career politician who was always dreaming about advancing to higher elected office, including ultimately the presidency. Molinaro was a career politician who spent every year of his adult life as an elected official. Since he was 19, Molinaro expressed interest in being president. Molinaro considered running for congress as early as 2010. By running for Congress in 2022, Molinaro broke his promise to spend his entire 2020-

2023 term as county executive. Molinaro called for statewide term limits, but he did not support a Dutchess County term limit bill. In 1999, Molinaro claimed he would not run for a fourth mayoral term, then ran for three more.

Molinaro contributed to republican infighting and inefficiencies, including collaborating with Rep. Matt Gaetz during shutdown negotiations and delaying the speaker votes. In September 2023, Molinaro collaborated with Florida Rep. Matt Gaetz during shutdown negotiations, going so far as to co-author the “Molinaro-Gaetz” plan to kill a continuing resolution to keep the government from shutting down. Despite describing republican failure to elect a speaker as “distressing and disappointing,” Molinaro contributed to the chaos by blaming democrats and voting for long shot candidates, further delaying the election of a speaker. Molinaro claimed to want to re-elect a speaker as quickly as possible, but on the third ballot he voted to elect former New York representative Lee Zeldin as speaker.

Molinaro Was Bad For New Yorkers And Out Of Step With Their Priorities

Molinaro repeatedly opposed protections for abortion and voted for restricting access to reproductive health care. Molinaro supported overriding New York state law to ban abortion at 17 weeks and repeatedly expressed opposition to, and called for limitations on access to, “late-term” abortions. He filed to run on the Conservative Party line, which called for banning abortion in New York without exceptions for rape or incest. He “played a pivotal role” in anti-abortion extremist Mike Johnson becoming Speaker of the House. Molinaro voted for blocking consideration of the Women’s Health Protection Act and opposed the Reproductive Health Act, a landmark abortion rights bill in New York that codified Roe V. Wade. Additionally, Molinaro tried to downplay his extreme votes in Congress to limit access and criminalize abortion. Molinaro voted to restrict servicemembers’ access to abortions, but claimed the amendment did not “have anything to do with limiting access.” He also voted to establish new federal criminal penalties for abortion providers. Molinaro had ties to anti-choice groups and transferred $2,250 from his campaigns to an anti-choice group that operated crisis pregnancy centers and received a $1,000 contribution from Westchester & Putnam Right To Life PAC. Molinaro repeatedly referred to mifepristone, an abortion medication, as birth control. In the New York State Legislature, Molinaro voted against a bill prohibiting pregnant incarcerated individuals from being shackled during labor and later denied making that vote and said the only reason he regretted his vote was because he “had to deal with it politically.”

Molinaro voted against New Yorkers’ access to affordable health care. Molinaro voted against implementing the Affordable Care Act in New York by creating the New York State Health Care Exchange. Molinaro supported parts of the AHCA, the Republican bill to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act. Molinaro voted against ensuring that children enrolled in free and reduced-price school meals had ready access to Medicaid or CHIP health coverage. Molinaro voted against requiring that people who lose Medicaid coverage be notified of their end of coverage date and voted against increasing the privacy of patients in health care malpractice and personal injury lawsuits. Molinaro said he was “not particularly” in favor of the Affordable Care Act, but said he was also concerned about the impact of repealing it. Molinaro opposed the Build Back Better Act, which would lower prescription drug prices.

Molinaro repeatedly voted against rights and protections for his LGBTQ+ constituents. In Congress, Molinaro repeatedly voted against protecting LGBTQ and trans individuals. Molinaro supported Mike Johnson for speaker, despite his record of homophobia. As a State Assemblyman, Molinaro voted three times against marriage equality measures. In 2010, Molinaro voted against allowing unmarried partners to adopt a child. In the state legislature, Molinaro voted four times against prohibiting gender identity discrimination in New York. In 2004, Molinaro said he believed marriage was between a man and a woman and questioned why a gay couple would get married without a license.

Molinaro repeatedly attempted to take credit for federal investments he voted to drastically cut or roll back. Molinaro touted Head Start investments in his district – but voted to cut the program by billions and eliminate access to the programs for nearly 300,000 children. He touted federal investments in NY-19 since taking office – then voted to cut the programs enabling many of those investments by nearly 30 percent. He admitted the Inflation Reduction Act’s clean energy incentives would create Hudson Valley Jobs – then downplayed his vote to repeal those incentives. He called for investments in the Child Care Development Block Grant, two months after voting to cut funding for the program by $2.3 billion.

Molinaro campaigned on public safety but voted for drastic cuts to police and border security, instead supporting an extremist immigration policy and rejecting bipartisan solutions. Molinaro campaigned on public safety and spoke about securing the border. However, he voted for House Republicans' failed funding bill which cut public safety funding and voted for the Default On America Act, which cut funding for public safety and border security by billions. Molinaro voted for H.R. 2, an extremist immigration measure which would severely limit pathways to asylum, roll back effective methods of decreasing illegal immigration, and keep border agents from doing their jobs. As Trump urged Republicans to reject a bipartisan border security deal negotiated in the Senate to avoid granting Democrats a political win, Molinaro refused to back the deal. He also voted to cut billions from border security and opposed immediately expediting work permits for migrants; failing to do so would have fostered unsafe working conditions, bolster crime, and further tax New York.

Molinaro consistently opposed common sense gun safety reforms. In 2023, Molinaro prevented the passage of bipartisan gun safety bills which closed loopholes in background checks. Molinaro voted for a resolution to overturn federal regulations on stabilizing braces, which have been used in multiple mass shootings. Molinaro tried to distance himself from the NRA and gun interest groups, despite taking thousands from them, attending their events, and receiving 'A' ratings from them. In the state assembly, Molinaro voted 32 times against bills that strengthened New York's gun safety laws. He opposed the SAFE Act, a landmark gun safety bill in New York. He said Governor Cuomo had been too "aggressive" on gun control, and implied that Cuomo was "irresponsibly ignoring" second amendment supporters. Molinaro made statements opposing gun safety legislation, including saying he opposed an assault weapons ban. Molinaro said he wanted to put armed school resource officers in every school to "address safety and mental health concerns" while surveilling students.

Molinaro had ties to Trump and failed to stand up to his extremist allies in Congress. Molinaro supported Trump's campaign, but repeatedly tried to distance himself from Trump. However, in March 2024, Trump announced that Molinaro had endorsed him. Molinaro had cozy relationships with Donald Trump's family members and repeatedly praised election denier Elise Stefanik. Molinaro was critical of investigations into Trump, calling for oversight of the FBI and the Department of Justice. Molinaro supported extremists Jim Jordan and Mike Johnson for Speaker. The Dutchess County Sheriff, Butch Anderson – a friend, mentor, and advisor to Molinaro – was a friend and defender of Donald Trump, and a Co-Chair of Trump's New York campaigns.

Molinaro Has Prioritized The Interests Of Corporations And The Wealthy Over The Interest Of New Yorkers

Over his time as a career politician, Molinaro accepted hundreds of thousands of dollars from corporate PACs and special interests, then voted to cut their taxes by billions. Between 2006 and 2024, Molinaro accepted more than $360,00 from corporate PACs. Over his career, he accepted tens of thousands of dollars in contributions associated with the oil, gas, and electric utilities industry, and, in 2023, Molinaro voted for a $6 billion tax cut for energy companies. Molinaro also had a history of voting for the interests of energy and utility companies while in the New York State assembly.

Molinaro voted against making corporations and the wealthy pay their fair share in taxes. In 2023, Molinaro voted to repeal funding for the IRS that was used to crack down on tax evasion by corporations and the wealthy. Molinaro opposed the Inflation Reduction Act, which set a 15% minimum tax on large corporations and ensured the wealthy would pay their fair share in taxes. Molinaro also supported the 2017 Republican tax scam, which hurt New York's economy and raised taxes on the middle-class in order to pay for a permanent corporate tax cut.

Molinaro raised taxes in every office he held prior to being elected to Congress. While Dutchess County executive, Molinaro raised the property tax rate three times. Molinaro's policies while county executive transferred the tax burden from Dutchess County to local municipalities, which resulted in local municipalities raising their tax rates. Molinaro also voted to raise taxes while in the New York Assembly. Molinaro also voted to raise taxes while in the Dutchess County Legislature, which resulted in an almost 50% increase in property taxes while he was in office. As mayor of Tivoli, Molinaro increased property taxes while giving raises to municipal employees and city contractors.

Molinaro had an anti-labor record. Molinaro had a dismal 10% rating from the AFL-CIO. While in Congress, Molinaro has voted for multiple bills that rolled back worker protections. He consistently opposed policies to protect workers' safety. He also repeatedly opposed policies to protect wages and voted against banning wage discrimination.

Molinaro repeatedly voted to protect landlords and against affordable housing. Molinaro voted for the Default on America Act, which would have raised housing costs for 67,300 New Yorkers by limiting their access to rental assistance. He voted multiple times against capping the amount a landlord could increase rent and voted against expanding and protecting New York rent control laws.

Molinaro supported policies that promoted outsourcing and harmed American manufacturing. The Default on America act, which Molinaro voted for, would have repealed incentives for domestic manufacturing, therefore increasing American reliance on Chinese products. Molinaro supported the 2017 Republican tax law which incentivized companies to move jobs overseas, risking nearly a million jobs in New York.

2015-2018: Molinaro’s Wife Corrine Adams Worked For Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp, A Firm That Received Tax Breaks From And Contracts From Dutchess County, Where Molinaro Was County Executive

2015-2018: Molinaro’s Wife Corrine Adams Worked For Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp. As Director Of Advertising And Communications, And Was Paid $26,500 For Her Work. “Corinne Adams, Molinaro’s wife, worked at Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp. from the summer of 2015 through earlier this year, when she left the job to focus on family and her pregnancy, according to Molinaro’s campaign. Molinaro and Adams were married in November 2015, not long after she took the job. Adams’ official title with Tinkelman, which is based in Poughkeepsie, was director of advertising and communications, according to Molinaro’s state financial disclosure form. Adams was paid about $26,500 for her work by Tinkelman Bros. in 2017, according to Molinaro’s 2017 tax returns. A summary of his prior years’ tax returns showed a similar joint income level in 2016.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/21/18]

Tinkelman Bros. Received $227,206 Worth Of Property Tax Breaks From Dutchess County. “Cuomo’s ad points to tax breaks handed down by the Dutchess County Industrial Development Agency for a Tinkelman project known as Van Wagner Place. The $5 million mixed-use development project, a mix of apartments, restaurants and boutique shops, received sales- and property-tax breaks worth $227,276 from 2015 through 2017, according to the IDA’s annual reports.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/21/18]

Tinkelman Was Implicated In A Secret Pact To Develop Luxury Housing In Poughkeepsie

Developers Steven Tinkelman And Wayne Nussbickel Sued The City Of Poughkeepsie After The City Historic Commission Blocked Plans To Build High-End Housing In Wheaton Park. “Over the last few years that local architect and aspiring developer Steven Tinkelman has plodded through Poughkeepsie’s municipal approval process to build high-end housing overlooking the Hudson River in Wheaton Park, Poughkeepsie Mayor Rob Rolison has held himself above the fray. ‘There is a process,’ has been the two-term mayor’s refrain in multiple public settings. That process has indeed played out. The Poughkeepsie Historic District and Landmark Preservation Commission, which has jurisdiction over the historically registered park, twice denied the developers’ plans. Tinkelman appealed to the city legislature, but the Common Council determined that the HDLPC had faithfully followed its delimited criteria. Tinkelman and Wayne Nussbickel, the only other publicly identified investor, then sued the city, the Common Council, and the HDLPC in January. A review of the court documents suggests their case is not going well, and with all motions filed by mid-September, a judge could rule before the end of the year.” The River, [11/1/21]

- Tinkelman And Nussbickel Gave A Combined $3,000 To Molinaro’s Congressional Campaign. FEC.gov, accessed [11/1/21]

A Confidential Memo From The City Of Poughkeepsie To The Historic Commission Laid Out A Settlement Agreement To Advance The Wheaton Park Project Pending The Approval Of The Historic Commission. “A confidential memo obtained by The River spells out a ‘conceptual agreement’ between city administration and the developers to try to win over the commission. But the core of the new offer—to rent the park’s the historic Pelton mansion to an arts group—is a matter outside the HDLPC’s remit, which does not cover building use but rather deals with exteriors and preservation of the overall historic setting. The commission has already determined those factors would be overwhelmed by the development’s sheer mass and scale. In effect, City Hall is asking the commission to violate its own mandate. In doing so, it would jettison hundreds of hours over more than two years of working with the developer to find a project plan the city could sign off on. [...] The four-page memo acknowledges that the HDLPC would have to consent to the new proposal, even while the developers, Pelton Partners, are suing on the grounds that the commission does not properly have jurisdiction. Entertaining the new offer would seemingly discredit the commission, which city officials publicly praise as vital to protecting Poughkeepsie’s much diminished historic inventory, at least rhetorically regarded as vital assets.” The River, [11/1/21]

The River: Poughkeepsie Mayor Rolison Was “Doing The Bidding Of The Well-Connected Tinkelman” Whose Contributions To Molinaro Were A 2018 Campaign Issue. “As mayor, Rolison’s record on historic preservation has been better than Tkazyik’s, but not by much. He actively opposed historic designations of College Hill and the Eastman Oval. He also submitted a letter to the commission supporting Tinkelman’s project as the ‘best possible plan,’ in part because no other proposal will contain ‘all that everyone would like to see.’ But this ignores the fact that Tinkelman’s option-to-buy contract locks in his position indefinitely, while the city has no clear exit from that document, and in the meantime cannot entertain other proposals. Now Rolison is doing the bidding of the well-connected Tinkelman, whose political donation to Dutchess County Executive Marcus Molinaro’s gubernatorial run, as well as his hiring of Molinaro’s wife, Corinne Adams, briefly flared as a campaign issue in an ad by then Governor Andrew Cuomo about pay-to-play politics.” The River, [11/1/21]

October 2018: Dutchess County Lawmakers Requested An Investigation Of Molinaro By The State And County Into Alleged Pay-To-Play Allegations

October 2018: Eight Democratic Dutchess County Legislators Filed A Formal Ethics Complaint Against Molinaro. “Eight of 11 Democratic Dutchess County lawmakers submitted a formal complaint to the state Attorney General’s Office and Joint Commission on Public Ethics on Oct. 5, calling on the state to investigate possible ethics violations against Molinaro, who is the Dutchess county executive. The allegations surround Molinaro’s wife, Corrine Adams, who was awarded a job at the architectural firm Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp., of Poughkeepsie, which was awarded county contracts and tax breaks. The company made donations totaling $6,800 to Molinaro from 2006-2018, according to the complaint.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/10/18]

October 2018: Dutchess County Legislators Requested State And Local Investigations Into Possible Corruption By Molinaro In County Bidding Processes. “The legislators’ letter came days after the same eight lawmakers formally requested state and local investigators to probe Molinaro regarding ‘possible corruption’ in the county bidding process. In that letter, they asked the county Board of Ethics, and the state Attorney General’s Office and the Joint Commission on Public Ethics to investigate $6,800 in contributions Molinaro received from Tinkelman Brothers, an architecture firm that received $70,000 in tax breaks from the county and paid Molinaro’s wife $26,500 for marketing work.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/16/18]

Molinaro Claimed He Was Uncertain Whether He Signed Contracts With Tinkelman Bros.

Molinaro Claimed To Be Unsure If He Signed The Contracts With Tinkelman Brothers. “Molinaro said he recused himself from the contract decisions and the only involvement on his end was that he legally is required to sign them. However, he backtracked, saying he’s unsure if he even signed the two contracts in question. ‘I don’t think I did sign those contracts. I don’t think I did,’ he said. ‘But Bill O’Neill as deputy county executive often steps in at my request.’” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/3/18]

Molinaro Was Cleared By An Ethics Board Consisting Of Members That He Himself Appointed, Whose Chair Was Later Investigated For Spying On Employees

Molinaro Was Cleared By The County Ethics Board, Whose Members He Appointed

The Dutchess County Ethics Board Cleared Molinaro Of Wrongdoing, Claiming That Adams Was Paid Market-Value For Her Work. “Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro has been cleared of violating any county ethics rules in connection with his wife’s former job with a local contractor and campaign donor, which Democrats attempted to use against him in his 2018 gubernatorial campaign. The Dutchess County Board of Ethics ruled Dec. 7 that Corinne Adams’ job with Tinkelman Bros., a Dutchess-based architecture firm, from 2015 through early 2018 did not amount to a gift because she was paid fair-market value for her work.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [1/8/19]

The County Ethics Board, Which Was Appointed By Molinaro, Found That He Played No Role In Awarding Tax Breaks Or Contracts To Tinkelman. “But the county Ethics Board, a bipartisan group appointed by Molinaro and confirmed by the county Legislature, found Molinaro had nothing to do with awarding the tax breaks or a county contract held by Tinkelman, which was competitively bid.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [1/8/19]

county contractor, but does not work on the public job in question, Leventhal said.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/5/18]

The Dutchess County Ethics Board Decision Clearing Molinaro, His Wife, And Tinkelman Was Unanimous.

“The complaint lodged by Dutchess County Democrats as Molinaro challenged Cuomo last year alleged that a development company that had donated to Molinaro's campaigns also hired his wife and received county contracts and tax breaks. Cuomo used the issue in a campaign ad. But the Dutchess County Board of Ethics in December unanimously found there was no wrongdoing by Molinaro, his wife or the company.” New York Daily News, [1/7/19]

Tara Sullivan Chaired The County Ethics Board Which Cleared Molinaro. “But the county Ethics Board, a bipartisan group appointed by Molinaro and confirmed by the county Legislature, found Molinaro had nothing to do with awarding the tax breaks or a county contract held by Tinkelman, which was competitively bid. ‘The County Executive's wife's salary was not a ‘gift’ within the meaning of the Dutchess County Code of Ethics inasmuch as she received fair market value for hourly part-time services rendered,’ the board's decision read. The decision was rendered Dec. 7 and unanimously approved. It was signed by Tara Sullivan, the board's acting chair.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [1/7/19]

Dutchess County Legislators Considered The Board Of Ethics “A Partisan Joke”

After The Dutchess County Board Of Ethics Found Legislator Kristofer Munn Violated The County Ethics Code, He Called The Board Of Ethics “A Partisan Joke” And Criticized Them For Letting Molinaro Off The Hook For Failing To Disclose His Wife Was Paid By A County Contractor. “Dutchess County Legislator Kristofer Munn violated the county’s ethics code earlier this year by raising money to defend himself against a lawsuit, the county Board of Ethics has ruled. [...] The ethics board voted unanimously following an hourlong executive session Thursday to find Munn, D-Red Hook, in violation of Section 5A of the Dutchess County Code of Ethics. The board is expected to issue a written decision, including its findings and any recommendations for action against Munn next week. [...] The legislator also criticized the Board of Ethics. ‘Everybody knows that the Dutchess County Board of Ethics is a partisan joke filled with [County Executive] Marc Molinaro’s friends, supporters and donors,’ he said. ‘This has been clear since their ruling in 2018/2019 that the failure of Marc Molinaro to report over $20,000 that his family received from a county contractor – in clear violation of the ethics laws – was OK because they claimed the amount of money involved was too small to matter.’” Daily Freeman, [11/19/21]

Molinaro’s Appointee, Dutchess County Ethics Chair Tara Sullivan, Violated New York State Executive Law By Spying On Employees, And Faced Calls To Resign From The Ethics Commission

HEADLINE: “Former Bridge Authority Boss Says She Won’t Step Down As Ethics Chair.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

The Dutchess County Democrats Called On County Ethics Chair And Molinaro Appointee Tara Sullivan To Resign From The Ethics Commission After She Violated The State Executive Law As Executive Director Of The New York State Bridge Authority. “Tara Sullivan, the former Acting Executive Director of the New York State Bridge Authority (NYSBA), and current chairwoman of the Dutchess County Ethics Committee is being asked to resign by the Dutchess County Democratic Committee. Sullivan told Mid-Hudson News that she has no plans to step down. Sullivan was recently found to have violated state executive law while at NYSBA, by the New York State Inspector General. [...] Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro nominated Sullivan and the other members to the committee. The county legislature then approved the nominations. The demand by Democrats for the resignation included allegations that Sullivan ignored ethics complaints against Molinaro a few years ago which Sullivan dismissed as unfounded.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Dutchess County Democratic Committee Chairwoman Elisa Sumner Called For Sullivan’s “Immediate Resignation As Chair Of The Dutchess County Board of Ethics.” “The NYS IG report concluded that Sullivan had violated state law and acted in an imprudent manner. [...] On December 1, two days after the Mid-Hudson News exclusive story about the NYS IG letter, the Dutchess County Democratic Committee Chairwoman, Elisa Sumner, issued a statement calling for Sullivan’s resignation from the ethics committee based on the NYS IG findings. Sumner said in part, ‘Acting Executive Director of the NYS Bridge Authority (NYSBA) Tara Sullivan violated the law, we, the Dutchess County Democrats, call for her immediate resignation as Chair of the Dutchess County Board of Ethics and that she permanently step down from the Board.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Dutchess Democrats’ Statement Calling For Sullivan To Resign Also Accused Her Of Ignoring Ethics Complaints Against Molinaro In The Past. “Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro nominated Sullivan and the other members to the committee. The county legislature then approved the nominations. The demand by Democrats for the resignation included allegations that Sullivan ignored ethics complaints against Molinaro a few years ago which Sullivan dismissed as unfounded. ‘The Democratic Committee’s statement is full of misinformation and addresses issues that have long been resolved by the Ethics committee’s unanimous decisions,’ she said. Sullivan is one of five members of the Ethics Committee and was selected as chairperson by the committee members.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Sullivan: “I Do Not Intend To Resign My Role As Chair Of The Dutchess County Ethics Board As Long As The County Executive Continues To Want My Service [...] I Have Done Nothing Unethical.” “The attorney also provided Sullivan’s response to the Mid-Hudson News inquiry regarding the resignation request. Sullivan, through her counsel, said ‘I do not intend to resign my role as Chair of the Dutchess County Ethics Board as long as the County Executive continues to want my service,’ adding “I have done nothing unethical.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Sullivan Abruptly Resigned From Her Position On The Bridge Commission During An Inspector General Investigation That Ultimately Found She Violated The Law By Spying On Bridge Employees. “In 2020, while Sullivan was in charge of the NYSBA, she was accused of spying on Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge employees which resulted in investigations by the state police and the inspector general. [...] During the IG’s investigation into the matter, Sullivan abruptly resigned from her position, effective on July 15, 2021. At the time, Sullivan’s departure was announced as a retirement through an NYSBA news release which has since been removed from the NYSBA

website. [...] The NYS IG report concluded that Sullivan had violated state law and acted in an imprudent manner.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

In Response To A Request For Comment, Sullivan’s Attorney Issued A Cease And Desist Warning And Demanded A Retraction Of Reporting That Sullivan Resigned From The Bridge Commission Over The IG Investigation. “Mid-Hudson News contacted Sullivan, a former Woodstock town board member, and Ulster County legislator on Wednesday afternoon. Asked to respond to questions regarding the Democrats’ statement, she responded Wednesday night through an email from Rhinebeck attorney Nathaniel Charny. He was retained by Sullivan in response to recent Mid-Hudson News reporting on Sullivan’s ties to the ‘spy-gate’ issue. Charny said in part, ‘you are instructed to cease and desist from publishing the inaccurate information on this topic and retract all references that state or imply that Ms. Sullivan resigned due to the IG investigation.’ The NYS IG letter that was the basis for the Mid-Hudson News story said in part, ‘During the investigation, Sullivan resigned her position at the Bridge Authority effective July 15, 2021.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

He does not recall ever going against the Council's advice.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

Molinaro Moved The Dutchess County Department Of Health Into Offices Owned By One Of His Campaign Donors, Despite Them Not Having The Cheapest Bid

Molinaro Moved The Dutchess County Department Of Health To New Offices In Page Park Associate's Poughkeepsie Journal Building. “For the Health Department's new office, the county selected Page Park Associate's Poughkeepsie Journal building at 85 Civic Center Plaza in the city. Page Park's lease proposal included rent at $24.25 per square foot, which did not include telephone or Internet utilities or any increases in county, city or school taxes from the initial lease year. The county negotiated a final lease rate of $23.20 per square foot with the same exclusives.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/22/12]

Page Park Donated $2,610 To Molinaro's Assembly Campaigns. “Between 2009 and 2010, Molinaro received $2,610 in donations from Page Park during his run for Assembly, according to campaign finance records on the website of the state Attorney General's Office. In addition, Page Park managing partners Darin and Jason Page have donated a combined $310 to Molinaro between 2009 and 2011 for state and county races. Molinaro said those donations didn't have any influence on the Page Park lease agreement. Patrick Properties also donated to Molinaro, including $500 for his county executive campaign. Property manager Vincent Dimaso individually donated $150 to Molinaro.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/22/12]

Page Park Did Not Have The Cheapest Bid For The Health Department's New Offices. “At a rate of $22 per square foot, HP Mitchell of White Plains submitted a proposal in an attempt to keep the Health Department as its tenant at 387 Main St [...] At a rate of $20 per square foot, CR Properties proposed space at 331 Main St., the Indotronix International Corp. building. The rent included property and school taxes, maintenance and utility cost. Although it appears to be the cheapest option, CR Properties offered 10 of the 46 required on-site parking spaces, Molinaro said [...] At a first-year rate of $20 per square foot, Patrick Properties offered an office in Canterbury Plaza on Dutchess Turnpike in the Town of Poughkeepsie. Rent would increase to $21.40 for year three, $21.80 for year four and $21.22 for year five. Excluded were increases in property tax and school tax, a portion of liability insurance, and increases in gas and electric. The proposal included 262 parking spaces and the landlord agreed to pay up to $150,000 to put in partitioned walls and some furniture.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/22/12]

Molinaro Claimed To Support Good Government, But Opposed Measures To Rein In Pay-To-Play In Dutchess County

Molinaro Called For A State Law Banning Campaign Contributions To State Political Candidates From Individuals Or Businesses That Had Or Were Pursuing State Government Contracts. “In 2018, Molinaro called for a state law banning campaign contributions to state political candidates from individuals or businesses that have or may be pursuing state government contracts. However, in Dutchess County, where Molinaro has raised such funds for his own campaigns, he opposed a similar bill that same year that would apply to him as the incumbent county executive. The Times Union found that roughly a quarter of Molinaro's $1.4 million in campaign fundraising for his county executive campaigns has come from people or entities that have gotten payments from the county government he runs, records show.” Albany Times Union, [9/22/18]

- Molinaro Called For A Law Banning Campaign Contributions From Companies Pursuing Government Contracts. “The Republican candidate for governor, Marc Molinaro, on Wednesday called for a state law banning campaign contributions to state political candidates from individuals or businesses that have or may be pursuing state government contracts. At an event in Buffalo, Molinaro, who is the Dutchess County executive, noted the upcoming corruption trial of five men accused of rigging bids in connection with the ‘Buffalo Billion’ and other state-funded development initiatives. The alleged illegal actions took place amid heavy campaign contributions to Gov. Andrew Cuomo from the developers who are awaiting trial, although the campaign donations are not central to the criminal case.” Times-Union, [5/31/18]

Albany Times Union: Molinaro Could Have Easily Passed A Law In Dutchess County Preventing Pay To Play, But He Opposed Such A Bill Modeled After One Passed By Republicans In Neighboring Orange County. “In Molinaro's current job, passing such a law would not be so difficult: In Dutchess County, Republicans control the county legislature and Molinaro has significant sway over its agenda. Yet Molinaro and fellow Republicans opposed such a bill -- modeled after an anti-pay-to-play measure passed by Republicans in Orange County -- when it was introduced by county Democrats last year.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

Molinaro Claimed Laws Banning “Pay To Play” Would Create An Unfair Playing Field For Incumbents

Molinaro Claimed Laws Banning “Pay To Play” Would Create An Unfair Playing Field For Incumbents.

“Molinaro has argued in the past that the law would create an unfair playing field for Dutchess County incumbents, who would be constrained by the restrictions of the law while their electoral challengers would not be. And Molinaro said that while neighboring counties have passed pay-to-play laws, he trusts the opinion of Dutchess County counsel, who says such programs would not pass legal muster -- unless implemented on a statewide basis.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

Molinaro Claimed “Pay To Play” Was Impossible In Dutchess County

Molinaro Claimed The Dutchess County System Made “Pay To Play” Impossible. “Even contracts under $20,000 are verbally bid, and all contracts require the sign-off of the county comptroller. Asked last year by a constituent about possible pay-to-play in Dutchess County, Molinaro maintained that system simply would not allow it. ‘That premise is entirely false, unless you suggest that competitive bidding results in people getting contracts because they made a (campaign) contribution’ Molinaro said.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

Molinaro Called For Taking Politics Out Of Ethics Enforcement

Molinaro Called For Taking Politics Out Of Ethics Enforcement. “Looming over Molinaro's bid is the tremendous power the incumbent wields in government, business and union circles-indeed, over any person or organization whose life or livelihood touches the state government and its various appendages. [...] The proposed Albany Accountability Act he rolled out in July was a good-government wish list: term limits for all state officials; a ‘database of deals’ to track public contracts; bans on corporate subsidies and campaign contributions from companies with business before the state; eliminating the loophole that enables individuals and businesses to make huge donations through multiple limited liability companies; and taking politics out of ethics enforcement and legislative redistricting (independent panels established by the state's highest court would do those jobs). His 30-page white paper on the MTA caused a minor sensation among transit wonks.” Crains New York Business, [10/29/18]

Molinaro Claimed He Expanded Ethics Legislation In Dutchess County. “About an hour before Joseph Percoco, a former top aide to Gov. Andrew M. New York congressional Democrats are leading the charge to pack the Supreme Court.

Their legislation to add four new justices to the Supreme Court is nothing more than a partisan power grab that will further erode people's trust in the rule of law and our institutions.

There's a reason even Ruth Bader Ginsburg opposed this idea. In her own words, "If anything would make the court appear partisan it would be that"....

The attempt to turn Washington D.C. into the 51st state has nothing to do with representation, and everything to do with politics.

There are common sense solutions out there - like the idea to simply add D.C. back into Maryland.

But Washington continues to be a showcase in failed leadership. Rather than find solutions, they merely seek to maintain power.

[New York State Board of Elections, Molinaro for Dutchess July Periodic Report Amendment, Filed 10/8/21]

Federal Law Prohibited Spending Non-Federal Campaign Funds In Connection With An Election For Federal Office

It Was Against Federal Law For Candidates To Spend Or Disburse Funds From A State Account In Connection With An Election For Federal Office. “§ 300.61 Federal elections (52 U.S.C. 30125(e)(1)(A)). No person described in 11 CFR 300.60 shall solicit, receive, direct, transfer, spend, or disburse funds in connection with an election for Federal office, including funds for any Federal election activity as defined in 11 CFR 100.24, unless the amounts consist of Federal funds that are subject to the limitations, prohibitions, and reporting requirements of the Act.” [Code of Federal Regulations, accessed 11/15/21]

New York congressional Democrats are leading the charge to pack the Supreme Court.

Their legislation to add four new justices to the Supreme Court is nothing more than a partisan power grab that will further erode people's trust in the rule of law and our institutions.

The attempt to turn Washington D.C. into the 51st state has nothing to do with representation, and everything to do with politics.

There are common sense solutions out there - like the idea to simply add D.C. back into Maryland.

But Washington continues to be a showcase in failed leadership...

Facebook Required All Political Ads To Contain A “Paid For By” Disclaimer And Comply With Election Law

Facebook Ads About Social Issues, Elections Or Politics Were Required To Contain A “Paid For By” Disclaimer. “Any advertiser running ads about social issues, elections or politics who is located in or targeting people in designated countries must complete the authorization process required by Meta, except for news publishers identified by Meta. This applies to any ad that: Is made by, on behalf of or about a candidate for public office, a political figure, a political party, a political action committee or advocates for the outcome of an election to public office, Is about any election, referendum or ballot initiative, including "get out the vote" or election information campaigns, Is about any social issue in any place where the ad is being run, Is regulated as political advertising. Requirements vary by country. Advertisers must include a verified ‘Paid for by’ disclaimer on these ads to show the entity or person responsible for running the ad across Meta technologies. The disclaimer is subject to restrictions.” Meta, Advertising Standards, accessed [2/28/24]

Facebook Required All Ads Comply With U.S. Law Regarding Spending Limits And Reporting Requirements. “Advertisers running these ads, regardless of location, targeting, or news exemptions, must comply with all applicable laws and regulations, including but not limited to requirements involving: Disclaimer, disclosure and ad labeling, Blackout periods, Foreign interference, Spending limits and reporting requirements. If ads do not include a disclaimer and we determine the ad content includes content about social issues, elections or politics, it will be disapproved during ad review. If an ad is already running, it can be flagged by automated systems or reported by our community and, if found to be violating our policy by missing a disclaimer, it will be disapproved and added to the Ad Library.” Meta, Advertising Standards, [2/28/24]

Molinaro Is Fighting for Veterans

I'm fighting to strengthen veteran services and benefits to ensure they get the support they deserve. But this hasn't stopped Democrats from lying and accusing Republicans of wanting to cut benefits.

Even the Washington Post says liberals are lying:

• Additionally, Biden and Democrats have been hammering House Republicans for what they describe as cuts to veterans benefits in the bill they passed last week.

This is infuriating Republicans because there's nothing in the bill that specifically cuts veterans' benefits -- there is nothing that explicitly exempts them either -- and Republicans have said repeatedly they won't touch them.

As County Executive, and now as your Congressman, I have always done everything I can to support our Veterans.

From fighting to ensure veteran health centers aren't shut down to expanding services, I have and will continue to make sure our Veterans get the resources and support they so rightly deserve.

Fellow American,

When Republicans sounded the alarm over the Democrats’ plans to ban gas stoves in American homes, the media went crazy.

Democrats, Journalists, pundits, and media outlets spent millions deceiving Americans into thinking we were overreacting, and our gas stoves were safe from government bans.

Now we’re learning that the Governor of my home state of New York has a plan that will effectively ban gas stoves in her $227 billion budget proposal.

If we don’t nip this in the bud here in New York, this agenda will spread like a wildfire to every state and eventually the federal government. I have constituents that are going to suffer because of this plan. That’s why I’m not giving an inch of ground on this fight.

July 2023: Molinaro Urged Campaign Supporters To Sign A Petition “So We Can Finish The Job And Send My Schools Not Shelters Act To The White House.” Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [7/21/23]

Fellow Conservative,

The House just passed my bill Schools Not Shelters Act that will stop illegal migrants from being housed in our children's schools.

This comes after New York's Governor and the New York City Mayor used taxpayer funding to shelter illegal migrants in local schools.

The influx of illegal migrants is sowing chaos and New York's failed leadership has only inflamed the crisis and drained local resources.

54% of New Yorkers do NOT want their schools turned into migrant shelters. Now I need your signature of support to send the Senate a message that Americans support our Schools NOT Shelters Initiative.

ADD MY SIGNATURE

The crisis has gotten so bad, even 4 Democrats crossed the aisle in support of my initiative. But the majority of Democrats refuse to find any solution to the crisis they have created.

The Senate's our next hurdle and will be our biggest test and will prove whether the Democrats are serious about protecting our schools and local communities.

Please, pledge your support today, so we can finish the job and send my Schools Not Shelters Act to the White House.

Thank you and God bless,

Marc Molinaro

January 2023: Molinaro Asked Supporters For “Feedback” On His Position Calling For An “Honest External Investigation Via A Special Prosecutor” Into Documents Found At Biden’s Home. Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [1/19/23]

Fellow American,

I'm sure by now you've heard about the classified documents found at Joe Biden's home and private office, and many are criticizing the DOJ's "probe" response compared to the FBI raid of Mar-a-Lago.

What's clear to me and many other Americans, is that there needs to be an honest external investigation via a special prosecutor for this.

There needs to be a clear understanding of what went wrong and why this was allowed to continue, and I think the American people deserve transparency, don't you agree, Fellow American?

GIVE YOUR FEEDBACK >>

Let me step back and say, the constitution lays out the role of the legislative branch and among them from the house is an oversight.

I do believe that there needs to be a clear understanding as to what happened here, and what the appropriate response needs to be moving forward.

Let me know what you think about this Fellow American, I could really use your insight.

Thank you and God bless,

Representative Marc Molinaro

House Ethics Rules Prohibited Members From Linking Campaign Contributions To Official Actions

House Ethics Manual: “No Solicitation Of A Campaign Or Political Contribution May Be Linked To An Action Taken Or To Be Taken By A Member Or Employee In His Or Her Official Capacity.” “No Link With an Official Action or Special Access. The chapter on gifts makes the point that a House Member or employee should never accept any gift that is linked to any official action that he or she has taken or is being asked to take, and it includes a discussion on the criminal bribery and illegal gratuities statutes. Molinaro Violated FEC Requirements

2022: Molinaro Failed To Report A Vehicle He Used To Campaign As An In-Kind Contribution, Violating FEC Requirements

Molinaro Failed To Report A Vehicle He Used To Campaign As An In-Kind Contribution, Violating FEC Requirements. “Dutchess County Executive Marcus Molinaro is using a vehicle from a longtime supporter to campaign as the Republican candidate across the 11-county 19th Congressional District, he said, but the campaign has not filed the donation with the U.S. Federal Elections Commission as required since kicking off the bid last September. [...] Instead, the campaign rents a Jeep Grand Cherokee leased to Sean Mahoney, a supporter of Molinaro’s, at a rate of $35 per day, campaign staff said. The FEC requires in-kind contributions, or when a supporter pays for expenses on behalf of a federal campaign, be reported in a campaign’s next full quarterly report once the contribution exceeds $200, FEC spokesman Myles Martin said. At $35 a day, the campaign would exceed $200 for the vehicle after six days of use. The county executive’s Marc For Us Inc. campaign officially kicked off Sept. 21, or 315 days ago, but the campaign has not included the vehicle as an expense in its past three required quarterly filings with the FEC.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro’s Campaign Used A Rental Vehicle With A Supporter Covering A Portion Of The Cost Of The Rental As An In-Kind Contribution. “In an initial statement, campaign officials confirmed Molinaro’s campaign uses a daily rental vehicle from a longtime supporter, who is covering a portion of the cost of the rental as an in-kind contribution. Campaign officials claimed the supporter was covering a portion of the rental per FEC rules and regulations. In-kind contributions are subject to the usual reporting requirements and FEC contribution limits.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro Did Not Report In-Kind Contribution On Three FEC Filings. “‘Throughout the campaign, Marc has used either the donated vehicle or his personal car for all campaign related events,’ according to a statement from Molinaro’s campaign. ‘The filing will be complete and in compliance with FEC guidelines by the pre-election filing deadline Aug. 11 when the donor provides the campaign all the necessary information that has been sought for the several months.’ Molinaro’s campaign did not answer questions about why the campaign has not included the vehicle in its past three FEC-mandated campaign filings or how many days the campaign has rented a vehicle from Mahoney.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro Repeatedly Spent Millions In Tax Dollars On A Dutchess County Baseball Stadium And Proposed A Widely-Criticized Plan To Spend $12.5 Million Of American Rescue Plan Relief Funds On Stadium Upgrades

2013: Molinaro Called For $1 Million In Stadium Upgrades To Boost Tourism And Keep The Stadium Competitive With Others In The Region

2013: Molinaro Claimed Stadium Upgrades Would Boost Tourism. “To encourage tourism, Molinaro promised the completion the Dutchess County Rail Trail, connecting it to the Walkway Over the Hudson state park, and repairs and upgrades to Dutchess Stadium. He said continued investment in tourism and local businesses is crucial to maximize the county’s resources.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/31/13]

2013: Molinaro Called For A $1 Million Investment To Improve The Dutchess County Stadium And Keep It Competitive With Newer Stadiums In The Region. “This year begins the 20th year of Dutchess Stadium. It was built fast and cheap, Molinaro said. Today, it is aging and in need of repair and upgrades. ‘We will proceed with several short-term improvements including drainage and electrical repairs, preventative maintenance and full field replacement. To complete necessary field improvements by opening day, we will seek legislative support next month for the $1 million adopted in this year's capital plan,' he said. 'To remain competitive with newer stadiums built in the region and ensure 'the Dutch' remains a regional attraction and economic engine in southern Dutchess County we will begin developing a broader campus plan to expand opportunities on-site for a multi-use, multi-season recreational facility,' he said." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/31/13]

2018: Molinaro Called For A $3 Million Bond To Upgrade The Stadium; The County Legislature Approved $2.4 Million

2018: Molinaro Called For A $3 Million Bond To Upgrade The Stadium "The budget also called for a $3 million bond - which will be matched in part by the state Empire Development a total of $6 million - for improvements at Dutchess Stadium. The county's contract with the Hudson Valley Renegades is expiring and Molinaro said the county is looking for a long-term commitment from the minor-league organization. Either way, he said, the stadium is in need of improvements. 'As we continue to negotiate a new contract with the Hudson Valley Renegades and its ownership, Dutchess County must also make a commitment to ensure that the physical construction of the stadium is safe, secure and, ultimately, that we expand the fan experience,' Molinaro said." 2018: Molinaro Said Dutchess County Needed To Spend Millions On Stadium Renovations To Keep The Contract With The Minor League Team. "The Legislature voted down a measure on Tuesday that would've authorized the county to set aside $2.4 million in bonds to renovate seating, resurface concrete and repave the parking lot. County Executive Marc Molinaro, who proposed the resolution, says it would need to pass for the county's contract with the Renegades and the Beacon school district - which owns the land - to be extended another five years. The contract is set to expire Dec. 31." Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/16/18]

2018: Dutchess County Committed $2.4 Million For Stadium Renovations And Upgrades. 2021: Molinaro Wanted To Spend $12.5 Million Of American Rescue Plan Relief Funds On Baseball Stadium Upgrades, Before Backtracking Following Criticism

Dutchess County Allocated $12.5 Million In American Rescue Plan Relief Funds Toward Improvements For Dutchess Stadium

Dutchess County Allocated $12.5 Million Of Its $57 Million In American Rescue Plan Relief Funds Toward Improvements For Dutchess Stadium. "Minor league teams took a combined $40 million in Paycheck Protection Program loans early in the pandemic to cover worker salaries. But unlike Broadway theaters and live music venues they've been shut out of additional government relief. That's why Dutchess County, New York, has allocated $12.5 million of its $57 million in American Rescue Plan funds to expand locker rooms, build an outfield party deck, and buy the land housing the stadium for the Hudson Valley Renegades, a New York Yankees affiliate, according to county officials." Dutchess County Residents Questioned Why The New York Yankees, The Parent Club For The Renegades, Could Not Pay For The Stadium Upgrades. "While a majority of residents who submitted letters to the Legislature regarding the proposal were in favor of fronting the money for they upgrades, some questioned why the New York Yankees, the Renegades' new parent club, cannot pay the expense." Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

The $12.5M Allocated Was More Than The Anticipated Total Cost Of Stadium Renovations Estimate Earlier In The Year

As Of February 2021, The Total Expected Cost To Renovate The Stadium Was Around $10 Million.

“However, some legislators aren't sold on the deal, which is only one phase of roughly $10 million in executed or planned improvements for the stadium, and had questions when the county Legislature's Public Works and Capital Projects Committee discussed the resolution Thursday. Molinaro Claimed The Hudson Valley Renegades Would Leave Dutchess County Without The ARP-Funded Stadium Upgrades

Molinaro Said Without The ARP-Funded Investment In Dutchess Stadium, The County Would Lose The Hudson Valley Renegades As Its Tenant. “That’s why Dutchess County, New York, has allocated $12.5 million of its $57 million in American Rescue Plan funds to expand locker rooms, build an outfield party deck, and buy the land housing the stadium for the Hudson Valley Renegades, a New York Yankees affiliate, according to county officials. [...] But without the investment the county, which owns the stadium and collects rent from the Renegades, wouldn’t have a paying tenant, said County Executive Marc Molinaro. Dutchess County expects a $16 million return in increased tourism, sales, and hotel tax revenue from the agreement, which secures the Renegades as a Yankee team for 25 more years, he said.” Bloomberg Law, [10/25/21]

Molinaro Claimed The Stadium Upgrades Would Pay For Themselves By Boosting Tourism, A Claim A Local Business Owner Disputed And A County Legislator Called “Insane”

Molinaro Said He Expected Investments In Dutchess Stadium To Return $16 Million In Increased Tourism, Sales And Hotel Tax. “That’s why Dutchess County, New York, has allocated $12.5 million of its $57 million in American Rescue Plan funds to expand locker rooms, build an outfield party deck, and buy the land housing the

Molinaro Claimed That Keeping A Minor League Baseball Team Would Offset Revenue Losses Incurred During The Pandemic. "Molinaro, a Republican, countered that keeping the Renegades, a Minor League Baseball affiliate of the New York Yankees, would offset revenue losses incurred during the pandemic in the long run, as the county has long prized the team's ability to drive tourism spending. And, in the weeks since, the county has approved funding for youth services and other needs." The Journal News, [7/27/21]

Stadium Upgrades Were Estimated To Cost Significantly More Than Was Allocated, Leading The Project To Be Postponed

2022: Stadium Upgrades Were Estimated To Cost $21 Million, 68% More Than Allocated In June 2021. “Dutchess County is planning to spend $20 million to address its housing affordability crisis. Nearly half of that total would be reassigned from the controversial plan to spend more than a fifth of the county’s $57 million American Rescue Plan funding to upgrade facilities at Dutchess Stadium. While the shift was announced by County Executive Marc Molinaro on the night its housing assessment report, which suggests creating the fund, was presented to the Legislature, Molinaro said the move was spurred by ‘inflation.’ And though all parties agree affordable housing is the more pressing priority, Molinaro said the county still intends to pay for the stadium upgrades, which are now estimated to cost as much as $21 million, 68% more than what was allocated last June.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [4/14/22]

- When The First Bids Submitted Came In Higher Than County Officials Had Expected, Molinaro Said The Project Was Reworked To Remove Some Components Of The Original Project And Put Out For Bid A Second Time. “The largest single project was the proposed $11.6 million expansion of Dutchess Stadium, a county-owned park in Fishkill that is home to the Hudson Valley Renegades, a minor league affiliate of the New York Yankees. According to the executive’s plan, the funds would have been used to build an addition to Dutchess Stadium, which the plan called ‘an economic engine for our county, employing neighbors, attracting thousands of visitors from throughout the region which helps local businesses, restaurants, and hotels. ‘This investment will secure the operation of minor league baseball in Dutchess County providing jobs and bringing economic stimulus to the region,’ the plan stated. Democratic lawmakers decried that proposal, saying the funding would be better spent on projects that would address opioid use and other social issues, but Molinaro and Republican lawmakers moved forward, spending roughly $2 million on preliminary design and other costs before putting the project out to bid. When the first bids submitted came in higher than county officials had expected, Molinaro said the project was reworked to remove some components of the original project and put out for bid a second time. Still, the bids received were significantly higher than anticipated, forcing the county to abandon the project, at least for the time being. Molinaro, a Republican who is running for the 19th Congressional District seat against incumbent Antonio Delgado, D-Rhinebeck, said rampant inflation caused the county to scuttle its plans for the stadium.” Daily Freeman, [4/11/22]

Stadium Upgrades Were Expected To Cost More Than The Revenue The County Was Expected To Make Over Its 25-Year Lease With The Team. “And though all parties agree affordable housing is the more pressing priority, Molinaro said the county still intends to pay for the stadium upgrades, which are now estimated to cost as much as $21 million, 68% more than what was allocated last June. The new projected cost exceeds the amount of revenue the county is expected to make over the course of its recent 25-year lease agreement with the Hudson Valley Renegades, a deal which, the county maintained, required the upgrades to go forward. Molinaro suggested the county would look to increase usage of the stadium to offset expenses, with hopes the cost of work decreases. The county executive has stood behind the value of the stadium work and of having the Renegades as a draw for tourism.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [4/14/22]

Molinaro Proposed An Emergency Housing Shelter In An Area With High Rates Of Gun Violence And Substance Abuse

Molinaro Proposed Building A Housing Shelter In Poughkeepsie. “Dutchess County is looking to invest. While such controversial topics as building the Justice and Transition Center and upgrading at Dutchess Stadium can quickly commandeer any discussion of county expenditures, some of the investments are of the more personal variety. ‘It invests in people,’ County Executive Marc Molinaro said of a proposed homeless shelter, which would not only provide beds but case workers and assistance for its residents to help transition out of homelessness. ‘We will invest in the wraparound services and support infrastructure necessary in one space to help people overcome complex human issues.’ The $7 million project, which would place a shelter in the city of Poughkeepsie, is among several new physical and behavioral initiatives Dutchess has proposed or is in the process

Residents and elected officials in the city had opposed placing the facility in the Fifth Ward, in a neighborhood already struggling with crime, drugs and gun violence. They challenged the decision, saying residents who will be most impacted by the facility were not given a chance to air their concerns and questioned whether alternate locations were considered.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [12/13/22]

- The Dutchess County Legislature Delayed Voting On The Shelter For A Month “In Order To Properly Address Community Feedback.” “The Dutchess County Legislature delayed voting on the emergency homeless facility proposed for one of the more impoverished areas in the City of Poughkeepsie after city residents and elected official raised concerns and requested more time to consider alternatives. The legislature was expected to vote Monday on purchasing the building at 26 Oakley St. in the city's Fifth Ward after the plan was approved at a Legislature committee meeting on Thursday. Many city residents spoke before the vote, questioning why the public was not included in the selection of the site. ‘We have concluded that in order to properly address community feedback ... we should delay legislative action for one month,’ Gregg Pulver, a northern Dutchess Republican and chairman of the Legislature, said in a statement. He said the the decision was made after discussions on Monday with County Executive Marc Molinaro and legislative leadership from both parties. Molinaro had previously lobbied for Legislature approval and included the shelter as a priority in his State of the County address last month.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/5/22]

2023: Dutchess County Leadership Eventually Scrapped The Entire Plan To Turn A Building Into A Homeless Shelter That Had Been Forced Through By Molinaro. “Eight months after Republican lawmakers pushed through the controversial purchase of a building on the city's northside for a homeless shelter, they've scrapped the plan citing the controversy surrounding the proposal. Dutchess County Executive William O'Neil issued a statement Wednesday saying ‘ongoing challenges, including community opposition and pending litigation, high costs to meet zoning and state requirements, as well as substantial community benefit payment requests from the city council have forced the county to reconsider this location.’ Instead, the county is now negotiating the sale of the building, located at 26 Oakley St., to the Poughkeepsie City School District. Democrats blasted Republicans for wasting ‘time and money on a politically-motivated plan doomed to failure,’ and accused former County Executive Marc Molinaro of forcing the unpopular plan through as a ‘campaign ploy’ to help him win election to Congress.” Daily Freeman, [3/9/23]

2021: The Dutchess County Auditor Found The Stadium Operated A Yearly Deficit Of At Least $134,000 From 2015 To 2020 And Stadium Funding Was “Hurried And Omitted From The Budget.”

Dutchess County Auditor: The Stadium Operated A Yearly Deficit Of At Least $134,000 From 2015 To 2020. “That system has been questioned in the past, namely by county Comptroller Robin Lois, who in November issued an audit pointing out the stadium has operated at a deficit of more than $134,000 each year between 2015 and 2020.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

Dutchess County Auditor: “Capital Projects For The Stadium Have Not Been Properly Planned And Fully Disclosed.” “This audit report finds the capital projects for the Stadium have not been properly planned for and fully disclosed in the County’s 5-year capital plan.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Dutchess County Auditor: Stadium Funding “Was Hurried And Omitted From The Budget.” “Although the County had knowledge of the needed repairs for several years prior to 2018, the request for funding was hurried and omitted from the budget.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Dutchess County Auditor: “The Current Lease Terms Are Unfavorable To The County And Do Not Fully Compensate For The Costs Incurred.” “The County currently has a 5-year lease extension with the tenant that expires 12/31/23 and will soon need to be re-negotiated. The current lease terms are unfavorable to the County and do not fully compensate for the costs incurred. Although the Stadium is listed as a county park, it does not provide public access for resident enjoyment and is operated by a for-profit entity. The new lease agreement must safeguard taxpayer funds while planning for improvements to the quality and experience for the Stadium tenants and visitors alike. A fair and equitable lease would include remittance for operating expenses and allowance for anticipated increase in annual capital bond and interest costs incurred by the County.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Dutchess County Auditor: Dutchess County’s Capital Plans Did Not Include Needed Capital Improvements For The Stadium. “The County’s annual 5-year Capital Program/Plans (2016-2018) did not include or account for the needed capital improvements to the Stadium required to keep it usable and safe. Although the County had a long-term lease with Keystone and was aware of the impending needed improvements and repairs, there was no capital plan or repair schedule documented or followed. As an owned asset, the County has an obligation and responsibility for upkeep of the Stadium for not only the safety of its residents but under the obligations of the lease with the tenant. In a letter dated November 16, 2018 by Keystone President Jeff Goldklang (see Exhibit I), the needed repairs were stated as known by the County since to 2016. Repairs were not part of the capital plans in 2015 -2018 and a rush approval by the Legislature was requested in November 2018 by the administration; This required a request to waive rules of the Legislature (see Exhibit II), which was granted. Subsequently, the proposed repairs were approved by the Legislature in December 2018.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Molinaro Responded To The Audit By Claiming The Stadium Brought Economic Benefits Not Mentioned In The Audit

Molinaro Touted Economic Benefits Of Dutchess Stadium After County Comptroller Released Audit Questioning Its Economic Value. “However, an audit released last week from county Comptroller Robin Lois questions the economic benefit of the stadium, the amount of money taxpayers have put into the property despite the county neither owning nor operating it directly, and a lack of details regarding additional planned improvement expenditures noted in an application for Empire State Development funding. Lois in the audit, which spanned 2015 to October 2020, concluded the stadium has operated at a deficit of more than $134,000 each year - and in some cases much more - from 2015-2019, and said in 2020 the Renegades had yet to pay any rental fees [...] Molinaro said that 60% of fans that go to Dutchess Stadium each year are from outside the county, and that group of people spends $1 million per year locally. He said it's difficult to evaluate what area residents spend during the Renegades' season, as they are already spending their money in the county year-round. ‘There will be additional economic investment. People spend money, whether they're buying gas or souvenirs,' Molinaro said. 'They're spending money in Dutchess County.'" Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/17/20]

Molinaro Claimed The Stadium Will Generate A Yearly Surplus Of At Least $750,000. "Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, who has thrown his support behind the resolution, pointed to a 2012 report that estimated non-Dutchess residents, who comprise roughly 60% of visitors to Renegades games, spend nearly $1 million annually. He also said revenue over the course of a 20-year agreement with the team will offset the cost of the upgrades, as he projects the county to end up gaining a $750,000 surplus through various agreed-upon revenue streams." Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

The Dutchess County Department Of Public Works Said They Viewed Losses From The Stadium As The Cost Of Operating A County Park, Not As A Deficit. "Lois in the audit, which spanned 2015 to October 2020, concluded the stadium has operated at a deficit of more than $134,000 each year – and in some cases much more – from 2015-2019, and said in 2020 the Renegades had yet to pay any rental fees. In response, the county Department of Public Works Commissioner Robert Balkind said the administration is in the process of purchasing the land for the stadium from the school district and is interested in a long-term agreement with the Renegades, after which more improvements would be planned. He also noted the department does not look at losses relating to the stadium as a deficit, but rather the cost of operating a county park." Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/17/20]

2021: The Renegades Were Acquired By Diamond Baseball Holdings, A Subsidiary Of Entertainment Giant Endeavor

2021: Molinaro Congratulated The Hudson Valley Renegades On Being Acquired By Diamond Baseball Holdings. “The Hudson Valley Renegades are slated to be sold to Diamond Baseball Holdings (DBH), a subsidiary of Endeavor Group Holdings. DBH is purchasing the team from the Goldklang Group, which has interests in several Minor League Baseball teams. The new ownership is the second major change for the team, following the transition to becoming an affiliate of the New York Yankees for the 2021 season. [...] Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, a NY Mets fan that has cheered for the Renegades despite their affiliation with the NY Yankees said, ‘We congratulate the Hudson Valley Renegades on being the newest member of Diamond Baseball Holdings, and we, as a community, look forward to an even better fan experience as a result of this DBH’s investment and innovation.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/9/21]

Molinaro Said The County Should Not Give Up Stadium Ownership

Molinaro Said The County Should Not Give Up Stadium Ownership, Though He Acknowledged Its Relationship To The Renegades Was Not The “Most Ideal.” “In 1994, a public authority was formed to own and operate the stadium on land leased from the Beacon schools, Molinaro said. Several years later - he's not exactly sure how many - Dutchess took over as owner and the stadium became a county park. It was a decision, he said, that likely wouldn't be repeated in 2018 - a county getting into the business of owning a sports stadium. He brought up that point at Tuesday's meeting, but said that doesn't mean he wants the county to give up the stadium. ‘This isn't the most ideal relationship, but it's the relationship we inherited,’ he said. ‘It is one we need to sustain and maintain.’ In the relationship, he said, Dutchess is like a landlord and the Renegades are the tenant, paying an annual fee. Dutchess also pays an annual fee to Beacon schools, the land owner.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/16/18]

Molinaro Led The Building Of A New Jail In Dutchess County, Despite A Declining Inmate Population – The Most Expensive Project The County Had Ever Taken On, Dragging Dutchess County Into Jail Debt

2011: Molinaro Campaigned For County Executive On Reducing Overcrowding In The County Jail

2011: Molinaro Campaigned On Reducing Overcrowding In The County Jail. “Democrat Dan French and Republican Marc Molinaro both pledged to find solutions to overcrowding at the county jail and improve Dutchess County's economic climate if elected as county executive next month.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/6/11]

- Molinaro Called The County Jail “The Second Most Inefficient In The State.” “‘Our current jail is the second-most inefficient in the state.’ - Marc Molinaro, Dutchess County executive. Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said the county needs to move quickly on the purchase of 4.61 acres of property in the City of Poughkeepsie located next to the county jail.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/17/13]
- The Existing Dutchess County Jail Could Only Hold 250 Inmates. “The Dutchess County Jail, on North Hamilton Street, can only house 250 inmates. Nearly 200 additional inmates have been housed in out-of-county facilities, at a cost of about $8 million annually to Dutchess taxpayers, officials have said. The county installed pods at the jail to house some inmates in mid-2015 to reduce costs, but that is only a temporary fix.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/31/17]

2011: Housing Inmates Out Of County Cost Dutchess County $6.5 Million. “The Criminal Justice Council's report comes after County Executive Marc Molinaro asked the council for ways the county can stop housing out inmates, which cost taxpayers $6.5 million last year.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/16/12]

2012: The Dutchess County Criminal Justice Council Presented Price Ranges Between $78 Million And $202 Million For A New Jail

October 2012: The Dutchess County Criminal Justice Council Presented Price Ranges Between $78 Million And $202 Million For A New Jail. “The Criminal Justice Council's report comes after County Executive Marc Molinaro asked the council for ways the county can stop housing out inmates, which cost taxpayers $6.5 million last year. The council's subcommittee, chaired by retired jail Maj. Todd Gdula, said a new jail is the most cost-effective solution. The council estimates the county could build a $125 million facility on the state's now-closed Hudson River Psychiatric Center on Route 9 in the Town of Poughkeepsie and break even on housing-out costs [...] The council gave a range of prices to build: $78 million for a 500-bed facility to $202 million for a 650-bed jail, the least and most expensive scenarios. Gdula's committee ruled out rehabilitation, expansion or working collaboratively with other counties.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/16/12]

2013: A Consulting Firm, RicciGreen Associates, Confirmed The New Jail Would Cost Between $150 To $200 Million

2013: A Consulting Firm Report Confirmed The New Jail Would Cost Between $150 To $200 Million. “The consulting firm RicciGreene Associates last week issued a report that recommended the county build a new jail and transitional housing center that could house between 600 and 625 inmates. The firm, hired to validate a prior report recommending a new jail that was conducted by the Dutchess County Criminal Justice Council, said the project would cost between $150 million and $200 million. It said the county could build either at the jail's current site on North Hamilton Street in the city of Poughkeepsie or at the old Hudson River Psychiatric Center in the town of Poughkeepsie.” Daily Freeman, [6/08/13]

- Molinaro In September 2013: “No One Is Proposing A $200 Million Jail.” “While direct ‘housing-out’ costs are high, they have not reached $11 million - the county's estimated annual expense for debt service to build a new $200 million jail, the report states. Molinaro said, ‘No one is proposing a $200 million jail.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/12/13]

October 2013 Molinaro: “We Are Not Rushing Nor Have We Proposed New Construction Of A Jail.” “County Executive Marc Molinaro asked the audience of more than 100 attendees, including politicians and concerned citizens, to trust him. ‘My commitment is this,’ he said at the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Poughkeepsie, which held ‘To Jail or Not to Jail,’ a forum on the future of the overcrowded Dutchess County Jail. ‘We believe we have a complex problem that needs a comprehensive solution. We are not rushing nor have we proposed new construction of a jail,’ he said.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/10/13]

October 2013: Molinaro Opposed Committing The County To The State Commission Of Correction’s Recommendation For A 600-Bed Dutchess County Jail. “Dutchess County needs a 600-bed jail, say state officials who are calling on the county to solve its inmate overcrowding. The state Commission of Correction, which oversees jails, recommended the county build the jail - the biggest and possibly most expensive version being studied - in a draft agreement that is under negotiation. The agreement outlines what the commission expects the county to do in order to proceed with a temporary fix to its jail-cell shortage. Responding to statements made by County Executive Marc Molinaro during the forum ‘To Jail or Not to Jail’ held Wednesday night, commission spokeswoman Janine Kava said the agency asked the county to double its inmate capacity. December 2013: Molinaro Wanted The County To Spend $1.4 Million To Purchase Land Next To The County Jail To Build The New Jail On, Which The County Did

December 2013: Molinaro Wanted To Spend $1,425,000 To Purchase 4.61 Acres Of Land Next To The County Jail To Build The New Jail On. “A proposal to buy land next to the Dutchess County Jail is a potential solution to inmate overcrowding, which has plagued the county for decades, according to County Executive Marc Molinaro. Molinaro has asked the Legislature to vote Monday to fund the $1.425 million purchase of 4.61 acres on Parker Avenue and North Hamilton Street in the City of Poughkeepsie - the James L. Taylor Manufacturing Co. site. ‘If we are to realistically solve our inmate housing crisis and consider expansion of the Dutchess County Jail on its current site, this property acquisition is necessary,’ Molinaro said in a written statement.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/13/13]

December 2013: Dutchess County Earmarked $2.5 Million To Deal With Jail Overcrowding, Spending The Money On A Study And Purchasing The Land Molinaro Wanted For The New Jail. “Dutchess County has authorized $2.5 million toward dealing with the problem of overcrowding at the county jail. But will that be enough to persuade the state to let the county recoup some of those costs by using temporary housing for overflow inmates? That is the question facing county leaders now that the Legislature has approved the purchase of 4.61 acres in the City of Poughkeepsie adjacent to the existing jail. Late Monday night, the Legislature voted 23-2 to borrow $1.3 million toward the land along Parker Avenue and North Hamilton Street now owned by James L. Taylor Manufacturing Co. Minority Leader Barbara Jeter-Jackson, D-City of Poughkeepsie, and Legislator Joel Tyner, D-Clinton, voted against the resolutions. In June, county lawmakers approved $1.2 million to fund a study that would determine where a new jail should go and what it would look like.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/18/13]

2014: Molinaro Supported Building Temporary Housing Units For Inmates, Which New York State Approved

2014: Molinaro Supported Building Temporary Housing Units For Inmates And Building A “Modern” Prison In Dutchess County. “For 20 years, this county has not addressed this growing problem – we send our inmates and more than 6 million of your tax dollars to other counties across the state. This must stop. Adding on to an already inefficient, costly facility will only worsen the problem... Moving forward with the placement of temporary housing units, saving $1 million annually and then building a modern facility will achieve our stated objectives.” Poughkeepsie Journal, Marcus Molinaro and Adrian Anderson Op-Ed, [4/26/14]

The county executive said that constructing a new efficient jail facility will ultimately save the county money. The projected savings include reducing jail staff due to an expected increase in the current 1-to-1 inmate-to-correction-officer staffing ratio to a 3-to-1 ratio. The Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial Board Criticized Molinaro For Underestimating The Difficulty Of Building A New Jail

2015: Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial: "[Molinaro] Underestimated The Difficulty To Get State Approval To Move Forward With A New Jail." "Molinaro has been innovative as well, launching a shared-services program that is providing millions of dollars to localities willing to consolidate and find efficiencies in government. And the county also has filled the long-vacant historian position, with the executive recognizing not only the area's rich history but how important heritage tourism is to the local economy. The executive also has hit some bumps and bruises along the way. Reconfiguring the county's economic-development network and developing a cohesive strategy have taken considerable time. He underestimated the difficulty to get state approval to move forward with a new jail, and an ill-timed energy tax caused massive public blowback and had to be repealed." 2017: Molinaro Supported The $192 Million, 569 Bed Jail, As A Permanent Solution To Jail Overcrowding. "A year after the Dutchess County Legislature approved a $192 million bond to fund a new jail and sheriff's office, officials are preparing to go out to bid on construction for part of the project. [...] It is a big picture - the Dutchess County Justice & Transition Center project, which has drawn considerable controversy, is one of the largest capital projects in recent county history. During a Poughkeepsie Journal editorial board meeting on Thursday, Molinaro discussed the proposal, along with how decisions made in Washington, D.C.'s, tumultuous climate could affect Dutchess, and what his own political future could look like, among other things. The proposal for a new 569-bed jail and sheriff's office came after decades of discussion of a permanent solution to the county jail overcrowding. The Dutchess County Jail, on North Hamilton Street, can only house 250 inmates. Nearly 200 additional inmates have been housed in out-of-county facilities, at a cost of about $8 million annually to Dutchess taxpayers, officials have said. The county installed pods at the jail to house some inmates in mid-2015 to reduce costs, but that is only a temporary fix." Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/31/17]

2018: The Goal Of Dutchess County Was To Open The New Jail By 2021

2018: Dutchess County Wanted To Have Its New Jail Open By 2021. “As the Journal pointed out in a recent story and editorial, the county has one of the worst jails in New York. The state issued a blistering report about the jail, not only raising concerns about various protocols and procedures, but also rightly putting the county on notice to move forward with the work on a new facility. The county has approved a $192 million construction bond for what likely will be a more than 500-bed jail and sheriff department offices, and it's imperative this project stay on track. The county's goal is to have the inmates in the new facility by 2021, but efforts also must continue - on every level of government, including the judicial system - to reduce inmate population. That can occur through a range of actions, including improving mental health services and passing bail reforms.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/4/18]

2019: Dutchess County Downsized Jail Plans Towards A Smaller Jail, Pushing The Estimated Completion Date Back To December 2023. “Dutchess County is revising its plans amid a shift in criminal justice practices that may result in far fewer inmates at the proposed jail, according to a release from County Executive Marc Molinaro. But, he said, the smaller facility will save the county more than $8 million on construction costs and up to $2.5 million annually. Construction on the proposed $154 million facility, which would replace Dutchess County Jail, was scheduled to begin at the end of the year, with the final design due this month. The New York State Commission of Correction and the county agreed on pushing back its final design until the end of this year. ‘Having the flexibility to adjust to potential changes in the jail population, with the ability to utilize the 1995 building as a safety valve, is a very important factor. New York’s January 2020 Bail Reform Law, Eliminating Cash Bail For Most Arrests, Was Expected To Reduce The State’s Jail Population By At Least 40 Percent. “New York’s new bail reform law had been in effect for a mere three months when the state legislature amended it in early April. The most significant change is that there are more situations where judges can impose cash bail. They will also have more discretion in setting bail and other conditions of pretrial release. The updates go into effect on July 1. The purpose of the original bail reform law was to reduce the number of people jailed while awaiting trial simply because they could not afford to pay bail. Court watchers estimated that it would have reduced the jail population by at least 40 percent by eliminating cash bail for as much as 90 percent of arrests. For the remaining cases, judges maintained the option of setting cash bail.” Brennan Center for Justice, [4/16/20]

2021: Bail Reform Reduced The Number Of People In New York State Jail By Nearly 40 Percent. “In any other year, any one of these events would have upended jails and incarceration in New York State. In 2020, they happened back to back. Bail reform ushered in a period of considerable decarceration across the Empire State, and the number of people in jail dropped even further as authorities responded to the COVID-19 pandemic. The state’s nearly 40 percent decline in jail populations proved that New York can reverse its decades-long investment in mass incarceration.” Vera WHAT, [2/18/21]

Molinaro Praised The Impact Of County Stabilization Center On Reducing Jail Population But Opposed Additional Funding For It

Molinaro: “It’s A Shame In America That Mental Health Services And Drug Addiction Services Are Principally Provided In Jail Facilities.” “Molinaro said the system overhaul has two parts: the diversion and crisis stabilization center and the justice and transition center - the jail component. ‘It’s a shame in America that mental health services and drug addiction services are principally provided in jail facilities,’ he said. ‘Our focus has been to get the diversion and crisis center built. We have never had the square footage to provide intervention and diversion services.’” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/27/15]

Molinaro Said Dutchess County Jail Population Declined 40% Since Opening A Stabilization Center In 2017, Even Before Implementing Bail Reforms. “When Dutchess County opened its stabilization center in 2017, helping provide services for individuals in crisis, officials hoped the 24-hour drop-in center would reduce the county’s jail population as well as avoidable hospital visits. And while there have been some changes and growing pains along the way, Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said the Mid-Hudson Valley county has seen success. Since the center opened, the county jail population has declined 40 percent, and that’s before bail reforms were implemented, Molinaro said. ‘We believe that in most cases, we drove down jail populations because of the work that the stabilization does to centralize delivery,’ he said. ‘There was a noticeable reduction in emergency room visits as well that we think is important. The emergency room and jail are the least effective tools to help someone in a mental health crisis.’” Albany Times-Union, [2/11/21]

Molinaro’s 2019 Opponent Attacked Him For Vetoing A $10,000 Appropriation For The Stabilization Center. “When it comes to mental health resources in Dutchess County, Molinaro pointed to the Stabilization Center, nationally renowned, and that residents have access to the 24/7 hotline. ‘No county in America does what we do,’ he said. However, Ruggiero noted that a couple years ago the county Legislature amended in the budget to include a $10,000 appropriation so that more money could be put into the homeless shelter. He said Molinaro vetoed this, despite people being turned away from the shelter. ‘That is not the way to deal with these things, a lot of the folks who are out there who are homeless, or need mental health services, we need more to do with that,’ Ruggiero said. ‘What the state has done in abandoning, how they provide mental health services to our citizenry is appalling.’ Molinaro responded by saying he rejected it because ‘I didn’t think it was appropriate for the legislature to pick winners and losers and just give $10,000 to a specific organization.’ He added that later that year, he expanded his commitment to housing.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/17/19]

2018: The Cost Of Expanding The Stabilization Center Was Millions Over Budget

November 2018: The First Phase Of Renovation For The Stabilization Center Was $2.6 Million Over Budget, And The Second Phase Was Six Times Higher Than The Original Budget. “The first phase of the project renovating the Dutchess County Stabilization Center cost around $2.6 million more than budgeted, and the estimated cost for the planned second phase is more than six times more than originally budgeted. That’s according to county Comptroller Robin Lois’ office, which released an audit of the project. In addition to renovating the property at 230 North Road in Poughkeepsie, the project called for expanding programs for those dealing with problems that include drug addiction and mental health.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/1/18]

Molinaro Cited The Increased Costs As A Reason Not To Proceed With Expansion Of The Stabilization Center. “County Executive Marc Molinaro said increases in labor costs are one reason why the county’s original estimate was incorrect. The project began in 2014. ‘Just in the region we have seen 50, 60 and, in some cases, 100 percent increases in previous labor costs,’ said Molinaro, the Republican gubernatorial candidate. ‘We are being responsible in saying what the projected costs could be but, because it is $14 million, I am not presenting to the Legislature a request to proceed with the project.’ The next phase of the project was included in the 2019-23 capital plan included in Molinaro’s proposed 2019 county budget, with no funding proposed until 2020.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/1/18]

Molinaro Accused Dutchess County Legislators Of Making “Purposefully Deceptive” Statements About Mid-Pandemic Layoffs At The Stabilization Center

August 2020: Dutchess Legislators Urged Molinaro To Reconsider What They Said Were Unannounced Layoffs Of Six Nurse Practitioners From The County’s Stabilization Center. “Word spread quickly in July among frequenters of the Stabilization Center, a 24-hour walk-in resource facility for mental health and substance use crises based in Poughkeepsie: the center’s nurses were gone. The news shocked Dutchess legislator and Vassar history professor Rebecca Edwards (D-Town of Poughkeepsie), who said the county laid off the six licensed practitioner nurses (LPNs) without warning legislators or informing the community. The center suspended in-person visitations and moved to telepractice on March 20. The Dutchess Democratic Legislators Caucus rang alarm bells about the layoffs in a press release on August 4. Democrats slammed the county for what they perceived as budget cuts to mental health and substance addiction services at a time when they are most needed. ‘It appears the county is withdrawing funding for the Stabilization Center, which no longer has medical personnel to offer diagnoses,’ said legislator Brennan Kearney (D-Rhinebeck/Clinton). ‘The timing could not be worse, as people struggle with the impact of COVID. We strongly urge the executive to reconsider.’” Miscellany News (Vassar College), [8/14/20]

Molinaro Responded With Statement Claiming The Center Had No Staffing Cuts, Called Democratic Legislators’ Statements “Purposefully Deceptive.” “In response, Molinaro’s office issued a statement that the center has been fully operational with no funding or staffing cuts through the pandemic. It also noted the Stabilization Center is a non-medical facility or an urgent care, noting 70% of visits relate to mental health disorders involving patients that do not need nursing assistance. ‘Dutchess County has been resolute in our commitment to mental health and addition, we have built a model that is admired throughout the state and we will continue investing in the Stabilization Center and evolve its operations to meet the needs of the community,’ Molinaro said. ‘The statements made by several of the Democratic legislators are either purposefully deceptive or simply don’t understand this vital resource.’ He called the statements by the legislators ‘insulting’ to the county and

‘the community professionals who works around the clock to serve the needs of our community.’ Poughkeepsie Journal, [8/6/20]

2012: Molinaro Caused A Car Accident While Improperly Using His Emergency Lights

2012: Molinaro Caused A Collision While Using His Emergency Lights. “Months into his first term as county executive in 2012, Molinaro was driving his county-issued vehicle in emergency mode — a 2012 Jeep Grand Cherokee at the time — when he got into an accident at 7:09 p.m. July 26, 2012 in the town of Hyde Park. David Vaia, then 67, of Hyde Park, was driving south on Route 9G when he saw Molinaro driving behind him with red emergency lights on, according to the Hyde Park Police Department accident report. Vaia turned on his right blinker and pulled to the right, but then attempted to turn left into a parking lot on the east side of the road. Molinaro’s Spending On Luxury Vehicles Sparked A County-Wide Audit

Questions About Molinaro’s Vehicle Usage, Including Why He Drove A Luxury SUV, Sparked A County-Wide Audit. “The Dutchess County Comptroller’s Office is auditing all assets, policies and procedures about every vehicle in the county’s fleet after the office has received increased questions about officials’ practices and payments with county-issued vehicles, Dutchess Comptroller Robin Lois said. The Comptroller's Office in March 2020 denied an order to purchase a $65,500 2020 Chevrolet Tahoe using a legislatively approved replacement vehicle bond that did not include the Tahoe, according to the report. A secondary cause for denial was that the 2020 request was to replace a 2018 vehicle that had not reached the end of its useful life and was ruled an unnecessary replacement. The third cause for denial was the vehicle purchase order included law enforcement equipment, which is inappropriate in a non-law-enforcement vehicle." Hudson Valley 360, [5/18/23]

2011: Molinaro Took $12,449 In Per Diems As A State Assemblyman. “Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, said the $12,449 he has been reimbursed for so far this year reflects nights he stayed over in Albany due to late-night sessions and early morning meetings the next day. ‘I am extremely sensitive that these are public tax dollars,’ he said. Molinaro, in his third two-year term representing the 103rd Assembly District, said this year he had more of those early morning meetings than last year due to his added duties as assistant minority leader and appointment to two panels: Cuomo’s transition team and the mandate relief and redesign team. ‘The responsibility I’ve been given this year does require an added amount of work,’ he said. Molinaro said he lives 54 miles from Albany and the drive each way usually takes just over one hour.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/05/11]

“Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, has seen his reimbursements increase from a little over $2,000 for fiscal year 2006-07 to $17,617.67 in fiscal year 2009-10. His responsibilities, including committee appointments, have increased, requiring the extra time in Albany. So far he has received $52,409.70 in per diem and travel expenses. ‘My perspective is there are some things I couldn’t afford to shoulder independently, and there are some things the people of the state of New York shouldn’t have to pay for,’ Molinaro said. While Campaigning, Molinaro Spent “Unusually” High Amounts On Trips, Entertainment, And Food, Despite Claiming Too Many Politicians Used Campaign Funds For Personal Use

Molinaro Took Trips To California And Florida While Campaigning For County Executive And Governor, Spending “Unusually” High Amounts On Trips, Entertainment, And Food

Times Union: Molinaro Spent “An Unusual Amount Of His Campaign Funds On Items Not Directly Related To Campaigning.” “But Molinaro -- who easily won his county executive races in 2011 and 2015 -- has himself spent an unusual amount of his campaign funds on items not directly related to campaigning: Since 2011, he has spent nearly $62,000 on car payments, meals, trips and entertainment. Nearly $27,000 in car and gas payments have included more than $15,000 paid to vehicle financing company Ally for a lease. The campaign paid the $594 per month beginning in 2012, despite the fact that Molinaro is also provided a taxpayer-funded vehicle by Dutchess County. Candidates are allowed to use campaign funds for their personal vehicles as long as the use is related to their public office. The lease payments stopped in April 2015 and were entirely legal, Molinaro's campaign said. Molinaro has spent $12,300 on travel and entertainment expenses, including a trip to California, where campaign expenses included tabs at the "Moonstone beach bar," and a trip to Florida, where the campaign paid for his stay at the Hilton Clearwater Beach. Molinaro said the trip to California in 2014 was related to tourism promotion efforts for Dutchess County, and that he preferred to have the campaign pay for it instead of taxpayers. The Clearwater Beach trip, in 2012, was to meet with campaign donors who were Dutchess County residents with homes in Florida; Molinaro's campaign refused to identify them. Molinaro has also spent nearly $23,000 in campaign funds on 252 meal-related expenditures, which he acknowledged was a ‘relatively high’ amount. Molinaro has often met for dinners with constituents and community groups, sometimes four times a week, which explains the high amount, he said. Given his $140,000-a-year salary, Molinaro himself could not foot the bill for the work and campaign-related spending.” Times Union, [7/1/18]

While County Executive And Mayor, Molinaro Repeatedly Mismanaged The Budget Process, Boosting The Budget For His Own Office While Increasing Debt And Attempting To Layoff County Employees

Molinaro Touted A 2022 Reduction In Debt Service In A Tax-Funded Mailing, But His Budget Planned Millions More In Debt Service From 2025-2027 Than In Previous Budgets

Dutchess County Democratic Legislators Claimed Molinaro Was “Kicking The ‘Debt Can’ Down The Road” By Reducing Debt Service In 2022 And Leaving Higher Debt Service After 2025. “The Executive is kicking the ‘debt can’ down the road. The county has changed its proposed debt service since its 2020 plan, so the Exec (who recently declared his ambition to take Congressman Antonio Delgado’s seat) can trumpet a ‘decrease in debt service’ for 2022. This short-term ‘dip’ in debt service has been engineered, leaving much higher debt service due in 2025 and beyond. (A celebratory mailer about the ‘dip’ was sent to Dutchess households in October at a cost to taxpayers of $40,000.)” Dutchess County Democratic Party, [11/22/21]

Dutchess County Democrats Criticized Molinaro For Touting A $5 Million Tax Cut While His Debt Service Plan Would Require The County To Pay $35 Million A Year From 2026-2028. “The Executive is kicking the ‘debt can’ down the road. The scale of this spending puts in perspective the one-year $5m tax break that the Exec is currently touting as ‘historic.’ Compare that to the tax burden being created for future years: in 2026-2028, additional revenue will need to be generated, or programs cut, to pay over $35 million per year.” Dutchess County Democratic Party, [11/22/21]

2013: Under Molinaro’s Leadership, Moody’s Downgraded Dutchess County’s Credit Rating To AA1, Increasing Debt Service Costs To County Taxpayers

Moody’s Investors Service Downgraded Dutchess County’s Credit Rating One Level From “AA2” To “AA1” Due To Declining Fiscal Standing. “Dutchess County’s credit rating was taken down a notch by Moody’s Investors Service with a comment that Dutchess’ fiscal standing is declining. And that could cost the county taxpayers a little bit more in interest when a $6.2 million bond issue goes out.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/9/13]

- Moody’s Credit Ratings Gauged The Risk Associated With Buying Government Bonds. “An investment grade is a rating that signifies a municipal or corporate bond presents a relatively low risk of default. Bond rating firms like Standard & Poor’s and Moody’s use different designations, consisting of the upper- and lower-case letters ‘A’ and ‘B,’ to identify a bond’s credit quality rating. Molinaro’s 2021 Budget Cut Health Department Funding During The COVID-19 Pandemic While Molinaro And County Legislators Received A Pay Raise 2021: The Dutchess County Health Department Was Cut By $2.5 Million During A Pandemic While Dutchess County Legislators Received A Pay Raise. “Compared to the modified budget, appropriations have been cut in all areas except for education and debt services. Health department funding was cut from $47.2 million to $44.7 million, according to the executive budget. The cost for state mandates services, such children's foster care, preschool special education, and early intervention programs will increase, but state aid for those programs will be cut by almost $4 million. Molinaro Bragged His 2021 Budget Included No Layoffs After Pushing 150+ County Employees To Take Buyouts, While Still Including Pay Raises For Himself And Other Elected Officials

Molinaro Bragged That 2021 Budget Included No Layoffs, But Roughly 150 Employees Had Accepted Buyouts In The Prior Year. “Dutchess County is planning to lower its tax rate and maintain services in 2021. It is doing so even while cutting spending in most departments, navigating job losses as the result of roughly 150 employees accepting voluntary buyouts, and knowing state aid may be reduced [...] Molinaro said the county was financially prepared for ‘unprecedented times’ and that ‘Fortunately, here in Dutchess County, our long-established conservative fiscal approach has allowed us to produce a 2021 budget with no tax increase, no layoffs and reduced spending,’ in a release announcing the budget's approval. The county Legislature passed the budget Thursday by a vote of 16-8. Eight of 10 Democratic legislators opposed the budget. The county executive said that will equate to anticipated savings exceeding $10 million [...] In all, 176 employees applied in Dutchess, but not all were approved. Some of the individuals who applied for the incentive were denied because their position would need to be filled, costing the county money. ‘The program was, if we're going to give you the incentive, it has to save money,’ Molinaro said. ‘Our expectation was that the position or a similar position would remain vacant for 12 months. Molinaro Repeatedly Attempted To Lay Off County Staff

2012: Molinaro's Proposed Budget Would Have Cut 200 Jobs, Or Five To Ten Percent Of The County Workforce. "Reducing the $40 million budget gap, Molinaro said, will require job reductions. But he did not say exactly how many and what the cost savings would be. 'If you're adding and subtracting, it takes a long walk to get $40 million,' Molinaro said. He did say over the next few years he plans to reduce the county work force by 200 employees from 1,850 to 1,650. Colleen Pillus, research analyst for the county executive and budget office, said later Molinaro likely will propose reducing the work force next year by 5 percent to 10 percent. Some of those reductions, she said, would come from those who are electing to participate in the new Workforce Adjustment Incentive." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/29/12]

2012: Molinaro Offered A $20,000 Incentive To 150 Dutchess County Employees To Quit Their Jobs In Order To Balance The County Budget. "Summer will be a challenging time for about 150 Dutchess County government employees as they weigh whether to quit and collect a $20,000 incentive. As part of a plan to close an expected $40 million budget gap for 2013, County Executive Marc Molinaro said Tuesday, an offer is being made to certain staff members in most departments to give up their jobs and save the county budget several million dollars." [The Journal News, 8/8/12]

2014: Dutchess County Had 1,720 Full Time Employees, The Lowest Number In 30 Years. "To help balance the budget, the county saved $6.8 million through the reduction of 103 full-time workers. Molinaro Nearly Doubled The Dutchess County Executive Office Budget

Molinaro's Executive Office Budget Was Nearly Doubled During His Tenure Due To The Addition Of More Public Relations Staff. "In 2012, when the current County Executive was elected, the Exec's office had a total budget of $1.14 million. That included the budget office, which as the budget director noted at one of last week's meetings, works interchangeably with other Exec staff. This year the Exec's department recommended $2.17 million; the Executive himself recommends an even higher $2.2 million. The Exec's budget for his own office has nearly doubled since he was elected. The main additions have been public relations staff and aides." Dutchess Voice, [11/22/21]

A State Audit Criticized Tivoli's Budgeting Process While Molinaro Was Mayor, Highlighting "Sub-Standard Bookkeeping" And A Failure To Adhere To Competitive Bidding

The Audit Criticized Tivoli For Sub-Standard Bookkeeping And Not Always Following Competitive Bidding. "No money is missing. But the state did find various cases of sub-standard bookkeeping. For example, a $20,000 backhoe purchase was not subject to competitive bidding. Molinaro said the purchase, which was an emergency expense triggered by a water main break, did not require bids. He did concede, however, that he erred in not properly declaring the emergency. 'I have to file just a few extra pieces of paper,' he said, describing the purchase as a much better deal than renting a backhoe while waiting for bids." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/2/00]

Molinaro On The Audit: "There's Just No Part Of This That Worries Me." "Mayor Marc Molinaro called a news conference Tuesday to discuss recent findings by the state comptroller's office. He said corrective actions are already under way. 'There's just no part of this that worries me,' he said. 'Times have changed. ... We have already been responding.'" [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/2/00]

Since He Was 19, Molinaro Expressed Interest In Being President

When Molinaro Was Elected Mayor At 19 He Wanted To Be President. “He was 18 when he was elected a Tivoli trustee in 1994. A year later, he was mayor – the youngest in the country at the time. Molinaro’s youth brought with it a national spotlight, albeit a temporary one. There were appearances on ‘Live with Regis and Kathie Lee,’ ‘Donohue’ and the ‘Today’ show. ‘48 Hours’ aired a profile on him. Even then, Molinaro had an eye on higher office. ‘Eventually, I would like to be in position to run for president,’ he told the Times Union of Albany in 1995. ‘That would mean I would have to be a senator or governor.’” Democrat & Chronicle, [11/3/18]

1995: Molinaro Said “Eventually, I Would Like To Be In Position To Run For President [...] That Would Mean I Would Have To Be A Senator Or Governor.” “Granted, this Dutchess County village of 1,039 residents located 42 miles south of Albany is not the biggest of political trophies (at one square mile, it would not be big enough to be incorporated as a municipality today). But Molinaro has the biggest of political ambitions. ‘Eventually, I would like to be in position to run for president,’ he said. ‘That would mean I would have to be a senator or governor.’” [Times Union, 8/20/95]

Molinaro Considered Running For Congress As Early As 2010

2010: Molinaro Was Considering Running For Congress In NY-20 After Being Asked By Republican Party Leaders. “Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, said he wants to remain focused on his work, but is not ruling out running for the 20th Congressional District seat held by Rep. Scott Murphy, D-Glens Falls. Molinaro said he’s been asked by party leaders and elected officials across the district to run. The 20th Congressional District covers all or parts of Dutchess, Columbia, Delaware, Essex, Greene, Otsego, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Warren and Washington counties.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/28/10]

By Running For Congress In 2022, Molinaro Broke His Promise To Spend His Entire 2020-2023 Term As County Executive

2019: Addressing Allegations That He Planned To Run For Congress, Molinaro Promised He Would Spend The Duration Of His Third Term As Dutchess County Executive. “Molinaro, who a year ago failed to unseat Andrew Cuomo in a run for governor and has also been at the center of rumors that he would be tapped for a congressional run, promised Tuesday to spend the duration of his third term as Dutchess’ county executive.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/7/19]

- 2022: Molinaro Was Considering Running For Congress Or Governor. “For now, his focus is on the COVID-19 pandemic. But Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro is considering runs for higher office in 2022. Molinaro told The Citizen’s Eye on NY podcast that he is contemplating campaigns for either Congress or governor next year. He doesn’t have a timetable for a decision, but plans to give it more serious consideration once there is more progress in the COVID-19 vaccine distribution process.” Auburn Citizen, [4/13/21]

2022: Molinaro Resigned As Dutchess County Executive To Serve In Congress. “Dutchess County Executive Marcus Molinaro has formally submitted his letter of resignation to County Clerk Brad Kendall. Molinaro, who has been county executive for 11 years, is stepping down to become the congressman representing New York’s new 19th District. His resignation is effective at the end of the day on December 31, 2022. In his letter to Kendall, Molinaro said his tenure as county executive ‘has been the opportunity of a lifetime, working alongside some 1,800 dedicated men and women who comprise our county workforce.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/27/22]

Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Did Not Support A Dutchess County Term Limit Bill

2018: Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Didn't Support An Active Bill In Dutchess County For Term Limits. “Besides the statewide pay-to-play ban, another reform item Molinaro has made a centerpiece of his campaign is term limits, which he insists are badly needed across state government. He has pledged to serve only two terms as governor, and in a recent New York Post op-ed said he would insist on putting term limits in the state budget unless lawmakers agree to a standalone up-or-down vote on the matter. Molinaro has again had less urgency in taking up the matter in Dutchess County: A Republican Dutchess legislator introduced a bill last year imposing a 12-year limit for both the county executive and legislators, which Molinaro and other Republicans have not supported.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

2018: Molinaro Said He Favored A Three Term Limit For Dutchess County Executive. “Molinaro says he does favor a three-term limit, but wants it to be part of a broader reform of the county charter that is ongoing. He hopes to act on reforms this year.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

February 2019: Molinaro Introduced A Proposal For Dutchess County Term Limits. “The proposal, announced by Pulver and County Executive Marc Molinaro in February, was introduced due to the recommendation by the Ethics and Independent Reapportionment Advisory Committee. The committee was formed two years ago to review codes locally and across the state and region.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/13/19]

2019: Dutchess County Enacted Term Limits, Including A Three Term Limit For County Executive. “Future Dutchess County executives, comptrollers and legislators may only serve a maximum of 12 years in office after the Legislature's unanimous vote Monday night to pass term limits. Starting in January, the office of the county executive will be limited to three four-year terms and a legislator may only serve six two-year terms. The comptroller will begin to serve three four-year terms in January 2022, according to Legislature Chairman Gregg Pulver.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/13/19]

1999: Molinaro Claimed He Would Not Run For A Fourth Mayoral Term, Then Ran For Three More

1999: Molinaro Claimed He Would Not Run For A Fourth Mayoral Term. “Molinaro is a public relations consultant and the Dutchess County Traffic Safety Coordinator as well as the mayor of Tivoli. President of the Northern Dutchess Alliance, a regional planning consortium, he is currently vying for a seat on the county legislature. In his third mayoral term, he has said he does not plan to run for a fourth.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/20/99]

Tivoli Mayoral Terms Were Two Years And Carried A Salary Of $8,600. “Cordier, a member of the village board since 1994, was appointed to fill Molinaro's term as mayor in December. Molinaro left the position after he was elected to the state Assembly last year. Cordier is running for a two-year term that carries a salary of $8,600.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/1/07]

Molinaro Served Six Terms As Mayor Of Tivoli. “Marc Molinaro was first elected to public office at the age of 18 in 1994, serving on the Village of Tivoli Board of Trustees. In 1995, he became the youngest mayor in the United States. He was re-elected mayor five times and elected four times to the Dutchess County Legislature.” Dutchess County Executive, accessed [1/6/22]

Molinaro Contributed To Republican Infighting And Inefficiencies, Including Collaborating With Gaetz During Shutdown Negotiations And Delaying The Speaker Votes

September 2023: Molinaro Collaborated With Gaetz During Shutdown Negotiations, Going So Far As To Co-Author The “Molinaro-Gaetz” Plan To Kill A Continuing Resolution To Keep The Government From Shutting Down

Molinaro Claimed He Was “Committed To Exerting Every Ounce Of My Being To Help My Colleagues Understand That We Ought To Avert A Shutdown”

Molinaro: “I Am Committed To Exerting Every Ounce Of My Being To Help My Colleagues Understand That We Ought To Avert A Shutdown.” “U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro said Tuesday that he is working closely with Republican colleagues to come up with a plan to avoid a government shutdown. [...] ‘I have lived through it as a local official and I am certainly doing everything in my power to help push my colleagues toward avoiding one,’ Molinaro said. ‘I have been heavily involved in intensive conversation to mold a consensus with the Republican majority to present a budget proposal that reigns in federal spending, meets the needs and respects taxpayers, and secures the border.’ ‘I think we are inching closer to that and every effort is being made to avoid a government shutdown,’ Molinaro said. ‘I am committed to exerting every ounce of my being to help my colleagues understand that we ought to avert a shutdown.’” Daily Freeman, [9/26/23]

And instead of using a hard-right CR as the House’s opening move in negotiations with the Senate, the (lengthy) floor debates on the House GOP-crafted appropriations bills will serve that purpose. Gaetz has a surprising partner in this plan: Rep. Marc Molinaro, a New York moderate who is one of the 18 House Republicans representing a district carried by Joe Biden. Molinaro has been involved in various attempts to solve the shutdown crisis this week, including the bipartisan effort to use a discharge petition to force a vote on a CR. ‘It is absolutely an option,’ he told NBC News yesterday even as he worked with Gaetz on the plan to kill the CR.” Politico, [9/22/23]

If you squint hard, you might see a possible scenario in which McCarthy allows a week to be wasted on the Gaetz plan but then — bowing to pressure from the Senate, the public and his own conference — passes the Senate CR with a bipartisan vote at the last minute or after a short shutdown. Of course, McCarthy passing any CR is an outcome that Gaetz and others have promised would trigger a motion to vacate.” Politico, Playbook, [9/22/23]

Despite Describing Republican Failure To Elect A Speaker As “Distressing And Disappointing,” Molinaro Contributed To The Chaos By Blaming Democrats And Voting For Long Shot Candidates, Further Delaying The Election Of A Speaker

Molinaro Repeatedly Criticized The Chaos Surrounding The Speaker Election

Molinaro Said The Weeks Of The Speaker Vote Were “Among The Most Distressing And Disappointing In The History Of” The House. “And those were just the words that House Republicans used to describe the past three weeks as they removed one speaker from office and splintered over three successive nominees before finally landing on Rep. Mike Johnson, R-La. [...] Rep. Marc Molinaro, a first-term Republican from New York, said he hopes voters will judge the Republican candidates on the totality of their work. ‘The last three weeks were among the most distressing and disappointing, not only for me but among the most distressing and disappointing in the history of that chamber,’ he said, nodding toward the House side of the Capitol. ‘We should be judged by not only those three weeks but how we now rebuild moving forward.’” Associated Press, [10/27/23]

- ✓ Molinaro voted for the Default On America Act, which cut funding for public safety and border security by billions.
- ✓ Molinaro voted for H.R. 2, an extremist immigration measure which would severely limit pathways to asylum, roll back effective methods of decreasing illegal immigration, and keep border agents from doing their jobs.

- ✓ Molinaro opposed immediately expediting work permits for migrants; failing to do so would have fostered unsafe working conditions, bolster crime, and further tax New York.

Molinaro Consistently Opposed Common Sense Gun Safety Reforms

- ✓ 2023: Molinaro prevented the passage of bipartisan gun safety bills which closed loopholes in background checks.
- ✓ Molinaro voted for a resolution to overturn federal regulations on stabilizing braces, which have been used in multiple mass shootings.
- ✓ Molinaro tried to distance himself from the NRA and gun interest groups, despite taking thousands from them, attending their events, and receiving ‘A’ ratings from them.
- ✓ In the state assembly, Molinaro voted 32 times against bills that strengthened New York’s gun safety laws.
- ✓ Molinaro opposed the SAFE Act, a landmark gun safety bill in New York.
- ✓ Molinaro said Governor Cuomo had been too “aggressive” on gun control, and implied that Cuomo was “irresponsibly ignoring” second amendment supporters.
- ✓ Molinaro made statements opposing gun safety legislation, including saying he opposed an assault weapons ban.
- ✓ Molinaro wanted to put armed school resource officers in every school to “address safety and mental health concerns” while surveilling students.

Molinaro Had Ties To Trump And Failed To Stand Up To His Extremist Allies In Congress

- ✓ Molinaro supported Trump’s campaign, but repeatedly tried to distance himself from Trump.
- ✓ Molinaro had cozy relationships with Donald Trump’s family members.
- ✓ Molinaro repeatedly praised election denier Elise Stefanik.
- ✓ Molinaro was critical of investigations into Trump, calling for oversight of the FBI and the Department Of Justice.
- ✓ Molinaro supported extremist Jim Jordan and Mike Johnson for Speaker.
- ✓ The Dutchess County Sheriff, Butch Anderson – a friend, mentor, and advisor to Molinaro - was a friend and defender of Donald Trump, and a Co-Chair of Trump’s New York campaigns.

Molinaro Repeatedly Opposed Protections For Abortion And Voted For Restricting Access To Reproductive Health Care

Molinaro Supported Overriding New York State Law To Ban Abortion At 17 Weeks And Repeatedly Expressed Opposition To “Late-Term” Abortions

2022: Molinaro Said He Would Support A Federal Abortion Ban At 17 Weeks, 7 Weeks Earlier Than New York Law Allowed

August 2022: Molinaro Said He Would Support A Federal Abortion Ban At 17 Weeks. “According to an unearthed audio recording, Republican Rep. Marc Molinaro would support a federal abortion ban at 17 weeks of pregnancy. Former President Donald Trump proposed a similar prohibition earlier this year. [...] The recording captures an exchange Molinaro had with a voter at a town hall event in Endicott, New York in August 2022. The voter asked Molinaro about his stance on the Women’s Health Protection Act, a bill that would create federal abortion access rights for patients and providers. In response, Molinaro discussed his opposition to late-term abortion. The voter then prompted Molinaro to define what a late-term abortion is. ‘In my estimation, personally, it is after 17 weeks,’ Molinaro said. He goes on to note that he would support exceptions for rape and incest.” American Journal News, [3/19/24]

- Molinaro Said He Opposed Abortion After 17 Weeks, Adding That, “At Some Point There Ought To Be Some Limitation, Except In The Case Of Life Of The Mother, Rape, And Incest.” “The topic dominating the most time in the discussion was a back-and-forth on Molinaro’s views on abortion. Several attendees asked for Molinaro’s justification for opposing most abortions after 17 weeks. ‘I don’t want government in the specific decision making that women will have to make, I don’t,’ Molinaro said. ‘But I also want to be respectful of the fact, at some point there ought to be some limitation, except in the case of life of the mother, rape and incest.’” WSKG, [9/1/22]

October 2022: Molinaro Said He Was Pro-Life And Believed Abortion Access Should Be “Generally Speaking,” Through The First 17 Weeks Of Pregnancy. “On abortion, Molinaro has described himself as ‘pro-life,’ but said he believes abortion access should be ‘generally speaking,’ through the first 17 weeks of pregnancy. He said he would oppose a federal ban on abortion. He opposes calls to ban assault-style weapons and has called for increased federal funding for programs including crisis intervention, mental health, first aid, implicit bias and other training, to ensure that every officer in every police agency has body-worn cameras.” Daily Freeman, [10/27/22]

Molinaro Repeatedly Called For Limitations On Access To Late-Term Abortions

2022: Molinaro Said He Believed Late-Term Abortion Should Be Limited To Rape, Incest And The Life Of The Mother. MOLINARO: “The issue now returns to the states. I do not support a national ban. I don’t believe Congress can impose a national ban and I will not vote for one. I also believe late-term abortion should be limited to rape, incest and the life of the mother. No matter the choice they make they deserve to have a government that supports them. No matter the choice, they should have access to prenatal and neonatal care and that’s important for our society to provide.” Hudson Valley 360, [11/5/22]

2022: Molinaro Said There Should Be “Thoughtful Limitations” On Abortion Access. “Molinaro said the decision to have an abortion should be made by women, but called for ‘thoughtful limitations’ on when an abortion can take place. He criticized what he said was Ryan’s support for late-term abortions, which Molinaro said, need to be ‘scaled to the necessity only.’ ‘There is a difference between Pat and me,’ Molinaro said. ‘I believe there ought to be thoughtful limitations and he doesn’t.’” Daily Freeman, [8/6/22]

2022: Molinaro Said The Dobbs Decision Should Be Used To Discuss Late-Term Abortion, Which He Said He Believes Most People Think “Should Be Limited To A Degree.” “Ryan disagrees with the Supreme Court’s decision in Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization, which overturned Roe v. Wade and allowed states to regulate abortion as they wish. About half have moved to drastically limit or ban abortion. [...] Molinaro said he is personally pro-life, but argues that abortion access is likely to remain unchanged in New York, where it has been codified in state law. But Molinaro said this moment should be used to discuss late-term abortion, which he believes most people thought ‘should be limited to a degree.’” Times Union, [7/24/22]

2018: Molinaro Said He Accepted The Precedent Of Roe V. Wade, But Opposed Late-Term Abortions.

“Molinaro says his stance is somewhat like that of the late Gov. Mario Cuomo, Andrew Cuomo’s father. ‘I have a personal belief. I do not support late-term abortion,’ Molinaro said. ‘But I realize Roe v. Wade is settled law.’” Newsday, [7/1/18]

2018: Molinaro Said As Governor, He Would Enforce Abortion Rights Protected By Law But Would Not Expand Access To Late-Term Abortions. “The Dutchess County executive says he would, for example, enforce abortion rights protected by law, but would not expand access to late-term abortions. [...] On abortion, Molinaro says his stance is somewhat like that of the late Gov. Mario Cuomo, Andrew Cuomo’s father. ‘I have a personal belief ... I do not support late-term abortion,’ Molinaro said. But ‘I realize Roe v. Wade is settled law.’ Fashouer responded: ‘The state already allows doctors to decide what is medically best for women and their reproductive health. By saying he doesn’t support late term abortions he is saying he wants to roll back existing state law.’” Newsday, [7/1/18]

96% Of Abortions In The United States Occurred At Or Before 15 Weeks

96% Of Abortions In The United States Occurred At Or Before 15 Weeks Gestation. “Following recent news about former President Trump’s potential support for a national 16-week abortion ban, KFF examines the data about how often abortions later in pregnancy occur, exploring the potential reasons why, and detailing the various laws that regulate access to abortions later in pregnancy. The updated analysis considers 2021 CDC data, before the Dobbs decision, in a post-Dobbs policy landscape. The analysis shows that abortions at or after 21 weeks are uncommon and represent 1% of all abortions in the U.S. Ninety-six percent occurred at or before 15 weeks gestation, while 3% occurred from 16 to 20 weeks gestation.” KFF, [2/21/24]

Molinaro Played A Pivotal Role In Anti-Abortion Extremist Mike Johnson Becoming Speaker Of The House

Molinaro Gave A Speech In A Closed-Door Republican Meeting Calling For His Colleagues To Vote For Mike Johnson For Speaker. "But he found an ally from an unexpected corner. Rep. Marc Molinaro — a relatively unknown, moderate Republican freshman from upstate New York — played a pivotal role in ushering Johnson into the speakership. He gave an impassioned speech calling on his colleagues to immediately vote for Johnson in a closed-door meeting after Emmer bowed out of the running. 'I basically said, 'We cannot go back out to that hallway, and into our communities, and say that we denied a member [the] opportunity because he didn't line up with our purity tests.' That's inexcusable,' Molinaro recalled to me in November. Although Molinaro's speech, detailed first in The Washington Post, rankled some more experienced members, it helped provide momentum for Johnson's nascent candidacy. Days later, Molinaro was named to the committee that escorted Johnson into the House chamber to be sworn in as speaker." Politico, [2/18/24]

Politico: Molinaro "Played A Pivotal Role In Ushering Johnson Into The Speakership." Holding an immediate vote in conference for the person who came in second to Emmer was the only alternative, Molinaro said. Many conservatives rolled their eyes at Molinaro’s speech, but it helped pull other Republicans in swing districts along, and rallied weary members to break the impasse. [...] As members moved toward abbreviating the conference election process Tuesday in the interest of time, McCarthy consistently expressed objections to the suggested adjustments. July 2022: Johnson Voted Against Reinstating The Protections Offered By Roe V. Wade

Johnson Voted Against The Women’s Health Protection Act To Establish The Statutory Right For Patients To Receive And For Providers To Provide Abortions And To Prohibit Certain State Restrictions On Abortion. In July 2022 Johnson voted against: “Passage of the bill that would statutorily establish that health care providers have a right to provide and patients have a right to receive abortion services, and it would prohibit certain restrictions related to abortion services. The bill would specify that rights established by the bill may not be restricted by certain requirements or limitations related to abortion services, including prohibitions on abortion prior to fetal viability, or after fetal viability if a provider determines that continuation of a pregnancy would pose a risk to a patient’s life or health; requirements that patients disclose reasons for seeking an abortion or make medically unnecessary in-person appointments; requirements that providers provide medically inaccurate information or perform specific medical tests or procedures in connection with the provision of abortion services; limitations on providers’ ability to prescribe drugs based on good-faith medical judgment, provide services via telemedicine or provide immediate services when a delay would pose a risk to a patient’s health; and requirements for facilities and personnel that would not apply to facilities providing medically comparable procedures. It would also prohibit requirements or limitations that are similar to those established by the bill or that impede access to abortion services and expressly or implicitly single out abortion services, providers or facilities. It would specify factors that courts may consider to determine whether a requirement or limitation impedes access to abortion services, including whether it interferes with providers’ ability to provide services; poses a risk to patients’ health; is likely to delay or deter patients in accessing services or necessitate in-person visits that would not otherwise be required; is likely to result in a decreased availability of services in a state or region; is likely to result in increased costs of providing or obtaining services; or imposes penalties that are not imposed on other health care providers for comparable conduct. It would require a party defending a requirement or limitation to establish that it significantly advances the safety of abortion services or patient health and that such goals cannot be advanced by a less restrictive alternative measure. It would authorize the Justice Department, health care providers and private individuals and entities to bring a civil action in U.S. district court for injunctive relief against any state or government official charged with implementing or enforcing a requirement or limitation challenged as a violation of rights established by the bill. It would authorize district courts to award appropriate equitable relief, including temporary, preliminary or permanent injunctive relief, and to award costs of litigation to a prevailing plaintiff. It would require courts to ‘liberally construe’ provisions of the bill to effectuate its purposes. The bill is substantively identical to HR 3755, which the

It also prevents states from requiring patients to make medically unnecessary in-person visits before receiving abortion services or forcing women to disclose their reasons for obtaining abortions and related services. January 2023: Johnson Voted For Legislation That Would Punish Doctors For Providing Abortion Care To Patients

Johnson Voted For The Born Alive-Survivors Protection Act. In January 2023 Johnson voted for: "Passage of the bill that would require health care practitioners to provide the same care to a child that is 'born alive' after an abortion or attempted abortion as they would for a child born at the same gestational age and to ensure the child is immediately transported and admitted to a hospital; require hospital and clinic practitioners and employees to report any knowledge of failures to provide such care; and impose criminal fines and penalties for failures to meet these requirements. It would state that a child born alive under these conditions is a legal person under U.S. law, entitled to the protections of U.S. law, and it would specifically make any act that kills or attempts to kill such a child punishable as murder or attempted murder. The bill would also prohibit the prosecution of the mother of a child born alive after an abortion or attempted abortion and permit such mothers to seek relief through civil action against any person who violates the bill's requirements, including monetary and punitive damages." If the certification requirement is not met, the Department of Health and Human Services and the Department of Agriculture must recoup any federal assistance received by those entities. However, the bill's funding restriction does not apply to abortions performed in cases of rape or incest or when necessary to resolve a physical condition that endangers a woman's life. January 2023: Johnson Cosponsored A Bill Prohibiting The Use Of Federal Funds For Abortions Or Health Coverage That Includes Abortions. “This bill modifies provisions relating to federal funding for, and health insurance coverage of, abortions. Specifically, the bill prohibits the use of federal funds for abortions or for health coverage that includes abortions. Such restrictions extend to the use of funds in the budget of the District of Columbia. Additionally, abortions may not be provided in a federal health care facility or by a federal employee. Historically, language has been included in annual appropriations bills for the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) that prohibits the use of federal funds for abortions—such language is commonly referred to as the Hyde Amendment. Similar language is also frequently included in appropriations bills for other federal agencies and the District of Columbia. The bill makes these restrictions permanent and extends the restrictions to all federal funds (rather than specific agencies). The bill's restrictions regarding the use of federal funds do not apply in cases of rape, incest, or where a physical disorder, injury, or illness endangers a woman's life unless an abortion is performed. The Hyde Amendment provides the same exceptions. The bill also prohibits qualified health plans from including coverage for abortions. The majority conservative court indeed overturned Roe last week, sparking nationwide tumult among abortion-rights advocates and celebrations by their anti-abortion counterparts. The reversal returns the power to state legislatures to pass full bans on abortion. The ruling, which stood for nearly 50 years, had nullified broad bans on the procedure and established it as a constitutional right. The Bill Would Establish Criminal Penalties Of Up To Five Years In Prison For Doctors Who Did Not Follow Existing Federal Law To Provide Medical Care To Infants After Extremely Rare Failed Abortions

The Bill Would Establish Criminal Penalties For Doctors Who Did Not Follow Existing Federal Law Requiring Medical Care Be Given To Infants In The Very Unlikely Event Of A Failed Abortion. "Live births during an abortion procedure are exceedingly rare, experts said, and federal law already requires that a baby who survives an attempted abortion receive emergency medical care. The new bill would clarify the standard of care to which doctors are held and lay out penalties for violators. Policy organizations supporting abortion rights said the measure was an effort to discourage women from seeking abortions and doctors from performing them." New York Times, [1/11/23]

The Bill Could Deprive Parents Of Holding Their Infants In Medical Distress And Take Away Their Options For Medical Intervention

Huffington Post: The Bill Could Deprive Parents Of Holding Infants Who May Not Live Much Longer Or Limit Their Options For Medical Interventions. "This legislation could take away a pregnant person's power to decide what medical interventions they want to receive during an already-emotional time, possibly forcing physicians to prolong an infant's life for a short period of time before it dies. In certain cases, this could take away parents' opportunities to hold their infants." Huffington Post, [1/11/23]

The Bill Contained Misinformation And Increased Barriers To Abortion Care

Huffington Post Reported That The Bill Was "Chock-Full Of Misinformation And Creates More Barriers To Care." "The Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act, which passed 220-210 on Wednesday, would require physicians to provide life-sustaining care to infants born after an attempted abortion and threatens doctors with criminal penalties if they don't comply. [...] But similar to other anti-choice legislation, the bill is chock-full of misinformation and creates more barriers to care. Reproductive rights advocates and physicians critical of the bill argue that it's nearly impossible for infants to be born alive during abortions later in pregnancy. Bills like this are also redundant: Murder is already illegal in the U.S. If that's not enough, the rights of an infant or newborn are already protected by a 2002 law that codified that infants have the same rights as any other human." Susan B. Anthony List Supported Multiple Abortion Bans And Opposed Access To IUDs and Emergency Contraception

Pro-Life Legislation

Our pro-life heroes and heroines in Congress continue to offer thoughtful legislative remedies for protecting the sanctity of human life. From de-funding Planned Parenthood (America’s number one abortion provider) to reinforcing parental consent laws and offering support for student parents, a wide range of approaches is represented in the current Congress.

- The “Life At Conception Act” Would Effectively Ban Abortion With No Exceptions For Rape, Incest, Or If A Woman’s Health Was At Risk. “H.R. 616 would grant equal protection under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States for the right to life of each born and ‘preborn’ human person. ‘Human person’ is defined as: [...] each and every member of the species homo sapiens at all stages of life, including the moment of fertilization, cloning, or other moment at which an individual member of the human species comes into being. The bill would grant constitutional rights to fertilized eggs, embryos, fetuses, and clones. It would effectively ban abortion with no exception for rape, incest, or to save the life of the pregnant person. It would also ban birth control pills, IUDs, and emergency contraception. In addition, it would eliminate certain medical choices for women, including some cancer treatments and in vitro fertilization. The bill would not allow for prosecution of any pregnant person for the ‘death’ of their ‘unborn child.’” Rewire News Group, archived [6/15/22]

Susan B. Anthony List Supported 15-Week And 6-Week Abortion Bans And Worked To Gather Co-Sponsors For Both. “Several abortion bans have already been introduced in Congress. A six-week abortion ban has been introduced in the House, by Rep. Mike Kelly (R-Pa.), and the Life at Conception Act, which would recognize a fetus as a person with equal protections under the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, has been introduced in both chambers. Nineteen Republican senators and well over 100 Republicans in the House have co-sponsored the measure, signaling that many would like to see a total ban on abortion. [...] Susan B. Anthony List fully supports both a national six-week ban and a 15-week ban, said Dannenfelser, who has been working to gather co-sponsors for both pieces of legislation.” Washington Post, [5/2/22]

Susan B. Anthony List Opposed IUDs And Emergency Contraception, Which It Falsely Claimed Were Abortifacient. “Donald Trump first committed to nominating ‘pro-life’ justices to the Supreme Court in a September 2016 letter made public by anti-choice group Susan B. Anthony List, where he announced that he had appointed SBA List president Marjorie Dannenfelser to lead his Pro-Life Coalition. (SBA List had previously urged caucus and primary voters to support ‘anyone but Trump,’ but then he won the Republican nomination in July 2016.) Not only does SBA List oppose abortion in all circumstances, they also oppose the copper IUD and emergency contraception, aka the morning-after pill, because they falsely believe they cause abortions.” VICE, [6/29/18]

Choice Groups Including SBA List Succeed In Characterizing It Forms Of It As Abortifacient Under Abortion Bans. “In a post-Roe America, it is easy to see how the right to contraception could be gutted by recasting some forms of contraception as abortifacients. For the last 10 years, this has been a standard move among abortion opponents. The Susan B. Anthony List, a prominent anti-abortion group, has characterized emergency contraceptives as ‘abortion drugs.’ Likewise, Americans United for Life, which drafts model anti-abortion legislation, maintains that IUDs and Plan B ‘can kill an embryo by blocking its ability to implant in the uterus.’ Most recently, the Louisiana Legislature flirted with a bill that would classify abortion as a homicide, prompting concern that the legislation could have criminalized IUDs and emergency contraception. As red states line up to prohibit — and even criminalize — abortion, the crucial question will be, What counts as an abortion?” New York Times, Melissa Murray, professor of law at New York University, Op-Ed, [5/23/22]

Molinaro Repeatedly Referred To Mifepristone, An Abortion Medication, As Birth Control

July – November 2023: Molinaro Referred To Mifepristone Restrictions In An Appropriations Bill As Limits On Birth Control

July 2023: A Spending Bill To Fund Agriculture And The FDA Was Held Up Over Its Reversal Of A Rule Allowing Mifepristone To Be Sold In Retail Pharmacies And By Mail With A Prescription. “Plans to move an appropriations bill funding agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to the House floor were brought to a halt amid internal GOP division over whether to further slash spending and a provision related to abortion. [...] A main point of contention on the measure is a provision that would nullify a Biden administration rule allowing the abortion pill mifepristone to be sold in retail pharmacies and by mail with prescriptions from a certified health care provider. Moderate Republicans have been vocal in their opposition to the provision, warning that they will not support the bill unless it is stripped.” The Hill, [7/26/23]

July 2023: Molinaro Said Of The Proposed Mifepristone Restrictions, “The Prohibition On Over The Counter Birth Control Is Not Something That I Can Support.” “The conservatives’ request for spending cuts could prove easier to resolve than the moderates’ demand to strip the provision in the committee-approved version of the agriculture bill that would block certified pharmacies from mailing mifepristone. If GOP leaders remove that, some conservatives who pushed for its inclusion may rebel and vote against it. [...] Rep. Marc Molinaro, R-N.Y., has also said he would vote against the agriculture bill over the provision, which he considers an encroachment on states’ rights. ‘I have obviously concerns regarding some of the identified cuts, but I’ve made clear that the prohibition on over the counter birth control is not something that I can support,’ he said.” The Messenger, [7/26/23]

[MOLINARO:] Well, good point, although, I don’t want to be in that creek with or without a paddle. But that said, it’s a great question. As I mentioned, yes, I was very helpful in negotiating a process that moved. And I didn’t agree with some of the bills – in fact I voted against the ag bill because the cuts were too deep to farming and included a prohibition on access to birth control that I just think is not appropriate, so that bill didn’t pass.” [Rep. November 2023: Molinaro Said At A Tele Townhall That He Opposed The Agriculture Budget Bill Because

[MOLINARO:] Sure. Great question, I appreciate you asking and so, as I said, I do not and will not support diminishment of Medicare and Social Security. I have embraced a bipartisan, bicameral commission to address long-term sustainability of those trusts, we have time to develop policy to do that. As it relates to the rest of the spending, I would offer to you, you know, I believe in identifying inefficiencies and making reasonable cuts. Now, we did six or seven appropriations bills, and so you ask me sort of where do I draw the line. The first five included military spending, homeland security, foreign operations – there are spending cuts built within those bills. I was satisfied that those met the interest of reining in federal spending and being more responsible with your dollars. The agriculture bill cut too deep programs that farmers and farm work rely on, and included a policy that would have prohibited the distribution of over-the-counter birth control. Those are steps too far. I’m not going to support those, and in fact I led an effort to stall that bill. It was defeated.” [Rep. March – April 2023: Molinaro Said He Supported Contraception Access In Reference To A Texas’ Judge Ruling To Limit Mifepristone

April 2023: A Texas Judge Invalidated FDA Approval Of Mifepristone Before The Supreme Court Overruled The Decision

April 2023: A Texas Judge Invalidated FDA Approval Of Mifepristone. “A federal judge in Texas issued a preliminary ruling invalidating the Food and Drug Administration’s 23-year-old approval of the abortion pill mifepristone, an unprecedented order that — if it stands through court challenges — could make it harder for patients to get abortions in states where abortion is legal, not just in those trying to restrict it. The drug will continue to be available at least in the short-term since the judge, Matthew J. Lower courts had said that women seeking the drug should face more restrictions on getting it while the case continues, but the Supreme Court disagreed. Mifepristone Was An Abortion Medication, Not A Contraceptive

Mifepristone Was The First Of Two Medications Used In A Medication Abortion. “Mifepristone is the first of two medications used in a medication abortion (also known as the ‘abortion pill’). Mifepristone has been safe and legal in the United States since the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved the brand name Mifeprex nearly 20 years ago. In April 2019, the FDA approved the first generic form of mifepristone, following a review of the evidence that medication abortion is a safe, effective way to end an early pregnancy — with a safety record of over 99%.” Planned Parenthood, [2019]

Mifepristone Was Used To End A Pregnancy That Already Existed, While Emergency Contraception Helped Prevent Pregnancy. “Is mifepristone a morning-after pill? Nope — these are actually very different medicines. Abortion pills like mifepristone end a pregnancy that already exists. Morning-after pills like Plan B help stop you from getting pregnant in the first place. Morning-after pills — also called emergency contraception — are a type of birth control. They help delay ovulation, so sperm and egg can’t meet. You can take the morning-after pill up to 5 days after unprotected sex, before pregnancy has a chance to happen. But morning-after pills won’t cause an abortion if you’re already pregnant. Mifepristone helps cause an abortion — you use it when you’re pregnant. You can use abortion pills up to 11 weeks after the first day of your last period.” Planned Parenthood, [4/18/23]

2009: Molinaro Voted Against A Bill Prohibiting Incarcerated Pregnant Individuals From Being Shackled While Giving Birth

2009: Molinaro Voted Against S-1290, A Bill Prohibiting Pregnant Incarcerated Individuals From Being Shackled During Birth Or While Being Transported To The Hospital. On May 20, 2009, Molinaro voted “No” on S-1290, a bill that “Provides for the care and custody of pregnant female inmates before, during and after delivery; prohibits the use of restraints of any kind from being used during the transport of such female prisoner to a hospital for the purpose of giving birth, unless such prisoner is a substantial flight risk whereupon handcuffs may be used; prohibits the use of any restraints during labor; requires the presence of corrections personnel during such prisoner's transport to and from the hospital and during her stay at such hospital." The bill passed the Assembly 119 to 21 and was signed by the Governor. New York State Assembly, 2009 Term: S-1290, [5/20/09]

S-1290 Was Supported By Health Care Groups That Raised Concerns About Harmful Restraints To Women And Their Babies

S-1290 Was Supported By Health Care Groups That Raised Concerns About Harmful Restraints To Women And Their Babies. "Health care organizations called the restraints harmful to women and their babies. 'Physically restraining a pregnant prisoner poses undue stress on both her and her baby, is uncomfortable and possibly could interfere with proper assessment of the patient's condition,' the Medical Society of the State of New York wrote in a letter supporting the bill. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists called for an end to the practice before the legislation. By 2009, at least four other states had enacted prohibitions on restraining inmates during delivery." [Buffalo News, 10/21/18]

2018: Molinaro Denied Making The Vote And Said The Only Reason He Regretted His Vote On S-1290 Was Because He Had To Deal With Political Consequences

2018: Molinaro Denied That He Voted To Allow Pregnant Women To Be Shackled. "Mr. Molinaro denied that he had voted as a state legislator to allow some pregnant women to be shackled, then later said that he had done so because of safety considerations. 'The only reason I regret that vote is because you can spin it the way you wish.' While he said he would not vote the same way again, Molinaro said he was compelled by concerns raised by physicians and state corrections officers regarding women who would continue to act out violently against themselves and the baby. 'The way the bill was written, there was no discretion,' he said. 'It made a very black-and-white statement that could put women and children at risk.'" Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/3/18]

Molinaro Voted Against New Yorkers' Access To Affordable Health Care

Molinaro Voted Against Implementing The Affordable Care Act In New York By Creating The New York State Health Care Exchange

2011: Molinaro Voted Against A08514, The Bill To Establish The New York State Health Care Exchange

2011: Molinaro Voted Against A08514, The Bill To Establish The New York State Health Care Exchange. Molinaro voted "No" on A08514 "An act to amend the public authorities law and the public officers law, in relation to the establishment of the New York Health Benefit Exchange." The bill passed the Assembly 95 to 43 and died in the Senate. New York State Assembly, 2011 Term: A05814, [6/23/11]

The New York State Health Exchange Was Required In Order To Implement The Affordable Care Act, And Opposed By Republicans Who Did Not Approve Of The ACA

The Affordable Care Act Required States To Create An Insurance Exchange By 2014 Or Have The Federal Government Do So. "The health care law requires each state to put an insurance exchange in place by 2014, and gives the federal government the power to do so in states that do not act on their own. Mr. Cuomo, unable to win support for the exchange in the State Senate, vowed to move ahead unilaterally, and on Thursday, he signed the order to set up the exchange within the State Health Department, rather than as a separate state entity, as his original legislation had sought to do.” New York Times, [4/12/12]

New York Senate Republicans Blocked The Bill To Establish The Health Care Exchange Because Approval Of The Exchange Meant Approval Of The Affordable Care Act. “As he issued an executive order to establish a health insurance exchange, an online marketplace where individuals and small businesses can choose among competing health insurance plans, Mr. Cuomo said it would drive down the cost of insurance while helping the 2.7 million uninsured New Yorkers get affordable coverage. For nearly a year, Mr. Cuomo asked the Legislature to set up the exchange. But the Republican majority in the State Senate refused to consider the measure, arguing that approving the exchange would amount to condoning the law, the Affordable Care Act, which they deride as Obamacare.” New York Times, [4/12/12]

Molinaro Supported Parts Of The AHCA, The Republican Bill To Repeal And Replace The Affordable Care Act

Molinaro Supported The Faso-Collins Amendment To The AHCA, The Republican Bill To Replace The Affordable Care Act, Because He Claimed It Lowered Taxes. “Mr. Molinaro, a Republican in the Hudson Valley, said he was concerned about the impact of a potential repeal of the Affordable Care Act. Still, he supports the Faso-Collins component of the Republican bill, citing the financial strains on county taxpayers. ‘We have to make a commitment to lower the tax levy dollar for dollar,’ Mr. Molinaro said. ‘it wouldn’t be appropriate to not reduce property taxes.’” New York Times, [7/4/17]

- Molinaro Claimed 37 Percent Of Dutchess County’s Tax Levy Went To Paying For Medicaid. “In Dutchess County, 37 percent of the county tax levy, roughly $40 million, goes to the state for Medicaid. The county executive, Marcus J. Molinaro, said he wanted to use any savings from the Faso-Collins amendment to lower property taxes ‘dollar for dollar.’ Molinaro received food stamps as a child, and his daughter, who has autism, now benefits from Medicaid’s services for the disabled. So Molinaro, a Republican in the Hudson Valley, said he was concerned about the impact of a potential repeal of the Affordable Care Act. Still, he supports the Faso-Collins component of the Republican bill, citing the financial strains on county taxpayers. ‘We have to make a commitment to lower the tax levy dollar for dollar,’ Molinaro said. ‘It wouldn’t be appropriate to not reduce property taxes.’” New York Times, [7/4/17]

The Faso-Collins Amendment Would Have Shifted The Cost Of Medicaid Solely To New York State And Would Have Resulted In State Tax Increases, Major Cuts To Health Care, Or Both, Because Of The Loss Of $2.3 Billion In Federal Aid

The Faso-Collins Amendment Would Have Taken The Cost Of Medicaid Away From New York Counties And Placed It On New York State. “That is the so-called Faso-Collins amendment, which would end a funding formula that for 50 years forced New York’s 62 counties to help pay for Medicaid, the public health insurance program largely for low-income people. The state’s counties currently pick up 13 percent of the total cost of Medicaid, far more than counties in other states pay, if they pay anything at all. The amendment, sponsored by Representatives Christopher C. Collins and John J. Faso, both upstate Republicans, would eliminate the burden for the counties — excluding New York City’s five boroughs.” New York Times, [7/4/17]

New York Times: Faso-Collins “Could Shift Costs To State Taxpayers” And Cost NY $2.3 Billion In Matching Federal Aid. “House Republican leaders, trying to lock down the votes of wavering upstate New York Republicans, inserted a last-minute special provision in their health care bill that would shift Medicaid costs from New York’s counties to its state government. The move — one of a number of late changes designed to gain more votes — would affect New York State only. It could save county governments outside of New York City $2.3 billion a year. But it could shift costs to state taxpayers or deny New York that same total in matching federal aid if the state continues to require those counties to contribute to the cost of Medicaid. Upstate New York Republicans, backed by local government officials, pressed for the measure over the angry opposition of New York's Democratic governor, Andrew M. Cuomo." The New York Times, [3/20/17]

Healthcare Advocates Warned Faso-Collins Would Only Shift Costs From Counties To The State, Threatened Hospitals And Their Patients. "Kenneth E. Raske, the president of the Greater New York Hospital Association, said the provision would be harmful to hospitals and Medicaid beneficiaries. 'Rather than providing relief for county taxpayers,' Mr. Raske said, 'the state would surely respond to the lack of federal revenue through huge spending cuts,' and those cuts could pose a risk to hospitals and their patients. Bea Grause, the president of the Healthcare Association of New York State, said the provision being added to the House bill might give 'the appearance of tax relief,' but would really just amount to shifting costs from counties to the state, while still leaving patients in need of care. She, too, warned of a devastating effect on hospitals in New York. 'It adds insult to injury,' she said." The New York Times, [3/20/17]

Molinaro Conceded ACA Repeal Would Result In $2.3 Billion In Lost Revenue, But Claimed It Could Be Offset By Addressing Waste And Inefficiencies

Molinaro Claimed That The $2.3 Billion In Lost Revenue From Counties Could Be Offset By Addressing Waste And Inefficiencies. There Were No Efficiencies Left In Medicaid That Would Make Up For $2.3 Billion In Funding Cuts.

New York Began A "Monumental Medicaid Redesign" In 2011 That Is Expected To Save The State $17.1 Billion. "New York is midway through a monumental initiative begun in 2011 to redesign the costly Medicaid program, the largest purchaser of health services in the state for its 6.2 million beneficiaries [...] New York received a waiver in 2015 from the federal government that allows the state to keep $8 billion of $17.1 billion in savings the state expects to see over five years from Medicaid reform. The state plans to reinvest the money in projects that seek to reduce avoidable hospital use by 25 percent and that transition most hospital and doctor Medicaid payments from fee-for-service to a value system tied to performance goals." The Buffalo News, [5/10/17]

Medicaid Directors: "No Amount Of Administrative Or Regulatory Flexibility Can Compensate" For Republican Healthcare Bill's Medicaid Funding Cuts. "Medicaid Directors have long advocated for meaningful reform of the program. States continue to innovate with the tools they have, but federal changes are necessary to improve effectiveness and efficiency of the program. However, these changes must be made thoughtfully and deliberately to ensure the continued provision of quality, cost-effective care. Medicaid Directors have asked for, and are appreciative of, improved working relationships with HHS and are working hard to streamline and improve the administration of the program [...] However, no amount of administrative or regulatory flexibility can compensate for the federal spending reductions that would occur as a result of this bill. Changes in the federal responsibility for financing the program must be accompanied by clearly articulated statutory changes to Medicaid to enable states to operate effectively under a cap. The Senate bill does not accomplish that. It would be a transfer of risk, responsibility, and cost to the states of historic proportions." Medicaid Insurers: "There Are No Hidden Efficiencies That States Can Use To Address" Republican Healthcare Bill's Medicaid Cuts "Without Harming Beneficiaries." This week, the heads of 10 managed care organizations — which help deliver Medicaid benefits around the country — told Senate leaders they are 'united in our opposition to the Medicaid policies currently being debated by the Senate.' [...] The managed care executives called this 'an enormous cost shift to states' that will require them to raise taxes, cut benefits, narrow eligibility or lower reimbursements to health-care providers. 'There are no hidden efficiencies that states can use to address gaps of this magnitude without harming beneficiaries or imposing undue burden to our health care system and all U.S. taxpayers,' the executives wrote." NBC: The Inflation Reduction Act “Is Set To Lower The Cost Of Prescription Drugs.” “The Inflation Reduction Act, signed into law by President Joe Biden, is set to lower the cost of prescription drugs — including cancer medications, blood thinners and insulin — for millions of Americans, experts say. Exorbitant drug prices in the United States are a key reason many people in the U.S. are forced to skip or delay filling their needed prescriptions. A Kaiser Family Foundation poll published last month found that nearly 1 in 2 adults report difficulty affording their health care expenses, including their prescribed medications.” NBC, [8/16/22]

The Build Back Better Act Would Lower Prescription Drug Prices, Including By Allowing The Government To Negotiate Drug Prices For Certain Drugs

Kaiser Family Foundation: The Build Back Better Act Would Lower Prescription Drug Costs By Allowing The Government To Negotiate Drug Prices, Require Inflation Rebates To Limit Price Increases, Cap Out-Of-Pocket Spending For Medicare Part D Enrollees, And Limit Cost Sharing For Insulin. “On November 19, 2021, the House of Representatives passed H.R. 5376, the Build Back Better Act (BBBA), which includes a broad package of health, social, and environmental proposals supported by President Biden. The BBBA includes several provisions that would lower prescription drug costs for people with Medicare and private insurance and reduce drug spending by the federal government and private payers. These proposals have taken shape amidst strong bipartisan, public support for the government to address high and rising drug prices. CBO estimates that the drug pricing provisions in the BBBA would reduce the federal deficit by $297 billion over 10 years (2022-2031). The key prescription drug proposals included in the BBBA would: Allow the federal government to negotiate prices for some high-cost drugs covered under Medicare Part B and Part D, Require inflation rebates to limit annual increases in drug prices in Medicare and private insurance, Cap out-of-pocket spending for Medicare Part D enrollees and other Part D benefit design changes, Limit cost sharing for insulin for people with Medicare and private insurance, Eliminate cost sharing for adult vaccines covered under Part D, Repeal the Trump Administration’s drug rebate rule.” Kaiser Family Foundation, [11/23/21]

2023: Molinaro Voted For Banning Transgender Women And Girls From Competing On Women's Athletic Teams That Receive Federal Funds. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would effectively ban transgender women and girls from competing on women's athletic teams that receive federal funds. It would specifically amend existing prohibitions on sex discrimination in federally funded (Title IX) educational programs to also prohibit such programs from allowing persons 'whose sex is male' to participate in athletic programs designed for girls or women. It would specify that, for the purposes of the bill, a sex is 'based solely on a person’s reproductive biology and genetics at birth.' The bill would allow Title IX programs to permit males to train or practice with an athletic program designed for girls or women as long as no female is deprived of

White House: Under Republicans’ Proposed 30 Percent Cuts, 290,000 Children Would Lose Access To Head Start Slots. “With one day before the end of the fiscal year, instead of following the bipartisan lead of the Senate to keep the government open, 90% of House Republicans just voted for a partisan bill to eviscerate programs millions of hardworking families count on—with a devastating 30% cut to law enforcement, Meals on Wheels, Head Start, and more. They are breaking their word, abandoning the bipartisan deal that two-thirds of them voted for just four months ago, and marching our country toward an Extreme Republican Shutdown that will damage our economy, our communities, and national security. Molinaro Voted To Eliminate At Least 170,000 Head Start Slots – In Addition To 100,000 Slots In Other Childcare Programs – In Republicans’ Failed Debt Limit Deal

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For Republicans’ Failed Debt Limit Deal, Which Included 22 Percent Across-The-Board Federal Spending Cuts

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021 coronavirus relief

reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all “major” federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change.” The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. - New York Times: The Republican Debt Limit Bill Did Not Include Many Specifics On What Government Spending Would Be Cut. “Their bill, which would raise the country’s borrowing limit for a year in exchange for a decade of spending reductions, does not include many specifics. It achieves most of its savings with spending caps for discretionary spending — the part of the budget allocated annually by Congress that is not automatic like Social Security payments — but it doesn’t say what discretionary programs should be cut and which ones should be spared.” New York Times, [5/8/23]
- The House Republican Debt Limit Plan Was Expected To Force 22% In Cuts Across The Federal Government. “The legislation Congressional Republicans introduced sets overall appropriations for Fiscal Year 2024 at the same level as FY 2022. At this level, all appropriated funding—including both defense and domestic programs—would be cut deeply. However, Congressional Republicans have indicated that they are not willing to cut defense funding at all, which means that everything else in annual appropriations—from cancer research, to education, to veterans’ health care—would be cut by much more. The math is simple, but unforgiving. At their proposed topline funding level—and with defense funding left untouched as Republicans have proposed—everything else is forced to suffer enormous cuts. In fact, their bill would force a cut of 22 percent—cuts that would grow deeper and deeper with each year of their plan.” The White House, [4/20/23]

"Another national topic the candidates were asked about was how they would have voted for the recently passed Inflation Reduction Act. Molinaro said he would have voted 'no' on the bill, because 'it will not result in inflation reduction.' He didn't think the government should spend so much money, hire 87,000 Internal Revenue Service agents, and didn't agree with the corporate tax as it would 'trickle down' to the consumer. 'It misses the boat,' he said. He said when he became county executive, 'We cut the size of the government.' Molinaro Admitted The Inflation Reduction Act’s Clean Energy Incentives Would Create Hudson Valley Jobs – Then Downplayed His Vote To Repeal Those Incentives

September 2022: Zinc8 Announced Its Plans To Develop A Battery Factory In Kingston, NY Thanks To Incentives In The Inflation Reduction Act IRA

Politico: Zinc8 Is Planning To Develop A Factory To Produce Batteries For EVs And Electric Grids In Kingston, NY Thanks To Inflation Reduction Act [IRA] Clean Energy Tax Incentives. “President Joe Biden’s year-old climate law triggered a deluge of clean energy spending in almost every state — and it’s splitting conservatives across rural America. Some communities are welcoming their slice of the $370 billion pot of federal tax incentives meant to accelerate the development of renewable energy and the deployment of electric vehicles as a way to bring back jobs. [...] NEW YORK: Kingston The Hudson Valley has been waiting for an industrial reboot for almost 30 years. And now that Biden’s climate law is offering some flicker of hope, some Republicans are lining up to claim some bit of credit. With the lucrative IRA incentives on offer, Canadian company Zinc8 Energy Solutions is planning to use a former IBM computer factory to make batteries for EVs and ones that can bolster electric grids, although it hasn’t finalized the site yet.” Politico, [8/13/23]

September 2022: Zinc8 Announced It Planned To Develop A Factory In Ulster County, Citing Incentives In The IRA. “Zinc8 Energy Solutions Inc. announced that the company’s inaugural commercial production facility will be based in Ulster County in New York. Every eligible battery cell will receive a $35 credit, scaling with the capacity of the battery, with incentives to last at their initial level until 2029, before phasing down from 2030 to a phase out stage beginning in 2032. There is also $10 billion support available for construction of clean energy tech factories, or for retrofitting existing factories with tools and production lines to make clean energy equipment and components. President Biden’s Bipartisan Infrastructure Law includes $6 billion incentives to support R&D and production of batteries in the United States, which bolsters the domestic supply chain.” PV Magazine, [9/2/22]

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Limit, Save, Grow Act, Which Would Have Repealed The Tax Credit That Attracted Zinc8 To The Hudson Valley And Jeopardized Thousands More Jobs

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Default On America Act [DOA] – Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021 coronavirus relief reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all "major" federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change." The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. H.R. 2811, [Vote #199, 4/26/23; CQ, 4/26/23]

The Limit, Save, Grow Act Would Have Repealed The IRA's Advanced Manufacturing Tax Credit, In Addition To Other Clean Energy Initiatives. "The House Republican bill, called the Limit, Save, Grow Act of 2023, would return federal government discretionary spending to FY-22 levels and limit future increases, dealing sharp cuts to agency budgets. [...] At odds with the Democrats' clean energy agenda, the bill would repeal or shorten a wave of IRA clean energy and manufacturing incentives backed by Democrats and US President Joe Biden. The House bill would cancel a stand-alone energy storage investment tax credit and a production tax credit for existing nuclear plants, as well as technology-neutral clean electricity credits that are slated to take effect in 2025. A clean hydrogen production credit and advanced manufacturing credits for certain renewable energy components also would be eliminated.” S&P Global, [4/28/23]

- Specifically, The Limit, Save, Grow Act Would Have Repealed Section 48C, Which Granted An Advanced Manufacturing Tax Credit To Battery Manufacturers. “But key provisions of the IRA designed to cut greenhouse gases were repealed in the House Republican bill to extend the debt ceiling—HR 2811, the Limit, Save, Grow Act of 2023. Republicans passed the bill along party lines 217-215 in late April, with five GOP members voting ‘present.’ [...] Critical to the EV auto industry, HR 2811 would strip out advanced manufacturing tax credits of the IRA. These credits are split into two categories: •Section 48C, which gives battery manufacturers tax credits for certain wages paid and apprenticeships created to ‘produce or recycle certain energy properties.’ •Section 45X, which ‘pertains to advanced manufacturing production and sale of certain energy components... such as solar, wind, qualifying batteries, and some 50 critical minerals,’ according to The Wall Street Journal.” Autoweek, [5/25/23]

The Limit, Save, Grow Act’s Repeal Of IRA Climate Provisions Would Have Jeopardized More Than 100,000 Clean Energy Jobs In The U.S. “House Speaker Kevin McCarthy’s debt ceiling plan to cut $4.5 trillion in spending would jeopardize more than 100,000 green manufacturing jobs – many in Republican congressional districts – announced as a result of incentives in President Joe Biden’s landmark climate law, the White House said Thursday.” USA Today, [4/20/23]

Marc Molinaro, who represents the county, acknowledged the federal program is an ‘exceptionally important tool’ in helping draw Zinc8 — despite his joining most Republicans in voting for legislation that would’ve repealed many of the climate law’s clean energy incentives.” Politico, [8/13/23]

August 2022: Molinaro Said He Would Have Voted Against The Inflation Reduction Act. “Another national topic the candidates were asked about was how they would have voted for the recently passed Inflation Reduction Act. Molinaro said he would have voted ‘no’ on the bill, because ‘it will not result in inflation reduction.’ He didn’t think the government should spend so much money, hire 87,000 Internal Revenue Service agents, and didn’t agree with the corporate tax as it would ‘trickle down’ to the consumer. ‘It misses the boat,’ he said. He said when he became county executive, ‘We cut the size of the government.’ He said property taxes have gone down $5.2 million since he took office and the county eliminated the sales tax on clothing. ‘We have a more effective government and

September 2023: Molinaro Voted For House Republicans' Failed CR, Which Would Have Cut All Federal Programs With Some Exceptions By 30 Percent, And Praised The Cuts

9/29/23: Molinaro Voted For Passing The Republican-Backed Continuing Resolution. In September 2023, Molinaro voted for “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide funding for federal government operations and services through Oct. 31, 2023, with a 29.9 percent cut from fiscal 2023 levels for most programs. It would fund veterans’ programs, the Department of Homeland Security, national security programs and disaster assistance at full fiscal 2023 levels. It would also implement nearly all provisions of House Republicans’ border security and immigration bill (HR 2), which the House passed in May 2023. It would provide an increase in funding for the Defense Department at rates set forth in House Republicans’ fiscal 2024 defense appropriations bill (HR 4365), which would provide for a 3.6 percent funding increase over fiscal 2023. It would also provide funding increases for the Agriculture Department and provide an additional $220 million above fiscal 2023 levels for Energy Department nuclear programs. Among its border security and immigration provisions, it would require DHS, within seven days of enactment, to resume all activities related to “border wall” construction on the U.S.-Mexico border that were underway or planned prior to Jan. 20, 2021; require DHS to reopen or restore, no later than Sept. 30, 2023, the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021; and require DHS to return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin, regardless of whether they are from a contiguous country to the U.S. In addition to provisions of HR 2, it would place limitations on the use of DHS funding provided by the bill, including prohibitions on removing existing U.S.-Mexico border barriers, transporting inadmissible adults into the U.S., and the use of Customs and Border Protection’s “CBP One” app to facilitate the parole of an individual into the U.S. It also would prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to initiate or resume any project or activity not funded during fiscal 2023 and would establish a congressional fiscal commission tasked with identifying policies to “improve the fiscal situation.” The bill was rejected by a vote of 198-232. It would provide an increase in funding for the Defense Department at rates set forth in House Republicans' fiscal 2024 defense appropriations bill (HR 4365), which would provide for a 3.6 percent funding increase over fiscal 2023. It would also provide funding increases for the Agriculture Department and provide an additional $220 million above fiscal 2023 levels for Energy Department nuclear programs. Among its border security and immigration provisions, it would require DHS, within seven days of enactment, to resume all activities related to "border wall" construction on the U.S.-Mexico border that were underway or planned prior to Jan. 20, 2021; require DHS to reopen or restore, no later than Sept. 30, 2023, the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021; and require DHS to return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin, regardless of whether they are from a contiguous country to the U.S. In addition to provisions of HR 2, it would place limitations on the use of DHS funding provided by the bill, including prohibitions on removing existing U.S.-Mexico border barriers, transporting inadmissible adults into the U.S., and the use of Customs and Border Protection's "CBP One" app to facilitate the parole of an individual into the U.S. It also would prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to initiate or resume any project or activity not funded during fiscal 2023 and would establish a congressional fiscal commission tasked with identifying policies to "improve the fiscal situation." Molinaro Voted For The Default On America Act, Which Cut Funding For Public Safety And Border Security By Billions

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Default On America Act

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Default On America Act [DOA] – Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021

coronavirus relief reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all “major” federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change.” The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. The Default On America Act Cut $17 Billion In Funding For Public Safety. “The GOP Default on America Act’s 22% spending cut would slash nearly $17 billion in funding for federal law enforcement, courts, and prisons that support public safety. Republicans are gambling with Americans’ safety by threatening to not raise the debt limit. After attacking Democrats for ‘defunding the police,’ this bill cuts the Department of Justice’s budget by over $8 billion and threatens nearly 30,000 law enforcement jobs. The DOA Act cuts nearly $1 billion in grants for state, local, and tribal law enforcement. The bill cuts $1 billion in FBI funding that the agency uses to conduct background checks, solve violent crimes, and combat terrorism. This includes $150 million in cuts to programs created by the Violence Against Women Act, which will especially harm women in Native communities. It eliminates $564 million in funding for the Drug Enforcement Administration, and $384 million more from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives.” Joint Economic Committee, Press Release, [4/26/23]

In recent weeks, Trump has been lobbying Republicans both in private conversations and in public statements on social media to oppose the border compromise being delicately hashed out in the Senate, according to GOP sources familiar with the conversations – in part because he wants to campaign on the issue this November and doesn’t want President Joe Biden to score a victory in an area where he is politically vulnerable.” CNN, [1/25/24]

However, Congressional Republicans have indicated that they are not willing to cut defense funding at all, which means that everything else in annual appropriations—from cancer research, to education, to veterans’ health care—would be cut by much more. The math is simple, but unforgiving. At their proposed topline funding level—and with defense funding left untouched as Republicans have proposed—everything else is forced to suffer enormous cuts. Molinaro Voted For H.R. 2, An Extremist Immigration Measure Which Would Severely Limit Pathways To Asylum, Roll Back Effective Methods Of Decreasing Illegal Immigration, And Keep Border Agents From Doing Their Jobs

May 2023: Molinaro Voted For H.R. 2, The Secure The Border Act, Which Would Resume Construction Of A Southern Border Wall And Limit Legal Immigration

May 2023: Molinaro Voted For H.R. 2, The “Secure The Border Act,” A Bill Requiring Homeland Security To Take Actions To Limit Illegal Immigration And Resuming Construction Of The "Border Wall" At The Southwestern Border. In May 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would require the Homeland Security Department to take a number of actions to limit illegal immigration into the United States, including by resuming construction of the ‘border wall’ along the southwestern border, bolstering Customs and Border Protection, reopening border detention facilities, limiting asylum applications and eligibility, and establishing a mandatory employment verification system. To enhance physical border security, the bill would require DHS to resume all previously planned border wall construction on the U.S.-Mexico border. It would require DHS to design, install and operate at least 900 total miles of physical barriers and other infrastructure and technology along the border, until the department achieves ‘operational control’ of the border, defined under current law as the prevention of all unlawful entries into the country. To bolster operations and capacity of Customs and Border Protection, the bill would require CBP to maintain at least 22,000 full-time agents by Sept. 30, 2025, and authorize up to $100 million for agent retention bonuses. It would authorize $110 million annually through fiscal 2028 for new DHS grants to law enforcement agencies in border states to assist with CBP operations. It would authorize funding for CBP to upgrade license plate readers and install cameras, microphones, and surveillance and intrusion detection systems at the northern and southern borders. It would require CBP to issue and regularly update a strategic plan to enhance U.S. border security, including to address security gaps between ports of entry, staffing requirements and information sharing. It would require DHS to ensure that the CBP Air and Marine Operations carries out at least 110,000 flight hours annually and operates unmanned aircraft systems over the southern border 24 hours per day. As amended, the bill would require Congress to commission a report that contains a national strategy to address Mexican drug cartels, including a determination of whether there should be a designation established to address such cartels. Among provisions limiting eligibility for asylum within the United States, the bill would specify that noncitizens are eligible for asylum only if they arrived at an official U.S. port of entry. It would tighten standards for determining whether an individual has a ‘credible fear of persecution’ and is persecuted as part of a ‘social group’ or based on a ‘political opinion.’ It would expand reasons disqualifying individuals from asylum eligibility, including convictions for certain offenses such as using a false ID, domestic violence, child abuse, certain drug possession or trafficking, and repeated or serious driving while intoxicated; traveling through but not seeking asylum in at least one other country party to certain refugee protection treaties; and ability to avoid persecution by relocating to another part of their home country. It would require DHS to return asylum seekers who cannot be detained to a safe third country during their immigration proceedings. Among other immigration enforcement provisions, the bill would require DHS to reopen or restore the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021. It would require DHS to detain parents and their children together and return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin. It would limit ‘parole’ authority allowing noncitizens to temporarily live and work in the U.S. allowing DHS to grant parole only on a case-by-case individual basis. The bill would require DHS to create a system based on the E-Verify pilot program to verify whether prospective employees are eligible to work in the U.S. and gradually require all employers to begin using the new system over 24 months, with 36-month deadline for agricultural sector employers.” The bill passed by a vote of 219-213. The GOP is aiming to pass the bill May 11 — the same day President Biden is set to lift Title 42. The Bill Would Require Asylum-Seekers To Apply For Asylum In Any Other Country They Pass Through En Route To The U.S., Allowing Only Those Who Faced Denials To Apply To The U.S. “The bill requires those seeking asylum to first apply at any other country they pass through, allowing only those who receive denials to try the U.S. That language largely bars anyone who cannot directly come to a U.S. port of entry, essentially limiting asylum to Mexicans, Canadians, and those who already have hard-to-secure tourism visas who can hop a direct flight to the U.S.” The Hill, [5/10/23]

And he gets on a flight and it stops in an airport in another country before getting here,’ he said. ‘Well, he is not eligible for asylum after this bill because he didn’t apply for asylum in the country in which he stopped on the layover.’” The Hill, [5/10/23]

- The Bill Would Require Those Who Do Apply For Asylum In The U.S. To Pass An Initial Screening Proving They Would Likely Earn It And Place Additional Barriers On Those Who Do Not Pass. “Even the bar for the initial screening ahead of seeking asylum has been raised — would-be applicants must show they are more likely than not to be granted the status, rather than a ‘significant possibility’ they could qualify — meaning fewer applicants would get a chance to make their case. Many may not even make it to the initial screening, as citizens from a number of countries are effectively blocked from seeking asylum. [...] Those who do manage to make it to a port of entry and who do pass the initial screening would be met with another round of limitations placed on existing asylum protections.” The Hill, [5/10/23]

The Bill Would Limit Justifications For Asylum To Those Fleeing As A Targeted “Social Group” And Political Persecution Based On Challenges To A State’s Leadership. “The bill narrows protections for those fleeing from political persecution as well as those who are targeted as members of a ‘social group,’ a category that can be used for those persecuted due to their sexuality. The legislation would grant asylum only to those whose political activity is a challenge to current state leadership rather than a cause in general, meaning that women in Saudi Arabia pushing for the expansion of women’s rights but uninterested in overthrowing the monarchy would not qualify.” The Hill, [5/10/23]

The Bill Would Deny Asylum To Those Seeking Refuge From Unfair Laws That Are “Infrequently Enforced” – Leaving Ambiguity For Laws Enforced Rarely Or Selectively Against Minorities. “It also would deem someone eligible for asylum if they violate laws that are ‘unenforced or infrequently enforced’ unless they can demonstrate that they could be personally impacted by it. Reichlin-Melnick said while that language appears to guard against an applicant seeking to use an obscure law to gain asylum protections, it’s written so broadly it could present hurdles for a number of groups. ‘What does it mean for a law to be frequently enforced? Well, what if you are a small ethnic minority? How can a law be frequently enforced against your group if there’s only a handful?’ he asked. He also pointed to a recently passed law in Uganda that makes homosexuality illegal and calls for the death penalty in some cases. Under the bill, a Ugandan national would need to show ‘credible evidence that such a law or policy has been or would be applied to the applicant personally.’” The Hill, [5/10/23]

H.R. 2 Would Roll Back Effective Methods Of Decreasing Illegal Immigration, Including Parole Programs And Using An App To Schedule Appointments For Asylum Seekers

H.R. 2 Would Prohibit The Department Of Homeland Security From Using “Eligibility Criteria Describing An Entire Class Of Potential Parole Recipients” Of Entry Into The U.S. “The House bill (Title VII) would severely limit an administration’s ability to use parole to allow into the United States individuals in need of humanitarian protection. The language in the House bill prohibits the Secretary of Homeland Security from using ‘eligibility criteria describing an entire class of potential parole recipients.’” Forbes, [5/10/23]

Parole In Immigration Law Was Distinct From Parole In Criminal Justice – It Allowed Noncitizens To Be Granted U.S Entry Without Existing Legal Basis, Including Due To Humanitarian Crises. “Under U.S. immigration law, the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has discretion to grant ‘parole’ to certain noncitizens to allow them to enter or temporarily remain in the United States for specific reasons. Parole under immigration law is very different than in the criminal justice context. This fact sheet explains the nature of parole, how parole requests are considered, who may qualify, and what parole programs currently exist. What is Parole? The Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) authorizes the Secretary of Homeland Security to exercise discretion to temporarily allow certain noncitizens to physically enter or remain in the United States if they are applying for admission but do not have a legal basis for being admitted. DHS may only grant parole if the agency determines that there are urgent humanitarian or significant public benefit reasons for a person to be in the United States and that person merits a favorable exercise of discretion. Grants of parole are made for limited periods of time, often to accomplish a discrete purpose, and individuals are typically expected to depart the United States when the authorized period expires unless another form of status or relief is conferred.” American Immigration Council, [1/10/23]

Parole Programs For Cuba, Venezuela, Haiti, And Nicaragua Reduced Illegal Immigration By Allowing Immigrants To Enter The U.S. With An American Sponsor Rather Than Crossing The Border Illegally.

Parole programs for Cuba, Venezuela, Haiti and Nicaragua were the primary target of House Republicans in restricting the use of parole. However, Border Patrol data show these parole programs have been effective in reducing illegal entry. ‘In January 2023, as a way to provide legal pathways, the Biden administration announced parole programs for up to 30,000 individuals a month from Cuba, Haiti, Nicaragua and Venezuela to enter the United States with a U.S. sponsor,’ noted a recent NFAP report. ‘The parole programs produced dramatic results and almost unprecedented effectiveness in reducing illegal entry as measured by encounters with Border Patrol agents.’” Forbes, [5/10/23]

- The Number Of Border Patrol Encounters At The Southwest Border Decreased By 95 Percent For Immigrants Of Countries In The Parole Programs. “The number of Border Patrol encounters at the Southwest border declined by 95% for Cuba, Haiti, Nicaragua and Venezuela as a group between December 2022 and March 2023. Border Patrol encounters for all other countries not in the parole programs increased by 15% during this period. The parole policies represented a humane alternative to forcing individuals to seek protection by entering through dangerous routes between ports of entry because legal access to the United States is blocked.” Forbes, [5/10/23]
- Ending Parole Programs Would Also Prevent War Victims, Including Ukrainians Under The Uniting For Ukraine Program, To Receive Parole In The Future. “Under Uniting for Ukraine, Americans have sponsored more than 200,000 Ukrainians who have fled Russia’s invasion, primarily Ukrainian women and children. The Biden administration also paroled thousands of Afghans into the United States after the fall of Kabul. The new restrictions in the House bill would prevent a repeat of such efforts, even though hundreds of thousands of Americans are eager to help people in unfortunate circumstances. A House source confirmed the bill would cut off future parole programs for war victims. Current parolees would be forced to leave the United States after their parole expires. They would only be allowed to renew once for a year (Section 701). Ukrainians (and other parolees) could only stay if they were approved for a different immigration status. It would be challenging for many Ukrainians to obtain asylum under current law, and the House bill makes it more difficult for anyone to be approved for asylum.” Forbes, [5/10/23]

The Bill Would Also End The Use Of A CBP App For Asylum Seekers To Schedule Appointments, Forcing Them To Instead Present Themselves At The Border Or Point Of Entry, Increasing Unlawful Entry. The bill (Section 122) would also end using the CBP One app for asylum applicants to schedule an appointment at a port of entry. The alternative to applying for asylum at a port of entry is for individuals to cross the border and present themselves. Banning the use of the app, as the bill does, would almost certainly increase unlawful entry, as would ending the parole programs.” Forbes, [5/10/23]

H.R. 2 Would Prevent Border Officers From Performing Basic Tasks

The Bill Barred Border Agents From “Processing” Migrants, Preventing Officers From Doing Basic Tasks. “H.R. 2 — originally designed to be one of the first major pieces of legislation passed under the new Republican majority — was approved with a 219-213 vote, a day after wrangling over relatively minor sections of the bill briefly delayed its advancement. Beyond building the wall, the legislation greatly increases the hiring of border agents and seeks to bar them from doing any 'processing' of migrants, language Democrats said would prevent officers from doing basic tasks." The Hill, [5/11/23]

H.R. 2 Would Allow Children To Be Detained For Longer Periods Of Time And Require More Unaccompanied Children To Be Returned To Their Countries Of Origin

H.R. 2 Would End The Existing Presumption Against Detaining A Child Accompanied By Family, Making It Easier For Families With Minor Children To Be Held In Detention Indefinitely. "The bill would roll back safeguards for migrant children The Flores Settlement Agreement is the current standard that governs the conditions under which children can legally be held in U.S. immigration detention. This bill would undermine some of the agreement's most fundamental stipulations, including restrictions on how long kids can be detained, while also limiting access to an existing legal pathway for migrant children. In particular, the bill would: Explicitly end the existing presumption against detaining a noncitizen child accompanied by family, making it easier for families with minor children to be held in detention indefinitely." National Immigration Forum, [5/8/23]

H.R. 2 Would Extend The Timeline For Unaccompanied Children To Be Transported To HHS Custody From 72 Hours To 30 Days, Allowing Them To Be Detained For Significantly Longer. "The bill would roll back safeguards for migrant children The Flores Settlement Agreement is the current standard that governs the conditions under which children can legally be held in U.S. immigration detention. This bill would undermine some of the agreement's most fundamental stipulations, including restrictions on how long kids can be detained, while also limiting access to an existing legal pathway for migrant children. In particular, the bill would: [...] Extend the timeline to transfer unaccompanied migrant children to the custody of the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) from 72 hours to 30 days for those with humanitarian claims, and make the transfer of other unaccompanied migrant kids to HHS discretionary, significantly extending the time that migrant children could be held in border facilities that are not equipped to care for minors." This bill would undermine some of the agreement's most fundamental stipulations, including restrictions on how long kids can be detained, while also limiting access to an existing legal pathway for migrant children. In particular, the bill would: [...] Amend the bipartisan William Wilberforce Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act of 2008 to require the return of all unaccompanied migrant children — not just those from Mexico and Canada — to their countries of origin if they are not trafficking victims and do not express a fear of return." National Immigration Forum, [5/8/23]

- Leader Jeffries Called The Bill The "Child Deportation Act." "Congressional Democrats sharply criticized the bill when House Republicans announced it at the end of April, saying it would go beyond the scope of border security and punish all noncitizens, including legal residents, trafficking victims and refugees. Reached for comment before Thursday's vote, the office of House Minority Leader Hakeem Jeffries, D-N.Y., pointed to his comments at a news conference Wednesday, when he called the bill the 'Child Deportation Act' and characterized it as 'one of the extreme MAGA Republicans' top priorities." H.R. 2 Would Not Increase The Number Of Immigration Judges To Address A Backlog Of Cases

H.R. 2 Would Not Increase Numbers Of Asylum Officers Or Immigration Judges. "While some elements of the proposed legislation might prove effective and helpful, like additional investments in personnel and technology at ports of entry, the bill's enforcement-only focus and failure to address lawful pathways is deeply flawed. The bill's overarching focus on physical barriers and deterrence measures — but not increased numbers of asylum officers or immigration judges — presents a vision of the U.S.'s southern border where people fleeing violence and persecution would be quickly removed, without meaningful access to protection." National Immigration Forum, [5/8/23]

A Shortage Of Immigration Judges Leaves Migrants In Legal Limbo And Has Created A Backlog Of More Than Two Million Cases. “President Biden’s attempt to deal efficiently with a new surge of migration following the end of Title 42 pandemic restrictions has focused new attention on a severe shortage of judges, the result of longstanding neglect that has overwhelmed the immigration court system with a backlog of more than two million cases. The court system is riddled with yearslong delays and low morale as a work force of about 650 judges struggles to keep up with the volume of immigration cases, leaving undocumented immigrants who have long waited in the United States in limbo.” New York Times, [5/12/23]

New York City Faced A Shortage Of Immigration Judges. “While an abrupt shift in the federal administration’s immigration policy has slowed down the daily arrival of migrants, more than 21,000 people are already in New York City and many hope to gain legal status through the asylum process. They will join a line that already includes about 180,000 pending cases in New York State immigration courts, which are handled by 88 judges. [...] Mr. Marku said he’s never seen the city’s immigration courts as busy in his 27-year career as an immigration attorney. ‘They don’t have enough judges, they don’t have enough government attorneys, they don’t have the support staff to get it done,’ he said.” New York Times, [11/3/22]

Failing To Issue Migrants Work Permits Would Foster Unsafe Working Conditions, Bolster Crime, And Further Tax New York

Union Leaders: Failing To Issue Migrants Work Permits Would Empower “Unscrupulous” Employers With No Regard For Their Safety Or Wages. “Barring asylum seekers from legally working won’t stop them from needing jobs, it will push them to take ones with no worker protections. A migrant without a work permit will have no problem finding a job with an unscrupulous employer with no regard for their safety or right to a fair wage. In fact, that story is all too common in our state. The Center for Popular Democracy has estimated that wage theft in New York State may impact 2.1 million workers, exceeding $3 billion annually.” AMNY, Joe Geiger (President, NYC Carpenters); Mike Prohaska (President, Laborers Local 79); Joe Azzopardi (President, DC9 Painters union); Jim Mahoney (President, NYC Iron Workers); and Francisco Moya (NYC Council Member representing Queens) Op-Ed, [8/30/23]

But despite the flexing of the business muscle, it’s unclear what, if any, response even they will get. The Biden administration on Monday responded to the city’s and state’s desperate pleas for help by telling the local governments what they supposedly did wrong — while vaguely promising ‘recommendations ... as soon as possible.’ The Big Apple’s top-tier bosses said their calls for help echoed demands made by Gov. Hochul last week when she insisted the feds offer up additional cash to offset the outrageous cost of housing migrants, as well as expedite work permits. ‘There are labor shortages in many US industries, where employers are prepared to offer training and jobs to individuals who are authorized to work in the United States,’ the business leaders wrote.” New York Post, [8/28/23]

Molinaro Consistently Opposed Common Sense Gun Safety Reforms

June 2023: Molinaro Did Not Sign The Discharge Petition To Force A Vote To Close Loopholes In Background Checks

June 2023: Molinaro Did Not Sign Onto The Discharge Petition To Force A Vote On The Bipartisan Background Checks Act. Molinaro did not sign onto the discharge petition reading: “Pursuant to clause 2 of rule XV, I, Mike Thompson, move to discharge the Committee on Rules from the consideration of the resolution (H.Res. 454) entitled, a resolution providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 715) to require a background check for every firearm sale, which was referred to said committee May 26th, 2023, in support of which motion the undersigned Members of the House of Representatives affix their signatures, to wit:” H.Res. 454, [6/13/23]

- The Bipartisan Background Checks Act Would Expand Background Checks To Include Most Gun Sales, Including Those Between Private Parties. “Giffords, a former congresswoman from Arizona, was shot in the head by a mass shooter during a 2011 meeting with constituents and has advocated for gun-violence prevention ever since. She was chosen to drop the bill, called the Bipartisan Background Checks Act of 2019, into the ‘hopper’ where all bills start, as lawmakers introduced it. Despite its ‘bipartisan’ nature, the legislation still faces an uphill battle to become law. [...] Right now, background checks, when used, prevent gun sales to fugitives, people deemed mentally unwell by the state, domestic abusers, people who renounce U.S. citizenship, convicted felons, convicted drug users, non-citizens, dishonorably discharged veterans, and most people with restraining orders. The bill, however, would close the infamous ‘gun show loophole,’ which allows people purchasing firearms via private sales, typically at gun shows, to forgo a background check. Under the legislation, anyone who’s not a licensed firearms dealer would not be able to exchange weapons, which would ensure that all sales run through the national criminal background check system — with a few exceptions.” Vice, [1/8/19]

- The Bipartisan Background Checks Act Would Expand The Cases Where A Background Check Is Required For Gun Sales, Closing The “Gun Show Loophole.” “H.R. 8, a background checks package meant to enhance reviews of those seeking firearms, would not create a registry or other federal mechanisms for review. Instead, the legislation would expand the cases in which a background check is required for the sale or transfer of a firearm, including for private individuals and groups, closing the ‘Gun Show Loophole.’ The requirements would apply to online sales. The bill would make it illegal for anyone who is not a licensed firearm importer, manufacturer or dealer to trade or sell firearms to another person; current federal law requires background checks only for licensed gun dealers.” USA Today, [3/11/21]

The Enhanced Background Checks Act Would Extend The Period For Gun Background Checks From 3 Days Under Current Law To Close The “Charleston Loophole,” Named For The 2015 Mass Shooting There. “The House passed two bills Thursday that would tighten gun sales regulations, sending the measures to a divided Senate. H.R. 8 would expand background checks on individuals seeking to purchase or transfer firearms, and the Enhanced Background Checks Act of 2021 would close the ‘Charleston loophole,’ a gap in federal law that lets gun sales proceed without a completed background check if three business days have passed [...] The other bill passed Thursday, H.R. 1446, is linked to a shooting in 2015 in Charleston, South Carolina, where a white supremacist used the loophole to obtain firearms he used to kill nine Black people during a Bible study at Mother Emanuel AME Church..” USA Today, [3/11/21]

Due to Roof's prior admission during an arrest that he was in possession of drugs, he should not have been permitted to buy the gun he used in the massacre. However, an agent working for the FBI's background check system who was performing the review on Roof failed to contact Columbia, South Carolina, police, who arrested Roof, in part because of a clerical error in records listing the wrong agency. Because Roof's background check took longer than three days to complete, the gun shop owner was allowed to sell the gun to Roof. That's the result of what many see as a flaw in the FBI's National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS). At licensed firearm dealers—but not private shows or sales, including those facilitated online—a background check is required to determine the prospective buyer's eligibility. Stabilizing Braces Turn Pistols Into Short-Barreled Rifles, Which Are “Some Of The Most Lethal” Guns On The Market

Short Barreled Rifles Are More Destructive Than Other Rifles And Pistoles But Are Easier To Conceal. ““This rule enhances public safety and prevents people from circumventing the laws Congress passed almost a century ago. In the days of Al Capone, Congress said back then that short-barreled rifles and sawed-off shotguns should be subjected to greater legal requirements than most other guns. The reason for that is that short-barreled rifles have the greater capability of long guns, yet are easier to conceal, like a pistol,’ said ATF Director Steven Dettelbach. ‘But certain so-called stabilizing braces are designed to just attach to pistols, essentially converting them into short-barreled rifles to be fired from the shoulder. Therefore, they must be treated in the same way under the statute.’” Department Of Justice, Press Release, [1/13/23]

Everytown For Gun Safety: Short-Barreled Rifles “Are Some Of The Most Lethal And Highly Regulated Guns On The Market.” ““Arm braces — which allow people to better control large pistols with just one hand — started as a tool for disabled shooters, but were quickly exploited by the gun industry as a way to get around restrictions on short-barreled rifles, which are some of the most lethal and highly regulated guns on the market,’ said John Feinblatt, president of Everytown for Gun Safety. ‘We applaud the Biden-Harris Administration for properly classifying highly lethal weapons according to the law, which is the very definition of a common-sense gun regulation.’” Everytown, Press Release, [1/13/23]

Brady: “Pistols Fixed With Such ‘Stabilizing Braces’ Greatly Enhance Their Lethality” “Kris Brown, president of Brady, said: ‘For too long the gun industry has undermined laws regulating short-barreled rifles through the sale of accessories erroneously marketed as ‘stabilizing braces,’ and Brady is appalled at the U.S. House of Representatives’ reckless action to rescind this long overdue regulation.’ ‘Pistols fixed with such ‘stabilizing braces’ greatly enhance their lethality and make them appealing to mass shooters, as we unfortunately witnessed just a few months ago in Nashville. In Response To The DOJ’s Rule Regulating Stabilizing Braces, Molinaro Voted In Favor Of A Bill Overturning This Rule

Molinaro Voted For A Bill That Would Nullify The DOJ’s Higher Regulations For Stabilizing Braces. In June 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the joint resolution that would provide for congressional disapproval of the January 2023 Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives rule that expands the definition of a ‘short-barreled rifle’ to include a pistol equipped with a stabilizing brace attachment. The rule also subjects such firearms to heightened regulations under the National Firearms Act, including taxation, identification and registration requirements, and as of May 31, 2023 required owners to register, modify or destroy such firearms. Under the provisions of the joint resolution, the ATF rule would have no force or effect.” The resolution passed by a vote of 219-210. H.J. Res. 44, [Vote #252, 6/13/23; CQ, 6/13/23]

Molinaro has refused to take contributions from the NRA, and doesn't seek a positive rating from it. His gun control plan is to get all sides, including gun owners, to work together toward a common goal of ending mass gun attacks. He has acknowledged that the longtime GOP mantra to repeal the SAFE Act is unlikely because of a Democratic-controlled Assembly. Molinaro, however, still walks a fine line on the issue critical to a shrinking segment of his base. ‘We need to talk about violence and how to confront that,’ said Molinaro, who voted against the SAFE Act as an assemblyman. Molinaro Opposed The SAFE Act, A Landmark Gun Safety Bill In New York

2013: The SAFE Act Took Effect And Imposed New Comprehensive Gun Safety Measures

2013: The SAFE Act Barred The Mentally Ill And Felons From Accessing Guns, Banned High Capacity Magazines And Assault Weapons, Expanded Background Checks, And Imposed Stricter Penalties On Those Violating The Law. “Below are FAQ intended to help gun owners in New York understand and comply with the NY SAFE Act enacted on January 15, 2013 [...] The NY SAFE Act is designed to make New York a safer place to live by reducing gun violence through common sense and reasonable reforms. The law respects the right to bear arms and the interest of hunters, sportsmen, and legal owners who use their guns appropriately. The law protects New Yorkers by: Keeping guns out of the hands of convicted felons and potentially dangerous mental health patients. Banning high capacity magazines and assault weapons. Ensuring all gun purchases are subject to a background check. Toughening criminal penalties on those who use illegal guns.” Governor of New York, accessed [8/13/19]

Molinaro Said He Opposed The SAFE Act Because It Infringed On The Second Amendment. “While critical of the state's Secure Ammunition and Firearms Enforcement Act of 2013, Molinaro said he was in favor of aspects of the regulation, including not allowing people with a mental illness or a violent criminal record to buy firearms. ‘Certainly, if there is a defined mental illness, if there is a defined mental-health concern, if there is a record of violent or dangerous criminality, you should not have access to a firearm,’ he said. ‘Of course, there needs to be appropriate background checks to ensure that those who have those (criminal) records or at least potential of those activities have those rights precluded.’ But he said there needs to be a respect for the Second Amendment, which is impeded by the SAFE Act as is. ‘There needs to be a healthy respect that there is a constitutional right that is afforded people,’ he said. ‘And, in the rest of the state of New York, outside of the city of New York, there is a feeling that the state is coming for innocent people. Which it did.’ Molinaro went on to criticize the SAFE Act for a weak mental-health component and argued it did not preserve due process.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/3/18]

Molinaro Said Governor Cuomo Had Been Too “Aggressive” On Gun Control, And Implied That Cuomo Was “Irresponsibly Ignoring” Second Amendment Supporters

Molinaro Said Cuomo Was Too “Aggressive” On Gun Control, And Implied That Cuomo Was “Irresponsibly Ignoring” Second Amendment Supporters. “Molinaro did not answer a question about Cuomo’s gun control measures, including an expanded ban of assault weapons, known as the SAFE Act. While the governor has frequently touted the legislation as one of his main achievements, and New York City residents largely support it, it is considered highly unpopular upstate. In a January interview, more than a month before the school massacre in Parkland, Florida and the movement it spurred, Molinaro had told Gotham Gazette, ‘Frankly, I do have concerns with how aggressive this governor has been. [...] Republican Marc Molinaro, the Dutchess County executive who is running for the 19th Congressional District seat, which was vacated with Antonio Delgado's appointment to lieutenant governor, said he is open to conversations about access to firearms if the dialogue includes a focus on better identifying potential gun owners who display warning signs. ‘I don't embrace increased gun control, but what I do embrace is meeting this moment with a commitment to identify the resources and invest those resources in preventing crime and violence,’ Molinaro said following Tuesday's press conference about milk. ‘I'm all for having a dialogue about who should have access to firearms, but I am focused on - and will remain focused on - making the investment not in nebulous mental health, but in identifying the characteristics and the traits of individuals - most of them young males - who act out violently.’” Daily Gazette, [6/1/22]

What Congress and state governments need to be focused on now is going after criminals, and those illegal guns on our streets. I support strengthening comprehensive background checks and actually enforcing the law. Tens of thousands of gun crimes are plead down to non-gun related crimes every year. Donald J. Trump

Thank you to all of the Great Politicians, Representatives, and County Committees for your Endorsement of me. New York State is a much different place now than it was even two years ago. We will be making a very heavy play for New York in the upcoming Presidential Election. November 5th will be the most important day in the History of our Country! donaldjtrump.com/

Molinaro Repeatedly Avoided Questions About Supporting Trump For President

August 2023: Molinaro Refused To Say Whether He Would Vote For Trump In 2024 If He Were The “Presumed Republican Candidate” And Pointed To “Really Cool And Capable Candidates.” REPORTER: “If Donlad Trump becomes the presumed Republican candidate, would you vote for him?” MOLINARO: “So I have done my level best to stay out of presidential politics and I’m going to until I choose or feel that it’s necessary. I will say we have many really cool and capable candidates, and over the course of the next several months, Republican voters and committee people will make that selection clear. And I look forward to seeing where – how this unfolds.” Mid Hudson News, [8/7/23] (VIDEO) 1:26

August 2023: Molinaro Refused To Say Whether He Would Support Trump If He Became The Nominee, Saying Only He Would “Let That Play Out.” REPORTER: “If Donald Trump is the nominee will you support him?” MOLINARO: “I’m going to let that play out. My expectation is that the Republican voters will decide who

our candidate is, and when we get closer to that time, I'll make my opinions known. But I think at this point if I start having these conversations, they'll never stop." WIVT, [8/25/23] (VIDEO) 15:16

September 2023: Asked If He Could Support Trump After January 6th And His Attempt To Overturn The 2020 Election, Molinaro Reportedly "Shrugged" And Said, "Let's Get Through This Next Chapter." "Asked if, having seen the insurrection at the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6, 2001 [sic], after Trump's loss in the 2020 election, and after hearing recordings of Trump's alleged attempt to subvert his loss in Georgia, he could support the former president were he to become the 2024 Republican nominee, Molinaro shrugged. 'Let's get through this next chapter,' he said." Daily Freeman, [9/9/23]

2022: When Asked His Opinion Of Trump, Molinaro Said He "Liked What The Former President Had Done With The Economy Before Changing The Subject To Talk About President Joe Biden." "Molinaro avoided talking about Trump during the run-up to the special election. In a Times Union interview, he responded to a question about his opinion of Trump by saying he liked what the former president had done with the economy before changing the subject to talk about President Joe Biden. Assemblyman Lalor said Molinaro's reticence about Trump -- the county executive had said during his run for governor in 2018 he had not voted for Trump in 2016, instead writing in former U.S. Rep. Chris Gibson -- hurt his campaign on both the left and the right. Molinaro was unable to capture the enthusiastic MAGA vote, but Democrats were still able to tie him to the former president." 2018: When Asked During The Gubernatorial Debate If He Supported Trump, Molinaro Said "Let's Get Out Of This Conversation." Molinaro Allegedly Told Republicans That He Was A Trump Supporter

Carl Paladino In May 2018: "Molinaro, Despite The Fact That He Has Said A Number Of Times That He Didn't Vote For Trump, Has Told Me Is A Trump Supporter And He Supports Trump." INTERVIEWER: "Republican gubernatorial nominee Marcus Molinaro didn't vote for Trump and avoids mentioning the president in speeches. Is that the right way to win in New York in 2018?" PALADINO: "I think the right way to win in 2018 is to accept Donald Trump. Molinaro, despite the fact that he has said a number of times that he didn't vote for Trump, has told me is a Trump supporter and he supports Trump." INTERVIEWER: "As in, supporting him as the president?" PALADINO: "He supports him as the president. Because I sat down and I eyeballed with him at dinner. And I asked that question. Obviously, it's very important to me." City & State, [5/30/18]

September 2015: Donald Trump's Brother Hosted A Fundraiser For Molinaro, Which Molinaro Promoted On Social Media. "The president's brother, Robert Trump, hosted a fundraiser for Molinaro on Sept. 30, 2015, ahead of Molinaro's successful re-election bid for Dutchess County executive. Robert is reportedly retired and living in Millbrook, in Dutchess County. He used to work in his father Fred Trump's real estate empire, and was featured in the New York Times' investigation into the Trump family's tax schemes. Molinaro promoted the fundraiser heavily on his Twitter and Facebook pages. At one point he even tagged Dan Scavino, then the social media director of Trump's presidential campaign, apparently hoping for acknowledgement from the influential account. January 7, 2024: On Meet The Press, Stefanik Said Of Whether She Would Certify Results Of The 2024 Election, “We Will See If This Is A Legal And Valid Election.” “Rep. Elise Stefanik (R-N.Y.) on Sunday stopped short of saying she will certify the 2024 election results, saying she will ‘see’ if this year’s election is ‘legal and valid.’ Pressed on NBC News’s ‘Meet the Press’ over whether she will vote to certify the 2024 election results no matter what the result is, Stefanik said, ‘We will see if this is a legal and valid election.’” The Hill, [1/7/24]

January 2024: Stefanik Said She “Stood Up For Election Integrity, And I Challenged And Objected To The Certification Of The State Of Pennsylvania Because Of The Unconstitutional Overreach.” “The question was sparked after Stefanik’s comments earlier in the interview when she discussed why she objected to certifying Pennsylvania’s 2020 election results on Jan. 6, 2021. ‘I stood up for election integrity, and I challenged and objected to the certification of the state of Pennsylvania because of the unconstitutional overreach,’ Stefanik said. ‘I absolutely stand by my floor speech. I am proud to support President Trump.’ In Stefanik’s House floor speech on Jan. 6, she argued Pennsylvania’s State Supreme Court and secretary of state ‘unilaterally and unconstitutionally rewrote election law’ by eliminating signature-matching requirements.” The Hill, [1/7/24]

Prior To The Capitol Insurrection, Stefanik Supported A Lawsuit To Invalidate The Results Of The 2020 Election And Cast Doubt On The Legitimacy Of Election Results

December 2020: Stefanik Supported A Lawsuit To Invalidate The Results Of The 2020 Election

December 2020: Stefanik Signed Onto An Amicus Brief To Support A Lawsuit Asking The Supreme Court To Reject Election Results In Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, And Wisconsin. “In December, Stefanik was one of 126 House Republicans to sign on to an amicus brief in support of a Republican lawsuit that asked the Supreme Court to toss out Biden’s win. The unsuccessful lawsuit, which was filed by the attorney general of Texas, asked the court to reject the election results in Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan and Wisconsin, all of which were won by Biden.” CNN, [5/6/21]

Stefanik Said The Lawsuit “Was About Standing Up For The Constitution And Protecting The Election Integrity And Election Security.” “Stefanik said at the time that she believed state officials had violated the Constitution by making changes to election processes without approval from state legislatures. She said in an interview on Newsmax that aired in December: ‘This lawsuit was not about overturning the election, it was about standing up for the Constitution and protecting the election integrity and election security.’ Whatever its rationale, the lawsuit did seek to overturn the election.” CNN, [5/6/21]

Stefanik Casted Doubt On The Legitimacy Of The 2020 Election

January 4, 2021: Stefanik Posted A Video Claiming People Were Justified To Be Concerned About “A Fundamental Lack Of Ballot Integrity And Ballot Security.” “In a video statement she posted on January 4, Stefanik said that ‘tens of millions of Americans are rightly concerned that the 2020 election featured unprecedented voting irregularities.’ She also said these Americans are rightly concerned about ‘a fundamental lack of ballot integrity and ballot security.’ Stefanik’s wording here was crafty. Rather than declare herself that there were widespread irregularities and a lack of ballot integrity, she invoked other Americans’ concerns about widespread irregularities and a lack of ballot integrity. Nonetheless, she not only repeated these baseless concerns but groundlessly suggested Americans were correct to have them.” CNN, [5/6/21]

December 2020: Stefanik Claimed There Were “Irregularities” Related To Dominion Voting Systems And Called For “Integrity Of The Counting Process.” “Trump and various allies falsely claimed that Trump votes were stolen by voting products created by the company Dominion Voting Systems. Stefanik did not go that far – but in a December 1 interview on Newsmax, she vaguely suggested that there were ‘irregularities’ related to Dominion. Given how close the election was in key states, Stefanik said, ‘we need to make sure that every vote is counted. But we also need to highlight any of the irregularities. I have concerns about the software, the fact that Dominion software ...’ She trailed off, then said both Democrats and Republicans have ‘raised issues’ about ‘making sure that we have the integrity of the counting process.’ Stefanik didn’t explain her concerns about Dominion software, nor what ‘issues’ she was claiming Democrats had raised. Regardless, there is no basis for claims that there were issues with the software’s ‘integrity’ in the 2020 election.” CNN, [5/6/21]

Stefanik Replaced Liz Cheney In House Leadership After Cheney Repudiated Trump’s Lies About The 2020 Election, Which Stefanik Embraced

Stefanik “Effectively Campaigned” On Trump’s False Claims About The 2020 Election To Replace Cheney As House Republican Conference Chair. “As House Republicans have made the case for ousting Representative Liz Cheney, their No. 3, from their leadership ranks, they have insisted that it is not her repudiation of former President Donald J. Trump’s election lies that they find untenable, but her determination to be vocal about it. [...] Far from staying quiet about the false election claims on Thursday, Ms. Stefanik effectively campaigned on them, describing Mr. Trump on Mr. Bannon’s show as the ‘strongest supporter of any president when it comes to standing up for the Constitution,’ and asserting that Republicans would work with him as ‘one team.’ ‘The job of the conference chair is to represent the majority of the House Republicans, and the vast majority of the House Republicans support President Trump, and they support his focus on election integrity and election security,’ Ms. Stefanik later told Sebastian Gorka, a former adviser to Mr. Trump. The job, she said in an unmistakable jab at Ms. Cheney, ‘is not to attack members of the conference and attack President Trump.’” New York Times, [5/6/21]

Molinaro Said Elongating The Period Without A Speaker Would Be Worse Than Electing A Right-Wing Speaker. “But Representative Marc Molinaro, a moderate who narrowly flipped a Biden district in the Hudson Valley on promises of bipartisanship, appeared to have reached a very different conclusion: that the damage of elongating the House’s paralysis would be worse than electing a right-wing speaker whose policies and style could scarcely be more different than his. ‘Most of people I represent wouldn’t know the speaker of the House if they backed over them with a pickup truck,’ he said before voting for Mr. Jordan.” New York Times, [10/19/23]

Molinaro Said He Voted For Jordan Hoping He “Could Unify Our Conference.” “A former Dutchess County executive and 2018 gubernatorial candidate, Molinaro ran his congressional campaign in part on his experience working across the aisle to find practical solutions. He explained his initial support for Jordan as a matter of pragmatism. ‘I hoped that Jim Jordan could unify our conference. I believed he could and I worked toward that goal,’ he said, adding: ‘I’m willing to accept imperfection for the purposes of providing as close to the best we can for the people we serve.’ But as Jordan shed votes in each successive round of voting, Molinaro’s calculus changed. ‘I’m not here to ignore math or reality,’ he said. ‘We are not unified.’” Times Union, [10/22/23]

Molinaro On Jordan: ‘Based On Our Division Believed He Could Unify The Fractured Group.’ “I support the conference selection & based on our division believed he could unify the fractured group. When Asked About Voting For Jordan, Molinaro Said, “I Wanted To Govern And The Party And The Conference Selected A Candidate For Speaker And Our Job Is To Select The Candidate, Elect A Speaker And Get Back To Work.” INTERVIEWER: “You don’t have any concerns about how your constituents on college campuses and in cities might feel about you being linked to Jim Jordan?” MOLINARO: “I respect the people I serve. I wanted to govern and the party and the conference selected a candidate for speaker and our job is to select the candidate, elect a speaker and get back to work. And remember, we would not have been in this situation if all of the Democrats in the House didn’t side with eight Republicans to oust the duly elected speaker of the House and frankly, no matter who I selected, I would suggest that most of the most of the folks on college campuses and and my opponent wouldn’t agree.” City and State, [11/3/23]

Molinaro On Jordan: “I’m Willing To Accept Imperfection For The Purposes Of Providing As Close To The Best We Can For The People We Serve.” “A former Dutchess County executive and 2018 gubernatorial candidate, Molinaro ran his congressional campaign in part on his experience working across the aisle to find practical solutions. Molinaro: Jordan “Has Assured Me That My Voice And The Concerns Of Those I Serve In Upstate New York Will Be Heard.” “Molinaro added he was confident that Jordan, as speaker, would listen to Molinaro and recognize the needs of the constituents of the New York’s 19th District. ‘Do Jim Jordan and I agree on everything? Of course not, I don’t agree with anyone 100% of the time,’ Molinaro said. ‘But, he has assured me that my voice and the concerns of those I serve in upstate New York will be heard.’” Hudson Valley 360, [10/18/23]

Molinaro Said He Previously Voted For Jordan Because He “Believed He Could Unify’ Republicans, And Was ‘Hopeful And Helpful In That Effort.” “Molinaro, who represents the 19th Congressional District, had voted for Jordan during two other votes for House Speaker this week. ‘I voted for Jim Jordan twice because I believed he could unify our conference,’ Molinaro said in a statement Friday. ‘I was hopeful and helpful in that effort. But right now, he does not have the necessary votes to win.’ ‘We need to get back to work and need a conservative who can win the Speakership. Today, I voted for Lee Zeldin. He’s championed crucial fights like driving down inflation, securing the border, and is an unwavering supporter of Israel.’” Daily Freeman, [10/20/23]

Jordan Opened A House Judiciary Committee Hearing With Talking Points Similar To Those Used In The Great Replacement Conspiracy Theory. “Billed as the ‘Hearing on the Biden Border Crisis, Part 1,’ Jordan opened the proceedings by asserting that the crisis of immigrants and asylum seekers at the nation’s southern border is a plot by Biden and the Democrats. ‘I think it’s intentional. ... Subject: Time-sensitive request from President Trump

Dear friends,

President Trump called me this morning to express his great appreciation for our effort to file an amicus brief in the Texas case on behalf of concerned Members of Congress. He specifically asked me to contact all Republican Members of the House and Senate today and request that all join on to our brief. He said he will be anxiously awaiting the final list to review.

The simple objective of our brief is to affirm for the Court (and our constituents back home) our serious concerns with the integrity of our election system. We are not seeking to independently litigate the particular allegations of fraud in our brief (that is not our place as amici). We will merely state our belief that the broad scope of the various allegations and irregularities in the subject states merits careful, timely review by the Supreme Court. So many House Republicans have wanted to weigh in on the record somewhere and this may well be the last opportunity.

I am hoping to circulate the brief draft to all interested Members by this afternoon and to file the final brief as soon as possible (by tomorrow morning at latest).

Please let me know ASAP if you want to be included on that list of interested parties.

Onward,
Mike

Mr. Johnson sent a message on behalf of Mr. Trump to persuade lawmakers to rally behind the cause.

- ✓ In 2018, under Molinaro’s leadership, Dutchess County bus workers threatened to go on strike over low pay. Molinaro dismissed workers’ concerns and called the county’s contract offers “generous and rewarding.”
- ✓ Molinaro opposed policies to protect wages and voted against banning wage discrimination.
- ✓ Molinaro wanted to “reform” the collective bargaining agreement with MTA workers.
- ✓ 2010: Molinaro voted against a bill that would make it easier for employees to sue their employers if they violated labor laws.
- ✓ Molinaro wanted to repeal New York’s Scaffold law, which held developers and contractors fully liable for accidents on their sites, which workers’ advocates said improved construction worker safety.
- ✓ Molinaro wanted to reform prevailing wage laws on public works projects and voted against requiring utility companies to pay prevailing wages.
- ✓ Molinaro supported curbing labor union spending in elections.

Molinaro Repeatedly Voted To Protect Landlords And Against Affordable Housing

- ✓ Molinaro voted for the Default on America Act, which would have raised housing costs for 67,300 New Yorkers by limiting their access to rental assistance.
- ✓ Molinaro voted multiple times against capping the amount a landlord could increase rent. He also voted against expanding and protecting rent control.

Molinaro Supported Policies That Promoted Outsourcing And Harmed American Manufacturing

- ✓ Molinaro voted for the Default on America Act, which would have repealed incentives for domestic manufacturing, increasing American reliance on Chinese products.
- ✓ Molinaro supported the 2017 Republican tax scam, which incentivized companies to move jobs overseas, risking nearly a million jobs in New York.

June 2023: NYSEG Proposed Raising Customers' Rates By 22 Percent Over Three Years. “NYSEG is proposing hiking the average customer's electric bill 22% over three years, with increases of 6.6%, 7.3% and 8.2% in each of the three years. That would be equivalent to monthly increases to average customers' electric bills of $9.61 in the first year, and then $8.87 and $11.34 in the following two years.” Buffalo News, [6/15/23]

The Proposed Hikes Would Equate To A Nearly $30 Monthly Increase For The Average Residential Customer. “New York State Electric & Gas residential customers could be paying $30 a month more for their electricity three years from now, if state regulators approve the utility's proposed rate hike agreement. NYSEG is proposing hiking the average customer's electric bill 22% over three years, with increases of 6.6%, 7.3% and 8.2% in each of the three years. That would be equivalent to monthly increases to average customers' electric bills of $9.61 in the first year, and then $8.87 and $11.34 in the following two years.” Buffalo News, [6/15/23]

October 2023: The New York Public Service Commission Approved A Rate Hike Proposed By NYSEG Totalling $231 Million, Roughly Half The Increase The Company Originally Proposed. “The New York State Public Service Commission (Commission) today established three year rate plans for electric and gas customers of New York State Electric & Gas Corporation (NYSEG) and Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation (RG&E) by adopting the terms of a joint proposal that is much more favorable to customers than the companies' original requests, reducing the initial rate year requests by almost $231 million. [...] Under its initial proposal, the companies sought a total of $447 million in the first year while the rates approved today provided $217.3 million in the first year, roughly 50 percent less. The increases in rates over the three-year term of the electric and gas rate plans are necessary to meet increased company costs, including increases in the property tax burden, and to support spending for capital improvements and employee additions, which are necessary to improve electric and gas operations and enhance overall electric and gas system integrity, safety and reliability.” New York Public Service Commission, [10/12/23]

Molinaro Voted For A $6 Billion Tax Cut For Energy Companies

Molinaro Voted For The Lower Energy Costs Act, Calling It “Historic Legislation”

2023: Molinaro Voted For The Lower Energy Costs Act. In March 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and critical minerals, accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, and reverse or repeal certain recent policies related to energy and climate change. Among provisions to boost oil and gas leasing and production, the bill would require the Interior Department to resume quarterly oil and gas lease sales on federal lands; complete certain proposed sales on the Outer Continental Shelf; and implement at least two lease sales per year in each of the Gulf of Mexico and the Alaska regions of the Shelf. It would roll back increased fees and royalties for onshore and offshore oil and gas development and production established by the 2022 budget reconciliation package (PL 117-69). It would adjust revenue sharing requirements for onshore and offshore production to generally decrease federal shares and increase state shares, particularly for coastal states. It would also require annual geothermal lease sales; terminate a moratorium on new coal leasing; and provide for final approval of previously authorized coal leases. It would prohibit the president from declaring a moratorium on the use of hydraulic fracturing and from taking any action that would delay new leases, sales and drill permits for oil and gas, coal or mineral exploration. It would remove restrictions on the import and export of liquified natural gas and prohibit the Chinese Communist Party or a person acting on its behalf from acquiring any interest with respect to lands leased for oil or gas. Among provisions to streamline the permitting process under the National Environmental Policy Act, the bill would set deadlines for the completion of NEPA environmental reviews and adjust thresholds for levels of review; limit the scope of reviews to ‘reasonably foreseeable’ effects and codify 2020 regulations removing requirements to consider climate change impacts in the review process; and direct agencies to use previously completed reviews to satisfy NEPA requirements for substantially similar proposed actions. For oil and gas projects, it would limit the scope of environmental reviews to areas within or immediately adjacent to affected plots and prohibit the consideration of downstream, indirect effects of oil and gas consumption. To expedite certain energy production and infrastructure projects, it would establish procedures and a 120-day expedited deadline for federal agencies to review applications for cross-border oil and natural gas pipelines; and expand the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission’s role as the lead agency for natural gas pipeline permitting. To address critical mineral supply, the bill would require the Energy Department to conduct ongoing assessments of and develop strategies to strengthen domestic supply chains for critical energy resources, including through increased mining and processing and permit the EPA to temporarily waive certain pollution regulation requirements for processing and refining projects at critical energy resource facilities to address supply chain concerns. It would make coal and critical mineral mining projects eligible for certain expedited infrastructure permitting processes; provide for appointment of a lead agency to coordinate the permitting process for mineral exploration; and limit the withdrawal of federal lands and waters from mineral leasing. The bill would also repeal certain climate-related programs established by the 2022 budget reconciliation package, including the $27 billion ‘Greenhouse Gas Reduction’ fund to support low- and zero-carbon projects, a program imposing fees on methane emissions from oil and gas drilling sites on federal lands, and energy rebate programs to incentivize energy-efficient homes and buildings.” The bill passed by a vote of 225-204, with 221 Republicans and 4 Democrats voting for the bill, 1 Republican and 203 Democrats voting against the bill, and six Democrats not voting. Molinaro Praised The Bill, Calling It “Historic Legislation” That Would Lower Energy Costs. “Two regional U.S. congressmen took opposite stands Thursday on a federal bill that supporters say will lower energy costs while opponents say will allow for more environmental pollutants. U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, voted in favor of the bill, while U.S. Rep. Pat Ryan, D-Gardiner, voted against it. [...] Molinaro, in contrast, praised the bill. ‘The historic legislation, which passed with bipartisan support, lowers energy costs for Upstate New York families by increasing domestic energy production, reforming the United States’ broken permitting process, and streamlining new energy projects, including renewable energy projects,’ Molinaro’s office said in a statement.” Daily Freeman, [3/30/23]

The Lower Energy Costs Act Would Have Eased Regulations And Cut Taxes On Energy Companies By Billions

H.R. 1 Would Have Eliminated A Tax On Methane Pollution, Lowered Royalty Rates Paid By Energy Producers, And Reinstated Noncompetitive Leasing Of Public Lands. “Republicans call the bill the ‘Lower Energy Costs Act’ and gave it the symbolic label H.R. 1 — the top legislative priority of the new GOP majority, which took control of the House in January. [...] Instead of reining in ‘Big Oil’ companies that have reported record profits while ‘hoarding thousands of unused leases’ on public lands and waters, the GOP bill lowers royalty rates paid by energy producers and reinstates noncompetitive leasing of public lands, Grijalva said. [...] Schumer and other Democrats said the Republican bill would repeal a new $27 billion Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund and other parts of the climate and health care law passed by Democrats last year. U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, voted in favor of the bill, while U.S. Rep. Pat Ryan, D-Gardiner, voted against it. The bill is unlikely to pass the Democratically-controlled Senate. House Republicans approved the sprawling energy package that seeks to undo virtually all of President Joe Biden’s agenda to address climate change. The legislation would sharply increase domestic production of oil, natural gas and coal, and ease permitting restrictions that delay pipelines, refineries and other projects. It would boost production of critical minerals such as lithium, nickel and cobalt that are used in electric vehicles, computers, cellphones and other products.” Daily Freeman, [3/30/23]

The Lower Energy Costs Act Was Criticized For Rewarding Fossil Fuel Interests

Sierra Club: H.R. 1 Would Have: “Undermined Critical Environmental Protections In Service Of Speeding Up Approval For Proposed Fossil Fuel Projects.” “House Speaker Kevin McCarthy and House Republicans are reportedly planning to demand massive cuts to investments in environmental justice, climate, and other critical programs as part of negotiations on key legislation that would raise the debt ceiling and avert a financial crisis. Last month, Republicans passed HR1, or the ‘Polluters Over People Act,’ along party lines in the House. The bill would have undermined critical environmental protections in service of speeding up approval for proposed fossil fuel projects, and has minimal chances of becoming law on its own. Now, Republicans are seeking to force it through by tacking elements of the bill onto must-pass legislation.” Sierra Club, Press Release, [4/17/23]

Climate Justice Alliance: H.R.1 Was “Simply Another Handout To Dirty Industry That Will Only Fast Track And Expand Harmful Polluting Projects In Frontline Communities.” “‘At a time when toxic and climate disasters are on the rise, the need to protect bedrock environmental protections could not be more urgent. Yet, those backed by fossil fuel lobbyists in Congress continue to cater to their corporate sponsors rather than their own constituents. The passage of the Polluters Over People Act (HR1) in the House is simply another handout to dirty industry that will only fast track and expand harmful polluting projects in frontline communities,’ said Marion Gee, Co-Executive Director at the Climate Justice Alliance.” Green New Deal Network, Press Release, [3/30/23]

People’s Action On H.R. 1: “Republicans Are Putting The Interests Of Big Oil Above Communities.” “‘H.R. 1 is a big step in the wrong direction. Republicans are putting the interests of Big Oil above communities, stripping

'In 2022, Chevron alone raked in $6.3 million per hour and the five largest Big Oil corporations made a record $200 billion in profits. H.R. 1 paves the way for bigger profits for Big Oil at the expense of our land, water, and health. Republicans Used Language From The American Petroleum Institute As They Debated H.R. 1. "Last week, House Republicans passed a sweeping energy bill containing so many pro-fossil fuel provisions that climate advocates and progressives noted it may as well have been written by the industry itself — and, as a new report reveals, Republicans parroted talking points lifted verbatim from industry lobbyists as they argued for the bill. 'Energy security is national security.' That's a quote from a letter sent to House leaders by Big Oil's most prominent industry lobbyist, the American Petroleum Institute (API), last month. As a report by Accountable.US seen exclusively by Truthout reveals, it also happens to be a quote that was repeated word for word on the House floor last week by at least four Republican members of Congress as they debated H.R. 1, which Republicans passed on Thursday." Funding That H.R. 23 Cut Was Earmarked For Combating Wealthy And Corporate Tax Cheats

$46 Billion Of The Funding Cut By H.R. 23 Was Earmarked For Restoring The Internal Revenue Service’s Ability To Go After Wealthy Tax Cheats. “Indeed, about $46 billion of the funding that would be revoked by the Republican bill is specifically earmarked for restoring the IRS’s ability to go after wealthy tax cheats. Tax dodging is extremely common among the richest Americans, who are able to use complex methods to hide their money from the government — and the IRS, underfunded and sometimes unable to perform basic tasks due to budget deficits, doesn’t have the resources to fully investigate and recoup those dodged taxes.” Truthout, [1/10/23]

The Internal Revenue Service Funds Were Intended To Help Crack Down On Tax Evasion. “Democrats included an extra $80 billion for the I.R.S. in last year’s Inflation Reduction Act, which passed over Republican opposition, saying it would help the agency crack down on tax evaders and ensure that the government was collecting the taxes it was owed. The money will be used to hire 87,000 I.R.S. employees and modernize the agency’s antiquated technology systems. CBPP: To Pay For A Permanent Corporate Tax Cut, The GOP Tax Bill Let Individual Tax Cuts Expire In 2027 Resulting In A $32 Billion Tax Increase For American Households In 2027. “Because Senate reconciliation rules prohibit the bill from adding to deficits after 2027, Republican leaders then faced another choice: set the entire bill to expire by the end of the decade, so there were no costs after 2027; revise it so that it pays for itself after ten years; or make certain priority tax cuts permanent and pay for them with other permanent measures that raise revenues or reduce program spending, while letting lower-priority tax-cut provisions expire. They chose the last approach. And they centered the bill around permanent corporate rate cuts and other tax cuts for multinationals. [...] Overall, in 2027 — when only the corporate tax cuts, slower inflation measure, and individual mandate repeal would remain in place — the Senate bill would, on average, raise taxes or reduce federal expenditures for households with incomes below $75,000 by about $60 billion — while still giving large tax reductions (through its corporate tax cuts) to those at the top.” CBPP, [11/20/17]

He wants you to believe that our problem is created by Washington. No, our problem was created by Albany. In particular, this state forces more state spending down on the local property taxes than any state in the country, and that’s because too many times they either don’t have the money to pay for what they want, or they don’t want to take responsibility for paying for what they want,’ he said. ‘What happens, of course, is school taxes and local property taxes are arbitrarily high.’” Journal News, [7/31/18]

Molinaro Opposed The Build Back Better Act, Which Included A 15% Corporate Tax, Investments In Ensuring The Wealthy Paid Their Taxes, And An Increase On The SALT Cap By A Factor Of Eight

In A Fundraising Email, Molinaro Criticized The Build Back Better Act

In A Fundraising Email, Molinaro Called The Build Back Better Act A “Tax And Spend Bill” That Would Increase The Size Of “A Bloated Federal Government.” “With Americans paying more for everything from groceries to gas, Democrats just pushed through a tax and spend bill that will only inflate the inflation problem- leading to even higher taxes, costs and prices for families, farmers and small businesses. We can't afford to pay more to feed our families or heat our homes - all to cover the cost of massive increases in the size, scale and scope of a bloated Federal government. We don't need a bigger, more invasive IRS. We don't need hundreds of new government agencies. We need competent leadership that knows a bigger, more expensive government isn't a better one. And, that we can't afford it!” Marc for US Email, [11/19/21]

The Build Back Better Act Included A 15% Minimum Tax On Corporations With Income More Than $1 Billion

The Build Back Better Act Included A 15% Minimum Tax On Corporations With Income More Than $1 Billion. “Passage of the fiscal 2022 budget reconciliation bill, as amended, that would provide approximately $2 trillion in investments and tax cuts to address climate change and child care, health care, education, housing and other social policies intended to support families. It would establish a child care and early learning entitlement program, providing approximately $100 billion for the program through fiscal 2024. It would provide $18 billion through fiscal 2024 for a free universal preschool program. It would extend through 2022 the expanded child tax credit provided by prior coronavirus relief law (PL 117-2) and provide $5 billion to administer the credit. It would establish a paid family and medical leave benefit for up to four weeks per year, beginning in 2024. It would require the Health and Human Services Department to negotiate a "maximum fair price" for insulin and select Medicare-eligible, brand-name drugs that do not have generic competition. It would require manufacturers to provide rebates for single-source drugs under Medicare Parts B and D for which prices increase faster than inflation. For Medicare Part D, it would cap annual out-of-pocket limit at $2,000 beginning in 2024. It would establish or extend expanded eligibility for certain tax credits toward Affordable Care Act marketplace insurance premiums through 2025. It would establish or expand a number of tax credits to incentivize actions by businesses and individuals to mitigate climate change, including to expand credits for renewable energy production and facilities, carbon capture facilities, use of alternative fuels and energy efficiency improvements at residential properties; and to establish individual credits for the purchase of electric vehicles. It would raise royalty rates and fees for oil and gas drilling leases and cancel or ban certain offshore leases. It would provide $29 billion to support the deployment of low- and zero-emission technologies, more than $20 billion for federal climate resiliency and environmental conservation activities and $9 billion for federal procurement of electric vehicles and related infrastructure. It would provide $65 billion for public housing improvements, $24 billion for rental assistance housing vouchers and $15 billion for down payment assistance and loan programs for first-generation homebuyers. It would provide $9.8 billion for local transit projects to support mobility and affordable housing access disadvantaged communities and $9 billion for lead remediation and water line replacement projects. It would forgive all debt owed by the National Flood Insurance Program's debt, for a total of $20.5 billion. It would provide such sums as necessary for the USDA to forgive farm loan debt for economically distressed farmers and ranchers. It would provide $6.6 billion to the Small Business Administration and Minority Business Development Agency to help underrepresented individuals with business development. It would provide $20 billion for Labor and Education department workforce development programs and $1.9 billion for Labor Department worker protection agencies. It would allow individuals who entered the United States prior to Jan. 1, 2011, to receive a grant of parole allowing them to remain temporarily in the country for a period of five years, but no later than Sept. 30, 2021. It would temporarily increase from $10,000 to $80,000 the annual cap on the deduction for state and local taxes for tax years 2021 through 2030. To offset costs, it would establish or modify various taxes on corporations and high-income individuals, including to establish a 15 percent alternative minimum tax for corporations with an annual income exceeding $1 billion; a one percent tax on stock buybacks by public companies; and an additional five percent tax on individual income over $10 million and further three percent tax on income over $25 million. It would provide $78.9 billion to improve IRS operations and tax enforcement." Passed by a vote of 220-213. HR 5376, [Vote #385, 11/19/21, CQ 11/19/21]

Build Back Better Included Investments In The IRS To Address Tax Evasion By Those Making Over $1 Million Per Year

Build Back Better Included Investments In The IRS To Address Tax Evasion By Those Making Over $1 Million Per Year. "Regular workers pay the taxes they owe on wages and salaries—with a 99 percent compliance rate—while too many wealthy taxpayers hide their income from the IRS so they don't have to pay. And, as a result of budget cuts, audit rates on those making over $1 million per year fell by 80 percent between 2011-2018. Wage earners have a 99 percent compliance rate, and, by contrast, the top 1 percent evades over $160 billion per year in taxes. President Biden's Build Back Better Agenda will create a fairer tax system – a tax system that requires the wealthy to finally pay their fair share and rewards work, not wealth. The President's plan will accomplish this through transformation investments in the IRS: hiring enforcement agents who are trained to pursue wealthy evaders, overhauling technology from the 1960s, and investing in taxpayer service, so ordinary Americans can get their questions answered. Additional enforcement resources will be focused on pursuing those with the highest incomes; not Americans with income less than $400,000." White House, Build Back Better, accessed [3/8/24]

The Build Back Better Act That Passed The House In November 2021 Increased The SALT Cap From $10,000 To $80,000. "The U.S. House of Representatives took a major step toward repealing the SALT cap Friday when it passed the Build Back Better bill. The House voted to dramatically increase the cap, which limits the deductibility of state and local taxes [...] The House raised the SALT deduction from $10,000 to $80,000." 2012 Budget: Dutchess County's Budget Resulted In A $50 Average Tax Hike Per Homeowner Due To Molinaro's Request For $55,000 In Raises For Dutchess County Officials

2012: Dutchess County's Budget Raised Taxes By $50 Per Resident. "Some department heads got last-minute raises and lawmakers tweaked some other expenditures, but when the work was done, the impact of the 2012 Dutchess County budget on taxpayers hadn't changed. The tentative budget prepared by County Executive William Steinhaus in the fall would have cost the average homeowner an additional $50 a year, and so does the final budget adopted shortly after midnight Tuesday by the county Legislature." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/7/11]

2012: The Dutchess County Budget Was Prepared By Molinaro's Predecessor And Included Raises For Dutchess County Officials Requested By County Executive-Elect Molinaro. "The tentative budget prepared by County Executive William Steinhaus in the fall would have cost the average homeowner an additional $50 a year, and so does the final budget adopted shortly after midnight Tuesday by the county Legislature [...] Rolison said the raises were requested by County Executive-elect Marc Molinaro." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/7/11]

2012: The Budget Produced $55,000 In Raises For Dutchess County Officials At Molinaro's Behest. "The Legislature approved many amendments to the budget before adopting it, including granting about $55,000 in raises for the public defender, the jail administrator and the commissioners of public works and human resources. Rolison said the raises were requested by County Executive-elect Marc Molinaro." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/7/11]

2012: The Tax Hike Hurt Working People In Dutchess County, While Wealthy Residents Felt They Had "Dodged A Bullet" By Avoiding Tax Increases That Could Have Potentially Been Even Higher. "Two county taxpayers had differing views on the amount of additional taxes they'd have to pay. A homeowner with property assessed at $250,000 - the countywide average - would pay about $815 in county taxes next year, up from about $765 this year. 'If it's costing somebody like me about $50, I'd say I dodged a bullet,' Town of Poughkeepsie resident Joseph Robillard said. Robert Fell of Hyde Park said the extra $50 would hurt, especially when combined with other expected increases in his school and municipal tax bills. 'Fifty bucks doesn't sound like much, but it adds up. I'm 67 and I'd like to retire, but I have to keep working to pay all the taxes,' Fell said." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/7/11]

2013 Budget: In His First Budget As Dutchess County Executive, Molinaro Raised Property Taxes By 20 Cents

The 2013 Budget Was Molinaro's First Budget As Dutchess County Executive. "The 2013 Dutchess County budget is in the hands of County Executive Marc Molinaro, who called the spending plan a first step toward a more efficient government. The Dutchess County Legislature voted 21-3 to pass the $409 million budget shortly after midnight Friday with only minimal changes. The Legislature voted to increase the sales tax by $1 million, which would be used to double the shared services grants program in the Department of Planning and Development. 'It is, in fact, step one of many in our effort to deliver services more efficiently,' Molinaro said of his first budget." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/8/12]

2013: Molinaro's Dutchess County Budget Increased The Property Tax Rate By 20 Cents To $3.45 Per $1,000 Of Assessed Value. "The budget reduces spending by $7.6 million and raises the portion of the budget funded by taxpayers - the levy - 2 percent. The tax rate would increase from $3.25 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to $3.45 per $1,000. As an example, Molinaro said that the owner of a home assessed at $264,500 paid just over $859 this year in county property taxes. When factoring in the decline in real estate values, the owner of the same house, now assessed at $252,300, would pay nearly $11 more next year." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/6/12]

2013: Molinaro Increased The Property Tax By 3.2 Percent And The Average Tax Rate By 6.5 Percent. "Molinaro did not say whether he would consider exceeding the 2 percent tax-levy cap in order to mitigate the job cuts or reduction in county services - or depletion of rainy-day funds - that meeting the cap could require. This year's county budget of $411.4 million increased the property-tax levy 3.2 percent and average tax rate by 6.5 percent. The 2011 budget of $403 million froze the tax levy and increased the tax rate an average of 8.5 percent." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/29/12]

Molinaro Suggested That Dutchess County Residents Wanted Their Taxes Increased By Some Amount. "With responses from 2,200 residents in hand, County Executive Marc Molinaro and the Legislature will take those opinions into account as they work on the troubled 2013 county budget and try to close a $40 million gap. Molinaro issued a report on the findings Friday [...] The survey was not scientific, nor intended to be so. Respondents were self-selecting, and their proportions did not match county demographics by age, skewing heavily toward those over 45, according to data in the report. One question asked broadly, without regard to the specific nonmandated categories, 'Would you be willing to pay a higher property tax rate to continue the optional programming and services you support?' On that basis, 74.7 percent would support some level of tax increase and 24.6 percent would not, Molinaro said." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/13/12]

2014 Budget: Molinaro Raised Property Taxes By 1.9%

2014: Molinaro's Dutchess County Budget Raised Property Taxes. "Is Cox right that Molinaro has already cut spending and property taxes in Dutchess County? A spokesperson for Cox pointed to the county's approved budgets while Molinaro's been in office. This year's budget in Dutchess County reduced both the county property tax rate for residents and the tax levy for the fourth consecutive year, according to budget documents. But his first two budgets increased property taxes by about 2 percent in 2013 and again in 2014." Politifact, [5/26/18]

2014: Molinaro Proposed A 1.9% Property Tax Increase. "That won't be easy. Molinaro's budget blueprint had to address a multimillion-dollar shortfall while cutting spending to stay under the state-imposed property tax cap. Overall, spending would be reduced by $1.6 million next year but the property-tax levy would increase by 1.9 percent, just below the state tax cap." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/24/13]

2014: Dutchess County's Property Tax Increased By Twenty Cents To $3.65, Approximately A 6% Increase. Dutchess County, 2015 Adopted Budget, accessed [12/6/21]

2014: Dutchess County Enacted A 1.9% Property Tax Increase And A 3.75% Energy Sales Tax. "The legislature had made several changes in its Dec. 5 vote adopting the $438.8 million 2014 budget proposed by Molinaro. It would be funded in part by a property tax levy increase of 1.9 percent and a 3.75 percent county sales tax on home energy sources, such as electricity and heating oil." Molinaro Repealed An Energy Sales Tax Exemption On Dutchess County Residents

2014: Molinaro Repealed The Sales Tax Exemption For Energy, Raising Taxes On Dutchess County Residents. “Once again, no one cares for the little guy. Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro and the Legislature have repealed the sales tax exemption on energy in the new budget. It won't hurt the rich, only the poor and middle class who can't find jobs in this county, which Molinaro is the overseer of.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, Letter to the Editor, 12/26/13]

- The 3.75% Energy Sales Tax Went Into Effect March 1, 2014. “Molinaro said the state Department of Taxation and Finance has a ‘90-day repeal standard’ once the county Legislature passes a measure that would remove the 3.75 percent sales tax on things like fuel oil and electricity [...] The sales tax went into effect on March 1.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/10/14]

The Energy Tax Molinaro Enacted Was 3.75 Percent. “Molinaro called on the state government to provide the county mandate relief. Such relief would let the county eliminate a new energy tax of 3.75 percent.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/5/14]

Molinaro Wanted New York State To Provide Mandate Relief Allowing Him To End The Energy Tax. “Molinaro called on the state government to provide the county mandate relief. Such relief would let the county eliminate a new energy tax of 3.75 percent.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/5/14]

Molinaro Suggested A “Painful” Repeal Of The Sales Tax Exemption For Energy Was Better Than A Property Tax Increase. “Instead, in what is likely to be the most controversial aspect of this budget, Molinaro wants to repeal the sales-tax exemption on residential energy sources. That means heating oil and natural gas bills will rise, but it also would give the county nearly $8 million in new revenue next year - and some of that money would have to be shared with municipalities. Molinaro called the repeal plan ‘painful’ but defended the idea, saying the county continues to make workforce and other cuts that will provide larger savings over time. The county executive says, given the choice, seeing energy bills rise is better than imposing greater hikes on property taxes because people can take steps to reduce their energy consumption while the property tax provides no such wiggle room.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/24/13]

- Molinaro Proposed A 1.9% Property Tax Increase At The Same Time. “That won't be easy. Molinaro's budget blueprint had to address a multimillion-dollar shortfall while cutting spending to stay under the state-imposed property tax cap. Overall, spending would be reduced by $1.6 million next year but the property-tax levy would increase by 1.9 percent, just below the state tax cap.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/24/13]

Molinaro Said A Tax Increase Was Better Than Cutting Jobs. “Molinaro said he doesn't ‘dismiss the difficulty’ the tax creates, but without the new revenue, 80 jobs would be cut or the property tax levy would increase by 12 percent.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/6/13]

The Energy Tax Caused Constituents To Criticize Molinaro For Violating “The Republican Philosophy Of Trying To Reduce Taxes.” “Sudiptar Ray, 62, of East Fishkill said he attended the county executive's address because he opposed the new energy tax. ‘This is going in the wrong direction,’ he said. ‘This is not consistent with the Republican philosophy of trying to reduce taxes.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/5/14]

Letter To The Editor Headline: “Molinaro Breaks Promise By Backing Energy Tax.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/10/14]

June 2014: The Energy Sales Tax Was Repealed

April 2014: $5.25 Million In Assistance From The State Was Given To Dutchess County, Allowing Them To Repeal The Energy Sales Tax. “The press conference was held to provide additional details about $5.25 million in assistance to the county that was included in the 2014-15 state budget adopted Monday. The sales tax went into effect on March 1. The press conference was hosted by state Sen. Greg Ball, R-Patterson, along with Molinaro and state Assemblywoman Didi Barrett, D-Hudson. The aid will allow the county to repeal the energy tax, which was passed narrowly by the Legislature in December in order to close a budget gap.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 4/3/14]

June 2014: The Energy Sales Tax Was Repealed. “Dutchess County residents soon will no longer see a controversial local sales tax on bills for things like fuel oil, natural gas and electricity. The 3.75 percent tax on most residential energy sources, which took effect March 1, was repealed Sunday. On an $800 fuel oil bill, the tax savings will be $30. Bills issued now for energy used before June 1 will still have the tax. County Executive Marc Molinaro said Monday, ‘It is not a policy we will be returning to.’ He added it was a measure 21 other counties have taken.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [6/2/14]

Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial: Molinaro’s “Ill-Timed Energy Tax Caused Massive Public Blowback And Had To Be Repealed.” “Molinaro has been innovative as well, launching a shared-services program that is providing millions of dollars to localities willing to consolidate and find efficiencies in government. And the county also has filled the long-vacant historian position, with the executive recognizing not only the area’s rich history but how important heritage tourism is to the local economy. The executive also has hit some bumps and bruises along the way. Reconfiguring the county’s economic-development network and developing a cohesive strategy have taken considerable time. He underestimated the difficulty to get state approval to move forward with a new jail, and an ill-timed energy tax caused massive public blowback and had to be repealed.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/23/15]

Molinaro’s Policies Transferred The Tax Burden From Dutchess County To Local Municipalities, Resulting In Local Municipalities Raising Their Tax Rates

2012: Molinaro’s 2013 Budget Proposed Capping Sales Tax Revenue Provided To Local Municipalities At $25 Million. “County Executive Molinaro is proposing to change the sales tax sharing arrangement the county currently provides to municipalities. Currently, the County’s full 3.75% portion of sales tax is shared with local municipalities (municipal share is projected at $29.5 million for 2012). The new proposal would cap the amount distributed to local cities, towns and villages at $25 million.” Dutchess County, Press Release, [9/14/12]

- 2013: Dutchess County Passed A Resolution Confirming The $25 Million Cap On Sales Tax Redistribution. “The County hereby commits 25 Million Dollars for distribution to Poughkeepsie, Beacon and the towns and villages outside of the Cities of Poughkeepsie and Beacon as provided in paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 of this agreement. In the event the maximum allowable rate of the County’s Sales and Use Tax falls below 3.75%, the County may terminate this agreement upon written notice to the cities.” Dutchess County, Resolution No. 2013164, [6/11/13]

2013: Beekman Town Councilmember: Molinaro’s Proposed Sales Tax Cap Will Cause The Town Of Beekman To Cut Services And Increase Property Taxes. “With the 2013 budget looming, some Dutchess County residents are fearful the county’s financial burden is shifting to local municipalities. Councilmember Ronald Mangeri said the Town of Beekman stands to lose approximately $120,000 under the proposed $25 million sales tax cap. He said the loss in revenue would hinder the town’s ability to meet obligations and lead to cutting services and increasing property taxes.” [The Journal News, 11/9/12]

2016: The Tax Agreement With Dutchess County Resulted In Poughkeepsie Being $2 Million Short In Sales Tax Revenue. “But if the county’s financial position is strong, it should take another look at a controversial sales tax agreement it has with municipalities, said Dutchess Legislator Joel Tyner. The current sales tax revenue distribution agreement was negotiated by Dutchess and its two cities - Poughkeepsie and Beacon - in 2013, in part to close a $40 million county budget gap. The agreement, which replaced one that expired in 2005, left the fiscally troubled City of Poughkeepsie $2 million short in sales tax revenue but guaranteed nearly $10 million a year. It was approved by both city councils and the Legislature. The sales tax agreement has come to the forefront of this year's City of Poughkeepsie budgeting process, as a nearly 17 percent tax increase is on the horizon for residents." Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/28/16]

2017: Dutchess County Residents In Poughkeepsie Had Their Property Taxes Increase By 16.5 Percent. "The lower tax rates and levies don't mean property taxes have gone down for every resident in Dutchess County. Property tax bills are a combination of taxes levied by the county and each municipality. While the county's tax levy has gone down, some local taxes may have increased. Property taxes levied by Poughkeepsie, for example, rose by 16.5 percent in 2017." PolitiFact, [5/26/18]

- The Poughkeepsie Common Council Chairman Said The County's Sales Tax Formula Change Resulted In A Deficit That Required The Tax Increase. "City of Poughkeepsie Common Council Chairman Chris Petsas said city residents can't afford a nearly 17 percent increase in the property tax levy proposed in the $85.1 million budget and he called on Mayor Rob Rolison to renegotiate the city's sales tax agreement with Dutchess County. The budget would boost spending 2.35 percent and increase the amount collected from property taxes by 16.5 percent to $23.2 million. Petsas responded that residents 'cannot afford a nearly 17 percent tax increase.' Rather, Petsas pointed to the sales tax formula change from 2013 as a major factor contributing to the city's deficit, which puts Poughkeepsie at $12.6 million in the red. Since the change, Petsas said the city has lost nearly $6.8 million, cumulatively, through the end of 2015." Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/16/16]
- Molinaro Accused The Poughkeepsie Common Council Chairman Of Pointing Fingers At The County. "Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said that the city's financial difficulties existed well before the 2013 sales tax agreement, with past budgets over-projecting revenue and under-projecting expenditures. 'I strongly encourage the Chairman to focus on ways we can cooperate to help the city grow rather than point fingers,' Molinaro said." Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/16/16]

- Empire Center: The Deal Extended "New York's Biggest Income Tax Increase In 50 Years." "On Dec. 6, 2011, Gov. Cuomo and legislative leaders announced a deal to extend New York's biggest income tax increase in 50 years, targeting earners of $1 million and more for what will be the third highest income tax rate imposed by any major state. About one quarter of the $2.6 billion tax hike will be redistributed in the form of tax cuts for middle-class filers, and the rest will be spent." Empire Center, accessed [11/23/21]

2011: New York's Top Income Tax Rate Was The Second Highest In The Country. "Under the proposal announced on Tuesday, newly created tax rates would range from 6.45 percent for income between $40,000 and $150,000 (for married couples) to 8.82 percent for income over $2 million. Tax brackets would be indexed to the rate of inflation and would take effect next year. The new top tax bracket would extend through 2014; the others would be permanent. Under the new brackets, New York's top income tax rate of 8.82 percent would rank among the highest in the country, according to the Federation of Tax Administrators. It would be significantly higher than the top rate in Connecticut, which was raised earlier this year to 6.7 percent, but just under New Jersey's top rate of 8.97 percent." New York Times, [12/6/11]

Molinaro Voted To Extend The Millionaires' Tax In 2011. "Molinaro did vote for Cuomo's tax deal that extended the 'millionaires' tax' in 2011. While only one section of the bill, the legislation created a higher tax bracket for the highest-income residents in New York and reduced the rates for millions of middle-class residents. Described by some as a cut and others as an increase, it lowered the rate for high-income earners, but set it higher than it would have been had the previous rate simply expired. Molinaro also voted in 2011 for Cuomo's 2 percent limit on property tax increases. The measure, popular with fiscal conservatives, was aimed at curbing soaring property taxes." Molinaro Later Called For Phasing Out New York's "Millionaires Tax," Citing Concern For "Those Who Can't Afford It"

Molinaro Supported Phasing Out The "Millionaires Tax" As A Way To "Make Taxation A Bit More Respectful Of Those Who Can't Afford It." "Molinaro, currently Dutchess county executive, has repeatedly sounded the theme since formally launching his bid for governor April 2. While he has largely spoken in sweeping generalities -- promising 'bold' proposals to come during his nomination acceptance speech at the May 23 state GOP convention -- details are starting to emerge. Molinaro said that in addition to making the state's 2-percent cap on annual property tax increases permanent, he would seek to phase out the so-called 'millionaires tax' if elected. The income tax rate for the top bracket -- which includes individuals making $1 million or more and couples earning $2 million or more per year -- went from 6.85 to 8.82 percent in 2009, and has been extended by Democratic Governor Andrew Cuomo and a Legislature where each house is controlled by one of the two major parties. 'I would seek to have it expire over time,' Molinaro said of the millionaires tax. 'I do think that there's a way to make taxation in the state a bit more respectful of those who can't afford it.'" 2008: Molinaro Supported Raising Taxes

2008: Molinaro Said Tax Increases "Ought To Be On The Table." "Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Tivoli, said he worries about shifting costs onto municipalities if that results in property tax increases. However, Molinaro said, 'In my opinion, everything ought to be on the table and we should have a serious dialogue on how to save the state from this fiscal crisis.'" [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/17/08]

1999-2006: Molinaro Voted To Raise Taxes In The Dutchess County Legislature, Resulting In Almost A 50% Increase In Property Taxes While He Was In Office

2006: Molinaro Voted To Increase Property Taxes By 15 Percent In A Budget That Ultimately Was Not Adopted

2006: Molinaro Voted To Increase Dutchess County Property Taxes By 15 Percent. “At issue was the $387.5 million spending plan proposed by County Executive William Steinhaus. In the end, the Republican majority voted to accept much of what Steinhaus proposed, including a 15 percent increase in the county's property tax levy. Steinhaus has about a week to veto changes to his proposal, and the Legislature is scheduled to meet again Dec. 18 to consider overriding any vetoes. ‘This has been a productive process, and open, and I'm very grateful for that,’ Legislator Marc Molinaro, R-Tivoli, said before the vote. All 13 Republican legislators voted for the budget, and the 12 Democrats voted against it.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/8/06]

The 2007 Proposed Budget Increased The Mortgage Tax, Extended A 3.75 Percent Sales Tax, And Led To Likely Double Digit Property Tax Rate Increases. “The Legislature accepted Steinhaus' recommendation of a mortgage tax increase from 1 percent to 1.25 percent, a tax hike that will require state authorization. The approved budget also extends the county's 3.75 percent sales tax, another measure advocated by Steinhaus. But the Legislature rejected a renewed tax on clothing purchases under $110, which Steinhaus said was needed to recoup part of a drop this year in sales tax revenues. Sales tax is the county's largest single revenue source. The property tax levy, which is the total amount in property taxes to be collected by the county, will increase to $86 million under the budget. The effect on individual property owners will vary across the county, but most communities will see double-digit percentage rate increases.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/8/06]

2005: Dutchess County Raised Property Taxes By 5.8 Percent, In A Budget Molinaro Supported. “Steinhaus proposed an increase of 13 percent in the amount raised by property taxes, an additional 0.25 percent onto the county's 1 percent mortgage tax and a vehicle registration fee of $5 or $10 a year, depending on the vehicle's size. Legislators approved the mortgage tax increase, but exempted the first $250,000 of a mortgage's value from the additional 0.25 percent, and rejected the vehicle tax. But they also pushed up to 18 percent the increase in the amount raised by property taxes, or a hike in the property tax rate of 5.8 percent. ‘It was the very best we could do under some very difficult circumstances,’ said Legislator Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, chairman of the budget committee. ‘We'll go back to the taxpayers and our residents and explain it as best we can.’ [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/7/04]

2005: The Dutchess County Budget Extended The 8 Percent Sales Tax. “Legislators also agreed with Steinhaus on extending the 8 percent sales tax in the county. The county approved raising the sales tax from 7.25 percent two years ago, but the additional 0.75 percent was due to expire in November 2005.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/7/04]

2004: Molinaro Chaired The Dutchess County Budget & Finance Committee Which Raised Property Taxes 4.6 Percent, Hotel Taxes 1 Percent, And Introduced A Cell Phone Tax. “As expected, a legislative committee on Tuesday approved -- with a few changes -- Dutchess County's proposed 2004 budget. Budget & Finance Committee Chairman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, described the changes as ‘modest and appropriate adjustments to the proposed budget, but it does our level best to protect the taxpayers.’ The $339.4 million budget includes an average property tax increase of 4.6 percent, a 1 percent increase in the county's hotel tax from 3 to 4 percent and revenue from a proposed cell phone surcharge.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/26/03]

2004: Molinaro Was Criticized For Increasing Property Taxes, Mortgage Taxes, And Creating A “Cell Phone Tax.” “Manning said Molinaro's record as head of the county's budget committee was proof of his record and where he stands on taxes. He said in 2004, the Dutchess legislator voted to increase taxes by 5.8 percent. Manning also criticized Molinaro for voting to increase the county mortgage tax and to create a new county cell phone tax. ‘Marc is the poster boy for how not to run government,’ Manning said. ‘You can't reward him with a job in Albany. We already have too many tax-and-spenders.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/10/06]

Molinaro Supported A “Cell Phone Tax”

2004: Molinaro Chaired The Dutchess County Budget & Finance Committee Which Raised Property Taxes 4.6 Percent, Hotel Taxes 1 Percent, And A Cell Phone Surcharge. “As expected, a legislative committee on Tuesday approved -- with a few changes -- Dutchess County's proposed 2004 budget. 2002: The Dutchess County Legislature Wanted To Create A 30 Cents A Month “Cell Phone Tax.” “Dutchess and Ulster counties can add a 30-cents tax on wireless telephone monthly service under a new law signed by Gov. George Pataki. Cell phone users could be charged up to an additional 30 cents more a month, with the money going to the counties' emergency response systems and police dispatch. The Dutchess County Legislature voted June 18 to ask the county to create the 30-cent surcharge. The new law gives the go-ahead to 13 New York counties if their county legislatures vote to add the surcharge. People would be charged extra only if the cell phone is registered in one of those counties. The money would be collected by the cellular service provider and distributed to county governments.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/20/02]

Molinaro Voted For A 30% Pay Raise For Himself

2003: Molinaro Voted For A 30% Pay Raise For Himself. “The raises were approved by the county Legislature by a 19-15 vote this month. Legislators' salaries would increase by about 30 percent to $15,000. Those holding leadership positions would receive more, up to $32,000 for the chairman. Pay for the county executive and sheriff would go up roughly 10 percent each to $128,000 and $115,000, respectively [...] Here's how Dutchess County legislators voted this month on a pay raise plan: Yes: [...] Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 6/25/03]

1995-2007: Molinaro Raised Taxes As Mayor Of Tivoli And Increased The Cost Of Water

Molinaro Raised Tivoli Property Taxes While Raising Salaries Of City Employees And Contractors

2002: Tivoli Increased Property Taxes By Two Cents While Raising Municipal Salaries. “Tivoli's $770,000 proposed village budget calls for a slight tax increase in the coming year. The budget calls for a tax rate of $10.31 per $1,000 of assessed property value, a slight increase from last year's rate of $10.29. The plan shows ‘no major adjustments in expenses, and a slight increase in the assessed value of the village,’ Mayor Marc Molinaro said. The tentative budget calls for a 3-percent increase in municipal salaries and continues to provide for library support, emergency response and municipal services.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 4/9/02]

2000: Molinaro Raised Property Taxes By Two Percent. “But grant revenues and growing property values will keep the tax hike to about 2 percent, Mayor Marcus Molinaro announced Monday. ‘Every year we get better at this,’ said the mayor. ‘It is probably the best budget document we've put together.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/28/00]

- Molinaro Used The 2000 Tax Increase To Give Pay Raises To Contracted Employees. “Elected officials, Molinaro said, will not see pay raises under the spending plan. Contracted employees, however, such as the treasurer and the village clerk, will see increases because their compensation levels are well below market value. ‘What we're simply talking about is paying them for the work they're doing,’ said Molinaro, projecting the average salary will grow about 4 percent.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/28/00]

Molinaro Repeatedly Increased The Cost Of Water For Tivoli Residents

2006: Molinaro Increased Water Rates By Fifteen Percent, After Expected Gains From New Wells Did Not Occur

2006: Water Rates In Tivoli Increased By Fifteen Percent Due To Budget Shortfalls And Consumption Decreases. “Village residents have had water problems for years. Now that supply issues have been addressed, residents are being hit with a 15 percent increase in their rates, approved this week by the village board. The increase is expected to make up for shortfalls in the water budget that have accumulated over the last three years. The shortfalls were caused by recent capital improvement projects and an unexpected loss of customers, Mayor Marc Molinaro said. ‘It was the first time we raised rates since 2002,’ Molinaro said. ‘We had a 10 percent drop in consumption and we were never able to see any financial gains. We had planned to make increases of 2.5 percent to 3 percent over the course of the last few years, but we just didn’t want to do it. Raising taxes is never easy and we fell into the same trap other communities fall into.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/24/06]

- Molinaro Attributed Rising Water Costs To The Construction Of Two New Wells, Even Though Those New Wells Resulted In New Water Sources. “He also attributed the increase in costs to completion of two wells in 2003. The project ended a search for water in the village that lasted decades. But the project cost the town nearly $300,000, with $265,000 of the cost being borrowed over 20 years. Prior to construction of the wells, village residents were subject to summers filled with perpetual water warnings.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/24/06]

2006: Tivoli Residents Worried About Rising Water Rates. “Village resident Elli Du-binski said she worried about the continual increases in taxes across the state. ‘I’m trying to deal with it all somehow,’ she said. ‘I came here because it was a remote place and the real estate was cheap and I could afford it. I’m retired and now my taxes are equal to my Medicare. And that doesn’t even include my water bill.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/24/06]

2002: Under Molinaro’s Mayorship, The Town Of Tivoli Planned To Raise Water Rates Up To 25 Percent, Which Caused Unhappiness Among Residents

2002: Tivoli Considered Raising Water Rates Up To Twenty Five Percent In Order To Fund Two New Water Wells. “Officials in the village of Tivoli are contemplating raising water rates up to 25 percent to finance some long-needed system improvements. In March, the village signed a long-term lease for two permanent wells expected to double available water. The existing water system is at or near capacity, prompting conservation measures during five of the past eight years. Making the updates is expected to cost the village approximately $26,400 a year, which includes $1,000 per month rent for use of the well sites and a $1,200 monthly bond payment to finance improvements. While he doesn’t want to raise rates, Mayor Marc Molinaro said he hopes to keep the impact to users at a minimum.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/15/02]

2002: Water Rates Were Raised By 25 Percent For Some Residents. “While he doesn't want to raise rates, Mayor Marc Molinaro said he hopes to keep the impact to users at a minimum. Approximately one-third of the community won't see a rate increase, he said. For senior citizens and single parents who typically use less than 10,000 gallons per quarter, the rate will remain unchanged at $4.40 per thousand gallons. 10% hike for half of users For about half of the community, which uses between 10,000 and 20,000 gallons, there would be a 10 percent increase to $4.85. The average water customer uses between 12,000 and 15,000 gallons per quarter, he said. Larger users would see the biggest hikes, ranging from 15 to 25 percent, depending on usage. While Molinaro said he hadn't heard any complaints, not all residents were pleased to hear of the increase.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/15/02]

Molinaro Claimed He Had Not Heard Any Complaints About Water Rate Increases, But Residents Were Unhappy About Water Rate Hikes. “While Molinaro said he hadn’t heard any complaints, not all residents were pleased to hear of the increase. ‘It seems we pay a lot for water now,’ said Ronnie Macey, a village resident for five years. ‘It looks like we’re going to pay a lot more.’ In her family of four, the bill runs about $140 for a three-month period. If the water quality was better, it would be an easier pill to swallow, she said. ‘Everything’s going up,’ Macey said. The two wells, which can provide a total of 85 gallons per minute, will serve as a secondary source of water for the village. The village has seven wells, six of which it owns. Average use ranges from 75,000 to 78,000 gallons daily, with usage reaching 92,000 in the summer, Molinaro said.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/15/02]

2023: Molinaro Voted For Multiple Bills That Rolled Back Worker Protections

June 2023: Molinaro Voted For The CHOICE Arrangement Act, Which Would Allow Employers To Choose Health Care Plans That Don’t Cover Preexisting Conditions, Maternity Care, Or Prescription Drugs

June 2023: Molinaro Voted For The CHOICE Arrangement Act, Which Allowed Employers More Flexibility In Deciding What Type Of Healthcare To Provide Employees. In June 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would create additional flexibilities for employers providing health insurance.

The bill would allow groups of employers to establish and maintain group health plans for employees. It would require such groups to provide coverage to at least 51 employees and to have been in existence for at least two years prior to establishing the health plan. It would allow self-employed individuals to establish a group for the purpose of maintaining a group health plan. The bill would also allow employer-financed health reimbursement arrangements (HRA) to be used by employees to purchase insurance plans on state exchanges. It would also deem such HRAs compliant with requirements under current law for employers to provide health insurance coverage. To be eligible, it would require employers to offer the same HRA plan to all employees of a certain class, as defined by the bill, including full- and part-time employees, employees under the same collective bargaining agreement, and non-resident alien employees. It would also require employers to give eligible employees 90 days' written notice prior to the beginning of the plan year of their rights and obligations. Among other provisions, the bill would rescind $245 million in fiscal 2024 from the Health and Human Services Department's Prevention and Public Health Fund, specify that stop-loss policies obtained by a self-insured group health plan or plan sponsor do not qualify as health insurance coverage under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, and require the Treasury Department, within one year of enactment, to notify employers of the availability of tax-advantaged flexible health insurance benefits, with an initial focus on small businesses. HR 3799 also contains the text of the Small Business Flexibility Act (HR 3798), the Association Health Plans Act (HR 2868) and the Self-Insurance Protection Act (HR 2813)." The bill passed 220 to 209. H.R. 3799, [Vote #282, 6/21/23; CQ, 6/21/23]

- The CHOICE Arrangement Act Would Roll Back Basic Health Protections For Workers. "House Republicans have advanced a package of bills that could reduce health insurance cost for certain businesses and consumers, partly by rolling back some consumer protections. Rather than outright repeal, however, the subtler effort could allow more employers to bypass the landmark health insurance overhaul's basic benefits requirements and most state standards. At the same time, the Biden administration seeks to undo some of the previous administration's health insurance rules, proposing to retighten regulations for short-term plans. [...] The plans don't have to cover all the benefits required of ACA plans, for example, and can bar coverage for preexisting medical conditions, can set annual or lifetime limits, and often don't include maternity care or prescription drugs. Despite notices warning of a plan's limitations, consumers may not realize what isn't covered until they try to use it." NPR, [7/24/23]

AFL-CIO: The CHOICE Arrangement Act Would Subject "Workers To Financial Risk." "H.R. 3799 will loosen the definition of association health plans (AHPs), opening the door for more employers to establish plans that evade Affordable Care Act (ACA) requirements to cover essential health benefits and participate in market-wide risk pools. [...] Too often, these plans misjudged the risks involved and have gone insolvent, leaving enrollees in the lurch. In other cases, enrollees have been defrauded by scammers who exploited the AHP regulatory loopholes. Second, under the guise of 'protecting' stop-loss insurance for self-funded group health plans, H.R. 3799 would allow employer health plans to avoid the ACA requirement that insured plans cover essential health benefits. The policy is intended to allow plans that are unable to actually self-fund with adequate reserves to instead purchase a high level of stop-loss insurance. Lack of adequate reserves leave many of these plans, and their enrollees, at risk since stop-loss insurers often retain the right to drop the insurance if medical costs for the group begin to climb. This is not a stable form of coverage. [...] We urge you to protect working people by opposing this legislation that undermines comprehensive coverage and subjects workers to financial risk." AFL-CIO, [6/21/23]

June 2023: Molinaro Voted For The REINS Act, Which Would Cause Delays In Issuing Crucial Worker Protections

June 2023: Molinaro Voted For The REINS Act To Require Congressional Approval For Executive Actions Deemed A "Major Rule." In June 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Passage of the bill, as amended, that would require congressional approval of a joint resolution to implement any 'major rule' that has or is likely to result in an annual economic effect of at least $100 million; a major increase in costs or prices; or significant adverse effects on U.S. competition, employment, productivity or international competitiveness. It would exempt from the bill's requirements any rule issued by the Federal Reserve Board of Governors or the Federal Open Market Committee. The bill would allow a major rule to go into effect without congressional approval for a 90-day period if the president determines by executive order that such rule is necessary because of an imminent threat or emergency, necessary for national security or the enforcement of criminal laws, or if the rule has been issued to implement an international trade agreement. If a joint resolution of approval for a major rule is not enacted within 70 legislative days, it would prohibit consideration of a joint resolution of approval for the same rule for the duration of the Congress.” The bill passed 221 to 210. H.R. 277, [Vote #265, 6/14/23; CQ, 6/14/23]

The AFL-CIO Opposed The REINS Act, Citing How It Would ‘Cripple A Regulatory Process That Already Causes Excessive Delays In The Issuance Of Crucial Worker And Public Protections. “On behalf of the AFL-CIO, I urge you to oppose H.R. 277, Regulations from the Executive in Need of Scrutiny Act of 2023 (REINS Act), which is scheduled for floor action this week. The REINS Act is an extreme measure that would make it virtually impossible for agencies to issue any meaningful rules, threatening the health and safety of workers and the public. [...] The REINS Act would cripple a regulatory process that already causes excessive delays in the issuance of crucial worker and public protections.” AFL-CIO, [6/7/23]

- AFL-CIO: The REINS Act Could “Simply Kill [...] Commonsense Life-Saving Rules.” “For example, the 2010 Occupational Safety and Health Administration’s (OSHA’s) construction safety standard on cranes and derricks took 10 years to finalize, even though this rule had unanimous support from industry and labor. OSHA’s 2016 silica standard, which protects workers from deadly silica dust and prevents 700 deaths a year, took nearly 19 years. Under REINS, Congressional inaction could simply kill such commonsense life-saving rules.” AFL-CIO, [6/7/23]

Molinaro Voted For The Protecting Taxpayers And Victims Of Unemployment Fraud Act, Which Would Harm State Insurance Systems For Unemployed Workers

Molinaro Voted For The Protecting Taxpayers And Victims Of Unemployment Fraud Act. In May 2023, Molinaro voted for: “This bill addresses fraud and overpayments of pandemic unemployment insurance (UI) benefits, including by providing incentives for states to investigate and recover overpayments of these benefits. Specifically, the bill allows states to retain 25% of any recovered fraudulent overpayments. These retained funds may be used for modernizing unemployment compensation systems and information technology, reimbursing administrative costs, hiring fraud investigators and prosecutors, and for other program integrity activities. Additionally, the bill allows states to retain 5% of any overpayments of regular and extended UI benefits. A state must, in order to retain these overpayments, certify that it has met certain conditions for data matching. Next, the bill extends from 3 to 10 years the time during which states can recover overpayments of pandemic UI benefits. Further, the bill extends flexibilities for states to hire temporary staff on a noncompetitive basis to identify, pursue, and recover fraudulent overpayments under federal pandemic unemployment compensation programs authorized by the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act). The bill also extends from 5 to 10 years the statute of limitations for federal criminal charges or civil enforcement actions related to UI fraud. Finally, the bill repeals a section of the CARES Act (as amended by the American Rescue Plan of 2021) that provided funding for UI program integrity activities. Subject to appropriations, the unobligated balance of this funding shall be transferred to the Department of the Treasury and periodically credited to the appropriate state account in the Unemployment Trust Fund, as outlined by the bill.” The bill passed the house 230-200. H.R. 1163, [5/11/23]

AFL-CIO: The Protecting Taxpayers And Victims Of Employment Fraud Act Could Put Workers At Long-Term Financial Risk. “The American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) already included $2 billion in funding to address fraud and promote access and timely payment of state unemployment compensation programs. Less than two years later, the sponsors of H.R. 1163 would reverse course, undermining the ongoing efforts of states to improve their unemployment systems and strengthen anti-fraud measures. [...] Despite the need to maintain an experienced merit-based workforce to provide UI benefits, H.R. 1163 would suspend for seven years the requirement that states use merit-based public employees to staff their UI programs. H.R. 1163 also extends from three to ten years the period in which states can recover all pandemic unemployment overpayments—even if the mistake was not the claimant’s fault. A mistake in administering a program is not fraud committed by a claimant. Rather than directing resources to identify and hold accountable any individual who intentionally stole money from workers hard-hit by the COVID-19 pandemic, as documented by the Department of Labor Office of Inspector General earlier this year, H.R. 1163 puts workers at financial risk for up to a decade for mistakes that were not of their own making and may be unknown to them.” AFL-CIO, [5/9/23]

The Protecting Taxpayers And Victims Of Employment Fraud Act Encouraged States To Remove Funding For Permanent Unemployment Insurance Staff. “The legislation also seems to encourage states to direct UI administrative funding away from hiring permanent public staff for UI programs. The 2020 CARES Act granted state UI agencies an exemption from the requirement to hire merit-based, public service employees so that temporary staff or contractors could be hired quickly to respond to the deluge of pandemic-related UI claims. This temporary exemption is no longer needed because UI claims have receded to near 50-year lows. What is needed now is to build a first-class UI system with a trained workforce that will be ready the next time UI claims rise, and to address the backlog of claims and appeals from the pandemic. Yet this bill would permit such an exemption though the end of 2030.” Center For Budget And Policy Priorities, [5/9/23]

The Protecting Taxpayers And Victims Of Employment Fraud Act Would Repeal Fraud Prevention Funds From State Workforce Agencies. “More controversially, the bill would also repeal fraud prevention funds Democrats provided to state workforce agencies as part of the American Rescue Plan in 2021. Molinaro Co-Sponsored A Bill Preventing States From Setting Overtime Thresholds For Farmworkers Below 60 Hours In A Week

2023: Molinaro Co-Sponsored A Bill Preventing States From Setting Overtime Thresholds For Farmworkers Below 60 Hours In A Week. “Williams, R-Sennett, is the sponsor of legislation that would amend the federal Fair Labor Standards Act to prevent states from setting overtime thresholds for farmworkers below 60 hours in a week. [...] Williams' bill has five cosponsors, four of whom are from New York U.S. Reps. Nick Langworthy, Marc Molinaro, Elise Stefanik and Claudia Tenney. Under the adopted measure, the overtime pay threshold will gradually be reduced to 40 hours by 2032. Starting on Jan. 1, 2024, farm workers will be eligible for overtime pay after 56 hours worked per week. 2018: Under Molinaro’s Leadership, Dutchess County Bus Workers Threatened To Go On Strike Over Low Pay

Dutchess County Bus System Workers Issued A Strike Deadline Due To Low Pay From The County

Dutchess County Bus System Workers Went On Strike Because Their Pay Was Lower Than Other Drivers On Comparable Jurisdictions. “Dutchess County’s bus system workers have extended their deadline to strike if a contract cannot be negotiated to April 10. The strike was to start as early as Wednesday, but Local 445 of the Teamsters union agreed to extend its deadline at the request of federal mediator Kathy Murray-Cannon. The county had urged passengers to seek alternative transportation in the event of service disruptions during a strike. ‘There’s a lot happening, and we remain hopeful that we can improve the county’s first offer to us,’ said union representative Jerry Ebert. The key issue is pay, Ebert said. ‘The bus drivers’ starting pay is $18.83 per hour, and tops off at $21.97 per hour. This is less than any comparable municipal drivers in a 500-mile radius,’ he said.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 4/4/18]

Molinaro Dismissed Workers’ Concerns And Called The County’s Contract Offers For Bus System Workers “Generous And Rewarding”

Molinaro Dismissed Workers’ Concerns And Called The County’s Contract Offers For Bus System Workers “Generous And Rewarding.” “Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro in a statement Tuesday said the hourly wage increase on the table, which he said ranges from 14-to-33 percent over two years, ‘ensures (Transit Management of Dutchess County) employees are paid comparable or higher than others in the local region,’ and would put the wages “in the top third of the nation, based on national transit data.’ [...] Molinaro called the existing contract offer ‘generous and rewarding’ in a statement. ‘We remain hopeful the Teamsters Local 445 negotiating committee will allow the union members to fairly evaluate the offer that has been made with a vote and we can move forward with an agreement,’ Molinaro said.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 4/4/18]

2018: Molinaro Opposed Plans To Allow Tipped Workers To Be Paid A Full Minimum Wage

2018: The New York Labor Department Considered A Proposal To Allow Tipped Workers To Be Paid A Full Minimum Wage. “The state Labor Department held seven hearings, received more than 40 hours of testimony and accepted hundreds of written comments on whether it should end the separate wage for waiters and other workers who rely on tips. Now the state will decide whether to end the tipped wage and provide workers the full minimum wage - a proposal being opposed by businesses and some in the industry.” Rochester Democrat & Chronicle, [7/16/18]

Molinaro Opposed The Proposal, And Accused Cuomo Of Being Influenced By Unions Who Favored The Proposal. “In an op-ed Monday in the New York Daily News, Republican gubernatorial candidate Marc Molinaro urged the state to drop plans to end the tipped wage. He held a news conference Monday at City Hall in Manhattan to oppose the proposal, accusing Cuomo of possibly bowing to some unions who want the change. ‘If these are the people Cuomo wants to impress, he can knock himself out,’ wrote Molinaro, the Dutchess County executive. ‘But maybe he should do it without knocking New York eateries and their servers out of business at the same time.’” [Ithaca Journal, 7/17/18]

2018: Molinaro Called For Reforming Health Care, Overtime, And Collective Bargaining Protections For MTA Workers, And Shrinking Staff Size To Cut Costs

2018: Molinaro Called For Reforming Health Care, Overtime, And Collective Bargaining Protections For MTA Workers, And Shrinking Staff Size To Cut Costs. “The GOP nominee says collective bargaining and overtime and health care cost reforms will help the MTA reduce operating and some capital expenses. He also wants to cut down on overstaffing - such as by reducing the number of workers on site for subway tunnel boring machines - to help bring down the price tags of large projects, which experts agree are far more expensive in New York City than in other similar metropolitan areas.” [Newsday, 8/29/18]

Molinaro Said The MTA Was Suffering Because Of The “Waste, Fraud, And Abuse” That Went Into Labor Costs. “‘In order to make the appropriate investments we cannot only rely on revenue. We have to confront the costs,’ he said. ‘And the MTA, without question, is falling victim to waste, fraud and abuse, and we as a state must confront the high cost of labor.’” [Newsday, 8/29/18]

The Transit Workers’ Union And AFL-CIO Blasted Molinaro’s Plan As Reliant On “Faulty Statistics”

The Head Of The Transit Workers’ Union Said Molinaro’s Plan Was “A Total Non-Starter” That Was “Anti-Union” And Relied On “Faulty Statistics.” “Tony Utano, the president of TWU Local 100, the transit workers’ union that has defended Cuomo, said Molinaro’s plan is ‘anti-union.’ ‘The Molinaro plan for the MTA is a total non-starter that relies on faulty statistics, and a vicious anti-union theory that workers are overcompensated for their labor,’ Utano said in a statement.” [Newsday, 8/29/18]

The President Of AFL-CIO Said Molinaro’s Plan Was Based On “The Script Of Right Wing Conservative Ideologues In Washington” And Undermined Protections For Workers. “‘This is exactly what I would expect from someone who is working off the script of right wing conservative ideologues in Washington whose sole purpose is to vilify working people and their unions,’ said AFL-CIO President Mario Cilentio. ‘Marc Molinaro predictably casts aside the vital role working men and women play, not just at the MTA, but to the economic well-being of our state. The Scaffold Law Held Developers And Contractors Fully Liable For Accidents On Their Sites. “New York could shave billions of dollars in bloated construction costs by overhauling a single antiquated law, according to GOP gubernatorial candidate Marc Molinaro. The so-called Scaffold Law holds developers and contractors 100 percent liable for accidents on their sites - even if caused by workers’ negligence. - Developers And Contractors Claimed The Law Hampered Construction And Economic Growth Because Of Payouts And Insurance Premiums. “But a lobby of contractors, property owners and insurers has in recent months renewed a campaign against the law, arguing that no less than the future of the state’s construction industry is at stake. They argue that the law is antiquated and prejudicial against contractors and property owners, and essentially absolves employees of responsibility for their own accidents, leading to huge settlements. The payouts, they contend, have in turn led to skyrocketing insurance premiums that are hampering construction and the state’s economic growth.” New York Times, [12/17/13]
- Workers’ Advocates Claimed The Law Ensured Worker Safety And Held Developers And Contractors Accountable For Workplace Safety. “But a counter-lobby of unions, workers’ advocates and trial lawyers is pushing back just as fiercely. The law, they argue, is essential to ensuring the safety of workers in some of the world’s most dangerous jobs, particularly those employed by shoddy contracting firms that cut corners to save money. - Worker’s Advocates Claimed Changing The Law Would Disproportionately Impact Minority And Immigrant Laborers. “Workers’ advocates argue that erosion of the Scaffold Law would have a disproportionate impact on minority and immigrant laborers, who, the advocates say, are more likely to work for nonunion companies that may not provide proper safety training and equipment. Immigrants, the advocates said, are less likely to speak the same language as their bosses on a job site and more likely to fear being fired if they demand a safer workplace.” New York Times, [12/17/13]

Molinaro Voted To Suspend The Debt Limit, Raising Housing Costs For Thousands

2023: Molinaro Voted For The Default On America Act, Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021 coronavirus relief reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all “major” federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change.” The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. The Default On America Act Would Have Repealed Incentives For Domestic Manufacturing, Increasing Reliance On Chinese Products. “Default on America Act: Gutting Clean Energy, Raising Consumer Prices, and Surrendering Jobs and Energy Security to China. By repealing the climate tax provisions in the Inflation Reduction Act, House Republicans are proposing a total surrender to the climate crisis and increasing costs for everyday Americans. The Default On America Act Would Have Overturned The Clean Energy Tax Credits That Led To The Opening Of More Than 40 New Manufacturing Sites In The US. “The warnings about H.R. 2811, the ‘Limit, Save, Grow Act’ — the GOP plan that would raise the debt limit but cut clean energy tax credits that have spurred a domestic manufacturing boom and slash a fee on methane emissions that are toxic to the environment — provided plenty of ammunition for Democrats. [...] Solar Energy Industries Association President and CEO Abigail Ross Hopper said that since enactment of the Inflation Reduction Act last year, upwards of 40 new electric vehicle battery manufacturing sites — and 22 factory expansions — have come online in the United States.” E&E News, [5/5/23]

Molinaro Supported The 2017 Republican Tax Law, Which Incentivized Companies To Move Jobs Overseas, Risking Nearly A Million Jobs In New York

Molinaro Supported The Tax Cuts And Jobs Act

City And State: Molinaro Supported Trump’s Tax Cuts. “Molinaro has consistently worked to bolster his image as a centrist. He has said that same-sex marriage and protections for members of the LGBTQ community are basic civil rights. He voted against allowing hydraulic fracturing in New York as a member of the Assembly, though he now supports a pilot program to allow the controversial practice in the Southern Tier. On the other hand, he supports Trump’s recently passed tax bill, which gave large tax cuts to the wealthy and corporations but will raise taxes on many middle-class New Yorkers due to its provision limiting the state and local tax deduction. He is campaigning for governor on a plan that would cut taxes on New York’s richest residents and also attempt to reduce local property taxes.” City and State, [10/10/18]

The Tax Cuts And Jobs Act Increased Corporations Incentives To Move Jobs Abroad, Risking Nearly A Million Jobs In New York

Tax Experts Said The Tax Cuts And Jobs Act Increased Incentives For Companies To Move Jobs Overseas.

“What happened to the workers in Clinton, tax experts say, will probably happen to more Americans if the Republican tax overhaul becomes law. The legislation fails to eliminate long-standing incentives for companies to move overseas and, in some cases, may even increase them, they say. ‘This bill is potentially more dangerous than our current system,’ said Stephen Shay, a senior lecturer at Harvard Law School and former Treasury Department international tax expert in the Obama administration. ‘It creates a real incentive to shift real activity offshore.’”

Washington Post, [12/15/17]

- HEADLINE: “Trump Promised ‘America First’ Would Keep Jobs Here. But The Tax Plan Might Push Them Overseas.” Washington Post, [12/15/17]
- Because Of The Way The Tax Bill Taxed Foreign Income, Corporations Would Increase Tax Free Income The More Equipment It Had Abroad. “In the future, corporations would be required to pay about a 10 percent minimum tax on overseas income above a certain level. The provision is billed as a way to discourage the movement of jobs and profit overseas. But the fine print of the new global minimum tax would make the problem worse, several tax specialists said. [...] First, a corporation would pay that global minimum tax only on profit above a ‘routine’ rate of return on the tangible assets — such as factories — it has overseas. So the more equipment a corporation has in other countries, the more tax-free income it can earn. The legislation thus offers corporations ‘a perverse incentive’ to shift assembly lines abroad, said Steve Rosenthal of the Tax Policy Center.” Washington Post, [12/15/17]
- Under Tax Bill, A Corporation That Built A Plant In A Foreign Country Would Pay Substantially Less In Taxes On Foreign Profit Than Profits Earned In The United States. “Second, the bill sets the ‘routine’ return at 10 percent — far more generous than would typically be the case. Such allowances are normally fixed a couple of percentage points above risk-free Treasury yields, which are currently around 2.4 percent. As a result, a U.S. corporation that builds a $100 million plant in another country and makes a foreign profit of $20 million would pay roughly $1 million in tax versus $4 million on the same profit if earned in the United States, said Rosenthal, who has been a tax lawyer for 25 years and drafted tax legislation as a staffer for the Joint Committee on Taxation.” Washington Post, [12/15/17]

Sperling: GOP Tax Bill Would “Give A Permanent Preference To Foreign Income And Lead Companies To Shift More Profits To Tax Havens Knowing That They Could Permanently Avoid Virtually All Taxation On Such Profits.”

“Yet, it is clear that a territorial system could have just the opposite impact: It could give a permanent preference to foreign income and lead companies to shift more profits to tax havens knowing that they could permanently avoid virtually all taxation on such profits. [...] What was problematic about this design was that it not only encouraged companies to move profits to tax havens, but it actually encouraged them to simultaneously move jobs and operations such as manufacturing to industrialized countries that had typical tax rates and to shift more profits to tax havens.” The Atlantic, Gene Sperling, [12/8/17]

CBO: Provisions In The Tax Cuts & Jobs Act May Increase Corporations Incentive To Locate Tangible Assets’ Like Factories Abroad Because By Locating Fewer Tangible Assets In The United States, The Corporation Can Increase Its Deductible Foreign Income While Reducing Its Tax Liability On Foreign Income.

“The act contains several provisions to reduce corporations’ incentive to shift profits out of the United States. Two provisions—which impose a tax on global intangible low-tax income (GILTI) and create a deduction for foreign-derived intangible income (FDII)—reduce corporations’ incentive to locate high-return assets (which are often intangible assets, such as intellectual property, or IP) in low-tax countries. The provisions reduce that incentive by applying special treatment to profits that exceed a specified return on tangible assets (such as equipment and structures). In addition to reducing profit shifting through the location of intangible assets, the GILTI and FDII provisions affect corporations’ decisions about where to locate tangible assets. By locating more tangible assets abroad, a corporation is able to reduce the amount of foreign income that is categorized as GILTI.

Similarly, by locating fewer tangible assets in the United States, a corporation can increase the amount of U.S. income that can be deducted as FDII. Together, the provisions may increase corporations' incentive to locate tangible assets abroad. (Like profit shifting, such decisions change the locations of reported profits—but they are not classified as profit shifting, because they involve actual economic activity rather than simply reporting.)” Congressional Budget Office, Appendix B: The Effects Of The 2017 Tax Act On CBO’s Economic And Budget Projections, [April 2018]

New York Times: Tax Bill “Could Actually Make It Attractive For Companies To Put More Assembly Lines On Foreign Soil.” “The bill that Mr. Trump signed, however, could actually make it attractive for companies to put more assembly lines on foreign soil. Under the new law, income made by American companies’ overseas subsidiaries will face United States taxes that are half the rate applied to their domestic income, 10.5 percent compared with the new top corporate rate of 21 percent. ‘It’s sort of an America-last tax policy,’ said Kimberly Clausing, an economist at Reed College in Portland, Ore., who studies tax policy. ‘We are basically saying that if you earn in the U.S., you pay X, and if you earn abroad, you pay X divided by two.’” New York Times, [1/8/18]

- Economist Found “The Bill Ends Up Creating A Tax Break For Manufacturers With Foreign Operations.” “What could be more dangerous for American workers, economists said, is that the bill ends up creating a tax break for manufacturers with foreign operations. Under the new rules, beyond the lower rate, companies will not have to pay United States taxes on the money they earn from plants or equipment located abroad, if those earnings amount to 10 percent or less of the total investment.” New York Times, [1/8/18]

9/29/23: Gaetz: “Certainly Marc Molinaro Of New York Has Been An Ally To Date Trying To Get Some Momentum In The Appropriations Process.” “[KIRK:] Who are some of the moderates that we should put some pressure on to say, hey don’t go do a deal with Democrats? [GAETZ:] Listen, there are moderates who have been helping. Mike [sic] Molinaro of New York is the guy who actually had the idea to get onto this packet of single subject bills that met most of our nation’s priorities. So I don’t want to cast any one group as being destructive, but I think that the people in districts Joe Biden won, I think that people in you know blue states with a big Democratic infrastructure, California, New York, are likely feeling the heat more on these matters than other members. I still want to work collaboratively with all our members, and certainly Marc Molinaro of New York has been an ally to date trying to get some momentum in the appropriations process.” The Charlie Kirk Show, Rumble, 55:14, [9/29/23] (VIDEO)

Molinaro Praised Mike Johnson

10/25/23: Asked About Johnson’s Positions On LGBT Rights, Abortion, And The 2020 Election, Molinaro Pointed To His “Common Decency” And “Commitment To Earnestly Empower Members.” “He very much understands that districts like mine need to have equal consideration in legislation. The other is he knows how we’ve gotten the majority, which is that districts like mine, and members like me, and constituents like the ones I represent and serve, who care deeply about these issues, are going to be part of the decision-making. I think you heard me, but Ed Koch, the former, late New York City mayor, said if you agree with me nine out of ten times, support me, if you agree with me twelve out of twelve times, seek a psychiatrist. I don’t think there was any expectation that we were going to achieve perfection or absolute agreement. Career Politician

Molinaro Was A Career Politician Who Was Always Dreaming About Advancing To Higher Elected Office, Including Ultimately The Presidency

When Molinaro Was Elected Mayor At 19 He Said He Wanted To Be President. “He was 18 when he was elected a Tivoli trustee in 1994. A year later, he was mayor – the youngest in the country at the time. Molinaro’s youth brought with it a national spotlight, albeit a temporary one. There were appearances on ‘Live with Regis and Kathie Lee,’ ‘Donohue’ and the ‘Today’ show. ‘48 Hours’ aired a profile on him. Even then, Molinaro had an eye on higher office. ‘Eventually, I would like to be in position to run for president,’ he told the Times Union of Albany in 1995. ‘That would mean I would have to be a senator or governor.’” Democrat & Chronicle, [11/3/18]

1995: Molinaro Said “Eventually, I Would Like To Be In Position To Run For President [...] That Would Mean I Would Have To Be A Senator Or Governor.” “Granted, this Dutchess County village of 1,039 residents located 42 miles south of Albany is not the biggest of political trophies (at one square mile, it would not be big enough to be incorporated as a municipality today). But Molinaro has the biggest of political ambitions. ‘Eventually, I would like to be in position to run for president,’ he said. ‘That would mean I would have to be a senator or governor.’” [Times Union, 8/20/95]

Poughkeepsie Journal: Molinaro Wanted To Be President Of The United States. “Derrick Jones II wants to be president. Of the United States. So does Dutchess County Legislator Marc Molinaro.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/16/01]

Molinaro Considered Running For Congress As Early As 2010

2010: Molinaro Was Considering Running For Congress In NY-20 After Being Asked By Republican Party Leaders. “Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, said he wants to remain focused on his work, but is not ruling out running for the 20th Congressional District seat held by Rep. Scott Murphy, D-Glens Falls. Molinaro said he’s been asked by party leaders and elected officials across the district to run. The 20th Congressional District covers all or parts of Dutchess, Columbia, Delaware, Essex, Greene, Otsego, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Warren and Washington counties.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/28/10]

By Running For Congress In 2022, Molinaro Intended To Break His Promise To Spend His Entire 2020-2023 Term As County Executive

2019: Molinaro Promised He Would Spend The Next Four Years As Dutchess County Executive. “Molinaro, who a year ago failed to unseat Andrew Cuomo in a run for governor and has also been at the center of rumors that he would be tapped for a congressional run, promised Tuesday to spend the duration of his third term as Dutchess’ county executive.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/7/19]

2022: Molinaro Was Considering Running For Congress Or Governor. “For now, his focus is on the COVID-19 pandemic. But Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro is considering runs for higher office in 2022. Molinaro told The Citizen’s Eye on NY podcast that he is contemplating campaigns for either Congress or governor next year. He doesn’t have a timetable for a decision, but plans to give it more serious consideration once there is more progress in the COVID-19 vaccine distribution process.” Auburn Citizen, [4/13/21]

Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Didn't Support A Dutchess County Term Limit Bill

2018: Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Did Not Support An Active Bill In Dutchess County For Term Limits. “Besides the statewide pay-to-play ban, another reform item Molinaro has made a centerpiece of his campaign is term limits, which he insists are badly needed across state government. He has pledged to serve only two terms as governor, and in a recent New York Post op-ed said he would insist on putting term limits in the state budget unless lawmakers agree to a standalone up-or-down vote on the matter. Molinaro has again had less urgency in taking up the matter in Dutchess County: A Republican Dutchess legislator introduced a bill last year imposing a 12-year limit for both the county executive and legislators, which Molinaro and other Republicans have not supported.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

2018: Molinaro Said He Favored A Three Term Limit For Dutchess County Executive. “Molinaro says he does favor a three-term limit, but wants it to be part of a broader reform of the county charter that is ongoing. He hopes to act on reforms this year.” Albany Times Union, [7/1/18]

February 2019: Molinaro Introduced A Proposal For Dutchess County Term Limits. “The proposal, announced by Pulver and County Executive Marc Molinaro in February, was introduced due to the recommendation by the Ethics and Independent Reapportionment Advisory Committee. The committee was formed two years ago to review codes locally and across the state and region.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/13/19]

2019: Dutchess County Enacted Term Limits, Including A Three Term Limit For County Executive. “Future Dutchess County executives, comptrollers and legislators may only serve a maximum of 12 years in office after the Legislature's unanimous vote Monday night to pass term limits. Starting in January, the office of the county executive will be limited to three four-year terms and a legislator may only serve six two-year terms. The comptroller will begin to serve three four-year terms in January 2022, according to Legislature Chairman Gregg Pulver.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/13/19]

1999: Molinaro Claimed He Would Not Run For A Fourth Mayoral Term, Then Ran For Three More

1999: Molinaro Claimed He would Not Run For A Fourth Mayoral Term. “Molinaro is a public relations consultant and the Dutchess County Traffic Safety Coordinator as well as the mayor of Tivoli. President of the Northern Dutchess Alliance, a regional planning consortium, he is currently vying for a seat on the county legislature. In his third mayoral term, he has said he does not plan to run for a fourth.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 8/20/99]

Tivoli Mayoral Terms Were Two Years And Carried A Salary Of $8,600. “Cordier, a member of the village board since 1994, was appointed to fill Molinaro's term as mayor in December. Molinaro left the position after he was elected to the state Assembly last year. Cordier is running for a two-year term that carries a salary of $8,600.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/1/07]

Molinaro Served Six Terms As Mayor Of Tivoli. “Marc Molinaro was first elected to public office at the age of 18 in 1994, serving on the Village of Tivoli Board of Trustees. In 1995, he became the youngest mayor in the United States. He was re-elected mayor five times and elected four times to the Dutchess County Legislature.” Dutchess County Executive, accessed [1/6/22]

New York Assembly2007 – 2011: Molinaro Passed 5 Bills During His 5 Years In The New York Assembly

2007 – 2011: Molinaro Passed 5 Bills During His 5 Years In The New York Assembly. “Prior to that, he served in the Assembly from 2007 to 2011. His party enrollment put him in the minority, a status that made it difficult for him, or any Assembly Republican, to get bills passed. He got five bills, mostly local, signed into law, and he sponsored bills to impose stronger DWI penalties, give tax breaks for alternative fueling stations and volunteer firefighters, and set anti-bullying standards in schools, according to a search of legislative records.” Buffalo News, [10/22/18]

2008: Molinaro Had The Highest Percentage Of His Local Bills Introduced Passed Into Law, With Two Of His 24 Introduced Bills Passing. “In the Assembly, Kevin Cahill, D-Kingston, had the most bills passed by both houses - 7 - but freshman Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Tivoli, had the best local record with two bills, or 8.33 percent of his 24 bills, passing in both chambers. Fellow freshman Assemblyman Greg Ball, R-Carmel, had the worst record, with no bills making it out of committees in the Democrat-controlled Assembly, let alone being approved by either house.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/26/08]

Molinaro Skipped At Least 134 Votes While Serving In The New York Assembly

From 2009 To 2011, Molinaro Skipped 134 Votes. [Illumis, Marcus Molinaro Vote Analysis, accessed 11/22/21]

Molinaro Was Briefly In Republican Leadership

2011: Molinaro Was Named Assistant Minority Leader Pro Tempore By Republican Minority Leader Brian Kolb. “Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, was named the assistant minority leader pro tempore, making him the third-ranking official in the Assembly Minority Conference. Molinaro was appointed by Assembly Minority Leader Brian Kolb and will help research issues, prepare debates and manage floor activity. Molinaro said he was honored by Kolb's appointment and looked forward to assuming the significant leadership duties on behalf of the conference and state. ‘Leader Brian Kolb has been a steadfast defender of taxpayers and small businesses at a time when the state's power structure was dominated by New York City interests,’ Molinaro said.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/10/11]

City & State: Molinaro Was “Able To Take Political Stands Without Affecting The Outcome Of A Vote.” “Molinaro, who is nearly 30 years younger than DeFrancisco, was also a state legislator, but served only five years in the Assembly minority, where he was able to take political stands without affecting the outcome of a vote because of the Democrats' vast majority in the chamber. In addition, he has been away from Albany for most of Cuomo's tenure, resigning from the state Legislature to take his seat as county executive at the beginning of 2012.” [City & State, 4/1/18]

- ✓ 2021: Molinaro wanted to spend $12.5 million of American Rescue Plan relief funds on baseball stadium upgrades, before backtracking following criticism.
- ✓ Dutchess County Auditor found the stadium operated at a deficit from 2015 to 2020 and the county had mismanaged the stadium's funding.
- ✓ Molinaro received $60,072 from companies and associated individuals of companies which received contracts from Dutchess County for the renovation and improvement of Dutchess Stadium into his congressional and county executive campaign committees.

- ✓ 2021: The Renegades were acquired by Diamond Baseball Holdings, a subsidiary of Entertainment Giant Endeavor.
- ✓ Molinaro's wife, Corinne Adams, worked for the Hudson Valley Renegades, the tenants of Dutchess County Stadium, through 2015.
- ✓ Molinaro attended at least 102 events at the stadium while county executive, including 63 games.
- ✓ Molinaro said the county should not give up stadium ownership.

Molinaro Led The Building Of A New Jail In Dutchess County, Despite A Declining Inmate Population – The Most Expensive Project The County Had Ever Taken On, Dragging Dutchess County Into Jail Debt

- ✓ 2011-2014: Molinaro supported building a new jail in Dutchess County to deal with overcrowding, at a cost of up to $200 million.
- ✓ 2016: The Dutchess County Legislature approved a $192 million bond for a 569-bed jail.
- ✓ 2019 – 2021: The size of the new jail was repeatedly downsized and estimated completion date was delayed.
- ✓ The Dutchess County Jail inmate population declined after New York's bail reform law was passed.
- ✓ 2020 – 2021: Dutchess County was using PODS to house the homeless at Dutchess County Jail.
- ✓ Under Molinaro, it cost $16 million to house inmates out of county, far lower than the debt service cost for the new jail.
- ✓ As of 2021, the new Dutchess County Jail was the largest capital project in county history.
- ✓ Debt from the jail was more than all other county projects combined, forcing an increase in county debt service that was estimated to last into the 2040s.
- ✓ Molinaro praised the impact of County Stabilization Center on reducing jail population but opposed additional funding for it.
- ✓ March 2024: Dutchess County opened the 308-bed Dutchess County Justice and Transition Center.

Taxpayers Foot The Bill For Millions Of Dollars Spent On Molinaro's Salary, Perks, Travel, Reimbursements, And Luxury Vehicles Over The Decades He Held Office While Campaign Donors Funded His Extravagant Vacations

- ✓ While he was County Executive, taxpayers spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on luxury vehicles for Molinaro, sparking an audit.
- ✓ 1995-2024: Molinaro earned more than $2.2 million in salary as an elected official.
- ✓ While Dutchess County Executive, Molinaro received almost $20,000 in reimbursements; while in Congress, he received over $30,000.
- ✓ 2006 – 2011: Molinaro received over $80,000 in taxpayer reimbursements to cover some of his long stays in Albany.

- ✓ Over his career, taxpayers have spent nearly $100,000 on Molinaro's travel.
- ✓ While campaigning, Molinaro spent "unusually" high amounts on trips, entertainment, and food, despite claiming too many politicians used campaign funds for personal use.

While County Executive And Mayor, Molinaro Repeatedly Mismanaged The Budget Process, Boosting The Budget For His Own Office While Increasing Debt And Attempting To Layoff County Employees

- ✓ Molinaro touted a 2022 reduction in debt service in a tax-funded mailing, but his budget planned millions more in debt service from 2025-2027 than in previous budgets.
- ✓ While county executive, Molinaro signed two budgets that resulted in a deficit.
- ✓ 2013: Under Molinaro's leadership, Moody's downgraded Dutchess county's credit rating to AA1, increasing debt service costs to county taxpayers.
- ✓ Molinaro's 2021 budget cut Health Department funding during the COVID-19 pandemic while Molinaro and county legislators received a pay raise.
- ✓ Molinaro bragged his 2021 budget included no layoffs after pushing 150+ county employees to take buyouts, while still including pay raises for himself and other elected officials.
- ✓ Molinaro repeatedly attempted to lay off county staff.
- ✓ Molinaro nearly doubled the Dutchess County Executive Office budget.
- ✓ A state audit criticized Tivoli's budgeting process while Molinaro was mayor, highlighting "sub-standard bookkeeping" and a failure to adhere to competitive bidding.

Molinaro Was A Career Politician Who Was Always Dreaming About Advancing To Higher Elected Office, Including Ultimately The Presidency

- ✓ Molinaro was a career politician who spent every year of his adult life as an elected official.
- ✓ Since he was 19, Molinaro expressed interest in being president.
- ✓ Molinaro considered running for congress as early as 2010.
- ✓ By running for Congress in 2022, Molinaro broke his promise to spend his entire 2020-2023 term as county executive.
- ✓ Molinaro called for statewide term limits but did not support a Dutchess County term limit bill.
- ✓ 1999: Molinaro claimed he would not run for a fourth mayoral term, then ran for three more.

Molinaro Contributed To Republican Infighting And Inefficiencies, Including Collaborating With Gaetz During Shutdown Negotiations And Delaying The Speaker Votes

- ✓ September 2023: Molinaro collaborated with Gaetz during shutdown negotiations, going so far as to co-author the "Molinaro-Gaetz" plan to kill a continuing resolution to keep the government from shutting down.

- ✓ Despite describing republican failure to elect a speaker as “distressing and disappointing,” Molinaro contributed to the chaos by blaming democrats and voting for long shot candidates, further delaying the election of a speaker.

2018: Molinaro Was Investigated For Pay-To-Play Allegations, Then Cleared By A Board He Appointed

2018: Molinaro Was Investigated For Corruption Because His Wife Was Employed By A Firm That Received Dutchess County Contracts And Whose Manager Was A Campaign Donor To Molinaro

2015-2018: Molinaro’s Wife Corrine Adams Worked For Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp. As Director Of Advertising And Communications, And Was Paid $26,500 For Her Work. “Corinne Adams, Molinaro’s wife, worked at Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp. from the summer of 2015 through earlier this year, when she left the job to focus on family and her pregnancy, according to Molinaro’s campaign. Molinaro and Adams were married in November 2015, not long after she took the job. Adams’ official title with Tinkelman, which is based in Poughkeepsie, was director of advertising and communications, according to Molinaro’s state financial disclosure form. Adams was paid about $26,500 for her work by Tinkelman Bros. in 2017, according to Molinaro’s 2017 tax returns. A summary of his prior years’ tax returns showed a similar joint income level in 2016.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/21/18]

Tinkelman Bros. Received $227,206 Worth Of Property Tax Breaks From Dutchess County. “Cuomo’s ad points to tax breaks handed down by the Dutchess County Industrial Development Agency for a Tinkelman project known as Van Wagner Place. The $5 million mixed-use development project, a mix of apartments, restaurants and boutique shops, received sales- and property-tax breaks worth $227,276 from 2015 through 2017, according to the IDA’s annual reports.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/21/18]

Tinkelman Architecture, A Sister Company Of Tinkelman Bros., Received About $70,000 Worth Of Contracts From Dutchess County. “Tinkelman Architecture, a sister company of Tinkelman Bros., has also done work for Dutchess County on a contract basis, with the firm receiving about $70,000 from the county from January through Aug. 31 of this year, according to county records.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/21/18]

Manager Steven Tinkelman Donated $6,025 To Molinaro Over Twelve Years. “Steven Tinkleman, managing member of the firm and its sister companies, said he hired Adams because of her skillset and background in design and communications.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/21/18]

Developers Steven Tinkelman And Wayne Nussbickel Sued The City Of Poughkeepsie After The City Historic Commission Blocked Plans To Build High-End Housing In Wheaton Park. “Over the last few years that local architect and aspiring developer Steven Tinkelman has plodded through Poughkeepsie’s municipal approval process to build high-end housing overlooking the Hudson River in Wheaton Park, Poughkeepsie Mayor Rob Rolison has held himself above the fray. ‘There is a process,’ has been the two-term mayor’s refrain in multiple public settings. That process has indeed played out. The Poughkeepsie Historic District and Landmark Preservation Commission, which has jurisdiction over the historically registered park, twice denied the developers’ plans. Tinkelman appealed to the city legislature, but the Common Council determined that the HDLPC had faithfully followed its delimited criteria. Tinkelman and Wayne Nussbickel, the only other publicly identified investor, then sued the city, the Common Council, and the HDLPC in January. A review of the court documents suggests their case is not going well, and with all motions filed by mid-September, a judge could rule before the end of the year.” The River, [11/1/21]

- Tinkelman And Nussbickel Gave A Combined $3,000 To Molinaro’s Congressional Campaign. FEC.gov, accessed [11/1/21]

A Confidential Memo From The City Of Poughkeepsie To The Historic Commission Laid Out A Settlement Agreement To Advance The Wheaton Park Project Pending The Approval Of The Historic Commission. “A confidential memo obtained by The River spells out a ‘conceptual agreement’ between city administration and the developers to try to win over the commission. But the core of the new offer—to rent the park’s the historic Pelton mansion to an arts group—is a matter outside the HDLPC’s remit, which does not cover building use but rather deals with exteriors and preservation of the overall historic setting. The commission has already determined those factors would be overwhelmed by the development’s sheer mass and scale. In effect, City Hall is asking the commission to violate its own mandate. In doing so, it would jettison hundreds of hours over more than two years of working with the developer to find a project plan the city could sign off on. [...] The four-page memo acknowledges that the HDLPC would have to consent to the new proposal, even while the developers, Pelton Partners, are suing on the grounds that the commission does not properly have jurisdiction. Entertaining the new offer would seemingly discredit the commission, which city officials publicly praise as vital to protecting Poughkeepsie’s much diminished historic inventory, at least rhetorically regarded as vital assets.” The River, [11/1/21]

The River: Poughkeepsie Mayor Rolison Was “Doing The Bidding Of The Well-Connected Tinkelman” Whose Contributions To Molinaro Were A 2018 Campaign Issue. “As mayor, Rolison’s record on historic preservation has been better than Tkazyik’s, but not by much. He actively opposed historic designations of College Hill and the Eastman Oval. He also submitted a letter to the commission supporting Tinkelman’s project as the ‘best possible plan,’ in part because no other proposal will contain ‘all that everyone would like to see.’ But this ignores the fact that Tinkelman’s option-to-buy contract locks in his position indefinitely, while the city has no clear exit from that document, and in the meantime cannot entertain other proposals. Now Rolison is doing the bidding of the well-connected Tinkelman, whose political donation to Dutchess County Executive Marcus Molinaro’s gubernatorial run, as well as his hiring of Molinaro’s wife, Corinne Adams, briefly flared as a campaign issue in an ad by then Governor Andrew Cuomo about pay-to-play politics.” The River, [11/1/21]

October 2018: Dutchess County Lawmakers Requested An Investigation Of Molinaro By The State And County Into Alleged Pay-To-Play Allegations

October 2018: Eight Democratic Dutchess County Legislators Filed A Formal Ethics Complaint Against Molinaro. “Eight of 11 Democratic Dutchess County lawmakers submitted a formal complaint to the state Attorney General’s Office and Joint Commission on Public Ethics on Oct. 5, calling on the state to investigate possible ethics violations against Molinaro, who is the Dutchess county executive. The allegations surround Molinaro’s wife, Corrine Adams, who was awarded a job at the architectural firm Tinkelman Bros. Development Corp., of Poughkeepsie, which was awarded county contracts and tax breaks. The company made donations totaling $6,800 to Molinaro from 2006-2018, according to the complaint.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/10/18]

October 2018: Dutchess County Legislators Requested State And Local Investigations Into Possible Corruption By Molinaro In County Bidding Processes. “The legislators’ letter came days after the same eight lawmakers formally requested state and local investigators to probe Molinaro regarding ‘possible corruption’ in the county bidding process. In that letter, they asked the county Board of Ethics, and the state Attorney General’s Office and the Joint Commission on Public Ethics to investigate $6,800 in contributions Molinaro received from Tinkelman Brothers, an architecture firm that received $70,000 in tax breaks from the county and paid Molinaro’s wife $26,500 for marketing work.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/16/18]

Molinaro Claimed He Was Uncertain Whether He Signed Contracts With Tinkelman Bros.

Molinaro Claimed To Be Unsure If He Signed The Contracts With Tinkelman Brothers. “Molinaro said he recused himself from the contract decisions and the only involvement on his end was that he legally is required to sign them. However, he backtracked, saying he’s unsure if he even signed the two contracts in question. ‘I don’t think I did sign those contracts. I don’t think I did,’ he said. ‘But Bill O’Neill as deputy county executive often steps in at my request.’” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/3/18]

Molinaro Was Cleared By An Ethics Board Consisting Of Members That He Himself Appointed, Whose Chair Was Later Investigated For Spying On Employees

Molinaro Was Cleared By The County Ethics Board, Whose Members He Appointed

The Dutchess County Ethics Board Cleared Molinaro Of Wrongdoing, Claiming That Adams Was Paid Market-Value For Her Work. “Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro has been cleared of violating any county ethics rules in connection with his wife’s former job with a local contractor and campaign donor, which Democrats attempted to use against him in his 2018 gubernatorial campaign. The Dutchess County Board of Ethics ruled Dec. 7 that Corinne Adams’ job with Tinkelman Bros., a Dutchess-based architecture firm, from 2015 through early 2018 did not amount to a gift because she was paid fair-market value for her work.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [1/8/19]

The County Ethics Board, Which Was Appointed By Molinaro, Found That He Played No Role In Awarding Tax Breaks Or Contracts To Tinkelman. “But the county Ethics Board, a bipartisan group appointed by Molinaro and confirmed by the county Legislature, found Molinaro had nothing to do with awarding the tax breaks or a county contract held by Tinkelman, which was competitively bid.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [1/8/19]

- Under The General Municipal Law, There Was No Conflict Of Interest If A Spouse Is Employed By A County Contractor But Does Not Work On The Public Job In Question. “As county executive, Molinaro comes under General Municipal Law, which states there is no conflict of interest if a spouse is employed by a

county contractor, but does not work on the public job in question, Leventhal said.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/5/18]

The Dutchess County Ethics Board Decision Clearing Molinaro, His Wife, And Tinkelman Was Unanimous.

“The complaint lodged by Dutchess County Democrats as Molinaro challenged Cuomo last year alleged that a development company that had donated to Molinaro's campaigns also hired his wife and received county contracts and tax breaks. Cuomo used the issue in a campaign ad. But the Dutchess County Board of Ethics in December unanimously found there was no wrongdoing by Molinaro, his wife or the company.” New York Daily News, [1/7/19]

Tara Sullivan Chaired The County Ethics Board Which Cleared Molinaro. “But the county Ethics Board, a bipartisan group appointed by Molinaro and confirmed by the county Legislature, found Molinaro had nothing to do with awarding the tax breaks or a county contract held by Tinkelman, which was competitively bid. ‘The County Executive's wife's salary was not a ‘gift’ within the meaning of the Dutchess County Code of Ethics inasmuch as she received fair market value for hourly part-time services rendered,’ the board's decision read. The decision was rendered Dec. 7 and unanimously approved. It was signed by Tara Sullivan, the board's acting chair.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [1/7/19]

Dutchess County Legislators Considered The Board Of Ethics “A Partisan Joke”

After The Dutchess County Board Of Ethics Found Legislator Kristofer Munn Violated The County Ethics Code, He Called The Board Of Ethics “A Partisan Joke” And Criticized Them For Letting Molinaro Off The Hook For Failing To Disclose His Wife Was Paid By A County Contractor. “Dutchess County Legislator Kristofer Munn violated the county’s ethics code earlier this year by raising money to defend himself against a lawsuit, the county Board of Ethics has ruled. [...] The ethics board voted unanimously following an hourlong executive session Thursday to find Munn, D-Red Hook, in violation of Section 5A of the Dutchess County Code of Ethics. The board is expected to issue a written decision, including its findings and any recommendations for action against Munn next week. [...] The legislator also criticized the Board of Ethics. ‘Everybody knows that the Dutchess County Board of Ethics is a partisan joke filled with [County Executive] Marc Molinaro’s friends, supporters and donors,’ he said. ‘This has been clear since their ruling in 2018/2019 that the failure of Marc Molinaro to report over $20,000 that his family received from a county contractor – in clear violation of the ethics laws – was OK because they claimed the amount of money involved was too small to matter.’” Daily Freeman, [11/19/21]

Molinaro’s Appointee, Dutchess County Ethics Chair Tara Sullivan, Violated New York State Executive Law By Spying On Employees, And Faced Calls To Resign From The Ethics Commission

HEADLINE: “Former Bridge Authority Boss Says She Won’t Step Down As Ethics Chair.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

The Dutchess County Democrats Called On County Ethics Chair And Molinaro Appointee Tara Sullivan To Resign From The Ethics Commission After She Violated The State Executive Law As Executive Director Of The New York State Bridge Authority. “Tara Sullivan, the former Acting Executive Director of the New York State Bridge Authority (NYSBA), and current chairwoman of the Dutchess County Ethics Committee is being asked to resign by the Dutchess County Democratic Committee. Sullivan told Mid-Hudson News that she has no plans to step down. Sullivan was recently found to have violated state executive law while at NYSBA, by the New York State Inspector General. [...] Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro nominated Sullivan and the other members to the committee. The county legislature then approved the nominations. The demand by Democrats for the resignation included allegations that Sullivan ignored ethics complaints against Molinaro a few years ago which Sullivan dismissed as unfounded.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Dutchess County Democratic Committee Chairwoman Elisa Sumner Called For Sullivan’s “Immediate Resignation As Chair Of The Dutchess County Board of Ethics.” “The NYS IG report concluded that Sullivan had violated state law and acted in an imprudent manner. [...] On December 1, two days after the Mid-Hudson News exclusive story about the NYS IG letter, the Dutchess County Democratic Committee Chairwoman, Elisa Sumner, issued a statement calling for Sullivan’s resignation from the ethics committee based on the NYS IG findings. Sumner said in part, ‘Acting Executive Director of the NYS Bridge Authority (NYSBA) Tara Sullivan violated the law, we, the Dutchess County Democrats, call for her immediate resignation as Chair of the Dutchess County Board of Ethics and that she permanently step down from the Board.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Dutchess Democrats’ Statement Calling For Sullivan To Resign Also Accused Her Of Ignoring Ethics Complaints Against Molinaro In The Past. “Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro nominated Sullivan and the other members to the committee. The county legislature then approved the nominations. The demand by Democrats for the resignation included allegations that Sullivan ignored ethics complaints against Molinaro a few years ago which Sullivan dismissed as unfounded. ‘The Democratic Committee’s statement is full of misinformation and addresses issues that have long been resolved by the Ethics committee’s unanimous decisions,’ she said. Sullivan is one of five members of the Ethics Committee and was selected as chairperson by the committee members.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Sullivan: “I Do Not Intend To Resign My Role As Chair Of The Dutchess County Ethics Board As Long As The County Executive Continues To Want My Service [...] I Have Done Nothing Unethical.” “The attorney also provided Sullivan’s response to the Mid-Hudson News inquiry regarding the resignation request. Sullivan, through her counsel, said ‘I do not intend to resign my role as Chair of the Dutchess County Ethics Board as long as the County Executive continues to want my service,’ adding “I have done nothing unethical.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

Sullivan Abruptly Resigned From Her Position On The Bridge Commission During An Inspector General Investigation That Ultimately Found She Violated The Law By Spying On Bridge Employees. “In 2020, while Sullivan was in charge of the NYSBA, she was accused of spying on Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge employees which resulted in investigations by the state police and the inspector general. [...] During the IG’s investigation into the matter, Sullivan abruptly resigned from her position, effective on July 15, 2021. At the time, Sullivan’s departure was announced as a retirement through an NYSBA news release which has since been removed from the NYSBA

website. [...] The NYS IG report concluded that Sullivan had violated state law and acted in an imprudent manner.” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

In Response To A Request For Comment, Sullivan’s Attorney Issued A Cease And Desist Warning And Demanded A Retraction Of Reporting That Sullivan Resigned From The Bridge Commission Over The IG Investigation. “Mid-Hudson News contacted Sullivan, a former Woodstock town board member, and Ulster County legislator on Wednesday afternoon. Asked to respond to questions regarding the Democrats’ statement, she responded Wednesday night through an email from Rhinebeck attorney Nathaniel Charny. He was retained by Sullivan in response to recent Mid-Hudson News reporting on Sullivan’s ties to the ‘spy-gate’ issue. Charny said in part, ‘you are instructed to cease and desist from publishing the inaccurate information on this topic and retract all references that state or imply that Ms. Sullivan resigned due to the IG investigation.’ The NYS IG letter that was the basis for the Mid-Hudson News story said in part, ‘During the investigation, Sullivan resigned her position at the Bridge Authority effective July 15, 2021.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/2/21]

[...] The proposed Albany Accountability Act he rolled out in July was a good-government wish list: term limits for all state officials; a ‘database of deals’ to track public contracts; bans on corporate subsidies and campaign contributions from companies with business before the state; eliminating the loophole that enables individuals and businesses to make huge donations through multiple limited liability companies; and taking politics out of ethics enforcement and legislative redistricting (independent panels established by the state's highest court would do those jobs). New York congressional Democrats are leading the charge to pack the Supreme Court.

Their legislation to add four new justices to the Supreme Court is nothing more than a partisan power grab that will further erode people's trust in the rule of law and our institutions.

There's a reason even Ruth Bader Ginsburg opposed this idea. In her own words, "If anything would make the court appear partisan it would be that"....

The attempt to turn Washington D.C. into the 51st state has nothing to do with representation, and everything to do with politics.

There are common sense solutions out there - like the idea to simply add D.C. back into Maryland.

But Washington continues to be a showcase in failed leadership. Rather than find solutions, they merely seek to maintain power.

Facebook Required All Political Ads To Contain A “Paid For By” Disclaimer And Comply With Election Law

Facebook Ads About Social Issues, Elections Or Politics Were Required To Contain A “Paid For By” Disclaimer. “Any advertiser running ads about social issues, elections or politics who is located in or targeting people in designated countries must complete the authorization process required by Meta, except for news publishers identified by Meta. This applies to any ad that: Is made by, on behalf of or about a candidate for public office, a political figure, a political party, a political action committee or advocates for the outcome of an election to public office, Is about any election, referendum or ballot initiative, including "get out the vote" or election information campaigns, Is about any social issue in any place where the ad is being run, Is regulated as political advertising. Requirements vary by country. Advertisers must include a verified ‘Paid for by’ disclaimer on these ads to show the entity or person responsible for running the ad across Meta technologies. The disclaimer is subject to restrictions.” Meta, Advertising Standards, accessed [2/28/24]

Facebook Required All Ads Comply With U.S. Law Regarding Spending Limits And Reporting Requirements. “Advertisers running these ads, regardless of location, targeting, or news exemptions, must comply with all applicable laws and regulations, including but not limited to requirements involving: Disclaimer, disclosure and ad labeling, Blackout periods, Foreign interference, Spending limits and reporting requirements. If ads do not include a disclaimer and we determine the ad content includes content about social issues, elections or politics, it will be disapproved during ad review. If an ad is already running, it can be flagged by automated systems or reported by our community and, if found to be violating our policy by missing a disclaimer, it will be disapproved and added to the Ad Library.” Meta, Advertising Standards, [2/28/24]

Fellow Conservative, this vote is going to put a major target on my back.

I’m co-sponsoring the resolution to censure Adam Schiff and refer him to the ethics committee over his lead in abusing his office to spread the Russia collusion hoax for years.

The American people need to know that politicians who knowingly lie and abuse their office for political gain will face the consequences.

I’m already in a TOSS-UP seat, this vote will make me the #1 target of the mainstream media and the Democrat megadonor class.

I need your support to show the Democrats that the American people are 100% on our side. Please pitch in $10, $25, $50, or more to show your support for our resolution to censure Adam Schiff for lying to the American people.

Molinaro Is Fighting for Veterans

I'm fighting to strengthen veteran services and benefits to ensure they get the support they deserve. But this hasn't stopped Democrats from lying and accusing Republicans of wanting to cut benefits.

Even the Washington Post says liberals are lying:

- Additionally, Biden and Democrats have been hammering House Republicans for what they describe as cuts to veterans benefits in the bill they passed last week.

This is infuriating Republicans because there's nothing in the bill that specifically cuts veterans' benefits -- there is nothing that explicitly exempts them either -- and Republicans have said repeatedly they won't touch them.

As County Executive, and now as your Congressman, I have always done everything I can to support our Veterans.

From fighting to ensure veteran health centers aren't shut down to expanding services, I have and will continue to make sure our Veterans get the resources and support they so rightly deserve.

- Help Marc fight back against these lies -

"U.S. Rep. Molinaro introduces bill to help caregivers of children on autism spectrum"

I know firsthand the importance of providing support for families and caregivers with children on the autism spectrum.

This bi-partisan bill will help them with the knowledge and tools they need to support their child's unique needs and empower them to succeed.

"By providing caregivers with access to evidence-based resources, this legislation will help to create better outcomes for children with autism and other developmental disabilities in underserved communities while also supporting the wellbeing of those who care for them."

February 2023: Molinaro Asked Supporters To "Please Pitch In $10, $25, $75 Or More To Let Me Know I

Have Your Full Support In This Fight” Against Bans On Gas Stoves. Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [2/17/23]

Fellow American,

When Republicans sounded the alarm over the Democrats’ plans to ban gas stoves in American homes, the media went crazy.

Democrats, Journalists, pundits, and media outlets spent millions deceiving Americans into thinking we were overreacting, and our gas stoves were safe from government bans.

Now we’re learning that the Governor of my home state of New York has a plan that will effectively ban gas stoves in her $227 billion budget proposal.

If we don’t nip this in the bud here in New York, this agenda will spread like a wildfire to every state and eventually the federal government. I have constituents that are going to suffer because of this plan. That’s why I’m not giving an inch of ground on this fight.

But I can’t wage this fight alone. I’m facing a wall of money on the Left, and they’ll spend every dime to see this through. Please pitch in $10, $25, $75 or more to let me know I have your full support in this fight.

Molinaro’s Campaign Repeatedly Sent Emails For Supporters To Back Petitions In Connection To Official Actions Without Official Fundraising Asks

November 2023: Molinaro Urged Campaign Supporters To Sign A Petition Supporting The Delaware River Watershed To “Give Me The Back-Up I Need To Push This Initiative Further.” Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [11/1/23]

Fellow Conservative,

When the voters of New York's 19th Congressional District sent me to Washington, I promised I would deliver results.

One of the top concerns of my constituents – Republican, Democrat, or Independent – is the preservation and protection of the Delaware River. For millions of people, the Delaware River watershed is a vital source of bio-diversity, clean water, tourism and economic activity.

That's why I've joined with my colleagues to demand Congress take decisive action to preserve the Delaware River watershed. Your signature today will give me the back-up I need to push this initiative further.

This is an issue that has the chance to bring together Democrats and Republicans to deliver real results that will impact millions of lives and improve our economy. Can I count on your support for this incredibly important issue?

SIGN PETITION

Instead of pushing radical environmental policies that will cost millions of jobs, preserving the Delaware River Watershed will protect a $25 billion economy and protect half a millions jobs.

Will you take a stand for commonsense solutions that will benefit millions of Americans?

Thank you,

September 2023: Molinaro Urged Campaign Supporters To Sign A Petition On The Impeachment Inquiry Against Biden “To Show This Administration That We’re Not Backing Down From Our Fact-Based Investigation.” Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [9/21/23]

Fellow Conservative,

I am deeply worried by what appears to be criminal activity benefiting the Biden family and undermining our national interests.

I am also very concerned by what appears to be stonewalling by this administration aimed at disrupting Congress' fundamental duty of overseeing the Executive Branch. For those reasons, I support the impeachment inquiry into Joe Biden.

This was not a decision I came to lightly and I am very upset the Biden administration has forced us to open an inquiry.

Democrats are going to spend millions attacking my fact-based conclusion in a concerted campaign to intimidate me and undermine our investigation. That's why I need to hear from you today. Will you answer our Biden Impeachment Inquiry Survey?

July 2023: Molinaro Urged Campaign Supporters To Sign A Petition “So We Can Finish The Job And Send My Schools Not Shelters Act To The White House.” Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [7/21/23]

Fellow Conservative,

The House just passed my bill Schools Not Shelters Act that will stop illegal migrants from being housed in our children's schools.

This comes after New York's Governor and the New York City Mayor used taxpayer funding to shelter illegal migrants in local schools.

The influx of illegal migrants is sowing chaos and New York's failed leadership has only inflamed the crisis and drained local resources.

54% of New Yorkers do NOT want their schools turned into migrant shelters. Now I need your signature of support to send the Senate a message that Americans support our Schools NOT Shelters Initiative.

ADD MY SIGNATURE

The crisis has gotten so bad, even 4 Democrats crossed the aisle in support of my initiative. But the majority of Democrats refuse to find any solution to the crisis they have created.

The Senate's our next hurdle and will be our biggest test and will prove whether the Democrats are serious about protecting our schools and local communities.

Please, pledge your support today, so we can finish the job and send my Schools Not Shelters Act to the White House.

Thank you and God bless,

January 2023: Molinaro Asked Supporters For “Feedback” On His Position Calling For An “Honest External Investigation Via A Special Prosecutor” Into Documents Found At Biden’s Home. Marc for Us via Archive of Political Emails, sent [1/19/23]

Fellow American,

I'm sure by now you've heard about the classified documents found at Joe Biden's home and private office, and many are criticizing the DOJ's "probe" response compared to the FBI raid of Mar-a-Lago.

What's clear to me and many other Americans, is that there needs to be an honest external investigation via a special prosecutor for this.

There needs to be a clear understanding of what went wrong and why this was allowed to continue, and I think the American people deserve transparency, don't you agree, Fellow American?

GIVE YOUR FEEDBACK >>

Let me step back and say, the constitution lays out the role of the legislative branch and among them from the house is an oversight.

I do believe that there needs to be a clear understanding as to what happened here, and what the appropriate response needs to be moving forward.

Let me know what you think about this Fellow American, I could really use your insight.

Molinaro Violated FEC Requirements

2022: Molinaro Failed To Report A Vehicle He Used To Campaign As An In-Kind Contribution, Violating FEC Requirements

Molinaro Failed To Report A Vehicle He Used To Campaign As An In-Kind Contribution, Violating FEC Requirements. “Dutchess County Executive Marcus Molinaro is using a vehicle from a longtime supporter to campaign as the Republican candidate across the 11-county 19th Congressional District, he said, but the campaign has not filed the donation with the U.S. Federal Elections Commission as required since kicking off the bid last September. [...] Instead, the campaign rents a Jeep Grand Cherokee leased to Sean Mahoney, a supporter of Molinaro’s, at a rate of $35 per day, campaign staff said. The FEC requires in-kind contributions, or when a supporter pays for expenses on behalf of a federal campaign, be reported in a campaign’s next full quarterly report once the contribution exceeds $200, FEC spokesman Myles Martin said. At $35 a day, the campaign would exceed $200 for the vehicle after six days of use. The county executive’s Marc For Us Inc. campaign officially kicked off Sept. 21, or 315 days ago, but the campaign has not included the vehicle as an expense in its past three required quarterly filings with the FEC.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro’s Campaign Used A Rental Vehicle With A Supporter Covering A Portion Of The Cost Of The Rental As An In-Kind Contribution. “In an initial statement, campaign officials confirmed Molinaro’s campaign uses a daily rental vehicle from a longtime supporter, who is covering a portion of the cost of the rental as an in-kind contribution. Campaign officials claimed the supporter was covering a portion of the rental per FEC rules and regulations. In-kind contributions are subject to the usual reporting requirements and FEC contribution limits.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro Did Not Report In-Kind Contribution On Three FEC Filings. “‘Throughout the campaign, Marc has used either the donated vehicle or his personal car for all campaign related events,’ according to a statement from Molinaro’s campaign. ‘The filing will be complete and in compliance with FEC guidelines by the pre-election filing deadline Aug. 11 when the donor provides the campaign all the necessary information that has been sought for the several months.’ Molinaro’s campaign did not answer questions about why the campaign has not included the vehicle in its past three FEC-mandated campaign filings or how many days the campaign has rented a vehicle from Mahoney.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro Repeatedly Spent Millions In Tax Dollars On A Dutchess County Baseball Stadium And Proposed A Widely-Criticized Plan To Spend $12.5 Million Of American Rescue Plan Relief Funds On Stadium Upgrades

2013: Molinaro Called For $1 Million In Stadium Upgrades To Boost Tourism And Keep The Stadium Competitive With Others In The Region

2013: Molinaro Claimed Stadium Upgrades Would Boost Tourism. “To encourage tourism, Molinaro promised the completion the Dutchess County Rail Trail, connecting it to the Walkway Over the Hudson state park, and repairs and upgrades to Dutchess Stadium. He said continued investment in tourism and local businesses is crucial to maximize the county’s resources.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/31/13]

2013: Molinaro Called For A $1 Million Investment To Improve The Dutchess County Stadium And Keep It Competitive With Newer Stadiums In The Region. “This year begins the 20th year of Dutchess Stadium. It was built fast and cheap, Molinaro said. Today, it is aging and in need of repair and upgrades. ‘We will proceed with several short-term improvements including drainage and electrical repairs, preventative maintenance and full field replacement. To complete necessary field improvements by opening day, we will seek legislative support next month for the $1 million adopted in this year's capital plan,' he said. 'To remain competitive with newer stadiums built in the region and ensure 'the Dutch' remains a regional attraction and economic engine in southern Dutchess County we will begin developing a broader campus plan to expand opportunities on-site for a multi-use, multi-season recreational facility,' he said." 2018: Molinaro Called For A $3 Million Bond To Upgrade The Stadium; The County Legislature Approved $2.4 Million

2018: Molinaro Called For A $3 Million Bond To Upgrade The Stadium "The budget also called for a $3 million bond - which will be matched in part by the state Empire Development a total of $6 million - for improvements at Dutchess Stadium. The county's contract with the Hudson Valley Renegades is expiring and Molinaro said the county is looking for a long-term commitment from the minor-league organization. Either way, he said, the stadium is in need of improvements. 'As we continue to negotiate a new contract with the Hudson Valley Renegades and its ownership, Dutchess County must also make a commitment to ensure that the physical construction of the stadium is safe, secure and, ultimately, that we expand the fan experience,' Molinaro said." 2018: Molinaro Said Dutchess County Needed To Spend Millions On Stadium Renovations To Keep The Contract With The Minor League Team. "The Legislature voted down a measure on Tuesday that would've authorized the county to set aside $2.4 million in bonds to renovate seating, resurface concrete and repave the parking lot. County Executive Marc Molinaro, who proposed the resolution, says it would need to pass for the county's contract with the Renegades and the Beacon school district - which owns the land - to be extended another five years. The contract is set to expire Dec. 31." Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/16/18]

2018: Dutchess County Committed $2.4 Million For Stadium Renovations And Upgrades. "In 2018, the county committed $2.4 million to repairs and upgrades at the stadium, which sits on land owned by the Beacon City School District. The county pays rent to Beacon for use of the land, and the Renegades pay rent to the county for use of the stadium." Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

- The Dutchess County Legislature Vote Was Unanimous After Previously Voting Against It. "The Legislature's vote was unanimous on Monday, after it voted against the bond in November. Dutchess County Allocated $12.5 Million In American Rescue Plan Relief Funds Toward Improvements For Dutchess Stadium

Dutchess County Allocated $12.5 Million Of Its $57 Million In American Rescue Plan Relief Funds Toward Improvements For Dutchess Stadium. "Minor league teams took a combined $40 million in Paycheck Protection Program loans early in the pandemic to cover worker salaries. But unlike Broadway theaters and live music venues they've been shut out of additional government relief. That's why Dutchess County, New York, has allocated $12.5 million of its $57 million in American Rescue Plan funds to expand locker rooms, build an outfield party deck, and buy the land housing the stadium for the Hudson Valley Renegades, a New York Yankees affiliate, according to county officials." Dutchess County Residents Questioned Why The New York Yankees, The Parent Club For The Renegades, Could Not Pay For The Stadium Upgrades. Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

The $12.5M Allocated Was More Than The Anticipated Total Cost Of Stadium Renovations Estimate Earlier In The Year

As Of February 2021, The Total Expected Cost To Renovate The Stadium Was Around $10 Million.

Molinaro Claimed The Hudson Valley Renegades Would Leave Dutchess County Without The ARP-Funded Stadium Upgrades

Molinaro Said Without The ARP-Funded Investment In Dutchess Stadium, The County Would Lose The Hudson Valley Renegades As Its Tenant. “That’s why Dutchess County, New York, has allocated $12.5 million of its $57 million in American Rescue Plan funds to expand locker rooms, build an outfield party deck, and buy the land housing the stadium for the Hudson Valley Renegades, a New York Yankees affiliate, according to county officials. [...] But without the investment the county, which owns the stadium and collects rent from the Renegades, wouldn’t have a paying tenant, said County Executive Marc Molinaro. Dutchess County expects a $16 million return in increased tourism, sales, and hotel tax revenue from the agreement, which secures the Renegades as a Yankee team for 25 more years, he said.” Bloomberg Law, [10/25/21]

Molinaro Claimed The Stadium Upgrades Would Pay For Themselves By Boosting Tourism, A Claim A Local Business Owner Disputed And A County Legislator Called “Insane”

Molinaro Said He Expected Investments In Dutchess Stadium To Return $16 Million In Increased Tourism, Sales And Hotel Tax. “That’s why Dutchess County, New York, has allocated $12.5 million of its $57 million in American Rescue Plan funds to expand locker rooms, build an outfield party deck, and buy the land housing the

Stadium Upgrades Were Estimated To Cost Significantly More Than Was Allocated, Leading The Project To Be Postponed

2022: Stadium Upgrades Were Estimated To Cost $21 Million, 68% More Than Allocated In June 2021. “Dutchess County is planning to spend $20 million to address its housing affordability crisis. Nearly half of that total would be reassigned from the controversial plan to spend more than a fifth of the county’s $57 million American Rescue Plan funding to upgrade facilities at Dutchess Stadium. While the shift was announced by County Executive Marc Molinaro on the night its housing assessment report, which suggests creating the fund, was presented to the Legislature, Molinaro said the move was spurred by ‘inflation.’ And though all parties agree affordable housing is the more pressing priority, Molinaro said the county still intends to pay for the stadium upgrades, which are now estimated to cost as much as $21 million, 68% more than what was allocated last June.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [4/14/22]

- When The First Bids Submitted Came In Higher Than County Officials Had Expected, Molinaro Said The Project Was Reworked To Remove Some Components Of The Original Project And Put Out For Bid A Second Time. “The largest single project was the proposed $11.6 million expansion of Dutchess Stadium, a county-owned park in Fishkill that is home to the Hudson Valley Renegades, a minor league affiliate of the New York Yankees. According to the executive’s plan, the funds would have been used to build an addition to Dutchess Stadium, which the plan called ‘an economic engine for our county, employing neighbors, attracting thousands of visitors from throughout the region which helps local businesses, restaurants, and hotels. ‘This investment will secure the operation of minor league baseball in Dutchess County providing jobs and bringing economic stimulus to the region,’ the plan stated. Democratic lawmakers decried that proposal, saying the funding would be better spent on projects that would address opioid use and other social issues, but Molinaro and Republican lawmakers moved forward, spending roughly $2 million on preliminary design and other costs before putting the project out to bid. When the first bids submitted came in higher than county officials had expected, Molinaro said the project was reworked to remove some components of the original project and put out for bid a second time. Still, the bids received were significantly higher than anticipated, forcing the county to abandon the project, at least for the time being. Molinaro, a Republican who is running for the 19th Congressional District seat against incumbent Antonio Delgado, D-Rhinebeck, said rampant inflation caused the county to scuttle its plans for the stadium.” Daily Freeman, [4/11/22]

The new projected cost exceeds the amount of revenue the county is expected to make over the course of its recent 25-year lease agreement with the Hudson

Valley Renegades, a deal which, the county maintained, required the upgrades to go forward. Molinaro suggested the county would look to increase usage of the stadium to offset expenses, with hopes the cost of work decreases. Molinaro suggested the county would look to increase usage of the stadium to offset expenses, with hopes the cost of work decreases. Molinaro: “Inflation Has Made It Impossible For This Project To Move On At This Moment” But The Stadium Would Be Revisited Later In The Year. “The county has twice gone out for bid for improvements at Dutchess Stadium, and both rounds came back with proposals significantly higher than the project estimates of a year ago. ‘Inflation has made it impossible for this project to move on at this moment,’ said Molinaro. With a deadline to spend ARP funds by Dec. 31, 2024, Molinaro said it wouldn’t be possible to prioritize the Dutchess Stadium project today, adding that it will be revisited later in the year.” Times Union, [4/11/22]

Molinaro Designated The Funds That Would Have Been Used On The Stadium To Pay For Housing Instead, Including An Unpopular And Unsuccessful Plan To Build An Emergency Housing Facility

Molinaro Announced The Stadium Funds Would Be Used For Housing

April 2022: Dutchess County Announced It Would Spend $9.5 Million Of The Planned $12.5 Million Stadium Renovation On Housing Instead. “Dutchess County has pivoted its plans to allocate $12.5 million of its $57 million in federal American Rescue Plan (ARP) funds for improvements to Dutchess Stadium, instead earmarking $9.5 million for housing, according to an announcement by Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro at a recent county legislature meeting.” Albany Times Union, [4/11/22]

Molinaro Had Been Criticized By Community Members For Wanting To Spend ARP Funds On A Baseball Stadium Instead Of More Pressing Needs. “In recent weeks, Molinaro’s planned allocation of ARP funds for the stadium was criticized by some community members and advocates who wanted to see the funding spent on more pressing county needs.” Albany Times Union, [4/11/22]

Molinaro Proposed An Emergency Housing Shelter In An Area With High Rates Of Gun Violence And Substance Abuse

Molinaro Proposed Building A Housing Shelter In Poughkeepsie. “Dutchess County is looking to invest. While such controversial topics as building the Justice and Transition Center and upgrading at Dutchess Stadium can quickly commandeer any discussion of county expenditures, some of the investments are of the more personal variety. ‘It invests in people,’ County Executive Marc Molinaro said of a proposed homeless shelter, which would not only provide beds but case workers and assistance for its residents to help transition out of homelessness. ‘We will invest in the wraparound services and support infrastructure necessary in one space to help people overcome complex human issues.’ The $7 million project, which would place a shelter in the city of Poughkeepsie, is among several new physical and behavioral initiatives Dutchess has proposed or is in the process of beginning, at a time when the county government's economy is healthier than many of its residents.”

The Common Council Criticized The Choice Of Location For The Shelter In The Fifth Ward, Which Already Struggled With Gun Violence And Substance Abuse, And Featured A Majority-Minority Population. “The proposed 120-bed homeless shelter, meanwhile, has been met with resistance. City officials have been torn. While professing a desire to assist the population and an understanding the city is where many are located, the Common Council has bristled at the notion of placing the shelter in the Fifth Ward, which already struggles with gun violence and substance abuse, and features a majority-minority population. Wednesday morning, County Legislature Minority Leader Yvette Valdes Smith issued a statement accusing Molinaro of ‘steamrolling’ the council’s concerns to push the project through the Republican-majority Legislature. Molinaro appeared to respond to that criticism Wednesday, announcing the county would be partnering with the city to expand its police resources in the shelter and around its neighborhood.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [4/21/22]

- Molinaro Said The Location Was The Best The County Could Find. “Molinaro said the county considered multiple options in the city, but the location on Oakley was the best facility and location it could find. Rolison said the city was made aware of the county's interest in creating a shelter, but was not part of the process in finding the location. He said he has been in talks with the county to collaborate on the project moving forward.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [4/18/22]

The Housing Project Was Criticized For Failing To Include Community Feedback And Being Used By Molinaro As A Political Prop And Was Eventually Scrapped

Poughkeepsie Journal: The New Shelter Was Met With Resistance And City Officials Were “Torn.” “‘It invests in people,’ County Executive Marc Molinaro said of a proposed homeless shelter, which would not only provide beds but case workers and assistance for its residents to help transition out of homelessness. ‘We will invest in the wraparound services and support infrastructure necessary in one space to help people overcome complex human issues.’ The $7 million project, which would place a shelter in the city of Poughkeepsie, is among several new physical and behavioral initiatives Dutchess has proposed or is in the process of beginning, at a time when the county government’s economy is healthier than many of its residents. County Legislature Minority Leader Yvette Valdes Smith Said Molinaro Steamrolled The Common Council’s Concerns To Push The Project Through. “‘It invests in people,’ County Executive Marc Molinaro said of a proposed homeless shelter, which would not only provide beds but case workers and assistance for its residents to help transition out of homelessness. ‘We will invest in the wraparound services and support infrastructure necessary in one space to help people overcome complex human issues.’ The $7 million project, which would place a shelter in the city of Poughkeepsie, is among several new physical and behavioral initiatives Dutchess has proposed or is in the process of beginning, at a time when the county government’s economy is healthier than many of its residents. Democrats Said Molinaro Forced The Unpopular Plan Through As A Campaign Ploy. “Eight months after Republican lawmakers pushed through the controversial purchase of a building on the city's northside for a homeless shelter, they've scrapped the plan citing the controversy surrounding the proposal. Dutchess County Executive William O'Neil issued a statement Wednesday saying ‘ongoing challenges, including community opposition and pending litigation, high costs to meet zoning and state requirements, as well as substantial community benefit payment requests from the city council have forced the county to reconsider this location.’ Instead, the county is now negotiating the sale of the building, located at 26 Oakley St., to the Poughkeepsie City School District. Democrats blasted Republicans for wasting ‘time and money on a politically-motivated plan doomed to failure,’ and accused former County Executive Marc Molinaro of forcing the unpopular plan through as a ‘campaign ploy’ to help him win election to Congress.” Daily Freeman, [3/9/23]

Residents And Elected Officials In Poughkeepsie Said They Were Not Given The Chance To Air Their Concerns About The Housing Facility. “Dutchess County is moving forward with plans to establish an emergency housing facility in the City of Poughkeepsie as it seeks public input on what to look for in an operator for the center. [...] The shelter for the homeless had been the focus of much debate earlier this year when the county announced it was locating it in one of the city's most impoverished areas. Residents and elected officials in the city had opposed placing the facility in the Fifth Ward, in a neighborhood already struggling with crime, drugs and gun violence. They challenged the decision, saying residents who will be most impacted by the facility were not given a chance to air their concerns and questioned whether alternate locations were considered.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [12/13/22]

- The Dutchess County Legislature Delayed Voting On The Shelter For A Month “In Order To Properly Address Community Feedback.” “The Dutchess County Legislature delayed voting on the emergency homeless facility proposed for one of the more impoverished areas in the City of Poughkeepsie after city residents and elected official raised concerns and requested more time to consider alternatives. The legislature was expected to vote Monday on purchasing the building at 26 Oakley St. in the city's Fifth Ward after the plan was approved at a Legislature committee meeting on Thursday. Many city residents spoke before the vote, questioning why the public was not included in the selection of the site. ‘We have concluded that in order to properly address community feedback ... we should delay legislative action for one month,’ Gregg Pulver, a northern Dutchess Republican and chairman of the Legislature, said in a statement. He said the the decision was made after discussions on Monday with County Executive Marc Molinaro and legislative leadership from both parties. Molinaro had previously lobbied for Legislature approval and included the shelter as a priority in his State of the County address last month.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/5/22]

2021: The Dutchess County Auditor Found The Stadium Operated A Yearly Deficit Of At Least $134,000 From 2015 To 2020 And Stadium Funding Was “Hurried And Omitted From The Budget.”

Dutchess County Auditor: The Stadium Operated A Yearly Deficit Of At Least $134,000 From 2015 To 2020. “That system has been questioned in the past, namely by county Comptroller Robin Lois, who in November issued an audit pointing out the stadium has operated at a deficit of more than $134,000 each year between 2015 and 2020.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

Dutchess County Auditor: “Capital Projects For The Stadium Have Not Been Properly Planned And Fully Disclosed.” “This audit report finds the capital projects for the Stadium have not been properly planned for and fully disclosed in the County’s 5-year capital plan.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Dutchess County Auditor: Stadium Funding “Was Hurried And Omitted From The Budget.” “Although the County had knowledge of the needed repairs for several years prior to 2018, the request for funding was hurried and omitted from the budget.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Dutchess County Auditor: “The Current Lease Terms Are Unfavorable To The County And Do Not Fully Compensate For The Costs Incurred.” “The County currently has a 5-year lease extension with the tenant that expires 12/31/23 and will soon need to be re-negotiated. The current lease terms are unfavorable to the County and do not fully compensate for the costs incurred. Although the Stadium is listed as a county park, it does not provide public access for resident enjoyment and is operated by a for-profit entity. The new lease agreement must safeguard taxpayer funds while planning for improvements to the quality and experience for the Stadium tenants and visitors alike. A fair and equitable lease would include remittance for operating expenses and allowance for anticipated increase in annual capital bond and interest costs incurred by the County.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Dutchess County Auditor: Dutchess County’s Capital Plans Did Not Include Needed Capital Improvements For The Stadium. “The County’s annual 5-year Capital Program/Plans (2016-2018) did not include or account for the needed capital improvements to the Stadium required to keep it usable and safe. Although the County had a long-term lease with Keystone and was aware of the impending needed improvements and repairs, there was no capital plan or repair schedule documented or followed. As an owned asset, the County has an obligation and responsibility for upkeep of the Stadium for not only the safety of its residents but under the obligations of the lease with the tenant. In a letter dated November 16, 2018 by Keystone President Jeff Goldklang (see Exhibit I), the needed repairs were stated as known by the County since to 2016. Repairs were not part of the capital plans in 2015 -2018 and a rush approval by the Legislature was requested in November 2018 by the administration; This required a request to waive rules of the Legislature (see Exhibit II), which was granted. Subsequently, the proposed repairs were approved by the Legislature in December 2018.” Dutchess County Comptroller, Dutchess Stadium, [November 2020]

Molinaro Responded To The Audit By Claiming The Stadium Brought Economic Benefits Not Mentioned In The Audit

Molinaro Touted Economic Benefits Of Dutchess Stadium After County Comptroller Released Audit Questioning Its Economic Value. “However, an audit released last week from county Comptroller Robin Lois questions the economic benefit of the stadium, the amount of money taxpayers have put into the property despite the county neither owning nor operating it directly, and a lack of details regarding additional planned improvement expenditures noted in an application for Empire State Development funding. Lois in the audit, which spanned 2015 to October 2020, concluded the stadium has operated at a deficit of more than $134,000 each year - and in some cases much more - from 2015-2019, and said in 2020 the Renegades had yet to pay any rental fees [...] Molinaro said that 60% of fans that go to Dutchess Stadium each year are from outside the county, and that group of people spends $1 million per year locally. He said it's difficult to evaluate what area residents spend during the Renegades' season, as they are already spending their money in the county year-round. ‘There will be additional economic investment. People spend money, whether they're buying gas or souvenirs,' Molinaro said. 'They're spending money in Dutchess County.'" Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/17/20]

Molinaro Claimed The Stadium Will Generate A Yearly Surplus Of At Least $750,000. "Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, who has thrown his support behind the resolution, pointed to a 2012 report that estimated non-Dutchess residents, who comprise roughly 60% of visitors to Renegades games, spend nearly $1 million annually. He also said revenue over the course of a 20-year agreement with the team will offset the cost of the upgrades, as he projects the county to end up gaining a $750,000 surplus through various agreed-upon revenue streams." Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/8/21]

The Dutchess County Department Of Public Works Said They Viewed Losses From The Stadium As The Cost Of Operating A County Park, Not As A Deficit. "Lois in the audit, which spanned 2015 to October 2020, concluded the stadium has operated at a deficit of more than $134,000 each year – and in some cases much more – from 2015-2019, and said in 2020 the Renegades had yet to pay any rental fees. In response, the county Department of Public Works Commissioner Robert Balkind said the administration is in the process of purchasing the land for the stadium from the school district and is interested in a long-term agreement with the Renegades, after which more improvements would be planned. He also noted the department does not look at losses relating to the stadium as a deficit, but rather the cost of operating a county park." Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/17/20]

2021: The Renegades Were Acquired By Diamond Baseball Holdings, A Subsidiary Of Entertainment Giant Endeavor

2021: Molinaro Congratulated The Hudson Valley Renegades On Being Acquired By Diamond Baseball Holdings. “The Hudson Valley Renegades are slated to be sold to Diamond Baseball Holdings (DBH), a subsidiary of Endeavor Group Holdings. DBH is purchasing the team from the Goldklang Group, which has interests in several Minor League Baseball teams. The new ownership is the second major change for the team, following the transition to becoming an affiliate of the New York Yankees for the 2021 season. [...] Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, a NY Mets fan that has cheered for the Renegades despite their affiliation with the NY Yankees said, ‘We congratulate the Hudson Valley Renegades on being the newest member of Diamond Baseball Holdings, and we, as a community, look forward to an even better fan experience as a result of this DBH’s investment and innovation.’” Mid Hudson News, [12/9/21]

Molinaro Said The County Should Not Give Up Stadium Ownership

Molinaro Said The County Should Not Give Up Stadium Ownership, Though He Acknowledged Its Relationship To The Renegades Was Not The “Most Ideal.” “In 1994, a public authority was formed to own and operate the stadium on land leased from the Beacon schools, Molinaro said. Several years later - he's not exactly sure how many - Dutchess took over as owner and the stadium became a county park. It was a decision, he said, that likely wouldn't be repeated in 2018 - a county getting into the business of owning a sports stadium. He brought up that point at Tuesday's meeting, but said that doesn't mean he wants the county to give up the stadium. ‘This isn't the most ideal relationship, but it's the relationship we inherited,’ he said. ‘It is one we need to sustain and maintain.’ In the relationship, he said, Dutchess is like a landlord and the Renegades are the tenant, paying an annual fee. Dutchess also pays an annual fee to Beacon schools, the land owner.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/16/18]

Molinaro Led The Building Of A New Jail In Dutchess County, Despite A Declining Inmate Population – The Most Expensive Project The County Had Ever Taken On, Dragging Dutchess County Into Jail Debt

2011-2014: Molinaro Supported Building A New Jail In Dutchess County To Deal With Overcrowding, At A Cost Of Up To $200 Million

2011: Molinaro Campaigned On Reducing Overcrowding In The County Jail. “Democrat Dan French and Republican Marc Molinaro both pledged to find solutions to overcrowding at the county jail and improve Dutchess County's economic climate if elected as county executive next month.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/6/11]

- Molinaro Called The County Jail “The Second Most Inefficient In The State.” “‘Our current jail is the second-most inefficient in the state.’ - Marc Molinaro, Dutchess County executive. Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said the county needs to move quickly on the purchase of 4.61 acres of property in the City of Poughkeepsie located next to the county jail.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/17/13]
- The Existing Dutchess County Jail Could Only Hold 250 Inmates. “The Dutchess County Jail, on North Hamilton Street, can only house 250 inmates. Nearly 200 additional inmates have been housed in out-of-county facilities, at a cost of about $8 million annually to Dutchess taxpayers, officials have said. The county installed pods at the jail to house some inmates in mid-2015 to reduce costs, but that is only a temporary fix.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 3/31/17]

2011: Housing Inmates Out Of County Cost Dutchess County $6.5 Million. “The Criminal Justice Council's report comes after County Executive Marc Molinaro asked the council for ways the county can stop housing out inmates, which cost taxpayers $6.5 million last year.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/16/12]

2012: The Dutchess County Criminal Justice Council Presented Price Ranges Between $78 Million And $202 Million For A New Jail

October 2012: The Dutchess County Criminal Justice Council Presented Price Ranges Between $78 Million And $202 Million For A New Jail. “The Criminal Justice Council's report comes after County Executive Marc Molinaro asked the council for ways the county can stop housing out inmates, which cost taxpayers $6.5 million last year. The council's subcommittee, chaired by retired jail Maj. Todd Gdula, said a new jail is the most cost-effective solution. The council estimates the county could build a $125 million facility on the state's now-closed Hudson River Psychiatric Center on Route 9 in the Town of Poughkeepsie and break even on housing-out costs [...] The council gave a range of prices to build: $78 million for a 500-bed facility to $202 million for a 650-bed jail, the least and most expensive scenarios. Gdula's committee ruled out rehabilitation, expansion or working collaboratively with other counties.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/16/12]

2013: A Consulting Firm, RicciGreen Associates, Confirmed The New Jail Would Cost Between $150 To $200 Million

2013: A Consulting Firm Report Confirmed The New Jail Would Cost Between $150 To $200 Million. “The consulting firm RicciGreene Associates last week issued a report that recommended the county build a new jail and transitional housing center that could house between 600 and 625 inmates. The firm, hired to validate a prior report recommending a new jail that was conducted by the Dutchess County Criminal Justice Council, said the project would cost between $150 million and $200 million. It said the county could build either at the jail's current site on North Hamilton Street in the city of Poughkeepsie or at the old Hudson River Psychiatric Center in the town of Poughkeepsie.” Daily Freeman, [6/08/13]

- Molinaro In September 2013: “No One Is Proposing A $200 Million Jail.” “While direct ‘housing-out’ costs are high, they have not reached $11 million - the county's estimated annual expense for debt service to build a new $200 million jail, the report states. Molinaro said, ‘No one is proposing a $200 million jail.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/12/13]

September 2013: Molinaro Claimed That The Estimated Annual Debt Service For A $200 Million Jail Was $11 Million, And The Cost To House Inmates Out Of County Had Not Yet Reached That. “While direct ‘housing-out’ costs are high, they have not reached $11 million - the county's estimated annual expense for debt service to build a new $200 million jail, the report states. Molinaro said, ‘No one is proposing a $200 million jail.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/12/13]

October 2013 Molinaro: “We Are Not Rushing Nor Have We Proposed New Construction Of A Jail.” “County Executive Marc Molinaro asked the audience of more than 100 attendees, including politicians and concerned citizens, to trust him. ‘My commitment is this,’ he said at the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Poughkeepsie, which held ‘To Jail or Not to Jail,’ a forum on the future of the overcrowded Dutchess County Jail. ‘We believe we have a complex problem that needs a comprehensive solution. We are not rushing nor have we proposed new construction of a jail,’ he said.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/10/13]

October 2013: Molinaro Opposed Committing The County To The State Commission Of Correction’s Recommendation For A 600-Bed Dutchess County Jail. “Dutchess County needs a 600-bed jail, say state officials who are calling on the county to solve its inmate overcrowding. The state Commission of Correction, which oversees jails, recommended the county build the jail - the biggest and possibly most expensive version being studied - in a draft agreement that is under negotiation. The agreement outlines what the commission expects the county to do in order to proceed with a temporary fix to its jail-cell shortage. Responding to statements made by County Executive Marc Molinaro during the forum ‘To Jail or Not to Jail’ held Wednesday night, commission spokeswoman Janine Kava said the agency asked the county to double its inmate capacity. During the forum at Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Poughkeepsie, Molinaro said, ‘The state of New York wishes us to engage in a memorandum of understanding that commits the county to a 600-[bed] jail. We won't do that.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/11/13]

December 2013: Molinaro Wanted The County To Spend $1.4 Million To Purchase Land Next To The County Jail To Build The New Jail On, Which The County Did

December 2013: Molinaro Wanted To Spend $1,425,000 To Purchase 4.61 Acres Of Land Next To The County Jail To Build The New Jail On. “A proposal to buy land next to the Dutchess County Jail is a potential solution to inmate overcrowding, which has plagued the county for decades, according to County Executive Marc Molinaro. Molinaro has asked the Legislature to vote Monday to fund the $1.425 million purchase of 4.61 acres on Parker Avenue and North Hamilton Street in the City of Poughkeepsie - the James L. Taylor Manufacturing Co. site. ‘If we are to realistically solve our inmate housing crisis and consider expansion of the Dutchess County Jail on its current site, this property acquisition is necessary,’ Molinaro said in a written statement.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/13/13]

December 2013: Dutchess County Earmarked $2.5 Million To Deal With Jail Overcrowding, Spending The Money On A Study And Purchasing The Land Molinaro Wanted For The New Jail. “Dutchess County has authorized $2.5 million toward dealing with the problem of overcrowding at the county jail. But will that be enough to persuade the state to let the county recoup some of those costs by using temporary housing for overflow inmates? That is the question facing county leaders now that the Legislature has approved the purchase of 4.61 acres in the City of Poughkeepsie adjacent to the existing jail. Late Monday night, the Legislature voted 23-2 to borrow $1.3 million toward the land along Parker Avenue and North Hamilton Street now owned by James L. Taylor Manufacturing Co. Minority Leader Barbara Jeter-Jackson, D-City of Poughkeepsie, and Legislator Joel Tyner, D-Clinton, voted against the resolutions. In June, county lawmakers approved $1.2 million to fund a study that would determine where a new jail should go and what it would look like.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 12/18/13]

2014: Molinaro Supported Building Temporary Housing Units For Inmates And Building A “Modern” Prison In Dutchess County. “For 20 years, this county has not addressed this growing problem – we send our inmates and more than 6 million of your tax dollars to other counties across the state. This must stop. Adding on to an already inefficient, costly facility will only worsen the problem... Moving forward with the placement of temporary housing units, saving $1 million annually and then building a modern facility will achieve our stated objectives.” Poughkeepsie Journal, Marcus Molinaro and Adrian Anderson Op-Ed, [4/26/14]

2014: New York State Allowed The Dutchess County Jail To Install Temporary Pods, Which Would Allow Planning To Start For A Jail Expansion. “Molinaro said now that the county has the green light to install the pods, work can begin on planning for the jail expansion. ‘Once the Legislature approves the pods we will go out to bid to contract with a private manager to design the campus plan and jail expansion,' he said. The county executive said that constructing a new efficient jail facility will ultimately save the county money. The projected savings include reducing jail staff due to an expected increase in the current 1-to-1 inmate-to-correction-officer staffing ratio to a 3-to-1 ratio. 'Every analysis that we have conducted shows at this point that it is less costly to the taxpayer to expand the jail as opposed to housing out,' Molinaro said." Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/7/14]

The Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial Board Criticized Molinaro For Underestimating The Difficulty Of Building A New Jail

2015: Poughkeepsie Journal Editorial: "[Molinaro] Underestimated The Difficulty To Get State Approval To Move Forward With A New Jail." "Molinaro has been innovative as well, launching a shared-services program that is providing millions of dollars to localities willing to consolidate and find efficiencies in government. And the county also has filled the long-vacant historian position, with the executive recognizing not only the area's rich history but how important heritage tourism is to the local economy. The executive also has hit some bumps and bruises along the way. Reconfiguring the county's economic-development network and developing a cohesive strategy have taken considerable time. He underestimated the difficulty to get state approval to move forward with a new jail, and an ill-timed energy tax caused massive public blowback and had to be repealed." 2017: Molinaro Supported The $192 Million, 569 Bed Jail, As A Permanent Solution To Jail Overcrowding. "A year after the Dutchess County Legislature approved a $192 million bond to fund a new jail and sheriff's office, officials are preparing to go out to bid on construction for part of the project. [...] It is a big picture - the Dutchess County Justice & Transition Center project, which has drawn considerable controversy, is one of the largest capital projects in recent county history. During a Poughkeepsie Journal editorial board meeting on Thursday, Molinaro discussed the proposal, along with how decisions made in Washington, D.C.'s, tumultuous climate could affect Dutchess, and what his own political future could look like, among other things. The proposal for a new 569-bed jail and sheriff's office came after decades of discussion of a permanent solution to the county jail overcrowding. The Dutchess County Jail, on North Hamilton Street, can only house 250 inmates. Nearly 200 additional inmates have been housed in out-of-county facilities, at a cost of about $8 million annually to Dutchess taxpayers, officials have said. The 569 Beds In The Plan For The New Jail Was Only 31 Beds Smaller Than New York State's 2013 Recommendation For A 600 Bed Jail In Dutchess County That Molinaro Opposed. 2019 – 2021: The Size Of The New Jail Was Repeatedly Downsized And Estimated Completion Date Was Delayed

2018: Dutchess County Wanted To Have Its New Jail Open By 2021. “As the Journal pointed out in a recent story and editorial, the county has one of the worst jails in New York. The state issued a blistering report about the jail, not only raising concerns about various protocols and procedures, but also rightly putting the county on notice to move forward with the work on a new facility. The county has approved a $192 million construction bond for what likely will be a more than 500-bed jail and sheriff department offices, and it’s imperative this project stay on track. The county’s goal is to have the inmates in the new facility by 2021, but efforts also must continue - on every level of government, including the judicial system - to reduce inmate population. That can occur through a range of actions, including improving mental health services and passing bail reforms.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [3/4/18]

2019: Dutchess County Downsized The New Jail To 384 Beds, Lowered The Estimated Cost To $154 Million, And Pushed The Completion Date Back To December 2023

2019: Dutchess County Downsized Jail Plans Towards A Smaller Jail, Pushing The Estimated Completion Date Back To December 2023. “Dutchess County is revising its plans amid a shift in criminal justice practices that may result in far fewer inmates at the proposed jail, according to a release from County Executive Marc Molinaro. But, he said, the smaller facility will save the county more than $8 million on construction costs and up to $2.5 million annually. Construction on the proposed $154 million facility, which would replace Dutchess County Jail, was scheduled to begin at the end of the year, with the final design due this month. The New York State Commission of Correction and the county agreed on pushing back its final design until the end of this year. Dutchess County Comptroller Robin Lois: “I Am Optimistic That A Smaller Initial Design Will Allow The County To More Accurately Assess Its Future Needs.” “Comptroller Robin Lois supported the reduced plan in the release from the county. ‘As someone who has always been concerned about the vast scale of the Jail project, I am optimistic that a smaller initial design will allow the county to more accurately assess its future needs,’ she said.

‘Having the flexibility to adjust to potential changes in the jail population, with the ability to utilize the 1995 building as a safety valve, is a very important factor. This new approach also allows the county the time to continue to invest in our alternatives to incarceration programs that are proving to be successful, while assessing the effects of recently passed legislation on bail reform.’ Poughkeepsie Journal, [5/24/19]

New York's January 2020 Bail Reform Law, Eliminating Cash Bail For Most Arrests, Was Expected To Reduce The State's Jail Population By At Least 40 Percent. "New York's new bail reform law had been in effect for a mere three months when the state legislature amended it in early April. The most significant change is that there are more situations where judges can impose cash bail. They will also have more discretion in setting bail and other conditions of pretrial release. The updates go into effect on July 1. The purpose of the original bail reform law was to reduce the number of people jailed while awaiting trial simply because they could not afford to pay bail. Court watchers estimated that it would have reduced the jail population by at least 40 percent by eliminating cash bail for as much as 90 percent of arrests. For the remaining cases, judges maintained the option of setting cash bail." Brennan Center for Justice, [4/16/20]

2021: Bail Reform Reduced The Number Of People In New York State Jail By Nearly 40 Percent. "In any other year, any one of these events would have upended jails and incarceration in New York State. In 2020, they happened back to back. Bail reform ushered in a period of considerable decarceration across the Empire State, and the number of people in jail dropped even further as authorities responded to the COVID-19 pandemic. The state's nearly 40 percent decline in jail populations proved that New York can reverse its decades-long investment in mass incarceration." Vera WHAT, [2/18/21]

September 2013: Molinaro Claimed That The Estimated Annual Debt Service For A $200 Million Jail Was $11 Million, And The Cost To House Inmates Out Of County Had Not Yet Reached That. “While direct ‘housing-out’ costs are high, they have not reached $11 million - the county's estimated annual expense for debt service to build a new $200 million jail, the report states. Molinaro said, ‘No one is proposing a $200 million jail.’” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/12/13]

Molinaro Praised The Impact Of County Stabilization Center On Reducing Jail Population But Opposed Additional Funding For It

Molinaro: “It’s A Shame In America That Mental Health Services And Drug Addiction Services Are Principally Provided In Jail Facilities.” “Molinaro said the system overhaul has two parts: the diversion and crisis stabilization center and the justice and transition center - the jail component. ‘It’s a shame in America that mental health services and drug addiction services are principally provided in jail facilities,’ he said. ‘Our focus has been to get the diversion and crisis center built. We have never had the square footage to provide intervention and diversion services.’” Poughkeepsie Journal, [9/27/15]

Molinaro Said Dutchess County Jail Population Declined 40% Since Opening A Stabilization Center In 2017, Even Before Implementing Bail Reforms. “When Dutchess County opened its stabilization center in 2017, helping provide services for individuals in crisis, officials hoped the 24-hour drop-in center would reduce the county’s jail population as well as avoidable hospital visits. And while there have been some changes and growing pains along the way, Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said the Mid-Hudson Valley county has seen success. Since the center opened, the county jail population has declined 40 percent, and that’s before bail reforms were implemented, Molinaro said. ‘We believe that in most cases, we drove down jail populations because of the work that the stabilization does to centralize delivery,’ he said. ‘There was a noticeable reduction in emergency room visits as well that we think is important. The emergency room and jail are the least effective tools to help someone in a mental health crisis.’” Albany Times-Union, [2/11/21]

Molinaro’s 2019 Opponent Attacked Him For Vetoing A $10,000 Appropriation For The Stabilization Center. “When it comes to mental health resources in Dutchess County, Molinaro pointed to the Stabilization Center, nationally renowned, and that residents have access to the 24/7 hotline. ‘No county in America does what we do,’ he said. However, Ruggiero noted that a couple years ago the county Legislature amended in the budget to include a $10,000 appropriation so that more money could be put into the homeless shelter. He said Molinaro vetoed this, despite people being turned away from the shelter. ‘That is not the way to deal with these things, a lot of the folks who are out there who are homeless, or need mental health services, we need more to do with that,’ Ruggiero said. ‘What the state has done in abandoning, how they provide mental health services to our citizenry is appalling.’ Molinaro responded by saying he rejected it because ‘I didn’t think it was appropriate for the legislature to pick winners and losers and just give $10,000 to a specific organization.’ He added that later that year, he expanded his commitment to housing.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/17/19]

November 2018: The First Phase Of Renovation For The Stabilization Center Was $2.6 Million Over Budget, And The Second Phase Was Six Times Higher Than The Original Budget. “The first phase of the project renovating the Dutchess County Stabilization Center cost around $2.6 million more than budgeted, and the estimated cost for the planned second phase is more than six times more than originally budgeted. That’s according to county Comptroller Robin Lois’ office, which released an audit of the project. In addition to renovating the property at 230 North Road in Poughkeepsie, the project called for expanding programs for those dealing with problems that include drug addiction and mental health.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/1/18]

Molinaro Cited The Increased Costs As A Reason Not To Proceed With Expansion Of The Stabilization Center. “County Executive Marc Molinaro said increases in labor costs are one reason why the county’s original estimate was incorrect. The project began in 2014. ‘Just in the region we have seen 50, 60 and, in some cases, 100 percent increases in previous labor costs,’ said Molinaro, the Republican gubernatorial candidate. ‘We are being responsible in saying what the projected costs could be but, because it is $14 million, I am not presenting to the Legislature a request to proceed with the project.’ The next phase of the project was included in the 2019-23 capital plan included in Molinaro’s proposed 2019 county budget, with no funding proposed until 2020.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [11/1/18]

August 2020: Dutchess Legislators Urged Molinaro To Reconsider What They Said Were Unannounced Layoffs Of Six Nurse Practitioners From The County’s Stabilization Center. “Word spread quickly in July among frequenters of the Stabilization Center, a 24-hour walk-in resource facility for mental health and substance use crises based in Poughkeepsie: the center’s nurses were gone. The news shocked Dutchess legislator and Vassar history professor Rebecca Edwards (D-Town of Poughkeepsie), who said the county laid off the six licensed practitioner nurses (LPNs) without warning legislators or informing the community. The center suspended in-person visitations and moved to telepractice on March 20. The Dutchess Democratic Legislators Caucus rang alarm bells about the layoffs in a press release on August 4. Democrats slammed the county for what they perceived as budget cuts to mental health and substance addiction services at a time when they are most needed. ‘It appears the county is withdrawing funding for the Stabilization Center, which no longer has medical personnel to offer diagnoses,’ said legislator Brennan Kearney (D-Rhinebeck/Clinton). ‘The timing could not be worse, as people struggle with the impact of COVID. We strongly urge the executive to reconsider.’” Miscellany News (Vassar College), [8/14/20]

Molinaro Responded With Statement Claiming The Center Had No Staffing Cuts, Called Democratic Legislators’ Statements “Purposefully Deceptive.” “In response, Molinaro’s office issued a statement that the center has been fully operational with no funding or staffing cuts through the pandemic. It also noted the Stabilization Center is a non-medical facility or an urgent care, noting 70% of visits relate to mental health disorders involving patients that do not need nursing assistance. ‘Dutchess County has been resolute in our commitment to mental health and addition, we have built a model that is admired throughout the state and we will continue investing in the Stabilization Center and evolve its operations to meet the needs of the community,’ Molinaro said. ‘The statements made by several of the Democratic legislators are either purposefully deceptive or simply don’t understand this vital resource.’ He called the statements by the legislators ‘insulting’ to the county and

‘the community professionals who works around the clock to serve the needs of our community.’ Poughkeepsie Journal, [8/6/20]

Molinaro’s Spending On Luxury Vehicles Sparked A County-Wide Audit

"A section of the report addresses the 2021 lease of the $75,876 sport utility vehicle by Molinaro and identifies the execution of the lease after a 2020 purchase denial. The Comptroller's Office in March 2020 denied an order to purchase a $65,500 2020 Chevrolet Tahoe using a legislatively approved replacement vehicle bond that did not include the Tahoe, according to the report. A secondary cause for denial was that the 2020 request was to replace a 2018 vehicle that had not reached the end of its useful life and was ruled an unnecessary replacement. The third cause for denial was the vehicle purchase order included law enforcement equipment, which is inappropriate in a non-law-enforcement vehicle." Hudson Valley 360, [5/18/23]

The audit faulted Molinaro for leasing the vehicle after being denied its purchase. The 26-page audit found the lease for Molinaro's Chevrolet Tahoe bypassed an accepted county procedure that would require legislative approval and resulted in a lack of transparency to taxpayers. 'Leasing decisions should be held to the same standards as any purchase in the procurement policy by assuring the prudent and economical use of public monies in the best interest of taxpayers of Dutchess County and to guard against extravagance,' Dutchess County Comptroller Robin L. Lois said in the report. 'It is evident that this lease was not held to the same standard expected of all departments.'" Hudson Valley 360, [5/18/23]

Molinaro Attempted To Purchase A New Vehicle Three Years Early Under The Incorrect County Department

2020: Molinaro Attempted To Purchase A New Vehicle Three Years Early Under The Incorrect County Department. "In early 2020, just as the coronavirus pandemic first ravaged the state, the Dutchess County Comptroller's office flagged and prevented the buying of a new vehicle for County Executive Marcus Molinaro. Molinaro, the Republican nominee for the 19th Congressional District special election on Aug. 23 and the general Nov. 8 election, had attempted to purchase a new vehicle three years early under the incorrect county department." Molinaro's Vehicle Was Exorbitantly Expensive Compared To Others In The County

HEADLINE: "Dutchess Audit Critical Of Molinaro For $75.8K Luxury Vehicle Lease While He Was County Executive." Daily Freeman, [5/18/23]

The District Attorney's Vehicle Cost $37,935, About Half As Much As Molinaro's Vehicle. "The price of the Chevrolet Tahoe Molinaro leased is $75,876, and the monthly payment is $1,347, according to a list of seven leased county vehicles. By comparison, the 2020 Jeep in the District Attorney's Office is valued at $37,935 and carries a monthly payment of $427. Molinaro's Tahoe was leased to Dutchess County with payments issued by the Auto Service Center, the department that oversees that county's vehicle fleet that was funded in the 2021 county budget and is within the county's 2022 adopted budget of $532.7 million." Hudson Valley 360, [5/18/23]

Molinaro’s Vehicle Cost Approximately The Same As A Dutchess County Family’s Median Household Income In 2020. “The base price of the vehicle was $73,625.10, and $80,463.20 after fees, according to the motor vehicle invoice from Ingersoll Auto of Pawling that Johnson Newspaper Corp. obtained through a Freedom of Information Law request. [...] A Dutchess County family’s median household income was $81,842 in 2020, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. A two-bedroom apartment in Dutchess County cost an average of $1,449 per month, and $1,260 for a one-bedroom, according to the county’s 2020 rental housing survey.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

Molinaro Requested Vehicles Equipped With Emergency Lights And Sirens Despite New York State Prohibiting Lights And Sirens On Non-Emergency Vehicles

2022: Molinaro Attempted To Purchase A Vehicle Through A Bond For The Dutchess County Sheriff’s Office And Had Emergency Lights And Sirens In His Vehicle Despite Not Being A Law Enforcement Officer. “Molinaro first tried to purchase his new vehicle as a bond charged for the Dutchess County Sheriff’s Office, the Department of Children & Family Services and Public Defender vehicles — a potential mismanagement of county funds, but not a violation of local policy. Officials in the county comptroller’s office denied the purchase order in late winter 2020. ‘The CE is not a law enforcement officer, nor is his vehicle registered as such,’ former Dutchess Deputy Comptroller Karl Schlegel wrote in an email March 5, 2020 to other county employees obtained through a Freedom of Information Law request. ‘Not only can this vehicle not be charged to this bond, and I question the use of this bid to purchase a vehicle for this department...Additionally, according to Auto Center records, the county executive is currently issued a 2018 vehicle with a five-year life. Why is his vehicle being replaced within two years?’ [...] Molinaro’s luxury SUV — and his past county vehicles — have a law enforcement package of emergency lights, sirens and additional window tinting installed.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

All Of Molinaro’s Vehicles Were Equipped With A Law Enforcement Package Of Emergency Lights, Sirens And Additional Window Tinting. “Molinaro’s leased 2021 Chevy Tahoe — and his past county vehicles — have a law enforcement package of emergency lights, sirens and additional window tinting installed. The county executive’s use of his 2021 Tahoe in emergency mode and past accidents with his county-issued vehicle are not part of the comptroller’s audit of the county’s vehicle fleet. [...] New York state’s vehicle equipment laws ban the installation and use of unauthorized colored, rotating and/or flashing lights, excluding vehicles registered to out-of-state residents, said Peter Bucci, spokesman for the state Department of Motor Vehicles.” Hudson Valley 360, [7/30/22]

2011: Molinaro Took $12,449 In Per Diems As A State Assemblyman. “Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, said the $12,449 he has been reimbursed for so far this year reflects nights he stayed over in Albany due to late-night sessions and early morning meetings the next day. ‘I am extremely sensitive that these are public tax dollars,' he said. Molinaro, in his third two-year term representing the 103rd Assembly District, said this year he had more of those early morning meetings than last year due to his added duties as assistant minority leader and appointment to two panels: Cuomo's transition team and the mandate relief and redesign team. 'The responsibility I've been given this year does require an added amount of work,' he said. Molinaro said he lives 54 miles from Albany and the drive each way usually takes just over one hour." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/05/11]

"Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, has seen his reimbursements increase from a little over $2,000 for fiscal year 2006-07 to $17,617.67 in fiscal year 2009-10. His responsibilities, including committee appointments, have increased, requiring the extra time in Albany. So far he has received $52,409.70 in per diem and travel expenses. 'My perspective is there are some things I couldn't afford to shoulder independently, and there are some things the people of the state of New York shouldn't have to pay for,' Molinaro said. [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/19/10]

While Campaigning, Molinaro Spent “Unusually” High Amounts On Trips, Entertainment, And Food, Despite Claiming Too Many Politicians Used Campaign Funds For Personal Use

Molinaro Took Trips To California And Florida While Campaigning For County Executive And Governor, Spending “Unusually” High Amounts On Trips, Entertainment, And Food

Times Union: Molinaro Spent “An Unusual Amount Of His Campaign Funds On Items Not Directly Related To Campaigning.” “But Molinaro -- who easily won his county executive races in 2011 and 2015 -- has himself spent an unusual amount of his campaign funds on items not directly related to campaigning: Since 2011, he has spent nearly $62,000 on car payments, meals, trips and entertainment. Nearly $27,000 in car and gas payments have included more than $15,000 paid to vehicle financing company Ally for a lease. The campaign paid the $594 per month beginning in 2012, despite the fact that Molinaro is also provided a taxpayer-funded vehicle by Dutchess County. Candidates are allowed to use campaign funds for their personal vehicles as long as the use is related to their public office. The lease payments stopped in April 2015 and were entirely legal, Molinaro's campaign said. Molinaro has spent $12,300 on travel and entertainment expenses, including a trip to California, where campaign expenses included tabs at the "Moonstone beach bar," and a trip to Florida, where the campaign paid for his stay at the Hilton Clearwater Beach. Molinaro said the trip to California in 2014 was related to tourism promotion efforts for Dutchess County, and that he preferred to have the campaign pay for it instead of taxpayers. The Clearwater Beach trip, in 2012, was to meet with campaign donors who were Dutchess County residents with homes in Florida; Molinaro's campaign refused to identify them. Molinaro has also spent nearly $23,000 in campaign funds on 252 meal-related expenditures, which he acknowledged was a ‘relatively high’ amount. Molinaro has often met for dinners with constituents and community groups, sometimes four times a week, which explains the high amount, he said. Given his $140,000-a-year salary, Molinaro himself could not foot the bill for the work and campaign-related spending.” Times Union, [7/1/18]

While County Executive And Mayor, Molinaro Repeatedly Mismanaged The Budget Process, Boosting The Budget For His Own Office While Increasing Debt And Attempting To Layoff County Employees

Molinaro Touted A 2022 Reduction In Debt Service In A Tax-Funded Mailing, But His Budget Planned Millions More In Debt Service From 2025-2027 Than In Previous Budgets

Dutchess County Democratic Legislators Claimed Molinaro Was “Kicking The ‘Debt Can’ Down The Road” By Reducing Debt Service In 2022 And Leaving Higher Debt Service After 2025. “The Executive is kicking the ‘debt can’ down the road. The county has changed its proposed debt service since its 2020 plan, so the Exec (who recently declared his ambition to take Congressman Antonio Delgado’s seat) can trumpet a ‘decrease in debt service’ for 2022. This short-term ‘dip’ in debt service has been engineered, leaving much higher debt service due in 2025 and beyond. (A celebratory mailer about the ‘dip’ was sent to Dutchess households in October at a cost to taxpayers of $40,000.)” Dutchess County Democratic Party, [11/22/21]

Dutchess County Democrats Criticized Molinaro For Touting A $5 Million Tax Cut While His Debt Service Plan Would Require The County To Pay $35 Million A Year From 2026-2028. “The Executive is kicking the ‘debt can’ down the road. The county has changed its proposed debt service since its 2020 plan, so the Exec (who recently declared his ambition to take Congressman Antonio Delgado’s seat) can trumpet a ‘decrease in debt service’ for 2022. (A celebratory mailer about the ‘dip’ was sent to Dutchess households in October at a cost to taxpayers of $40,000.) The scale of this spending puts in perspective the one-year $5m tax break that the Exec is currently touting as ‘historic.’ Compare that to the tax burden being created for future years: in 2026-2028, additional revenue will need to be generated, or programs cut, to pay over $35 million per year.” Dutchess County Democratic Party, [11/22/21]

2013: Under Molinaro’s Leadership, Moody’s Downgraded Dutchess County’s Credit Rating To AA1, Increasing Debt Service Costs To County Taxpayers

Moody’s Investors Service Downgraded Dutchess County’s Credit Rating One Level From “AA2” To “AA1” Due To Declining Fiscal Standing. “Dutchess County’s credit rating was taken down a notch by Moody’s Investors Service with a comment that Dutchess’ fiscal standing is declining. And that could cost the county taxpayers a little bit more in interest when a $6.2 million bond issue goes out.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/9/13]

- Moody’s Credit Ratings Gauged The Risk Associated With Buying Government Bonds. “An investment grade is a rating that signifies a municipal or corporate bond presents a relatively low risk of default. Bond rating firms like Standard & Poor’s and Moody’s use different designations, consisting of the upper- and lower-case letters ‘A’ and ‘B,’ to identify a bond’s credit quality rating. 2021: The Dutchess County Health Department Was Cut By $2.5 Million During A Pandemic While Dutchess County Legislators Received A Pay Raise. “Compared to the modified budget, appropriations have been cut in all areas except for education and debt services. Health department funding was cut from $47.2 million to $44.7 million, according to the executive budget. The cost for state mandates services, such children's foster care, preschool special education, and early intervention programs will increase, but state aid for those programs will be cut by almost $4 million. Molinaro Bragged His 2021 Budget Included No Layoffs After Pushing 150+ County Employees To Take Buyouts, While Still Including Pay Raises For Himself And Other Elected Officials

Molinaro Bragged That 2021 Budget Included No Layoffs, But Roughly 150 Employees Had Accepted Buyouts In The Prior Year. “Dutchess County is planning to lower its tax rate and maintain services in 2021. It is doing so even while cutting spending in most departments, navigating job losses as the result of roughly 150 employees accepting voluntary buyouts, and knowing state aid may be reduced [...] Molinaro said the county was financially prepared for ‘unprecedented times’ and that ‘Fortunately, here in Dutchess County, our long-established conservative fiscal approach has allowed us to produce a 2021 budget with no tax increase, no layoffs and reduced spending,’ in a release announcing the budget's approval. The county Legislature passed the budget Thursday by a vote of 16-8. Eight of 10 Democratic legislators opposed the budget. The county executive said that will equate to anticipated savings exceeding $10 million [...] In all, 176 employees applied in Dutchess, but not all were approved. Some of the individuals who applied for the incentive were denied because their position would need to be filled, costing the county money. ‘The program was, if we're going to give you the incentive, it has to save money,’ Molinaro said. ‘Our expectation was that the position or a similar position would remain vacant for 12 months. Molinaro Repeatedly Attempted To Lay Off County Staff

2012: Molinaro's Proposed Budget Would Have Cut 200 Jobs, Or Five To Ten Percent Of The County Workforce. "Reducing the $40 million budget gap, Molinaro said, will require job reductions. But he did not say exactly how many and what the cost savings would be. 'If you're adding and subtracting, it takes a long walk to get $40 million,' Molinaro said. He did say over the next few years he plans to reduce the county work force by 200 employees from 1,850 to 1,650. Colleen Pillus, research analyst for the county executive and budget office, said later Molinaro likely will propose reducing the work force next year by 5 percent to 10 percent. Some of those reductions, she said, would come from those who are electing to participate in the new Workforce Adjustment Incentive." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 9/29/12]

2012: Molinaro Offered A $20,000 Incentive To 150 Dutchess County Employees To Quit Their Jobs In Order To Balance The County Budget. "Summer will be a challenging time for about 150 Dutchess County government employees as they weigh whether to quit and collect a $20,000 incentive. As part of a plan to close an expected $40 million budget gap for 2013, County Executive Marc Molinaro said Tuesday, an offer is being made to certain staff members in most departments to give up their jobs and save the county budget several million dollars." [The Journal News, 8/8/12]

2014: Dutchess County Had 1,720 Full Time Employees, The Lowest Number In 30 Years. "To help balance the budget, the county saved $6.8 million through the reduction of 103 full-time workers. There were 1,720 full-time county employees - the lowest level in 30 years, he said." Poughkeepsie Journal, [2/3/14]

2020: More Than 150 Dutchess County Employees Voluntarily Departed As A Cost Saving Measure. "The more than 150 employees leaving their jobs are departing after the county offered retirement and separation incentives in response to the pandemic. The job reductions account for nearly $11 million in savings, with positions eliminated and being held vacant. Also, costs are offset with other position savings." 2021: Dutchess County Received $57 Million From The American Rescue Plan, After Cutting $18 Million From Its 2020 Budget, Which Included Staff Furloughs And Early Retirement Incentives. "Dutchess County, which will pull in $57 million, offered an early retirement incentive and furloughs last year as part of almost $18 million worth of cuts in its $500 million budget, Molinaro said. 'All of the core services that residents expect, certainly in an emergency in a difficult time, county governments deliver,' Molinaro said during a COVID-19 roundtable earlier this month hosted by Rep. Sean Patrick Maloney, D-Cold Spring, Putnam County." The Journal News, [4/15/21]

Molinaro Nearly Doubled The Dutchess County Executive Office Budget

Molinaro's Executive Office Budget Was Nearly Doubled During His Tenure Due To The Addition Of More Public Relations Staff. "In 2012, when the current County Executive was elected, the Exec's office had a total budget of $1.14 million. That included the budget office, which as the budget director noted at one of last week's meetings, works interchangeably with other Exec staff. This year the Exec's department recommended $2.17 million; the Executive himself recommends an even higher $2.2 million. The Exec's budget for his own office has nearly doubled since he was elected. The main additions have been public relations staff and aides." Dutchess Voice, [11/22/21]

A State Audit Criticized Tivoli's Budgeting Process While Molinaro Was Mayor, Highlighting "Sub-Standard Bookkeeping" And A Failure To Adhere To Competitive Bidding

The Audit Criticized Tivoli For Sub-Standard Bookkeeping And Not Always Following Competitive Bidding. "No money is missing. But the state did find various cases of sub-standard bookkeeping. For example, a $20,000 backhoe purchase was not subject to competitive bidding. Molinaro said the purchase, which was an emergency expense triggered by a water main break, did not require bids. He did concede, however, that he erred in not properly declaring the emergency. 'I have to file just a few extra pieces of paper,' he said, describing the purchase as a much better deal than renting a backhoe while waiting for bids." [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/2/00]

Molinaro On The Audit: "There's Just No Part Of This That Worries Me." "Mayor Marc Molinaro called a news conference Tuesday to discuss recent findings by the state comptroller's office. He said corrective actions are already under way. 'There's just no part of this that worries me,' he said. 'Times have changed. ... We have already been responding.'" [Poughkeepsie Journal, 2/2/00]

Since He Was 19, Molinaro Expressed Interest In Being President

When Molinaro Was Elected Mayor At 19 He Wanted To Be President. “He was 18 when he was elected a Tivoli trustee in 1994. A year later, he was mayor – the youngest in the country at the time. Molinaro’s youth brought with it a national spotlight, albeit a temporary one. There were appearances on ‘Live with Regis and Kathie Lee,’ ‘Donohue’ and the ‘Today’ show. ‘48 Hours’ aired a profile on him. Even then, Molinaro had an eye on higher office. ‘Eventually, I would like to be in position to run for president,’ he told the Times Union of Albany in 1995. ‘That would mean I would have to be a senator or governor.’” Democrat & Chronicle, [11/3/18]

1995: Molinaro Said “Eventually, I Would Like To Be In Position To Run For President [...] That Would Mean I Would Have To Be A Senator Or Governor.” “Granted, this Dutchess County village of 1,039 residents located 42 miles south of Albany is not the biggest of political trophies (at one square mile, it would not be big enough to be incorporated as a municipality today). But Molinaro has the biggest of political ambitions. ‘Eventually, I would like to be in position to run for president,’ he said. ‘That would mean I would have to be a senator or governor.’” [Times Union, 8/20/95]

Molinaro Considered Running For Congress As Early As 2010

2010: Molinaro Was Considering Running For Congress In NY-20 After Being Asked By Republican Party Leaders. “Assemblyman Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, said he wants to remain focused on his work, but is not ruling out running for the 20th Congressional District seat held by Rep. Scott Murphy, D-Glens Falls. Molinaro said he’s been asked by party leaders and elected officials across the district to run. The 20th Congressional District covers all or parts of Dutchess, Columbia, Delaware, Essex, Greene, Otsego, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Warren and Washington counties.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 1/28/10]

By Running For Congress In 2022, Molinaro Broke His Promise To Spend His Entire 2020-2023 Term As County Executive

2019: Addressing Allegations That He Planned To Run For Congress, Molinaro Promised He Would Spend The Duration Of His Third Term As Dutchess County Executive. “Molinaro, who a year ago failed to unseat Andrew Cuomo in a run for governor and has also been at the center of rumors that he would be tapped for a congressional run, promised Tuesday to spend the duration of his third term as Dutchess’ county executive.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 11/7/19]

- 2022: Molinaro Was Considering Running For Congress Or Governor. “For now, his focus is on the COVID-19 pandemic. But Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro is considering runs for higher office in 2022. Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Did Not Support A Dutchess County Term Limit Bill

2018: Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Didn't Support An Active Bill In Dutchess County For Term Limits. "Besides the statewide pay-to-play ban, another reform item Molinaro has made a centerpiece of his campaign is term limits, which he insists are badly needed across state government. He has pledged to serve only two terms as governor, and in a recent New York Post op-ed said he would insist on putting term limits in the state budget unless lawmakers agree to a standalone up-or-down vote on the matter. Molinaro has again had less urgency in taking up the matter in Dutchess County: A Republican Dutchess legislator introduced a bill last year imposing a 12-year limit for both the county executive and legislators, which Molinaro and other Republicans have not supported." Molinaro Claimed To Want To Re-Elect A Speaker As Fast As Possible, But Voted For A Long-Shot Candidate Who Was Not A Member Of The House

Molinaro Emphasized Selecting A Speaker And Getting Back To Work

Molinaro Said, “They Don’t Give A Shit Who The Speaker Of The House Is. They Care If We Are Functioning And Delivering For Them.” “Rep. Marc Molinaro, R-N.Y., who is one of 18 Republicans who represents a district that Joe Biden won in 2020, is tired of being asked whether Jordan will be palatable in a ‘Biden district.’ ‘Joe Biden does not own [my] district,’ Molinaro said. ‘They don’t give a shit who the speaker of the House is. They care if we are functioning and delivering for them.’” The Messenger, [10/13/23]

Before Voting For Zeldin, Molinaro Said “We Need To Get Back To Work And Need A Conservative Who Can Win The Speakership.” “Molinaro switched his vote Friday to former Rep. Lee Zeldin, who lost his 2022 bid for governor to Gov. Kathy Hochul, an upstate Democrat and former lieutenant governor. There is no requirement for the speaker of the House position to be filled by a sitting member of the House. ‘We need to get back to work and need a conservative who can win the speakership,’ Molinaro said Friday. ‘Today, I voted for Lee Zeldin. He’s championed crucial fights like driving down inflation, securing the border, and is an unwavering supporter of Israel.’” Hudson Valley 360, [10/21/23]

When Asked About Voting For Jordan, Molinaro Said, “I Wanted To Govern And The Party And The Conference Selected A Candidate For Speaker And Our Job Is To Select The Candidate, Elect A Speaker And Get Back To Work.” INTERVIEWER: “You don’t have any concerns about how your constituents on college campuses and in cities might feel about you being linked to Jim Jordan?” MOLINARO: “I respect the people I serve. I wanted to govern and the party and the conference selected a candidate for speaker and our job is to select the candidate, elect a speaker and get back to work. And remember, we would not have been in this situation if all of the Democrats in the House didn’t side with eight Republicans to oust the duly elected speaker of the House and frankly, no matter who I selected, I would suggest that most of the most of the folks on college campuses and and my opponent wouldn’t agree.” City and State, [11/3/23]

Zeldin Was The Only Person Who Was Not A Current Member Of Congress To Receive Votes For Speaker. “Lee Zeldin was the only person who isn’t a current lawmaker to receive any votes for speaker during the first round of voting. Zeldin, a former New York representative who was the GOP nominee for governor last year, got votes from three New York lawmakers – Anthony D’Esposito, Andrew Garbarino, Nick LaLota. (On social media, Zeldin himself backed Rep. Jim Jordan.) He also got a speaker vote back in January, as a protest vote by Rep. Andy Harris (R., Md.) against then-GOP nominee Kevin McCarthy (R., Calif.).” Wall Street Journal, [10/17/23]

Molinaro Pushed Unsuccessfully For An NYPD Investigation Of A Corruption Allegation Against Cuomo

2018: Molinaro Tried Pushing The NYPD To Investigate Andrew Cuomo For Allowing A Former Aide To Continue Using State Office Space; The NYPD Declined. “New York City police balked at Republican gubernatorial candidate Marc Molinaro’s request to investigate Democratic Gov. Andrew Cuomo Wednesday. Molinaro tried to file a police report at a Manhattan precinct alleging that Cuomo broke the law by allowing former aide Joe Percoco to use a state office after he left state service. Percoco was convicted of accepting bribes earlier this year. Trial testimony indicated that Percoco worked from his state office even after he resigned to lead Cuomo’s 2014 re-election campaign. Police instructed Molinaro to contact the state attorney general — something he’s already done, the candidate told reporters. Molinaro and the state Republican Party have also filed a lawsuit against the state ethics commission after they say earlier complaints about Cuomo were not investigated. ‘No one is above the law — not even Andrew Cuomo,’ said Molinaro, the Dutchess County executive. ‘I and others continue to believe that services were stolen from New York state taxpayers at Gov. Cuomo’s explicit direction, and that can’t be allowed to stand.’” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/24/18]

Molinaro Said New Yorkers Were “Paying A Corruption Tax” And Criticized The Cuomo Administration For Its Alleged Corruption

Molinaro Said New Yorkers Were Paying A De Facto “Corruption Tax” To Cover Corruption In New York And Campaigned On Reversing Corruption In The Cuomo Administration. “When he formally launched his run for governor earlier this month, Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said that ‘all New Yorkers are paying a corruption tax.’ It is a tax, Molinaro explained, that is the result of both legal and illegal malfeasance, of wasteful, ineffective, and corrupt government. In his initial remarks that day, at events in Tivoli and Albany, and

during multiple exchanges with journalists, Molinaro has outlined elements of a reform agenda that, he says, will help restore faith in government that has been squandered under Governor Andrew Cuomo. [...] Molinaro, a Republican, is positioning himself as an expert in clean, effective government who will be more inclusive and accessible, and will work across the aisle, while in some instances not easily falling into typical issue stances based on party. [...] Molinaro has said he wants to lead an overhaul of campaign finance laws, including possible closure of the LLC loophole, which allows virtually unlimited donations from entities that set up multiple limited liability corporations, and indicated he believes that only people should be able to make campaign donations, not companies, unions, or other organizations.” Gotham Gazette, [3/31/18]

The governor, attorney general and comptroller could serve a maximum of eight years, and state legislators a maximum of 12 years. A ban on individuals and entities pursuing government contracts from making political contributions. The re-establishing of a Moreland Commission to investigate corruption. Cuomo, of course, convened a Moreland Commission in 2013 but then disbanded it in 2014 after reaching agreement with the Legislature on some ethics reforms. Creating a ‘database of deals’ to be operated by the Urban Development Corp. The database would make public information about state development dollars given to companies and organizations. Rather than declare herself that there were widespread irregularities and a lack of ballot integrity, she invoked other Americans’ concerns about widespread irregularities and a lack of ballot integrity. Given how close the election was in key states, Stefanik said, ‘we need to make sure that every vote is counted. But we also need to highlight any of the irregularities. I have concerns about the software, the fact that Dominion software ...’ She trailed off, then said both Democrats and Republicans have ‘raised issues’ about ‘making sure that we have the integrity of the counting process.’ Stefanik didn’t explain her concerns about Dominion software, nor what ‘issues’ she was claiming Democrats had raised. Trump’s election lies that they find untenable, but her determination to be vocal about it. [...] Far from staying quiet about the false election claims on Thursday, Ms. Stefanik effectively campaigned on them, describing Mr. Trump on Mr. Bannon’s show as the ‘strongest supporter of any president when it comes to standing up for the Constitution,’ and asserting that Republicans would work with him as ‘one team.’ ‘The job of the conference chair is to represent the majority of the House Republicans, and the vast majority of the House Republicans support President Trump, and they support his focus on election integrity and election security,’ Ms. Stefanik later told Sebastian Gorka, a former adviser to Mr. Trump. Molinaro Said Elongating The Period Without A Speaker Would Be Worse Than Electing A Right-Wing Speaker. “But Representative Marc Molinaro, a moderate who narrowly flipped a Biden district in the Hudson Valley on promises of bipartisanship, appeared to have reached a very different conclusion: that the damage of elongating the House’s paralysis would be worse than electing a right-wing speaker whose policies and style could scarcely be more different than his. ‘Most of people I represent wouldn’t know the speaker of the House if they backed over them with a pickup truck,’ he said before voting for Mr. Jordan.” New York Times, [10/19/23]

Molinaro Said He Voted For Jordan Hoping He “Could Unify Our Conference.” “A former Dutchess County executive and 2018 gubernatorial candidate, Molinaro ran his congressional campaign in part on his experience working across the aisle to find practical solutions. He explained his initial support for Jordan as a matter of pragmatism. ‘I hoped that Jim Jordan could unify our conference. I believed he could and I worked toward that goal,’ he said, adding: ‘I’m willing to accept imperfection for the purposes of providing as close to the best we can for the people we serve.’ But as Jordan shed votes in each successive round of voting, Molinaro’s calculus changed. ‘I’m not here to ignore math or reality,’ he said. ‘We are not unified.’” Times Union, [10/22/23]

Molinaro On Jordan: ‘Based On Our Division Believed He Could Unify The Fractured Group.’ “I support the conference selection & based on our division believed he could unify the fractured group. When Asked About Voting For Jordan, Molinaro Said, “I Wanted To Govern And The Party And The Conference Selected A Candidate For Speaker And Our Job Is To Select The Candidate, Elect A Speaker

And Get Back To Work.” INTERVIEWER: “You don’t have any concerns about how your constituents on college campuses and in cities might feel about you being linked to Jim Jordan?” MOLINARO: “I respect the people I serve. I wanted to govern and the party and the conference selected a candidate for speaker and our job is to select the candidate, elect a speaker and get back to work. And remember, we would not have been in this situation if all of the Democrats in the House didn’t side with eight Republicans to oust the duly elected speaker of the House and frankly, no matter who I selected, I would suggest that most of the most of the folks on college campuses and and my opponent wouldn’t agree.” City and State, [11/3/23]

Molinaro: Jordan “Has Assured Me That My Voice And The Concerns Of Those I Serve In Upstate New York Will Be Heard.” “Molinaro added he was confident that Jordan, as speaker, would listen to Molinaro and recognize the needs of the constituents of the New York’s 19th District. ‘Do Jim Jordan and I agree on everything? Of course not, I don’t agree with anyone 100% of the time,’ Molinaro said. ‘But, he has assured me that my voice and the concerns of those I serve in upstate New York will be heard.’” Hudson Valley 360, [10/18/23]

Molinaro Said He Previously Voted For Jordan Because He “Believed He Could Unify’ Republicans, And Was ‘Hopeful And Helpful In That Effort.” “Molinaro, who represents the 19th Congressional District, had voted for Jordan during two other votes for House Speaker this week. ‘I voted for Jim Jordan twice because I believed he could unify our conference,’ Molinaro said in a statement Friday. ‘I was hopeful and helpful in that effort. But right now, he does not have the necessary votes to win.’ ‘We need to get back to work and need a conservative who can win the Speakership. Today, I voted for Lee Zeldin. He’s championed crucial fights like driving down inflation, securing the border, and is an unwavering supporter of Israel.’” Daily Freeman, [10/20/23]

He said New Yorkers are well aware of corruption in government. ‘New Yorkers know political corruption,’ Molinaro said in a statement. ‘Think: Sheldon Silver, Dean Skelos, and George Santos.’ ‘Now, with serious questions about President Biden, Congress has a responsibility to check it out,’ Molinaro added. ‘It is our job to do so. Mike Johnson

Molinaro Played A Pivotal Role In Mike Johnson Becoming Speaker Of The House

Molinaro Gave A Speech In A Closed-Door Republican Meeting Calling For His Colleagues To Vote For Mike Johnson For Speaker. “But he found an ally from an unexpected corner. Rep. Marc Molinaro — a relatively unknown, moderate Republican freshman from upstate New York — played a pivotal role in ushering Johnson into the speakership. He gave an impassioned speech calling on his colleagues to immediately vote for Johnson in a closed-door meeting after Emmer bowed out of the running. ‘I basically said, ‘We cannot go back out to that hallway, and into our communities, and say that we denied a member [the] opportunity because he didn’t line up with our purity tests.’ That’s inexcusable,’ Molinaro recalled to me in November. Although Molinaro’s speech, detailed first in The Washington Post, rankled some more experienced members, it helped provide momentum for Johnson’s nascent candidacy. Days later, Molinaro was named to the committee that escorted Johnson into the House chamber to be sworn in as speaker.” Politico, [2/18/24]

Politico: Molinaro “Played A Pivotal Role In Ushering Johnson Into The Speakership.” “It’d been three weeks since the ignominious ouster of Speaker Kevin McCarthy and House Republicans were restless and snappish. Majority Whip Tom Emmer had just pulled his name from the running, the third person to drop out of consideration after being backed by a majority of the caucus. There were no clear alternatives left. Louisiana Rep. Mike Johnson, the runner-up on the last internal party vote, was hardly an obvious consensus candidate among the fractured GOP. [...] But he found an ally from an unexpected corner. Rep. Marc Molinaro — a relatively unknown, moderate Republican freshman from upstate New York — played a pivotal role in ushering Johnson into the speakership. He gave an impassioned speech calling on his colleagues to immediately vote for Johnson in a closed-door meeting after Emmer bowed out of the running.” Politico, [2/18/24]

Washington Post: Molinaro’s Speech Advocating For Johnson As Speaker “Helped Pull Other Republicans In Swing Districts Along, And Rallied Weary Members To Break The Impasse.” “They also couldn’t start the process over, Molinaro argued, and have to explain to their constituents that they still hadn’t picked a speaker. Holding an immediate vote in conference for the person who came in second to Emmer was the only alternative, Molinaro said. Many conservatives rolled their eyes at Molinaro’s speech, but it helped pull other Republicans in swing districts along, and rallied weary members to break the impasse. Less than 24 hours later, Rep. Mike Johnson (R-La.) became the newly elected speaker of the House.” Washington Post, [10/28/23]

Molinaro Made A Motion To Skip The Secret Balloting And Move Directly To A Roll-Call Vote For Johnson

In A Republican Conference Meeting, Molinaro Made A Motion To Skip The Secret Balloting And Move Directly To A Roll-Call Vote For Johnson. “Just hours after securing the Republican nomination for House speaker, Majority Whip Tom Emmer (R-Minn.) walked into a conference meeting Tuesday evening and bluntly informed his colleagues that he knew how to count votes — and that he knew he didn’t have them — before exiting the room and wading through a throng of reporters in a fit of frustration. [...] As members moved toward abbreviating the conference election process Tuesday in the interest of time, McCarthy consistently expressed objections to the suggested adjustments. After Emmer, who McCarthy backed for speaker, dropped out, Molinaro made a motion to skip the secret balloting and move directly to a roll-call vote for Johnson, who had come in second place to Emmer.” Washington Post, [10/28/23]

Molinaro Was Chosen To Escort Johnson Into The Chamber Once He Was Elected Speaker. “Molinaro went on to support Johnson on the House floor, and was chosen to escort Johnson into the chamber once he was elected, which vulnerable Republicans considered a sign that the ultra conservative new speaker viewed them as part of the team.” Washington Post, [10/28/23]

Johnson Said He “Owe[d]” Molinaro For Supporting Him In The Speaker Race

Johnson Spoke At A Fundraiser For Molinaro Where He Told Molinaro “I Owe You, Bro,” As Thanks For Supporting Him In The Speaker Race. “U.S. House Speaker Mike Johnson wants all Republicans to know the stakes of the upcoming elections: the southern border is ‘wide open’ and the economy is ‘in chaos.’ [...] ‘This district could very well decide the future,’ Johnson told attendees of a closed-door fundraiser for Rep. Marc Molinaro here Thursday afternoon. The remarks, captured by POLITICO, were part of the speaker’s trip to two upstate New York swing districts — a visit that underscored the pressure on Johnson to at least keep, if not grow, his party’s razor-thin majority in the House. [...] It was an example of the speaker visiting places that ‘often get ignored by too many people,’ Molinaro said. And besides, Johnson was eager to thank Molinaro. ‘I owe you, bro,’ Johnson recalled telling Molinaro, as a thanks for supporting him in his race for speaker.” Politico, [2/22/24]

But I remain terribly focused on a part of the country, Upstate New York, that too often gets overlooked. So I don't want presidential politics to overlook the fact that I represent a part of the country that has limited access to quality health care. We live in a rural community where jobs are leaving. April 2016: Molinaro Said He Would Attend A Trump Rally In Poughkeepsie After Inviting Him To The County. “Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump will hold a rally at the Mid-Hudson Civic Center on Sunday, according to Dan Scavino, Trump’s social media director. The time of the rally is still to be announced. Trump will become the second presidential candidate after Democratic Sen. Bernie Sanders to visit Dutchess County in advance of the April 19 New York primary. Sanders held an event at Marist College on Tuesday. Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said he would be in attendance at the Trump rally. Molinaro had previously sent an open invitation to all the presidential candidates to stop in Dutchess. ‘It’s rare that New York state is relevant in the primaries, and we want to make sure that every voice is heard and every vote is earned,’ Molinaro said.” Poughkeepsie Journal, [4/13/16]

Poughkeepsie Journal: Trump “Has A Number Of Ties To Dutchess County.” “Trump, a business mogul and reality television host, has a number of ties to Dutchess County. Trump's Brother Hosted At Least Three Events For Molinaro

September 2015: Donald Trump's Brother Hosted A Fundraiser For Molinaro, Which Molinaro Promoted On Social Media. "The president's brother, Robert Trump, hosted a fundraiser for Molinaro on Sept. 30, 2015, ahead of Molinaro's successful re-election bid for Dutchess County executive. Robert is reportedly retired and living in Millbrook, in Dutchess County. He used to work in his father Fred Trump's real estate empire, and was featured in the New York Times' investigation into the Trump family's tax schemes. Molinaro promoted the fundraiser heavily on his Twitter and Facebook pages. At one point he even tagged Dan Scavino, then the social media director of Trump's presidential campaign, apparently hoping for acknowledgement from the influential account. Scavino didn't seem to engage. About a month before the fundraiser, Molinaro posted a photo with Robert Trump and two other local politicians, tagging it with '#Trump' and '#MakeAmericaGreatAgain.'" Molinaro Was Critical Of Trump's Indictment

2023: Molinaro Called Trump's Indictment A "Complete Political Circus" And Said Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg Caved To Politics And Publicity. "Elected officials in New York State reacted Friday to the indictment of former President Donald Trump by a Manhattan grand jury investigating alleged hush money funneled to Trump's ex-attorney Michael Cohen to pay off adult film star Stormy Daniels. [...] Republican U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro of Red Hook called the case 'a complete political circus' and attacked Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg for caving in to politics and publicity. 'No one is above the law and everyone is entitled to a fair trial, including a former president. Molinaro Said He Could Not Vote For The Agriculture And FDA Spending Bill Because It Would Ban Mail Delivery Of Abortion Pills

Molinaro Said He Could Not Vote For The Agriculture And FDA Spending Bill Because It Would Ban Mail Delivery Of Abortion Pills. “While GOP leaders anticipated pushback on the spending proposals from their right flank — including pressure for deeper spending cuts and tougher border security measures — they’ve also faced rare public pushback from moderate Republicans, who have dug in against their abortion strategy. In particular, those moderates have objected to the provision in the Agriculture and FDA spending bill to ban mail delivery of abortion pills, which have become a major flashpoint since the Dobbs decision overturned Roe v. Wade last year. Approved for use up to 10 weeks of pregnancy, the pills have become the most common method of abortion in the U.S. but battles over the drugs continuing to play out in courts, state legislatures and on Capitol Hill. Rep. Marc Molinaro (R-N.Y.), who represents a district President Joe Biden won in 2020, said in an interview earlier this summer that he ‘cannot vote for the bill’ as long as it includes the abortion pill rider.” Politico, [9/13/23]

January 2023: Molinaro Voted For So-Called “Born Alive” Legislation

January 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Born Alive-Survivors Protection Act To Require Health Care Practitioners To Provide Medical Care To Children “Born Alive” After An Abortion Or Attempted Abortion.

In January 2023, LaLota, Santos, D’Esposito, Lawler, Molinaro, and Williams voted for: “Passage of the bill that would require health care practitioners to provide the same care to a child that is ‘born alive’ after an abortion or attempted abortion as they would for a child born at the same gestational age and to ensure the child is immediately transported and admitted to a hospital; require hospital and clinic practitioners and employees to report any knowledge of failures to provide such care; and impose criminal fines and penalties for failures to meet these requirements. It would state that a child born alive under these conditions is a legal person under U.S. law, entitled to the protections of U.S. law, and it would specifically make any act that kills or attempts to kill such a child punishable as murder or attempted murder. The bill would also prohibit the prosecution of the mother of a child born alive after an abortion or attempted abortion and permit such mothers to seek relief through civil action against any person who violates the bill’s requirements, including monetary and punitive damages.” The bill passed by a vote of 220-210. The Bill Would Establish Criminal Penalties Of Up To Five Years In Prison For Doctors Who Did Not Follow Existing Federal Law To Provide Medical Care To Infants After Extremely Rare Failed Abortions

The Bill Would Establish Criminal Penalties For Doctors Who Did Not Follow Existing Federal Law Requiring Medical Care Be Given To Infants In The Very Unlikely Event Of A Failed Abortion. “Live births during an abortion procedure are exceedingly rare, experts said, and federal law already requires that a baby who survives an attempted abortion receive emergency medical care. The Bill Contained Misinformation And Increased Barriers To Abortion Care

To Care.” “The Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act, which passed 220-210 on Wednesday, would require physicians to provide life-sustaining care to infants born after an attempted abortion and threatens doctors with criminal penalties if they don’t comply. [...] But similar to other anti-choice legislation, the bill is chock-full of misinformation and creates more barriers to care. Reproductive rights advocates and physicians critical of the bill argue that it’s nearly impossible for infants to be born alive during abortions later in pregnancy. Bills like this are also redundant: Murder is already illegal in the U.S. If that’s not enough, the rights of an infant or newborn are already protected by a 2002 law that codified that infants have the same rights as any other human.” Huffington Post, [1/11/23]

The Majority Of Abortions Performed Later In Pregnancy Were Due To Medical Necessity, Not Elective, As The Bill Suggested. “But similar to other anti-choice legislation, the bill is chock-full of misinformation and creates more barriers to care. Reproductive rights advocates and physicians critical of the bill argue that it’s nearly impossible for infants to be born alive during abortions later in pregnancy. Bills like this are also redundant: Murder is already illegal in the U.S. If that’s not enough, the rights of an infant or newborn are already protected by a 2002 law that codified that infants have the same rights as any other human. These bills promote inaccurate ideas about why people get abortions later in pregnancy. The majority of abortions performed later in pregnancy are medically necessary to save the life of the pregnant person or necessary because of a fatal fetal abnormality; they’re not elective.” Huffington Post, [1/11/23]

In The New York Assembly, Molinaro Repeatedly Voted To Prohibit Medicaid Funds To Be Used For Abortions

In The New York Assembly, Molinaro Repeatedly Voted For A Budget Amendment Prohibiting Medicaid Funds From Being Used Towards Abortions. “According to the nation’s largest abortion provider, Molinaro is ‘weak on women’s health.’ Why does Planned Parenthood say this? Federal Restrictions

March 2023: Molinaro Refused To Comment On Federal Efforts To Restrict Abortion

March 2023: Molinaro Refused To Comment On Federal Efforts To Restrict Abortion. “How able Democrats are in turning the ‘24 election cycle into a referendum on abortion policy will go a long way toward determining the party’s success at the ballot box. Advocates believe that Republicans may just play into their hands. They believe they can spotlight a continued appetite for anti-abortion legislation in a GOP-led House, as well as a looming court case that could restrict abortion even in states where it is protected by state laws. The House has already voted on one bill that would make it a felony to not provide medical assistance to an infant that survives an attempted abortion (which is already illegal), and it has promised a speedy vote on a second that would put stricter bans on federal funding for the procedure. The newly elected Republicans from New York — Reps. Anthony D’Esposito, Mike Lawler, Marc Molinaro, George Santos, Nick LaLota, and Brandon Williams — all voted in favor of the first bill, which passed the House. D’Esposito, Molinaro, LaLota, and Williams did not respond to multiple requests for comment. Lawler’s office denied an interview request and he denied a request made in person. The National Republican Congressional Committee also declined to comment on this issue.” Politico, [3/27/23]

[...] He said he opposes what he called ‘late-term abortions,’ except in instances of rape and incest which he said should be considered rape and in those instances where the life of the mother is at risk, but believes access should be maintained ‘generally speaking,’ through the first 17 weeks of pregnancy. Similarly, he said, he would oppose a Democratic push to enact legislation that would enshrine the right to abortion in federal law. ‘I don’t believe after the Supreme Court decision that the federal government or Congress has much of a role at all,’ said Molinaro, during a virtual debate with Democrat Pat Ryan hosted by the Freeman on Friday.” Kingston Daily Freeman, [8/6/22]

July 2023: Molinaro Said An Amendment Ending The Practice Of Reimbursing Travel Expenses For Servicemembers Accessing Abortion Services Was “Mischaracterized” And “Doesn’t Have Anything To Do With Limiting Access.” “Democrats have also decried an amendment added to the National Defense Authorization Act last week that would curtail abortion access for members of the military by ending the practice of reimbursing

travel expenses for service members to get abortion services. All but two Republicans – including all of New York’s GOP delegation – voted in favor of the contentious amendment that is expected to imperil the future of the crucial spending bill due to Democratic opposition to the measure. The abortion-related measure was pushed by the far-right Freedom Caucus in the House. According to CNN, a White House spokesperson said Republicans were ‘hijacking a bipartisan bill and devolving it into a hardcore rightwing wishlist.’ Votes in favor of the amendment include Reps. Marc Molinaro and Mike Lawler, two moderate Republicans from the Hudson Valley who have touted their bipartisan chops in the past, and pledged to vote against national abortion bans while campaigning. ‘This amendment has been mischaracterized. It doesn’t have anything to do with limiting access. It was on not using federal taxpayer dollars for transportation to abortion services – something the federal government doesn’t fund,’ Molinaro said in a statement to City & State, calling it a long-standing bipartisan policy. ‘I have continued to say I won’t vote for a federal abortion ban. August 2022: Molinaro Said He Would Support A Federal Abortion Ban At 17 Weeks. “According to an unearthed audio recording, Republican Rep. Marc Molinaro would support a federal abortion ban at 17 weeks of pregnancy. Former President Donald Trump proposed a similar prohibition earlier this year. [...] The recording captures an exchange Molinaro had with a voter at a town hall event in Endicott, New York in August 2022. The voter asked Molinaro about his stance on the Women’s Health Protection Act, a bill that would create federal abortion access rights for patients and providers. In response, Molinaro discussed his opposition to late-term abortion. The voter then prompted Molinaro to define what a late-term abortion is. ‘In my estimation, personally, it is after 17 weeks,’ Molinaro said. He goes on to note that he would support exceptions for rape and incest.” American Journal News, [3/19/24]

Molinaro Repeatedly Called For Limitations On Access To Late-Term Abortions

2022: Molinaro Said He Believed Late-Term Abortion Should Be Limited To Rape, Incest And The Life Of The Mother. MOLINARO: “The issue now returns to the states. I do not support a national ban. I don’t believe Congress can impose a national ban and I will not vote for one. I also believe late-term abortion should be limited to rape, incest and the life of the mother. Susan B. Anthony List Supported Multiple Abortion Bans And Opposed Access To IUDs and Emergency Contraception

- The “Life At Conception Act” Would Effectively Ban Abortion With No Exceptions For Rape, Incest, Or If A Woman’s Health Was At Risk. “H.R. 616 would grant equal protection under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States for the right to life of each born and ‘preborn’ human person. ‘Human person’ is defined as: [...] each and every member of the species homo sapiens at all stages of life, including the moment of fertilization, cloning, or other moment at which an individual member of the human species comes into being. The bill would grant constitutional rights to fertilized eggs, embryos, fetuses, and clones. It would effectively ban abortion with no exception for rape, incest, or to save the life of the pregnant person. It would also ban birth control pills, IUDs, and emergency contraception. In addition, it would eliminate certain medical choices for women, including some cancer treatments and in vitro fertilization. The bill would not allow for prosecution of any pregnant person for the ‘death’ of their ‘unborn child.’” Rewire News Group, archived [6/15/22]

Susan B. Anthony List Supported 15-Week And 6-Week Abortion Bans And Worked To Gather Co-Sponsors For Both. “Several abortion bans have already been introduced in Congress. A six-week abortion ban has been introduced in the House, by Rep. Mike Kelly (R-Pa.), and the Life at Conception Act, which would recognize a fetus as a person with equal protections under the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, has been introduced in both chambers. Nineteen Republican senators and well over 100 Republicans in the House have co-sponsored the measure, signaling that many would like to see a total ban on abortion. [...] Susan B. Anthony List fully supports both a national six-week ban and a 15-week ban, said Dannenfels, who has been working to gather co-sponsors for both pieces of legislation.” Washington Post, [5/2/22]

Susan B. Anthony List Opposed IUDs And Emergency Contraception, Which It Falsely Claimed Were Abortifacient. “Donald Trump first committed to nominating ‘pro-life’ justices to the Supreme Court in a September 2016 letter made public by anti-choice group Susan B. Anthony List, where he announced that he had appointed SBA List president Marjorie Dannenfels to lead his Pro-Life Coalition. (SBA List had previously urged caucus and primary voters to support ‘anyone but Trump,’ but then he won the Republican nomination in July 2016.) Not only does SBA List oppose abortion in all circumstances, they also oppose the copper IUD and emergency contraception, aka the morning-after pill, because they falsely believe they cause abortions.” VICE, [6/29/18]

- NYU Professor Op-Ed: Following The Overturning Of Roe, Contraception Could Be Banned If Anti-Choice Groups Including SBA List Succeed In Characterizing It Forms Of It As Abortifacient Under Abortion Bans. “In a post-Roe America, it is easy to see how the right to contraception could be gutted by recasting some forms of contraception as abortifacients. For the last 10 years, this has been a standard move among abortion opponents. The Susan B. Anthony List, a prominent anti-abortion group, has characterized emergency contraceptives as ‘abortion drugs.’ Likewise, Americans United for Life, which drafts model anti-abortion legislation, maintains that IUDs and Plan B ‘can kill an embryo by blocking its ability to implant in the uterus.’ Most recently, the Louisiana Legislature flirted with a bill that would classify abortion as a homicide, prompting concern that the legislation could have criminalized IUDs and emergency contraception. As red states line up to prohibit — and even criminalize — abortion, the crucial question will be, What counts as an abortion?” New York Times, Melissa Murray, professor of law at New York University, Op-Ed, [5/23/22]

Dobbs

Following Dobbs, Molinaro Said Abortion Was A States’ Rights Issue But Was Settled Law In New York

Molinaro On Dobbs: “While I Have Always Personally Believed In The Sanctity Of Life, And Remain

Opposed To Late-Term Abortion, This Decision Doesn't Change New York's Settled Law. “Ulster County Executive Pat Ryan immediately condemned the Supreme Court's decision to overturn Roe v. Wade on Friday, while Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said it did not change New York law. Molinaro, a Republican, called the Supreme Court's decision ‘an extremely sensitive issue that I am genuinely empathetic to. Individuals on both sides are rightfully very passionate about what is an intimate issue for women and families,’ Molinaro said in an emailed statement. ‘The Supreme Court has decided this issue belongs to the states, where governments closer to the people they represent will set policy. While I have always personally believed in the sanctity of life, and remain opposed to late-term abortion, this decision doesn't change New York's settled law.’” Daily Freeman, [6/24/22]

Molinaro On Abortion: “Like It Or Not, The United States Supreme Court Has Determined In The Dobbs Decision That This Is A States Rights Issue.” “SURVEY: “What, if any, restrictions should be put on abortion? Should abortion laws be left to states or federal government?” MOLINARO: “Like it or not, the United States Supreme Court has determined in the Dobbs decision that this is a states rights issue. As such, I do not believe that Congress has any role to play in a woman’s right to access. I will not vote for an abortion ban. On a personal level, I do believe, like most Americans, that very late term and partial-birth abortions, should be restricted, except of course, in the case of rape, incest, and the health of the mother.” Times Herald-Record, [11/3/22]

Molinaro: House Republicans Need To “Take Stock That Post-Dobbs The American People Want Every Level Of Government To More Appropriately Respect The Difficult Choices Women Have To Make.” “On Wednesday, Rep. Marc Molinaro (R-NY) told reporters that House Republicans need to ‘take stock that post-Dobbs the American people want every level of government to more appropriately respect the difficult choices women have to make.’ ‘We have to recognize that these are difficult choices and politicizing them is not helping,’ said Molinaro, who represents a district President Joe Biden won in 2020.’ Daily Beast, [11/9/23]

2009: Molinaro Voted Against A Bill Prohibiting Incarcerated Pregnant Individuals From Being Shackled While Giving Birth

2009: Molinaro Voted Against S-1290, A Bill Prohibiting Pregnant Incarcerated Individuals From Being Shackled During Birth Or While Being Transported To The Hospital. On May 20, 2009, Molinaro voted “No” on S-1290, a bill that “Provides for the care and custody of pregnant female inmates before, during and after delivery; prohibits the use of restraints of any kind from being used during the transport of such female prisoner to a hospital for the purpose of giving birth, unless such prisoner is a substantial flight risk whereupon handcuffs may be used; prohibits the use of any restraints during labor; requires the presence of corrections personnel during such prisoner's transport to and from the hospital and during her stay at such hospital.” The bill passed the Assembly 119 to 21 and was signed by the Governor. S-1290 Was Supported By Health Care Groups That Raised Concerns About Harmful Restraints To Women And Their Babies

S-1290 Was Supported By Health Care Groups That Raised Concerns About Harmful Restraints To Women And Their Babies. “Health care organizations called the restraints harmful to women and their babies. ‘Physically restraining a pregnant prisoner poses undue stress on both her and her baby, is uncomfortable and possibly could interfere with proper assessment of the patient’s condition,’ the Medical Society of the State of New York wrote in a letter supporting the bill. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists called for an end to the practice before the legislation. By 2009, at least four other states had enacted prohibitions on restraining inmates during delivery.” [Buffalo News, 10/21/18]

2018: Molinaro Denied Making The Vote And Said The Only Reason He Regretted His Vote On S-1290 Was Because He Had To Deal With Political Consequences

2018: Molinaro Denied That He Voted To Allow Pregnant Women To Be Shackled. “Mr. Molinaro denied that he had voted as a state legislator to allow some pregnant women to be shackled, then later said that he had done so because of safety considerations. (The bill concerned the transport of female inmates during childbirth.)” New York Times, [10/23/18]

2018: Molinaro Said The Only Reason He Regretted His Vote On S-1290 Was Because He “Had To Deal With It Politically.” “Molinaro also voted against a bill prohibiting incarcerated pregnant women from being shackled while in labor. ‘I regret that vote only in that I had to deal with it politically,’ he said. ‘The only reason I regret that vote is because you can spin it the way you wish.’ While he said he would not vote the same way again, Molinaro said he was compelled by concerns raised by physicians and state corrections officers regarding women who would continue to act out violently against themselves and the baby. ‘The way the bill was written, there was no discretion,’ he said. ‘It made a very black-and-white statement that could put women and children at risk.’” Poughkeepsie Journal, [10/3/18]

Molinaro Said He Supported Access To Better Prenatal And Neonatal Care

Molinaro Spoke About His Mother Having A Baby With A Birth Defect Who Died Shortly After Birth, Saying He Supported Access To Better Prenatal And Neonatal Care. “Molinaro told a personal story about his mother giving birth to a baby in 1972 with a hole in his heart. The baby died shortly after. ‘I don’t know what her choice would have been, but I saw the heartbreak and scars left by her loss,’ he said. He said he believed the abortion regulations should be up to individual states. ‘I do not support imposing the federal will on states,’ he said. However, he also said women should have access to better prenatal and neonatal care everywhere in the U.S.” Daily Star, [8/18/22]

Mifepristone

July – November 2023: Molinaro Referred To Mifepristone Restrictions In An Appropriations Bill As Limits On Birth Control

July 2023: A Spending Bill To Fund Agriculture And The FDA Was Held Up Over Its Reversal Of A Rule Allowing Mifepristone To Be Sold In Retail Pharmacies And By Mail With A Prescription. “Plans to move an appropriations bill funding agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to the House floor were brought to a halt amid internal GOP division over whether to further slash spending and a provision related to abortion. [...] A main point of contention on the measure is a provision that would nullify a Biden administration rule allowing the abortion pill mifepristone to be sold in retail pharmacies and by mail with prescriptions from a certified health care provider. Moderate Republicans have been vocal in their opposition to the provision, warning that they will not support the bill unless it is stripped.” The Hill, [7/26/23]

could prove easier to resolve than the moderates' demand to strip the provision in the committee-approved version of the agriculture bill that would block certified pharmacies from mailing mifepristone. If GOP leaders remove that, some conservatives who pushed for its inclusion may rebel and vote against it. [...] Rep. Marc Molinaro, R-N.Y., has also said he would vote against the agriculture bill over the provision, which he considers an encroachment on states' rights. 'I have obviously concerns regarding some of the identified cuts, but I've made clear that the prohibition on over the counter birth control is not something that I can support,' he said." November 2023: Molinaro Said He Opposed The Agriculture's Budget Bill Because It "Included A Prohibition On Access To Birth Control"

November 2023: Molinaro Said At A Tele Townhall That He Voted Against The Agriculture Budget Bill Because It "Included A Prohibition On Access To Birth Control." "[CALLER:] What are you Democrats and Republicans going to get this thing straightened out about our budget? Because you've only got 14 days this month and we are going to be shit up the creek without a paddle again. [MOLINARO:] Well, good point, although, I don't want to be in that creek with or without a paddle. But that said, it's a great question. As I mentioned, yes, I was very helpful in negotiating a process that moved. And I didn't agree with some of the bills – in fact I voted against the ag bill because the cuts were too deep to farming and included a prohibition on access to birth control that I just think is not appropriate, so that bill didn't pass." November 2023: Molinaro Said At A Tele Townhall That He Opposed The Agriculture Budget Bill Because It "Would Have Prohibited The Distribution Of Over-The-Counter Birth Control." "[CALLER:] I'm curious where you are willing to compromise and make cuts, or compromise and not make cuts on federal funding. [MOLINARO:] Sure. Great question, I appreciate you asking and so, as I said, I do not and will not support diminishment of Medicare and Social Security. I have embraced a bipartisan, bicameral commission to address long-term sustainability of those trusts, we have time to develop policy to do that. As it relates to the rest of the spending, I would offer to you, you know, I believe in identifying inefficiencies and making reasonable cuts. Now, we did six or seven appropriations bills, and so you ask me sort of where do I draw the line. The first five included military spending, homeland security, foreign operations – there are spending cuts built within those bills. I was satisfied that those met the interest of reining in federal spending and being more responsible with your dollars. The agriculture bill cut too deep programs that farmers and farm work rely on, and included a policy that would have prohibited the distribution of over-the-counter birth control. Those are steps too far. I'm not going to support those, and in fact I led an effort to stall that bill. It was defeated." [Rep. November 2023: Molinaro Told Punchbowl News, "The [Agriculture Spending] Bill Didn't Proceed Because Of An Effort To Prohibit The Access To Over-The-Counter Birth Control." "The rubber is going to meet the road when Congress returns from the Thanksgiving recess. The House is going to be forced to reconcile its spending priorities with the Senate. And the House GOP leadership is going to have to contend with competing pressures from moderates, hardline conservatives and the Democratic-run Senate on access to reproductive care. 'Listen, the [Agriculture spending] bill didn't proceed because of an effort to prohibit the access to over-the-counter birth control,' Molinaro added. The Financial Services-General Government spending bill 'has its own issues because of the effort to rescind the Washington, D.C., non-discrimination act.'" Punchbowl News, [11/22/23]

March – April 2023: Molinaro Said He Supported Contraception Access In Reference To A Texas' Judge Ruling To Limit Mifepristone

April 2023: A Texas Judge Invalidated FDA Approval Of Mifepristone Before The Supreme Court Overruled The Decision

April 2023: A Texas Judge Invalidated FDA Approval Of Mifepristone. “A federal judge in Texas issued a preliminary ruling invalidating the Food and Drug Administration’s 23-year-old approval of the abortion pill mifepristone, an unprecedented order that — if it stands through court challenges — could make it harder for patients to get abortions in states where abortion is legal, not just in those trying to restrict it. The drug will continue to be available at least in the short-term since the judge, Matthew J. Kacsmaryk, stayed his own order for seven days to give the F.D.A. time to ask an appeals court to intervene.” New York Times, [4/7/23]

The Supreme Court Overruled The Texas Judge’s Decision Later That Month. “Nothing will change for now. That’s what the Supreme Court said Friday evening about access to a widely used abortion pill. A court case that began in Texas has sought to roll back Food and Drug Administration approval of the drug, mifepristone. Lower courts had said that women seeking the drug should face more restrictions on getting it while the case continues, but the Supreme Court disagreed. The court’s action almost certainly will leave access to mifepristone unchanged at least into next year, as appeals play out, including a potential appeal to the high court.” Associated Press, [4/22/23]

Molinaro Said He Supported Expanding Access To Mifepristone And Said A Court Ruling Banning The Medication Was “A Dangerous Precedent For A Federal District Court.” “Two moderate New York Republican congressmen on Monday denounced a right-wing Texas federal judge’s ruling that could impose a nationwide ban on the most commonly used drug used for medication abortion. Rep. Anthony D’Esposito and Rep. Marc Molinaro issued similar statements rejecting Friday’s decision by U.S. District Court Judge Mark Kacsmaryk that overturned the 23-year-old approval of mifepristone by the Food and Drug Administration. ‘I think this is a dangerous precedent for a federal district court,’ Molinaro said in a statement. ‘I supported expanding access to this medication as a member of the state Assembly and support access now.’” Daily News, [4/11/23]

Marc Molinaro spoke in front of a local conservative audience at the 60th annual Lincoln Award Dinner at Kozel’s Restaurant in Ghent on March 16. Molinaro was asked about a Texas court possibly blocking access to Mifepristone, an abortion drug, and he said, ‘I supported accessing contraception as a member of the state Assembly.... Mifepristone Was An Abortion Medication, Not A Contraceptive

Mifepristone Was The First Of Two Medications Used In A Medication Abortion. “Mifepristone is the first of two medications used in a medication abortion (also known as the ‘abortion pill’). Mifepristone has been safe and legal in the United States since the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved the brand name Mifeprex nearly 20 years ago. In April 2019, the FDA approved the first generic form of mifepristone, following a review of the evidence that medication abortion is a safe, effective way to end an early pregnancy — with a safety record of over 99%.” Planned Parenthood, [2019]

Mifepristone Was Used To End A Pregnancy That Already Existed, While Emergency Contraception Helped Prevent Pregnancy. “Is mifepristone a morning-after pill? Nope — these are actually very different medicines. Abortion pills like mifepristone end a pregnancy that already exists. Morning-after pills like Plan B help stop you from getting pregnant in the first place. Morning-after pills — also called emergency contraception — are a type of birth control. They help delay ovulation, so sperm and egg can't meet. You can take the morning-after pill up to 5 days after unprotected sex, before pregnancy has a chance to happen. But morning-after pills won't cause an abortion if you're already pregnant. Mifepristone helps cause an abortion — you use it when you're pregnant. You can use abortion pills up to 11 weeks after the first day of your last period.” Planned Parenthood, [4/18/23]

Mike Johnson

Molinaro Gave A Speech In A Closed-Door Republican Meeting Calling For His Colleagues To Vote For Mike Johnson For Speaker. “But he found an ally from an unexpected corner. Rep. Marc Molinaro — a relatively unknown, moderate Republican freshman from upstate New York — played a pivotal role in ushering Johnson into the speakership. He gave an impassioned speech calling on his colleagues to immediately vote for Johnson in a closed-door meeting after Emmer bowed out of the running. ‘I basically said, ‘We cannot go back out to that hallway, and into our communities, and say that we denied a member [the] opportunity because he didn’t line up with our purity tests.’ That’s inexcusable,’ Molinaro recalled to me in November. Although Molinaro’s speech, detailed first in The Washington Post, rankled some more experienced members, it helped provide momentum for Johnson’s nascent candidacy. Days later, Molinaro was named to the committee that escorted Johnson into the House chamber to be sworn in as speaker.” Politico, [2/18/24]

Politico: Molinaro “Played A Pivotal Role In Ushering Johnson Into The Speakership.” “It’d been three weeks since the ignominious ouster of Speaker Kevin McCarthy and House Republicans were restless and snappish. Majority Whip Tom Emmer had just pulled his name from the running, the third person to drop out of consideration after being backed by a majority of the caucus. There were no clear alternatives left. Louisiana Rep. Mike Johnson, the runner-up on the last internal party vote, was hardly an obvious consensus candidate among the fractured GOP. [...] But he found an ally from an unexpected corner. Rep. Marc Molinaro — a relatively unknown, moderate Republican freshman from upstate New York — played a pivotal role in ushering Johnson into the speakership. Washington Post: Molinaro’s Speech Advocating For Johnson As Speaker “Helped Pull Other Republicans In Swing Districts Along, And Rallied Weary Members To Break The Impasse.” “They also couldn’t start the process over, Molinaro argued, and have to explain to their constituents that they still hadn’t picked a speaker. Holding an immediate vote in conference for the person who came in second to Emmer was the only alternative, Molinaro said. Many conservatives rolled their eyes at Molinaro’s speech, but it helped pull other Republicans in swing districts along, and rallied weary members to break the impasse. Less than 24 hours later, Rep. Mike Johnson (R-La.) became the newly elected speaker of the House.” Washington Post, [10/28/23]

Molinaro Made A Motion To Skip The Secret Balloting And Move Directly To A Roll-Call Vote For Johnson

In A Republican Conference Meeting, Molinaro Made A Motion To Skip The Secret Balloting And Move Directly To A Roll-Call Vote For Johnson. “Just hours after securing the Republican nomination for House speaker, Majority Whip Tom Emmer (R-Minn.) walked into a conference meeting Tuesday evening and bluntly informed his colleagues that he knew how to count votes — and that he knew he didn’t have them — before exiting the room and wading through a throng of reporters in a fit of frustration. [...] As members moved toward abbreviating the conference election process Tuesday in the interest of time, McCarthy consistently expressed objections to the suggested adjustments. After Emmer, who McCarthy backed for speaker, dropped out, Molinaro made a motion to skip the secret balloting and move directly to a roll-call vote for Johnson, who had come in second place to Emmer.” Washington Post, [10/28/23]

Johnson Spoke At A Fundraiser For Molinaro Where He Told Molinaro “I Owe You, Bro,” As Thanks For Supporting Him In The Speaker Race. “U.S. House Speaker Mike Johnson wants all Republicans to know the stakes of the upcoming elections: the southern border is ‘wide open’ and the economy is ‘in chaos.’ [...] ‘This district could very well decide the future,’ Johnson told attendees of a closed-door fundraiser for Rep. Marc Molinaro here Thursday afternoon. The remarks, captured by POLITICO, were part of the speaker’s trip to two upstate New York swing districts — a visit that underscored the pressure on Johnson to at least keep, if not grow, his party’s razor-thin majority in the House. [...] It was an example of the speaker visiting places that ‘often get ignored by too many people,’ Molinaro said. And besides, Johnson was eager to thank Molinaro. ‘I owe you, bro,’ Johnson recalled telling Molinaro, as a thanks for supporting him in his race for speaker.” Politico, [2/22/24]

So, look, we know that that’s not based on science. However, that rhetoric is used to go after a much broader range of reproductive rights and services. So it’s really important that Americans understand what that’s code for. That’s code for going after your fundamental, basic, everyday medication like birth control. It’s code for going after something that we know more and more American women rely on to expand their families and to have children, which is IVF. It’s very dangerous. July 2022: Johnson Voted Against Reinstating The Protections Offered By Roe V. Wade

Johnson Voted Against The Women’s Health Protection Act To Establish The Statutory Right For Patients To Receive And For Providers To Provide Abortions And To Prohibit Certain State Restrictions On Abortion.

In July 2022 Johnson voted against: “Passage of the bill that would statutorily establish that health care providers have a right to provide and patients have a right to receive abortion services, and it would prohibit certain restrictions related to abortion services. The bill would specify that rights established by the bill may not be restricted by certain requirements or limitations related to abortion services, including prohibitions on abortion prior to fetal viability, or after fetal viability if a provider determines that continuation of a pregnancy would pose a risk to a patient’s life or health; requirements that patients disclose reasons for seeking an abortion or make medically unnecessary in-person appointments; requirements that providers provide medically inaccurate information or perform specific medical tests or procedures in connection with the provision of abortion services; limitations on providers’ ability to prescribe drugs based on good-faith medical judgment, provide services via telemedicine or provide immediate services when a delay would pose a risk to a patient’s health; and requirements for facilities and personnel that would not apply to facilities providing medically comparable procedures. It would also prohibit requirements or limitations that are similar to those established by the bill or that impede access to abortion services and expressly or implicitly single out abortion services, providers or facilities. It would specify factors that courts may consider to determine whether a requirement or limitation impedes access to abortion services, including whether it interferes with providers’ ability to provide services; poses a risk to patients’ health; is likely to delay or deter patients in accessing services or necessitate in-person visits that would not otherwise be required; is likely to result in a decreased availability of services in a state or region; is likely to result in increased costs of providing or obtaining services; or imposes penalties that are not imposed on other health care providers for comparable conduct. It would require a party defending a requirement or limitation to establish that it significantly advances the safety of abortion services or patient health and that such goals cannot be advanced by a less restrictive alternative measure. It would authorize the Justice Department, health care providers and private individuals and entities to bring a civil action in U.S. district court for injunctive relief against any state or government official charged with implementing or enforcing a requirement or limitation challenged as a violation of rights established by the bill. It would authorize district courts to award appropriate equitable relief, including temporary, preliminary or permanent injunctive relief, and to award costs of litigation to a prevailing plaintiff. It would require courts to ‘liberally construe’ provisions of the bill to effectuate its purposes. 2023: Johnson Cosponsored A Bill To Prohibit The Defense Department From Paying For Abortion Services, And Later Voted To Do The Same

Johnson Cosponsored A Bill to Prohibit The Defense Department From Paying For Abortion Services. “This bill prohibits the Department of Defense (DOD) from providing certain funding related to abortion services. Specifically, the bill prohibits DOD from paying or reimbursing any fees or expenses for a health care professional (who provides health care at a military medical treatment facility) to gain a license in a state if the purpose of gaining the license is to provide abortion services. The bill also repeals the DOD memorandum titled Ensuring Access to Reproductive Health Care (October 20, 2022). Johnson Voted Against The Ensuring Access To Abortion Act To Prohibit Individuals From Interfering With A Patient's Ability To Cross State Lines To Obtain An Abortion In A State Where It Is Legal. In July 2022 Johnson voted against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would prohibit individuals from interfering with patients' ability to access to abortion services in another state where the services are legal. Specifically, it would prohibit any person acting under color of state law from preventing, restricting or retaliating against health care providers' ability to provide abortion services that are legal in the provider's state to patients who do not reside in that state; a person's ability to assist in providing such services; or a person's ability to travel or assist another person traveling across state lines to obtain an abortion. It would also prohibit individuals from preventing, restricting or retaliating against the interstate movement of any drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration for the termination of a pregnancy. January 2023: Johnson Voted For Legislation That Would Punish Doctors For Providing Abortion Care To Patients

Johnson Voted For The Born Alive-Survivors Protection Act. In January 2023 Johnson voted for: “Passage of the bill that would require health care practitioners to provide the same care to a child that is ‘born alive’ after an abortion or attempted abortion as they would for a child born at the same gestational age and to ensure the child is immediately transported and admitted to a hospital; require hospital and clinic practitioners and employees to report any knowledge of failures to provide such care; and impose criminal fines and penalties for failures to meet these requirements. It would state that a child born alive under these conditions is a legal person under U.S. law, entitled to the protections of U.S. law, and it would specifically make any act that kills or attempts to kill such a child punishable as murder or attempted murder. The bill would also prohibit the prosecution of the mother of a child born alive after an abortion or attempted abortion and permit such mothers to seek relief through civil action against any person who violates the bill’s requirements, including monetary and punitive damages.” The bill passed by a vote of 220-210. January 2023: Johnson Cosponsored A Bill Prohibiting The Use Of Federal Funds For Abortions Or Health Coverage That Includes Abortions

January 2023: Johnson Cosponsored A Bill Prohibiting The Use Of Federal Funds For Abortions Or Health Coverage That Includes Abortions. “This bill modifies provisions relating to federal funding for, and health insurance coverage of, abortions. Specifically, the bill prohibits the use of federal funds for abortions or for health coverage that includes abortions. Such restrictions extend to the use of funds in the budget of the District of Columbia. Additionally, abortions may not be provided in a federal health care facility or by a federal employee. Historically, language has been included in annual appropriations bills for the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) that prohibits the use of federal funds for abortions—such language is commonly referred to as the Hyde Amendment. Similar language is also frequently included in appropriations bills for other federal agencies and the District of Columbia. The bill makes these restrictions permanent and extends the restrictions to all federal funds (rather than specific agencies). The bill’s restrictions regarding the use of federal funds do not apply in cases of rape, incest, or where a physical disorder, injury, or illness endangers a woman’s life unless an abortion is performed. The Hyde Amendment provides the same exceptions. The bill also prohibits qualified health plans from including coverage for abortions. Currently, qualified health plans may cover abortion, but the portion of the premium attributable to abortion coverage is not eligible for subsidies.” H.R. 7, Summary, [1/9/23; H.R. 7, Cosponsors, 1/9/23]

September 2023: Johnson Voted For Legislation That Would Restrict Access To The Abortion Medication Mifepristone – One Of The Most Common Methods For An Abortion

September 2023: Johnson Voted To Pass The Fiscal 2024 Agriculture Appropriations Including Republican Riders. In September 2023, Johnson voted for: “Passage of the bill that would provide roughly $22 billion in discretionary funding in fiscal 2024 for the Agriculture Department and related agencies. The bill would provide $6.2 billion to the Food and Drug Administration, including $3 billion in discretionary budget authority and $3.2 billion in user fees; $3.4 billion for Agriculture Department rural development activities; $1.5 billion for the Agricultural Research Service; and $1 billion for the Food Safety and Inspection Service. It would provide $122 billion for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, $32 billion for child nutrition programs, and $6 billion for the Women, Infants, and Children program. It would direct the USDA to take necessary actions to prohibit the purchase of U.S. agricultural land by non-resident aliens and foreign businesses associated with Russia, North Korea, Iran and China; nullify the FDA’s January 2023 rule allowing medical providers to dispense the abortion drug mifepristone without an in-person consultation; prohibit the use of funds for programs that promote critical race theory; and prohibit the use of funds to establish any office of diversity, equity and inclusion, among other policy provisions. As amended, the bill would prohibit the use of funds for carrying out various Biden administration executive orders related to climate change and sex discrimination, finalizing regulations that result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more, implementing the USDA COVID-19 workplace safety policy, or for any operations of the Civilian Climate Corps, among other restrictions. - October 2022: Molinaro Said He Would Encourage Public Discussion On Constitutionally Codifying Some Right To Abortion. “Molinaro accused Democrat Riley of intentionally distorting Molinaro’s position on abortion to ‘frighten women into thinking that I don’t care deeply. ‘I do,’ he said. ‘I want us to have a sensitive conversation about what we think the limits (on abortion) ought to be and what the consequences of those decisions are.’ He said he opposes what he called ‘late-term abortions,’ except in instances of rape and incest — which he said should be considered rape — and in those instances where the life of the mother is at risk, but believes access should be maintained ‘generally speaking,’ through the first 17 weeks of pregnancy. He said he also would encourage public discussion on a potential constitutional amendment that would codify some right to abortion. ‘I know that we’re not going to necessarily come to an absolute agreement, but I do believe there’s some commonality,’ Molinaro said. ‘I think there is some common ground.’” Kingston Daily Freeman, [10/18/22]

The Women’s Health Protection Act Would Federally Codify Protections From Roe V. Wade. “As a leaked draft opinion of a Supreme Court ruling shows a conservative majority of justices appear poised to overturn federal protections of abortion rights, Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer said Thursday the Senate will hold a procedural vote to begin debate on the Women’s Health Protection Act next week. WHPA is a bill that aims to codify Roe v. Wade, the landmark decision that grants protections for a woman’s right to abortion, at the federal level. The bill prohibits governmental restrictions on access to abortion services, according to the Congressional Research Service.” ABC, [5/7/22]

Federally Codifying Protections From Roe Would Prevent States From Passing “Full Bans” On Abortion Following The Overturning Of Roe. “Congressional Democrats have mulled options to guarantee the 1973 Roe v. Wade ruling’s protections since a leaked majority draft indicated in May that the Supreme Court would reverse the decision. The majority conservative court indeed overturned Roe last week, sparking nationwide tumult among abortion-rights advocates and celebrations by their anti-abortion counterparts. The reversal returns the power to state legislatures to pass full bans on abortion. The ruling, which stood for nearly 50 years, had nullified broad bans on the procedure and established it as a constitutional right. Now Democrats are pushing to effectively restore that right by ‘codifying’ Roe v. Wade.” USA Today, [6/30/22]

Molinaro Voted Against Passing Fiscal 2024 Agriculture Appropriations Including Republican Riders. In September 2023, Molinaro voted against: “Passage of the bill that would provide roughly $22 billion in discretionary funding in fiscal 2024 for the Agriculture Department and related agencies. The bill would provide $6.2 billion to the Food and Drug Administration, including $3 billion in discretionary budget authority and $3.2 billion in user fees; $3.4 billion for Agriculture Department rural development activities; $1.5 billion for the Agricultural Research Service; and $1 billion for the Food Safety and Inspection Service. It would provide $122 billion for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, $32 billion for child nutrition programs, and $6 billion for the Women, Infants, and Children program. It would direct the USDA to take necessary actions to prohibit the purchase of U.S. agricultural land by non-resident aliens and foreign businesses associated with Russia, North Korea, Iran and China; nullify the FDA’s January 2023 rule allowing medical providers to dispense the abortion drug mifepristone without an in-person consultation; prohibit the use of funds for programs that promote critical race theory; and prohibit the use of funds to establish any office of diversity, equity and inclusion, among other policy provisions. As amended, the bill would prohibit the use of funds for carrying out various Biden administration executive orders related to climate change and sex discrimination, finalizing regulations that result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more, implementing the USDA COVID-19 workplace safety policy, or for any operations of the Civilian Climate Corps, among other restrictions. It also would reduce the salary of Deputy Undersecretary of Agriculture for Food and Nutrition Service Stacy Dean to $1.” The bill was rejected by a vote of 191-237. Molinaro Voted For Lifting The Debt Ceiling Until January 1, 2025

Molinaro Voted For Lifting The Debt Ceiling Until January 1, 2025. In May 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through Jan. 1, 2025. It would also set discretionary spending caps for the next two years and include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, rescind unobligated funds and streamline environmental permitting processes. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits for defense and nondefense spending for fiscal years 2024 and 2025, capping defense spending for fiscal 2024 at $886.4 billion -- an increase of approximately 3 percent -- and nondefense spending at $703.7 billion -- a cut of more than 5 percent. Both caps would increase for fiscal 2025 by 1 percent. Through fiscal 2025, it would also include specific annual cap adjustments for specified programs; provide $44.8 for the veterans' toxic exposure fund established by the PACT Act (PL 117-168); and provide $22 billion for a Commerce Department IT modernization and facility improvement fund. If appropriations legislation for fiscal years 2024 and 2025 is not enacted by Jan. 1 of each year, the bill would set discretionary spending limits for funds provided under a continuing resolution at levels reduced 1 percent from the previous fiscal year. For the subsequent four years, the bill would set overall discretionary spending limits for the purpose of congressional budget enforcement, establishing a cap of $1.62 trillion in fiscal 2026, increasing 1 percent annually to $1.67 trillion in fiscal 2029. The bill would rescind approximately $27.7 billion in unobligated funds, primarily for coronavirus response, including $10.4 billion for the Public Health and Social Services Emergency Fund, $3.2 billion for Agriculture Department food supply chain and other activities, $2.2 billion for highway infrastructure programs, and $1.7 billion for Centers for Disease Control and Prevention virus tracking and vaccine development activities. It would also rescind $1.4

billion for IRS enforcement provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169). The bill would temporarily raise from 49 to 54 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, while also exempting homeless individuals, veterans, and individuals under age 25 who aged out of foster care. It would reduce from 12 to 8 percent the maximum number of individuals that states may exempt from SNAP work requirements. It would update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program and provide for a pilot program for states to establish work outcome benchmarks and reduce assistance to beneficiaries who refuse to meet work requirements. The bill would establish an ‘administrative pay-as-you-go’ requirement for federal agencies, requiring agencies to submit to the Office of Management and Budget an estimate of the budgetary effects for any proposed administrative action and, if the action would increase direct spending by at least $1 billion over the next 10 years or $100 million in any one year, include a proposal for an action to reduce spending by at least an equal amount – effective through 2024. The bill would statutorily end the pause on student loan repayments on Aug. 29, 2023. Among provisions to streamline the permitting process under the National Environmental Policy Act, the bill would set deadlines of one year for environmental assessments and two years for environmental impact statements; limit the page length of such documents; adjust thresholds for levels of review; limit the scope of reviews to ‘reasonably foreseeable’ environmental effects of an action; and limit the definition of major federal actions under NEPA to those subject to ‘substantial federal control and responsibility.’ The bill would also legislatively approve the West Virginia-to-Virginia Mountain Valley Pipeline.” The bill passed by a vote of 314-117. The Debt Ceiling Agreement Included Reforms To SNAP, Increasing Work Requirements, Causing Up To 750,000 Individuals To Potentially Lose Benefits

Business Insider: “The Debt Ceiling Deal Could Lead To 750,000 Older Americans Losing SNAP Benefits.”

The Debt Ceiling Agreement Included Reforms To SNAP. “The debt ceiling agreement, which includes almost all of the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) changes from the House-passed debt-ceiling-and-cuts bill, would put almost 750,000 older adults aged 50-54 at risk of losing food assistance through an expansion of the existing, failed SNAP work-reporting requirement.” Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, [5/31/23]

The SNAP Reforms Increased The Upper Age Limit On Work Requirements For SNAP Recipients From The Age Of 49 To 54

The SNAP Reforms Increased The Upper Age Limit On Work Requirements For SNAP Recipients From The Age Of 49 To 54. “The upper age limit for SNAP recipients who have to prove they’re working or looking for work — at least part-time — has just gone from age 49 to age 50. Plus, Homeless folks and veterans are newly exempt from those work reporting requirements. Since the first of September, 50-year-olds are the new group of people who’ve had to prove they’re working to get SNAP. In October, the age cap goes up to 52; next year, it’ll jump to 54. Just adding those 5 extra years may cut significantly into the number of people who get SNAP. ‘We estimate that up to 750,000 individuals could lose benefits,’ said Ed Bolen with the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities.” Marketplace, [9/11/23]

The Debt Ceiling Bill Decreased The Number Of Individuals States Could Exempt From SNAP Work Requirements

The Debt Ceiling Bill Decreased The Number Of Individuals States Could Exempt From SNAP Work Requirements By 33%. In May 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through Jan. 1, 2025. It would also set discretionary spending caps for the next two years and include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, rescind unobligated funds and streamline environmental permitting processes. [...] The bill would temporarily raise from 49 to 54 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, while also exempting homeless individuals, veterans, and individuals under age 25 who aged out of foster care. It would reduce from 12 to 8 percent the maximum number of individuals that states may exempt from SNAP work requirements." The bill passed by a vote of 314-117. The Increased SNAP Requirements Came At The Same Time As Cuts To The SNAP Benefits Of Over 30 Million People. "The push to add more work requirements comes at a difficult time for many lower-income households, with 32 states slashing food-stamp benefits this month in what some experts are calling a 'hunger cliff.' The cuts, which translate into an average per-person loss of $82 in monthly SNAP benefits, stand to affect more than 30 million people who receive food stamps in those states and as inflation remains painfully high, with grocery costs more than 10% higher than a year earlier, according to the latest inflation data." Molinaro Said Increased Work Requirements Were To Prioritize "Helping People Get To Independence"

Molinaro On SNAP: "We Want The Government Agencies To Return To Prioritizing Helping People Get To Independence And Not Merely Having The State Process The Check." "He said recent legislation emphasizing SNAP work requirements aims to provide SNAP recipients with wrap-around support that goes beyond just providing food. The work requirements in the program's redefined mission are being implemented for recipients to find their way to work and independence, he said. 'We want the government agencies to return to prioritizing helping people get to independence and not merely having the state process the check,' Molinaro said. Some in the audience said they know people who are being 'sanctioned' for not meeting the requirements, and they argued that SNAP should be about feeding people, not forcing them to work. They said people are afraid to come to SNAP agencies to apply for benefits for fear of being sanctioned, and they have difficulty with the application online, because they can't afford the required technology. People on benefits are not trying to scam the system, they told Molinaro. Molinaro said he believed horror stories of benefits being cut for individuals in need have arisen from New York's regionalization of the administration of SNAP. 'The decentralization of benefit administration causes inconsistencies and inequities in the delivery of service. I don't think the benefits of SNAP should depend on your zip code,' he said. Molinaro said the purpose of the crackdown on what has become known as the 'small check scheme' or 'skimming' is to curb county agencies' tendencies to overencourage people who only incrementally qualify for benefits to apply in order for the regional agency to obtain massive amounts of federal funds." "Molinaro—who along with other top Republicans were criticized by Gov. Cuomo for remaining silent on the issue — also expressed regret that he didn't speak out sooner, saying he didn't realize just what the Proud Boys were and that his role as the top of the state Republican ticket cried out for him to say something. [...] 'I wasn't aware of what caused the anger toward the club," Molinaro said. "I should have known that before saying anything else and I didn't.' He also broke from state GOP Chairman Ed Cox, who said McInnes was invited because of an amusing skit he had performed previously that reenacted the 1960 assassination of a Japanese socialist leader by ultranationalist Otoya Yamaguchi before a group of about 200 people. [...] Their disavowals of bigotry are belied by their actions: rank-and-file Proud Boys and leaders regularly spout white nationalist memes and maintain affiliations with known extremists. They are known for anti-Muslim and misogynistic rhetoric. Proud Boys have appeared alongside other hate groups at extremist gatherings like the 'Unite the Right' rally in Charlottesville. Indeed, former Proud Boys member Jason Kessler helped to organize the event, which brought together Klansmen, antisemites, Southern racists, and militias. He also led efforts to create an image in the minds of Trump supporters of Jan. 6 as the ‘ultimate date of significance’ (his words, repeated several times). He helped spearhead the effort to oppose certification of the election in Congress. After The 2020 Election Was Called, Johnson Went On Radio Interviews To Discuss “Credible Allegations Of Fraud And Irregularity” In The 2020 Election. “‘There is still reason for hope’ that Mr. Trump might win, he told a conservative Louisiana talk radio host a week after the election, citing ‘credible allegations of fraud and irregularity.’ Charges that voting machines had been ‘rigged’ had ‘a lot of merit,’ he asserted in another radio interview.” New York Times, [10/3/22]

And we were live, in front a bunch of people at this church, and I said ‘y’all can I take this call, it’s the President?’ [...] I was so encouraged, Moon, to hear his resolve last night. The President is dug in on this. He wants to ensure that every single legal vote gets properly counted. And he knows that every instance of fraud and illegality has got to be prosecuted to the full extent of the law because this is bigger than the Trump/Pence campaign, it’s bigger than this election cycle, this is about the American people’s faith in our election system itself.” Moon Griffon Show, Soundcloud, 4:32, [11/9/20] (AUDIO)

Subject: Time-sensitive request from President Trump

Dear friends,

President Trump called me this morning to express his great appreciation for our effort to file an amicus brief in the Texas case on behalf of concerned Members of Congress. He specifically asked me to contact all Republican Members of the House and Senate today and request that all join on to our brief. He said he will be anxiously awaiting the final list to review.

The simple objective of our brief is to affirm for the Court (and our constituents back home) our serious concerns with the integrity of our election system. We are not seeking to independently litigate the particular allegations of fraud in our brief (that is not our place as amici). We will merely state our belief that the broad scope of the various allegations and irregularities in the subject states merits careful, timely review by the Supreme Court. So many House Republicans have wanted to weigh in on the record somewhere and this may well be the last opportunity.

I am hoping to circulate the brief draft to all interested Members by this afternoon and to file the final brief as soon as possible (by tomorrow morning at latest).

Please let me know ASAP if you want to be included on that list of interested parties.

Onward,
Mike

Prior To The Capitol Insurrection, Stefanik Supported A Lawsuit To Invalidate The Results Of The 2020 Election And Cast Doubt On The Legitimacy Of Election Results

December 2020: Stefanik Signed Onto An Amicus Brief To Support A Lawsuit Asking The Supreme Court To Reject Election Results In Pennsylvania, Georgia, Michigan, And Wisconsin. “In December, Stefanik was one of 126 House Republicans to sign on to an amicus brief in support of a Republican lawsuit that asked the Supreme Court to toss out Biden’s win. Stefanik Casted Doubt On The Legitimacy Of The 2020 Election

January 4, 2021: Stefanik Posted A Video Claiming People Were Justified To Be Concerned About “A Fundamental Lack Of Ballot Integrity And Ballot Security.” “In a video statement she posted on January 4, Stefanik said that ‘tens of millions of Americans are rightly concerned that the 2020 election featured unprecedented voting irregularities.’ She also said these Americans are rightly concerned about ‘a fundamental lack of ballot integrity and ballot security.’ Stefanik’s wording here was crafty. Rather than declare herself that there were widespread irregularities and a lack of ballot integrity, she invoked other Americans’ concerns about widespread irregularities and a lack of ballot integrity. Nonetheless, she not only repeated these baseless concerns but groundlessly suggested Americans were correct to have them.” CNN, [5/6/21]

December 2020: Stefanik Claimed There Were “Irregularities” Related To Dominion Voting Systems And Called For “Integrity Of The Counting Process.” “Trump and various allies falsely claimed that Trump votes were stolen by voting products created by the company Dominion Voting Systems. Stefanik did not go that far – but in a December 1 interview on Newsmax, she vaguely suggested that there were ‘irregularities’ related to Dominion. Given how close the election was in key states, Stefanik said, ‘we need to make sure that every vote is counted. But we also need to highlight any of the irregularities. I have concerns about the software, the fact that Dominion software ...’ She trailed off, then said both Democrats and Republicans have ‘raised issues’ about ‘making sure that we have the integrity of the counting process.’ Stefanik didn’t explain her concerns about Dominion software, nor what ‘issues’ she was claiming Democrats had raised. Regardless, there is no basis for claims that there were issues with the software’s ‘integrity’ in the 2020 election.” CNN, [5/6/21]

Stefanik “Effectively Campaigned” On Trump’s False Claims About The 2020 Election To Replace Cheney As House Republican Conference Chair. “As House Republicans have made the case for ousting Representative Liz Cheney, their No. 3, from their leadership ranks, they have insisted that it is not her repudiation of former President Donald J. Trump’s election lies that they find untenable, but her determination to be vocal about it. [...] Far from staying quiet about the false election claims on Thursday, Ms. Stefanik effectively campaigned on them, describing Mr. Trump on Mr. Bannon’s show as the ‘strongest supporter of any president when it comes to standing up for the Constitution,’ and asserting that Republicans would work with him as ‘one team.’ ‘The job of the conference chair is to represent the majority of the House Republicans, and the vast majority of the House Republicans support President Trump, and they support his focus on election integrity and election security,’ Ms. Stefanik later told Sebastian Gorka, a former adviser to Mr. Trump. The job, she said in an unmistakable jab at Ms. Cheney, ‘is not to attack members of the conference and attack President Trump.’” New York Times, [5/6/21]

Budget Issues

Significant Findings

- ✓ Molinaro voted for repealing remaining IRS funding from the $71 billion appropriated in the FY 2022 budget.
- ✓ Molinaro touted federal investments in NY-19 since taking office – then voted to cut the programs enabling many of those investments by nearly 30 percent.
- ✓ Molinaro opposed the Build Back Better Act, calling it a “tax and spend bill” that would increase the size of “a bloated federal government.”

2024 Appropriations

Stopgap Funding

Molinaro Voted For Providing Stopgap Funding Through March 1 And March 8, 2024. In January 2024, Molinaro voted for: “Granger, R-Texas, motion to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to the bill that would extend stopgap funding through March 1, 2024, for the Agriculture, Energy-Water, Military Construction-VA and Transportation-HUD spending bills; and would extend funding through March 8, 2024, for the Commerce-Justice-Science, Defense, Financial Services, Homeland Security, Interior-Environment, Labor-HHS-Education, Legislative Branch and State-Foreign Operations spending bills. In two exceptions to current funding levels, the bill would allow the National Nuclear Security Administration to spend up to $760 million to avoid issuing layoff notices for its uranium processing facility construction project in Oak Ridge, Tenn. It would also allow funding for the Federal Aviation Administration to be apportioned to meet mandated pay raises and ensure no adverse impacts on air safety. Among other provisions, it also would extend, through March 8, certain Health and Human Services Department programs, including community health centers and child welfare programs.” The motion was agreed to by a vote of 314-108. Debt Limit Package

Molinaro Voted For Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021 coronavirus relief reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all “major” federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change.” The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. - New York Times: The Republican Debt Limit Bill Did Not Include Many Specifics On What Government Spending Would Be Cut. “Their bill, which would raise the country’s borrowing limit for a year in exchange for a decade of spending reductions, does not include many specifics. It achieves most of its savings with spending caps for discretionary spending — the part of the budget allocated annually by Congress that is not automatic like Social Security payments — but it doesn’t say what discretionary programs should be cut and which ones should be spared.” New York Times, [5/8/23]

- The House Republican Debt Limit Plan Was Expected To Force 22% In Cuts Across The Federal Government. “The legislation Congressional Republicans introduced sets overall appropriations for Fiscal Year 2024 at the same level as FY 2022. At this level, all appropriated funding—including both defense and domestic programs—would be cut deeply. However, Congressional Republicans have indicated that they are not willing to cut defense funding at all, which means that everything else in annual appropriations—from cancer research, to education, to veterans’ health care—would be cut by much more. The math is simple, but unforgiving. At their proposed topline funding level—and with defense funding left untouched as Republicans have proposed—everything else is forced to suffer enormous cuts. In fact, their bill would force a cut of 22 percent—cuts that would grow deeper and deeper with each year of their plan.” The White House, [4/20/23]
- Cutting Federal Spending By 22% Meant 31 Million Fewer Veteran Outpatient Visits And 81,000 Layoffs Across The Veterans Health Administration, Leaving Vets Vulnerable. “Cutting funding by 22 percent would mean 30 million fewer veteran outpatient visits, and 81,000 jobs lost across the Veterans Health Administration—leaving veterans unable to get appointments for care including wellness visits, cancer screenings, mental health services, and substance use disorder treatment.” The White House, [4/20/23]
- Recouping Unspent Pandemic Aid Was Expected To Take Away Billions From The VA That Would Limit The Availability Of Healthcare Services For Veterans. “Democrats are jumping on the House GOP plan to recoup unspent pandemic aid in their debt limit bill, charging that the move will harm agencies counting on that funding, including the Department of Veterans Affairs. [...] But few issues carry the political resonance as potential cuts to veterans benefits, and Democrats have been aiming their fire particularly at over $2 billion sitting in VA health accounts that the debt limit bill would cancel. Rescinding that money would “dramatically limit the ability for VA to provide healthcare services both within and outside of VA by clawing back needed funding for medical care,” according to the Democrats' memo.” Roll Call, [4/25/23]
- Cutting Federal Spending By 22% Was Expected To Negatively Impact 25 Million Low Income Students And 7.5 Million Students With Disabilities. “A 22 percent cut would impact 25 million students in schools that teach low-income students and 7.5 million students with disabilities, which could force a reduction of up to 108,000 teachers, aides or other key staff.” The White House, [4/20/23]

- Cutting Federal Spending By 22% Was Expected To Take Away Nutrition Services For More Than A Million Seniors. “A 22 percent cut would take away nutrition services, such as Meals on Wheels, from more than 1 million seniors. For many of these seniors, these programs provide the only healthy meal they receive on any given day.” The White House, [4/20/23]
- The Republican Debt Limit Plan Was Expected To Leave Over Half A Million Of The Poorest Americans Without Health Insurance. “More than a half million of the poorest Americans could be left without health insurance under legislation passed by House Republicans that would require people to work in exchange for health care coverage through Medicaid. It's one of dozens of provisions tucked into a GOP bill that would allow for an increase in the debt limit but curb government spending over the next decade. The bill is unlikely to become law, though. It is being used by House Republicans to draw Democrats to the negotiating table and avoid a debt default.” ABC News, [4/30/23]
- The Republican Debt Limit Plan Was Expected To Cause Over 275,000 Americans A Month To Lose Access To Food Stamps. “House Republicans passed a debt ceiling bill last week with a provision to enact new work requirements for those seeking federal assistance, claiming the measure would help cut federal spending. The Congressional Budget Office (CBO), a nonpartisan agency, said last week that the stricter work requirements proposed by the House GOP would reduce federal spending by $120 billion over the next decade, a small portion of the roughly $4.8 trillion in savings the bill would generate. About 600,000 Americans would lose health insurance, while about 275,000 Americans a month would lose access to food stamps, the CBO said.” Time, [5/1/23]
- Republican Spending Cuts Were Expected To Cut Cancer Research, Nutritional Assistance For Poor Mothers And Infants, And The Social Security Administration Employees By More Than Half. “The charts above show how exempting big categories of spending would make the budget caps more draconian. Universal discretionary caps would cut spending by an average of 18 percent over a decade, compared with what’s expected if current levels grew according to inflation. But with defense, veterans’ care and homeland security exempted, the caps would result in cutting the rest of the discretionary budget by more than half. Defense is the largest category of discretionary spending in the budget. Veterans’ health care is the second largest. The programs that would be subject to such deeper cuts include nutrition assistance for poor mothers and infants, air traffic control, the State Department, cancer research and Social Security Administration employees.” New York Times, [5/8/23]
- The Debt Limit Bill Repealed Tax Incentives For Renewable Energy And Toughened Work Requirements For Antipoverty Programs, Including Medicaid. “The U.S. House of Representatives on Wednesday narrowly passed a bill to raise the government's $31.4 trillion debt ceiling that includes sweeping spending cuts over the next decade. [...] The House bill would increase Washington's borrowing authority by $1.5 trillion or until March 31, whichever comes first, raising the specter of another round of negotiations during the 2024 presidential campaign. The bill would pare spending to 2022 levels and then cap growth at 1% a year, repeal some tax incentives for renewable energy and stiffen work requirements for some antipoverty programs. [...] The overnight changes removed a provision that would have ended a tax credit for biofuels that was part of Biden's climate change initiatives in the 2022 Inflation Reduction Act. Bending to the far-right wing of the party, Republicans also accelerated some new, tougher work requirements for receiving Medicaid healthcare benefits for the poor, angering Democrats.” Reuters, [4/27/23]
- The Debt Limit Bill Cut Unspent COVID-19 Relief Funds, Revoked Internal Revenue Service Funding, And Tightened Work Requirements For Medicaid And Food Stamp Recipients. “The House on Wednesday passed a bill that would raise the debt ceiling and slash trillions of dollars in government spending, delivering House Speaker Kevin McCarthy a victory in his efforts to pressure the White House to begin negotiations ahead of a fast-approaching deadline to avoid a default. [...] The House voted 217 to 215 to pass

the Limit, Save, Grow Act of 2023, with all but four Republican members voting in favor. The House GOP's plan would freeze spending at levels adopted in fiscal year 2022 and cap future federal spending increases at 1% annually for the next decade. It also claws back unspent federal COVID-19 relief funds, revokes some of the $80 billion for the Internal Revenue Service included in the Inflation Reduction Act and tightens the work requirements for Medicaid and food stamp recipients.” CBS News, [4/26/23]

- Recouping Unspent Pandemic Aid Was Expected To Revoke Billions From The Department Of Transportation For Highway, Aviation And Transit Agencies. “Democrats are jumping on the House GOP plan to recoup unspent pandemic aid in their debt limit bill, charging that the move will harm agencies counting on that funding, including the Department of Veterans Affairs. [...] Almost $6 billion would come out of unspent Transportation Department funds for highway, aviation and transit agencies. ‘Rescinding this funding would eliminate critical resources for mayors and governors to keep their airports open, trains running, and buses operating to get their essential workers to and from their jobs to keep our economy and people alive,’ the Democrats' memo states.” Roll Call, [4/25/23]
- U.S. Department Of Transportation Reported The Republican Budget Cut Proposal Would Shut Down 375 Air Traffic Control Towers And Result In 7,500 Fewer Rail Safety Inspection Days. “The U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) on Wednesday said a Republican budget cut proposal would shut down 375 federally-staffed and contract-run air traffic control towers around the country and result in 7,500 fewer rail safety inspection days. Overall, it said the Republican plan, which would sharply reduce budget spending in exchange for a short-term increase in the debt ceiling, would reduce funding for U.S. transit and highway infrastructure projects by nearly $5.2 billion. The White House has said President Joe Biden would veto the legislation, and has called on Congress to raise the debt limit without conditions. President Biden and his administration have pushed back hard against the proposal from Republican House of Representatives Speaker Kevin McCarthy, which would implement $4.5 trillion in spending cuts with a $1.5 trillion increase in the $31.4 trillion U.S. debt limit.” Reuters, [4/26/23]
- The Debt Limit Bill Rolled Back Student Loan Debt Forgiveness And Climate Provisions From The Inflation Reduction Act. “The House on Wednesday passed a bill that would raise the debt ceiling and slash trillions of dollars in government spending, delivering House Speaker Kevin McCarthy a victory in his efforts to pressure the White House to begin negotiations ahead of a fast-approaching deadline to avoid a default. [...] The bill rolls back some of the president's signature policies, including his plan to forgive up to $20,000 in student loan debt — two challenges to the debt relief program are pending before the Supreme Court — and climate provisions enacted through the Inflation Reduction Act, Democrats' signature health care, tax and climate package.” CBS News, [4/26/23]

- Molinaro Voted For Considering The Republican Debt Limit Package. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Adoption of the rule (H Res 327) that would provide for floor consideration of the Republican debt limit package (HR 2811). The rule would provide for up to two hours of debate on the bill and provide for automatic adoption of an Arrington, R-Texas, amendment. The Arrington amendment to HR 2811 would strike from the bill provisions that would repeal tax credits for biofuels and other alternative fuels, which were initially enacted in the fiscal 2022 reconciliation law (PL 117-169), and strike from the bill a provision that would narrow eligibility for tax credits for carbon oxide sequestration. It would create a transition rule for the bill's repeal of sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production credits, maintaining eligibility for entities to receive such credits based on binding contracts or other investment actions between Aug. 26, 2022, and April 19, 2023. It would rescind the balances of unobligated funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation law for programs related to greenhouse gas pollution reduction, energy infrastructure updates, Federal Highway Administration neighborhood access and equity projects, energy efficient building codes and National Park System maintenance. Finally, the amendment would make certain modifications in the bill to the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including increased work requirements, effective one year earlier, on Oct. 1, 2024, and establish that a purpose of the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program is to 'assist low-income adults in obtaining employment and increasing their earnings.' The rule would also provide for up to one hour of debate on a joint resolution (H J Res 39) providing for congressional disapproval of a Commerce Department rule related to duties for solar-energy materials." Continuing Resolutions

Molinaro Voted For Passing A Laddered Continuing Resolution With Stopgap Funding Through January 19th, 2024, And February 2nd, 2024. In November 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Granger, R-Texas, motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill, as amended, that would extend stopgap funding through Jan. 19, 2024, for the Agriculture, Energy-Water, Military Construction-VA, and Transportation-HUD spending bills; and would extend funding through Feb. 2, 2024 for the Commerce-Justice-Science, Defense, Financial Services, Homeland Security, Labor-HHS-Education, Legislative Branch and State-Foreign Operations spending bills. Among other provisions, the bill would extend, through Sept. 30, 2024, agricultural programs authorized by the 2018 Farm Bill. It also would extend, through Jan. 19, 2024, certain Health and Human Services programs, including community health centers and child welfare programs. The bill would not include any funding for Israel, Ukraine or Taiwan." The motion was agreed to by a vote of 336-95. H.R. 6363, [Vote #658, 11/14/23; CQ, 11/14/23]

Molinaro Voted For A Fiscal 2024 Continuing Resolution Passed With Help From Democrats. In September 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Granger, R-Texas, motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill that would provide funding for federal government operations and services through Nov. 17, 2023, including an additional $16 billion in disaster relief for fiscal 2024. Among other provisions, it would extend, for the duration of the continuing resolution, a number of services, including several Medicare, Medicaid and other public health programs and authorities. It would also extend certain authorities for the Federal Aviation Administration through Dec. 31, 2023, for unmanned aircraft testing ranges, airport safety and airspace hazard mitigation and enforcement, among other authorities. The bill does not contain any funding to provide assistance to Ukraine. As modified, the bill would prohibit members of Congress from receiving cost of living adjustment pay increases." Molinaro Voted For A Continuing Resolution With Republican Riders And Nearly 30% Cuts Across The Government. In September 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide funding for federal government operations and services through Oct. 31, 2023, with a 29.9 percent cut from fiscal 2023 levels for most programs. It would fund veterans' programs, the Department of Homeland Security, national security programs and disaster assistance at full fiscal 2023 levels. It would also implement nearly all provisions of House Republicans' border security and immigration bill (HR 2), which the House passed in May 2023. It would provide an increase in funding for the Defense Department at rates set forth in House Republicans' fiscal 2024 defense appropriations bill (HR 4365), which would provide for a 3.6 percent funding increase over fiscal 2023. It would also provide funding increases for the Agriculture Department and provide an additional $220 million above fiscal 2023 levels for Energy Department nuclear programs. Among its border security and immigration provisions, it would require DHS, within seven days of enactment, to resume all activities related to "border wall" construction on the U.S.-Mexico border that were underway or planned prior to Jan. 20, 2021; require DHS to reopen or restore, no later than Sept. 30, 2023, the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021; and require DHS to return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin, regardless of whether they are from a contiguous country to the U.S. In addition to provisions of HR 2, it would place limitations on the use of DHS funding provided by the bill, including prohibitions on removing existing U.S.-Mexico border barriers, transporting inadmissible adults into the U.S., and the use of Customs and Border Protection's "CBP One" app to facilitate the parole of an individual into the U.S. It also would prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to initiate or resume any project or activity not funded during fiscal 2023 and would establish a congressional fiscal commission tasked with identifying policies to "improve the fiscal situation." The rule would provide for up to one hour of general debate on HR 5525. It would provide for the automatic adoption of a Donalds, R-Fla., amendment to the bill that would reduce the appropriations topline to $1.47 trillion. It would reduce funding by 29.9 percent for all nondefense accounts except for the Veterans Affairs and Homeland Security Departments. It would also provide for the automatic adoption of a Huizenga, R-Mich., amendment that would create a Fiscal Commission within 60 days of the bill's enactment that would identify policies to improve the fiscal situation in the medium term, achieve a sustainable debt-to-GDP ratio of the long term, and to improve solvency for a period of at least 75 years. The amendment would require that the commission would consist of 16 members, equally divided between parties, and would first meet within 45 days of its creation." - The Rule Pertained To Federal Employee Status And Protections When Federal Employees Change Positions. “The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is proposing a rule to reinforce and clarify longstanding civil service protections and merit system principles, codified in law, as they relate to the movement of Federal employees and positions from the competitive service to the excepted service, or from one excepted service schedule to another. First, it clarifies that, upon such a move, an employee retains the status and civil service protections they had already accrued by law, unless the employee relinquishes such rights or status by voluntarily encumbering a position that explicitly results in a loss of, or different, rights. Second, it interprets ‘confidential, policy-determining, policy-making, or policy-advocating’ and ‘confidential or policy-determining’ to describe positions, generally excepted from civil service protections, in accordance with statutory text, legislative history for that text, and congressional intent, to reinforce the interpretation that this term was intended to mean noncareer, political appointments. Third, it provides specific additional procedures that apply when moving positions from the competitive service to the excepted service, or from one excepted service schedule to another, for the purposes of good administration, to add transparency, and to provide employees with a right of appeal to the Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB or Board) to the extent any such move purportedly strips employees of their civil service status and protections.” Federal Register, [9/18/23]

FY 2024 Interior And Environment Appropriations

Molinaro Voted Against Passing FY 2024 Interior And Environment Appropriations With Republican Riders. In November 2023, Molinaro voted against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide $37.7 billion in discretionary spending, including $25.4 billion subject to the measure's discretionary cap and $9.4 billion offset by rescissions. It would provide $14.6 billion for the Interior Department, including $3 billion for the National Park Service; $1.5 billion for the Fish and Wildlife Service; $1.3 billion for the U.S. Geological Survey; and $1.3 billion for the Bureau of Land Management. It would provide approximately $11.2 billion for Native American programs in fiscal 2024, including $2.6 billion for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, $1.4 billion for the Bureau of Indian Education and $7.1 billion for the Health and Human Services Department's Indian Health Service (an IHS total that includes $5.1 billion in advance appropriations enacted in the fiscal 2023 spending measure). The bill would provide an additional $5.9 billion in fiscal 2025 advance appropriations for IHS. The bill would provide $6.2 billion for the EPA, which includes $2.4 billion for environmental programs and management and $561 million for science and technology. It would provide $8 billion for the Forest Service, including $4.4 billion for wildfire management and response. Between the Forest Service and Interior Department, it would provide $619 million for wildfire preparedness and $1.4 billion for fire suppression activities. The bill would also provide $960 million for the Smithsonian Institution; $178 million for the National Gallery of Art; and $373 million combined for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Among its policy provisions, it would prohibit the use of funds to promote “critical race theory”; block a January 2023 EPA and Army Corps of Engineers rule on the definition of “Waters of the United States”; prohibit the EPA from issuing a waiver to allow California to issue its own emissions standards for small off-road vehicle engines; require the Interior Department to conduct quarterly onshore oil and gas lease sales; and prohibit the use of funds to implement certain regulations under the Endangered Species Act, including protections for the lesser prairie-chicken and the northern long-eared bat. It would rescind $9.4 billion in funding for the EPA, Interior Department and Council on Environmental Quality provided under the fiscal 2022 budget reconciliation bill (PL 117-169), including $7.8 billion for renewable energy projects and $1.4 billion for environmental and climate justice projects. As amended, the bill would bar the use of funds provided by the bill for the American Climate Corps; prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to enforce any COVID-19 mask mandates; bar the use of funds provided by the bill to implement, administer, apply, enforce or carry out any plastic straw prohibitions; prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill for the cancellation or suspension of oil and gas leases in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge or the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska; and prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to reduce the number of oil and gas leases issued by the Interior Department, among other provisions.” The bill passed by a vote of 213-203. Molinaro Touted Federal Investments In NY-19 Since Taking Office – Then Voted To Cut The Programs Enabling Many Of Those Investments By Nearly 30 Percent

September 2023: Molinaro Voted For House Republicans' Failed CR, Which Would Have Cut All Federal Programs With Some Exceptions By 30 Percent, And Praised The Cuts

9/29/23: Molinaro Voted For Passing The Republican-Backed Continuing Resolution. In September 2023, Molinaro voted for “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide funding for federal government operations and services through Oct. 31, 2023, with a 29.9 percent cut from fiscal 2023 levels for most programs. It would fund veterans’ programs, the Department of Homeland Security, national security programs and disaster assistance at full fiscal 2023 levels. It would also implement nearly all provisions of House Republicans’ border security and immigration bill (HR 2), which the House passed in May 2023. It would provide an increase in funding for the Defense Department at rates set forth in House Republicans’ fiscal 2024 defense appropriations bill (HR 4365), which would provide for a 3.6 percent funding increase over fiscal 2023. It would also provide funding increases for the Agriculture Department and provide an additional $220 million above fiscal 2023 levels for Energy Department nuclear programs. Among its border security and immigration provisions, it would require DHS, within seven days of enactment, to resume all activities related to “border wall” construction on the U.S.-Mexico border that were underway or planned prior to Jan. 20, 2021; require DHS to reopen or restore, no later than Sept. 30, 2023, the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021; and require DHS to return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin, regardless of whether they are from a contiguous country to the U.S. In addition to provisions of HR 2, it would place limitations on the use of DHS funding provided by the bill, including prohibitions on removing existing U.S.-Mexico border barriers, transporting inadmissible adults into the U.S., and the use of Customs and Border Protection’s “CBP One” app to facilitate the parole of an individual into the U.S. It also would prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to initiate or resume any project or activity not funded during fiscal 2023 and would establish a congressional fiscal commission tasked with identifying policies to “improve the fiscal situation.” The bill was rejected by a vote of 198-232. Days After His Vote For The CR, Molinaro Touted Investment In NY-19 Through The Rural Energy For America Program – Which Saw An Influx Of Funding Through A Bill He Opposed And He Voted To Cut By $5.9 Million

Days After His Vote For The CR, Molinaro Touted Investment In NY-19 Through The Rural Energy For America Program (REAP)

10/3/23: Molinaro Announced A $4.4 Million Grant To The Village Of Woodridge To Improve The Village’s Water System From The USDA’s Rural Energy For America Program (REAP). “U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro (NY-19) today announced $4,436,500 is being delivered to the Village of Woodridge. The funding is available through the U.S Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) Rural Energy for America Program (REAP). These funds will be used to make filtration and automation upgrades to the Village of Woodridge’s water system. It will also fund a new water storage tank for the village. Rep. Molinaro said, ‘I am proud to announce over $4 million in federal funding is going to the Village of Woodridge to make upgrades to its water system. Access to clean drinking water is not a luxury item – it should be available to everyone. These upgrades are going to protect drinking water in the village.’” Rep. Marc Molinaro, Press Release, [10/3/23]

Molinaro Opposed The Inflation Reduction Act, Which Funded REAP With $2 Billion

The Inflation Reduction Act Provided REAP With $2 Billion In Funding. “With the passage of the Inflation Reduction Act, the Rural Energy for America Program (REAP) has been provided over $2 billion for renewable energy systems and energy efficiency improvement grants for agricultural producers and rural small business owners through 2031.” USDA, accessed [10/3/23]

Molinaro Said He Would Have Voted Against The Inflation Reduction Act. “Another national topic the candidates were asked about was how they would have voted for the recently passed Inflation Reduction Act. Molinaro said he would have voted ‘no’ on the bill, because ‘it will not result in inflation reduction.’ He didn’t think the government should spend so much money, hire 87,000 Internal Revenue Service agents, and didn’t agree with the corporate tax as it would ‘trickle down’ to the consumer. ‘It misses the boat,’ he said. He said when he became county executive, ‘We cut the size of the government.’ He said property taxes have gone down $5.2 million since he took office and the county eliminated the sales tax on clothing. ‘We have a more effective government and are fiscally sound,’ he said.” Daily Star, [8/18/22]

- 2015: The Common Core Program Established Common Educational Standards In States Across The Country. “The Common Core is a set of academic standards, expectations for what students should know and be able to do at every grade level in language arts and math. Forty-three states and the District of Columbia use the standards, meaning that students are tested at the end of the year based on those expectations. The Common Core represents a major shift in education policy. It’s the first time that students are expected to learn the same things at the same grade level, no matter where they live — a big deal in a K-12 education system that historically has been controlled at the state and local level. National education standards make it easier to compare test scores and results from state to state, and reformers hope that they’ll help American education catch up in comparison to the rest of the world.” Vox, [7/23/15]

Molinaro Voiced Concerns About High Stakes Testing And Student Data Privacy In The Common Core Program. “As a state assemblyman, Molinaro voted against passing a bill to increase the number of charter schools in New York, and to establish regulations concerning those schools. As county executive, he has voiced concerns about high stakes testing and student data privacy in relation to the controversial Common Core educational standards.” [Poughkeepsie Journal, 4/3/18]

September 2023: Molinaro Voted For House Republicans' Failed CR, Which Would Have Cut All Federal Programs With Some Exceptions By 30 Percent, And Praised The Cuts

9/29/23: Molinaro Voted For Passing The Republican-Backed Continuing Resolution. In September 2023, Molinaro voted for “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide funding for federal government operations and services through Oct. 31, 2023, with a 29.9 percent cut from fiscal 2023 levels for most programs. It would fund veterans’ programs, the Department of Homeland Security, national security programs and disaster assistance at full fiscal 2023 levels. It would also implement nearly all provisions of House Republicans’ border security and immigration bill (HR 2), which the House passed in May 2023. It would provide an increase in funding for the Defense Department at rates set forth in House Republicans’ fiscal 2024 defense appropriations bill (HR 4365), which would provide for a 3.6 percent funding increase over fiscal 2023. It would also provide funding increases for the Agriculture Department and provide an additional $220 million above fiscal 2023 levels for Energy Department nuclear programs. Among its border security and immigration provisions, it would require DHS, within seven days of enactment, to resume all activities related to “border wall” construction on the U.S.-Mexico border that were underway or planned prior to Jan. 20, 2021; require DHS to reopen or restore, no later than Sept. 30, 2023, the use of all Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention facilities that were in operation on Jan. 20, 2021; and require DHS to return all unaccompanied children to their country of origin, regardless of whether they are from a contiguous country to the U.S. In addition to provisions of HR 2, it would place limitations on the use of DHS funding provided by the bill, including prohibitions on removing existing U.S.-Mexico border barriers, transporting inadmissible adults into the U.S., and the use of Customs and Border Protection’s “CBP One” app to facilitate the parole of an individual into the U.S. It also would prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to initiate or resume any project or activity not funded during fiscal 2023 and would establish a congressional fiscal commission tasked with identifying policies to “improve the fiscal situation.” The bill was rejected by a vote of 198-232. Molinaro Voted To Eliminate At Least 170,000 Head Start Slots – In Addition To 100,000 Slots In Other Childcare Programs – In Republicans’ Failed Debt Limit Deal

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For Republicans’ Failed Debt Limit Deal, Which Included 22 Percent Across-The-Board Federal Spending Cuts

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021 coronavirus relief

reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all “major” federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change.” The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. - The House Republican Debt Limit Plan Was Expected To Force 22% In Cuts Across The Federal Government. “The legislation Congressional Republicans introduced sets overall appropriations for Fiscal Year 2024 at the same level as FY 2022. At this level, all appropriated funding—including both defense and domestic programs—would be cut deeply. However, Congressional Republicans have indicated that they are not willing to cut defense funding at all, which means that everything else in annual appropriations—from cancer research, to education, to veterans’ health care—would be cut by much more. The math is simple, but unforgiving. At their proposed topline funding level—and with defense funding left untouched as Republicans have proposed—everything else is forced to suffer enormous cuts. In fact, their bill would force a cut of 22 percent—cuts that would grow deeper and deeper with each year of their plan.” The White House, [4/20/23]

[...] In March, Biden Administration officials sent letters to House Appropriations Committee Ranking Member Rosa DeLauro (D-CT-03) detailing the potential impacts of the bill’s cuts. The impacts are broad, ranging from public health and safety, to education, transportation, and housing. Those impacts include, but are not limited to: 350,000 families losing housing vouchers and 87,000 families losing affordable housing under HUD’s Project-Based Rental Assistance program, prompting mass evictions. Nearly 250,000 families losing Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) benefits. At least 170,000 children from low-income families being kicked off Head Start programs, and another 105,000 children losing child care, affecting childrens’ future academic prospects and making it harder for their parents to work or attend school.” Congressional Progressive Caucus Center, [4/27/23]

Foreign Entities

Molinaro Voted For Establishing Financial Disclosure Requirements For Higher Education Institutions Receiving Gifts Or Contracts From Foreign Governments And Prohibit Contracts With Foreign Entities Of Concern

Molinaro Voted For Establishing Financial Disclosure Requirements For Higher Education Institutions Receiving Gifts Or Contracts From Foreign Governments And Prohibit Contracts With Foreign Entities Of Concern. In December 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would establish financial disclosure requirements for colleges and universities that receive funds from foreign sources, including gifts from or contracts with foreign governments, companies and individuals valued at $50,000 or more, instead of the current $250,000 threshold. Among other provisions, the bill would generally prohibit colleges and universities from entering into contracts with foreign countries of concern or foreign entities of concern. It would require institutions to disclose any gifts they receive from such countries or entities, private institutions to disclose whether their endowments are invested in assets issued by foreign countries or entities of concern, and it would establish numerous penalties for institutions that violate the bill's requirements. The bill would also require the Education Department to establish an online searchable database where the required disclosure reports would be available to the public. It would define foreign countries of concern as North Korea, China, Russia, Iran and any other country that has been designated as a country of concern after consultation with the State Department. It would define a foreign entity of concern to include any organization or company that is owned or controlled by the government of a foreign country of concern, has been designated as a foreign terrorist organization, is included on Treasury Department sanctions lists, has been involved in certain economic espionage activities, or has engaged in any other unauthorized conduct that is detrimental to U.S. foreign policy or national security.” The bill passed by a vote of 246-170. Molinaro Voted For The Parents Bill Of Rights In Education, Despite An Amendment Targeting Transgender Students

2023: Molinaro Voted For The Parents Bill Of Rights In Education, Despite An Amendment Targeting Transgender Students. “In a surprise turnaround, U.S. Rep. Michael Lawler voted ‘no’ on H.R. 5, dubbed The Parents Bill of Rights in Education. [...] ‘Unfortunately, a late amendment to the bill - that unnecessarily targeted certain children - went too far,’ Lawler said. He did not name the amendment, but said he was concerned that it could put vulnerable children at ‘greater risk. Rep. Lauren Boebert of Colorado on Thursday had pushed through amendments to the bill that mandated schools inform the public when a transgender girl joins a female athletic team or is allowed to use the girls restroom or locker room. [...] U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro, a freshman Republican who represents the 19th District, voted yes.” Lohud, [3/24/23]

- Molinaro Said The Parents Bill Of Rights “Was Reasonable, Preserved Protections For Children, And Included Measures That Ensure Parents Know What's Being Taught In Schools.” “In a surprise turnaround, U.S. Rep. Michael Lawler voted ‘no’ on H.R. 5, dubbed The Parents Bill of Rights in Education. [...] In a statement, Molinaro said he had worked to stop his party from adding amendments. Failed amendments included a push for private-school vouchers and a move to abolish the U.S. Department of Education. ‘This bill originated from the simple idea that parents should have a say in their child's education,’ said Molinaro, one of more than 100 co-sponsors. ‘I worked so this bill was reasonable, preserved protections for children, and included measures that ensure parents know what's being taught in schools.’” Lohud, [3/24/23]

Molinaro Voted For The Parents Bill Of Rights Act To Establish Requirements For Schools To Provide Parents With Certain Information On Their Child’s Education. In March 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would establish various requirements for public elementary and secondary schools to provide parents with information and certain rights regarding their children’s education. It would generally require schools that receive federal funding to obtain parental consent before providing a non-emergency medical screening or examination or before changing a child’s gender markers or sex-based accommodations. It would require schools to allow parents to inspect and provide feedback on all instructional and reading materials used in evaluations or available to students through school libraries, as well as professional development materials for teachers. It would prohibit schools from acting as agents of parents to consent to the use of online technology or the administration of vaccinations, and from selling student information for commercial gain. To increase transparency at Title I schools, the bill would generally require school districts to publicly disseminate curricula for each grade, as well as notices of any changes to the state’s academic standards; include detailed budget information for each school in their annual report cards; and allow parents to meet with teachers at least twice a year, address the school board and review professional development materials. It would require local educational agencies to ensure that Title I schools provide and inform parents of their rights to receive information regarding their child’s education, including if a school changes their child’s gender markers or sex-based accommodations, the number of school counselors in their child’s school, if their child receives mental health treatment or brings a weapon to school, all enrollment and transfer options, planned outside speakers at school events, violent activity on school grounds, elimination of gifted and talented programs, and notification if a student is not grade-level proficient in reading at the end of third grade. Among other provisions, the bill would specify that it does not authorize federal involvement in curriculum or school personnel decisions and does not authorize parents to prohibit students who are not their children from accessing books or reading materials available in a school’s library. It would express the sense of Congress that public school students should have access to broadband and opportunities to learn the history of the Holocaust and anti-Semitism, and that parents have a constitutional right to ‘direct the education of their children.’” The bill passed by a vote of 213-208. Molinaro Voted For Congressional Disapproval Of The Student Loan Forgiveness Rule

Molinaro Voted For Veto Override Disapproving Of The Student Loan Forgiveness Rule. In June 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage, over President Biden’s June 7, 2023, veto of the joint resolution that would provide for congressional disapproval of an October 2022 Education Department rule that allows for loan forgiveness of up to $10,000 in loan debt for federal student loan borrowers and another $10,000 for such borrowers who also received a Pell Grant. The rule limits eligibility for such loan forgiveness to borrowers with a maximum adjusted gross income of $125,000, or $250,000 for joint filers. The rule also extended, through the end of 2022, the suspension of student loan payments, the cessation of interest accrual and the suspension of involuntary loan collections. It allowed suspended loan payments during that period to count towards loan forgiveness or loan rehabilitation programs. The rule took effect on Oct. 12, 2022, but its loan forgiveness provisions have not been implemented pending legal challenges. Under the provisions of the joint resolution, the Education Department rule would have no force or effect, canceling the loan forgiveness program and reinstating loan payments and interest accrual that were suspended under the rule.” The bill passed 221 to 206. Universal Pre-Kindergarten

2014: Molinaro Supported Cuomo’s Universal Pre-Kindergarten Proposal For New York State

2014: Molinaro Supported Cuomo’s Universal Pre-Kindergarten Proposal. “One of Gov. Andrew Cuomo’s budget proposals could boldly move us to improve our state education system with universal pre-kindergarten (UPK). As our children strive to compete in a global marketplace it is more important than ever that we provide all of them with a 21st century education. As the father of a 4-year-old son and 9-year-old daughter with special needs, I know UPK can only truly be universal if it touches every preschool child in the state — especially those with special abilities.” Democrat & Chronicle, Marcus Molinaro Op-Ed, [1/27/14]

The funding, included in the 2014-15 State Budget, is the first installment as part of the State’s commitment to invest $1.5 billion over five years to build a Statewide Universal Full-Day Pre-Kindergarten program. Molinaro Voted For Disapproving The DC Council’s Approval Of The Local Resident Voting Rights Amendment Act To Allow All Residents To Vote In Local Elections, Regardless Of Citizenship

Molinaro Voted For Disapproving The DC Council’s Approval Of The Local Resident Voting Rights Amendment Act To Allow All Residents To Vote In Local Elections, Regardless Of Citizenship. In February 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the joint resolution that would establish congressional disapproval of, effectively repealing, the November 2022 District of Columbia Council legislation allowing noncitizens, including undocumented immigrants, to vote in local D.C. elections beginning in 2024.” The bill passed by a vote of 260-162. The first bill would allow noncitizens, including undocumented residents, to vote in local elections, meaning D.C. would join a few jurisdictions nationwide (including neighboring Takoma Park). [...] The bill had been floating around the Council for at least a decade, but struggled to move out of committee until this year. A previous version had only let green card-holders vote in local elections. But the judiciary committee, chaired by Ward 6 Councilmember Charles Allen, was compelled to expand voting rights to undocumented immigrants after public testimony.” DCist, [10/18/22]

- 2018 Polling On Legislation That Would Allow Noncitizens To Vote Found 91% Of Republicans And 54% Of Democrats Opposing The Legislation, 71% Of Respondents Overall Opposed. “San Francisco’s Department of Elections last week made the move to start allowing non-U.S. citizens to vote in the city’s school board elections, sparking a national debate. [...] According to the survey, which is a joint project of Hill.TV and the HarrisX polling company, 71 percent of respondents opposed San Francisco’s decision, while only 29 percent said they supported the move. Ninety-one percent of Republicans polled said they opposed giving the right to vote to noncitizens, as did 54 percent of Democrats. Seventy percent of independents said they were also in opposition to the decision. When respondents were asked the same question but with the wording changed to include the term ‘illegal immigrants’ instead of non-U.S. citizens, the results were nearly the same.

Sixty-nine percent of Americans said they opposed the measure, while only 31 percent said they supported the measure. When asked the question with the term 'illegal immigrant,' 91 percent of Republicans said they opposed giving them voter rights, while 55 percent of Democrats also said they disagreed with the move. Sixty-five percent of Democrats also said they were against the measure. [...] The poll was conducted July 21–22 among 1,001 registered voters." The Hill, [7/26/18]

Molinaro Supported Closing New York's "LLC Loophole" But "Only In Combination With Other Reforms" Such As Limiting Spending By Labor Unions In Elections

Molinaro Supported Closing New York's "LLC Loophole," Which Allowed Limited Liability Corporations To Donate Up To $150,000 Annually To State Political Campaigns. "Molinaro also stated on Wednesday that he would push for the closure of the so-called 'LLC loophole' in state election law, which allows wealthy individuals to donate essentially unlimited sums to state political candidates using limited liability companies that often cannot be traced to the contributors. Molinaro's campaign said the LLC loophole 'permits individuals to donate to favored candidates under thinly disguised corporate entities' and that he would close it. The 1996 state Board of Elections decision allows each limited liability company owned by the same person to donate as if each entity were an individual, with annual donation limits for each LLC of $150,000. Senate Democrats have pushed a bill that would cap LLC contributions at $5,000 annually -- the same limit already in place for corporations." Times-Union, [5/31/18]

2018: Molinaro Called For Statewide Term Limits But Didn't Support A Bill In Dutchess County For Local Term Limits. “Besides the statewide pay-to-play ban, another reform item Molinaro has made a centerpiece of his campaign is term limits, which he insists are badly needed across state government. He has pledged to serve only two terms as governor, and in a recent New York Post op-ed said he would insist on putting term limits in the state budget unless lawmakers agree to a standalone up-or-down vote on the matter. Molinaro has again had less urgency in taking up the matter in Dutchess County: A Republican Dutchess legislator introduced a bill last year imposing a 12-year limit for both the county executive and legislators, which Molinaro and other Republicans have not supported.” Times Union, [7/1/18]

Redistricting

Molinaro Repeatedly Said Redistricting Was Used To Steal Elections And Threaten Democracy

Molinaro: “Let Me Be Clear, Stacking The Court To Influence Its Decision Is A Direct Threat To Democratic Norms In New York.” ‘U.S. Rep. Mike R. Lawler, R-Pearl River, one of the Republicans elected in 2022 in a Hudson Valley district made much more competitive than in previous versions, slammed the Court of Appeals and the Democratic party that pushed for this ruling. Lawler, and his district neighbor Rep. Marcus J. Molinaro, R-Tivoli, are among the four Republicans elected in 2022 who could face a much harder road to reelection under different maps. ‘Let me be clear, stacking the court to influence its decision is a direct threat to democratic norms in New York,’ he said.’ Livingston County News, [12/14/23]

Molinaro Said Democrat's Congressional Map Was An “Effort To Subvert The Constitution In A Naked Attempt To Cement Their Majorities At The Expense Of Millions Of New Yorkers.” “A Steuben County judge struck down the Legislature's drawing of New York's congressional and legislative maps Thursday, saying

the redistricting process was tainted by Democratic bias and violated the state standard on gerrymandering. [...] ‘This decision is a recognition of (Democrats’) effort to subvert the constitution in a naked attempt to cement their majorities at the expense of millions of New Yorkers,’ said Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, who is running for Congress in the 19th district against incumbent Antonio Delgado.” Democrat And Chronicle, [4/1/22]

Molinaro On Redistricting: “We Always Knew That Antonio Delgado And His Pals Would Dream Up A Way To Try And Steal Congressional Seats But We Will Not Be Intimidated By Their Brazen Corruption.” “After an independent bipartisan commission tasked with drawing the maps failed to come to a consensus in recent months, the Democrat-led Legislature took over the map-drawing process and released new maps Sunday. It approved the maps on Wednesday. [...] This district currently wraps around Albany and down the Hudson Valley, and expands into the Catskills to the south. It gained more Democratic voters with the addition of Utica, meaning that Anthony Delgado, its current representative, has an edge over his challenger, Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, this fall. It also means that Delgado, who lives in Rhinebeck on the Hudson River, would have to appeal to voters further upstate. ‘We always knew that Antonio Delgado and his pals would dream up a way to try and steal Congressional seats but we will not be intimidated by their brazen corruption,’ Molinaro said in a statement Monday.” Democrat and Chronicle, [2/3/22]

Molinaro: Democrats “Have Created A Partisan Set Of Maps Meant To Diminish Accountability And Alternative Views, And By Doing So They Undermine Democracy.” “Dutchess County Executive Marcus Molinaro is running against Delgado this November to flip the seat back to Republican control after the last two terms. Molinaro lost his 2018 bid for governor to Andrew Cuomo, but served as a state assemblyman for the 103rd District from 2006 to 2012. ‘I wasn’t surprised with the outcome of the maps - I served in the state Legislature, we’ve been arguing this point for years,’ Molinaro said Tuesday. Molinaro and other Republican leaders have chastised the left for manipulating the lines in their favor, saying they will challenge the maps in court. ‘The people in power, Democrats in Albany, along with Democrats in Washington, are using their power to consolidate power - it’s as simple as that,’ Molinaro said. ‘And they have created a partisan set of maps meant to diminish accountability and alternative views, and by doing so they undermine democracy.’” Hudson Valley 360, [2/2/22]

Lower Energy Costs Act

2023: Molinaro Voted For The Lower Energy Costs Act. In March 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and critical minerals, accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, and reverse or repeal certain recent policies related to energy and climate change. Among provisions to boost oil and gas leasing and production, the bill would require the Interior Department to resume quarterly oil and gas lease sales on federal lands; complete certain proposed sales on the Outer Continental Shelf; and implement at least two lease sales per year in each of the Gulf of Mexico and the Alaska regions of the Shelf. It would roll back increased fees and royalties for onshore and offshore oil and gas development and production established by the 2022 budget reconciliation package (PL 117-69). It would adjust revenue sharing requirements for onshore and offshore production to generally decrease federal shares and increase state shares, particularly for coastal states. It would also require annual geothermal lease sales; terminate a moratorium on new coal leasing; and provide for final approval of previously authorized coal leases. It would prohibit the president from declaring a moratorium on the use of hydraulic fracturing and from taking any action that would delay new leases, sales and drill permits for oil and gas, coal or mineral exploration. It would remove restrictions on the import and export of liquified natural gas and prohibit the Chinese Communist Party or a person acting on its behalf from acquiring any interest with respect to lands leased for oil or gas. Among provisions to streamline the permitting process under the National Environmental Policy Act, the bill would set deadlines for the completion of NEPA environmental reviews and adjust thresholds for levels of review; limit the scope of reviews to ‘reasonably foreseeable’ effects and codify 2020 regulations removing requirements to consider climate change impacts in the review process; and direct agencies to use previously completed reviews to satisfy NEPA requirements for substantially similar proposed actions. For oil and gas projects, it would limit the scope of environmental reviews to areas within or immediately adjacent to affected plots and prohibit the consideration of downstream, indirect effects of oil and gas consumption. To expedite certain energy production and infrastructure projects, it would establish procedures and a 120-day expedited deadline for federal agencies to review applications for cross-border oil and natural gas pipelines; and expand the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission’s role as the lead agency for natural gas pipeline permitting. To address critical mineral supply, the bill would require the Energy Department to conduct ongoing assessments of and develop strategies to strengthen domestic supply chains for critical energy resources, including through increased mining and processing and permit the EPA to temporarily waive certain pollution regulation requirements for processing and refining projects at critical energy resource facilities to address supply chain concerns. It would make coal and critical mineral mining projects eligible for certain expedited infrastructure permitting processes; provide for appointment of a lead agency to coordinate the permitting process for mineral exploration; and limit the withdrawal of federal lands and waters from mineral leasing. The bill would also repeal certain climate-related programs established by the 2022 budget reconciliation package, including the $27 billion ‘Greenhouse Gas Reduction’ fund to support low- and zero-carbon projects, a program imposing fees on methane emissions from oil and gas drilling sites on federal lands, and energy rebate programs to incentivize energy-efficient homes and buildings.” The bill passed by a vote of 225-204, with 221 Republicans and 4 Democrats voting for the bill, 1 Republican and 203 Democrats voting against the bill, and six Democrats not voting. [...] Instead of reining in ‘Big Oil’ companies that have reported record profits while ‘hoarding thousands of unused leases’ on public lands and waters, the GOP bill lowers royalty rates paid by energy producers and reinstates noncompetitive leasing of public lands, Grijalva said. [...] Schumer and other Democrats said the Republican bill would repeal a new $27 billion Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund and other parts of the climate and health care law passed by Democrats last year. U.S. Rep. Marc Molinaro, R-Red Hook, voted in favor of the bill, while U.S. Rep. Pat Ryan, D-Gardiner, voted against it. The bill is unlikely to pass the Democratically-controlled Senate. House Republicans approved the sprawling energy package that seeks to undo virtually all of President Joe Biden's agenda to address climate change. The legislation would sharply increase domestic production of oil, natural gas and coal, and ease permitting restrictions that delay pipelines, refineries and other projects. It would boost production of critical minerals such as lithium, nickel and cobalt that are used in electric vehicles, computers, cellphones and other products.” Daily Freeman, [3/30/23]

The Lower Energy Costs Act Was Criticized For Rewarding Fossil Fuel Interests

Sierra Club: H.R. 1 Would Have: “Undermined Critical Environmental Protections In Service Of Speeding Up Approval For Proposed Fossil Fuel Projects.” “House Speaker Kevin McCarthy and House Republicans are reportedly planning to demand massive cuts to investments in environmental justice, climate, and other critical programs as part of negotiations on key legislation that would raise the debt ceiling and avert a financial crisis. Last month, Republicans passed HR1, or the ‘Polluters Over People Act,’ along party lines in the House. The bill would have undermined critical environmental protections in service of speeding up approval for proposed fossil fuel projects, and has minimal chances of becoming law on its own. Now, Republicans are seeking to force it through by tacking elements of the bill onto must-pass legislation.” Sierra Club, Press Release, [4/17/23]

Climate Justice Alliance: H.R.1 Was “Simply Another Handout To Dirty Industry That Will Only Fast Track And Expand Harmful Polluting Projects In Frontline Communities.” ““At a time when toxic and climate disasters are on the rise, the need to protect bedrock environmental protections could not be more urgent. Yet, those backed by fossil fuel lobbyists in Congress continue to cater to their corporate sponsors rather than their own constituents. The passage of the Polluters Over People Act (HR1) in the House is simply another handout to dirty industry that will only fast track and expand harmful polluting projects in frontline communities,” said Marion Gee, Co-Executive Director at the Climate Justice Alliance.” Green New Deal Network, Press Release, [3/30/23]

People’s Action On H.R. 1: “Republicans Are Putting The Interests Of Big Oil Above Communities.” ““H.R. 1 is a big step in the wrong direction. Republicans are putting the interests of Big Oil above communities, stripping protections against pollution in the Clean Water Act and cutting over $20 billion from last year’s landmark climate bill, the Inflation Reduction Act,” said Sophia Cheng, Climate Justice Campaign Director at People’s Action. ‘In 2022, Chevron alone raked in $6.3 million per hour and the five largest Big Oil corporations made a record $200 billion in profits. H.R. 1 paves the way for bigger profits for Big Oil at the expense of our land, water, and health. Senate Majority Leader Schumer must hold firm to defeat this bill and President Biden must follow through on his commitment to veto any version of this dangerous policy.’” Green New Deal Network, Press Release, [3/30/23]

Rep Mike Levin: “H.R. 1 Really Is An Oil And Gas Bill Developed By A Handful Of Fossil Fuel Lobbyists. It’s Their Wish List.” “Just before the spring recess, House Republicans celebrated the passage of H.R. 1, the Lower Energy Costs Act, before it likely gets tied up in the Democratic controlled Senate. [...] H.R. 1 really is an oil and gas bill developed by a handful of fossil fuel lobbyists. It’s their wish list,’ countered Rep. Mike Levin, D-Calif., who has become known as a clean energy and environmental hawk for his oceanside district.” NY1, [4/14/23]

Democrats Said H.R. 1 Was A Thinly Disguised Effort To Reward Oil Companies. “House Republicans on Thursday approved a sprawling energy package that seeks to undo virtually all of President Joe Biden’s agenda to address climate change. [...] Republicans call the bill the ‘Lower Energy Costs Act’ and gave it the symbolic label H.R. 1 — the top legislative priority of the new GOP majority, which took control of the House in January. [...] Most Americans want lower prices and more U.S. energy production, McCarthy said — results he said the bill will deliver. Democrats called that misleading and said the GOP plan was a thinly disguised effort to reward oil companies and other energy producers that have contributed millions of dollars to GOP campaigns.” PBS, [3/30/23]

Republicans Used Language From The American Petroleum Institute As They Debated H.R. 1. “Last week, House Republicans passed a sweeping energy bill containing so many pro-fossil fuel provisions that climate advocates and progressives noted it may as well have been written by the industry itself — and, as a new report reveals, Republicans parroted talking points lifted verbatim from industry lobbyists as they argued for the bill. ‘Energy security is national security.’ That’s a quote from a letter sent to House leaders by Big Oil’s most prominent industry lobbyist, the American Petroleum Institute (API), last month. As a report by Accountable.US seen exclusively by Truthout reveals, it also happens to be a quote that was repeated word for word on the House floor last week by at least four Republican members of Congress as they debated H.R. 1, which Republicans passed on Thursday.” Truthout, [4/4/23]

June 2023: NYSEG Proposed Raising Customers' Rates By 22 Percent Over Three Years. "NYSEG is proposing hiking the average customer's electric bill 22% over three years, with increases of 6.6%, 7.3% and 8.2% in each of the three years. That would be equivalent to monthly increases to average customers' electric bills of $9.61 in the first year, and then $8.87 and $11.34 in the following two years." Buffalo News, [6/15/23]

The Proposed Hikes Would Equate To A Nearly $30 Monthly Increase For The Average Residential Customer. "New York State Electric & Gas residential customers could be paying $30 a month more for their electricity three years from now, if state regulators approve the utility's proposed rate hike agreement. NYSEG is proposing hiking the average customer's electric bill 22% over three years, with increases of 6.6%, 7.3% and 8.2% in each of the three years. That would be equivalent to monthly increases to average customers' electric bills of $9.61 in the first year, and then $8.87 and $11.34 in the following two years." Buffalo News, [6/15/23]

October 2023: The New York Public Service Commission Approved A Rate Hike Proposed By NYSEG Totalling $231 Million, Roughly Half The Increase The Company Originally Proposed. "The New York State Public Service Commission (Commission) today established three year rate plans for electric and gas customers of New York State Electric & Gas Corporation (NYSEG) and Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation (RG&E) by adopting the terms of a joint proposal that is much more favorable to customers than the companies' original requests, reducing the initial rate year requests by almost $231 million. [...] Under its initial proposal, the companies sought a total of $447 million in the first year while the rates approved today provided $217.3 million in the first year, roughly 50 percent less. The increases in rates over the three-year term of the electric and gas rate plans are necessary to meet increased company costs, including increases in the property tax burden, and to support spending for capital improvements and employee additions, which are necessary to improve electric and gas operations and enhance overall electric and gas system integrity, safety and reliability." Molinaro Voted For Prohibiting The Environmental Protection Agency From Implementing New Motor Vehicle Emissions Standards

Molinaro Voted For Prohibiting The Environmental Protection Agency From Implementing New Motor Vehicle Emissions Standards. In December 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would prohibit the EPA from finalizing, implementing or enforcing a May 2023 proposed rule that would establish new emissions standards for light- and medium-duty vehicles beginning in model year 2027. It would also amend the Clean Air Act to prevent the EPA from issuing any motor vehicle emission and pollution standards, effective on or after Jan. 1, 2021, that either mandate the use of a specific technology, or that would have the effect of limiting the availability of new motor vehicles based on their engine type. It would require the EPA, within 24 months of the bill’s enactment, to modify any existing motor vehicle emission standards in order to comply with the bill’s provisions.” The bill passed by a vote of 221-197. Molinaro Voted For A Joint Resolution To Disapprove Of More Stringent Emissions Standards On Heavy-Duty Vehicles

Molinaro Voted For A Joint Resolution To Disapprove Of More Stringent Emissions Standards On Heavy-Duty Vehicles. In May 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the joint resolution that would provide for congressional disapproval of the January 2023 EPA rule imposing more stringent emissions standards on heavy-duty engines and vehicles. The rule requires heavy-duty vehicles, starting in model year 2027, to comply with reduced emissions limits of nitrogen oxides and other pollutants, both in real-world conditions and laboratory-tested scenarios. It would also lengthen the period during the engine’s operational life when the reduced emissions standard must be met. According to the EPA, the rule will reduce nitrogen oxide emissions from heavy-duty trucks by almost 50 percent by 2045. The EPA rule took effect on March 27, 2023. Under the joint resolution, the rule would have no force or effect.” The joint resolution passed by a vote of 221-203. S.J.Res. 11, [Vote #232, 5/23/23; CQ, 5/23/23]

- Molinaro Voted For Considering The Halt All Lethal Trafficking Of Fentanyl Act, A Joint Resolution Disapproving Of An EPA Rule On Heavy-Duty Vehicle Emissions, And A Joint Resolution Disapproving Of Biden's Student Loan Forgiveness. In May 2023, Molinaro voted for: "Adoption of the rule (H.Res. 429) that would provide for floor consideration of the Halt All Lethal Trafficking of (HALT) Fentanyl Act (HR 467); the joint resolution (S J Res 11) disapproving an EPA rule on heavy-duty vehicle emissions; and the joint resolution (H J Res 45) disapproving the Biden administration's student loan forgiveness rule. The rule would provide for up to one hour of general debate on each measure. It would make in order floor consideration of three amendments to HR 467." The rule was adopted by a vote of 217-204. [Poughkeepsie Journal, 10/14/08]

2011: Molinaro Voted To Require Permits For Large Water Withdrawals. "When state legislators unanimously approved a new law requiring permits for large water withdrawals, at least one block of lawmakers expected there would be some evaluation of the impacts. So said Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro, who voted for the measure in 2011, when he served as the third-ranking member of the state Assembly's Republican Conference. In an interview, Molinaro said the legislation was meant to ensure that large, existing withdrawals would require permits for the first time, and that 'through rules promulgated by the DEC, there would be a degree of oversight with consideration of impact.'" Molinaro Opposed The Expansion Of Great Thicket National Wildlife Refuge In Dutchess County Because He Didn't Want To Lose Property Tax Revenue

Molinaro Opposed The Boundary Of A Wildlife Refuge In Dutchess County That Would Reduce Property Tax Revenue. "Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro is calling on the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service to change the boundary of its proposed wildlife refuge in the towns of Dover, Amenia and North East. In a March 4 letter to the agency, Molinaro cited "grave" concerns about lost property tax revenue and fumed that local governments were not consulted prior to the Jan. 19 announcement of the proposal." Molinaro Didn't Want To Lose Property Tax From Land Valued At $40 Million. “The service would either buy the land or acquire conservation easements only from willing landowners. The lands would not need to be contiguous. In his letter, Molinaro indicated the target area in Dutchess is made up of 2,269 individual parcels amounting to more than 50 percent of Dover's land area, 36 percent of Amenia's land and less than one percent in the Town of North East. That area includes 269 unprotected parcels of at least 5 acres and classified as vacant or nearly vacant. The full market value of just those parcels is nearly $40 million, Molinaro said. The land in Dutchess would be part of a larger network in six states stretching from New York to Maine that would be preserved in a shrubby state. Molinaro Said He Opposed Energy Rate Increases By Central Hudson

Molinaro Said Proposals By Utility Company Central Hudson To Raise Energy Rates Were Not Acceptable And “Under No Circumstance Can Rate Payers Afford Any Kind Of Increase Of That Magnitude.” “At the open house last Friday, Molinaro also addressed the proposal by utility company Central Hudson to raise electricity rates by 16% and natural gas by 19%. If approved, the rate increase, which is under review with the Public Service Commission, would go into effect July 1, 2024. According to the company, the increased rates are needed to address infrastructure needs, recover from the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, and aid the company in responding to extreme weather events that impact the power grid. Molinaro said the increase that is being proposed is not acceptable. ‘There are two issues,’ Molinaro said. ‘Certainly, consumers cannot shoulder that kind of increase. Secondly, New York state has to do a better job with appropriate oversight and recognizing the impacts of state legislative decisions that are driving up energy costs. We have this compounding problem that yes, costs have gone up because of national inflation, but they are also going up because of state legislative policy that ignores the financial impacts on consumers. The case has been brought by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. and by the New York state Public Service Commission against the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, or FERC. The goal is to block further increases in electricity costs that will show up soon in residential bills to the tune of nearly 6 percent and industrial ones up to 10 percent. [...] Dutchess County, not a party in the proceeding, filed a 'friend of the court' brief in which County Executive Marc Molinaro and County Attorney James Fedorchak argue that 'left undisturbed, FERC's orders will have a substantial negative economic impact on an already suffering Dutchess County populace.' April 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Limit, Save, Grow Act, Which Would Have Repealed The Tax Credit That Attracted Zinc8 To The Hudson Valley And Jeopardized Thousands More Jobs

April 2023: Molinaro Voted For The Default On America Act [DOA] – Suspending The Debt Limit Through March 2024 Or Until $1.5 Trillion Has Been Reached And Capping Federal Spending For FY 2024 At 2022 Levels With A Capped 1% Per Year Growth. In April 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would suspend the statutory limit on federal debt through March 31, 2024, or until an additional $1.5 trillion has been borrowed — whichever occurs first. It would also include a range of provisions to limit federal spending, as well as the text of a previously passed energy and permitting policy package. The bill would set base discretionary spending limits through fiscal 2033, capping spending for fiscal 2024 at the fiscal 2022 level of $1.47 trillion — a reduction from current spending levels — and raising the cap by 1 percent annually through fiscal 2033. It would also include similar annual cap adjustments for specified programs, including for wildfire suppression, disability reviews and redeterminations, health care fraud and abuse control, and disaster reemployment services and eligibility assessments. The bill would rescind unobligated amounts from various funds provided by the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package (PL 117-169) for COVID-19 relief, IRS enforcement, and certain climate- and infrastructure-focused initiatives, as well as all unobligated funding from the March 2021 coronavirus relief reconciliation package (PL 117-2) and earlier coronavirus response laws. The bill would expand or establish work requirements for Medicaid beneficiaries aged 19 to 55 and raise from 49 to 55 the oldest age at which existing work requirements would apply for Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program beneficiaries. It would also modify various work standards for the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, including to update the baseline for calculating certain state workforce participation standards and require states to collect certain data related to work outcomes for TANF participants. To limit regulatory spending, the bill would nullify pending executive actions suspending student loan payments and prohibit the Education Department from implementing any substantially similar actions without congressional approval. It would also establish a process to require congressional approval of all “major” federal rules that would have an annual impact of at least $100 million, cause a major increase in prices, or cause significant adverse effects to economic competitiveness. Among energy- and climate-focused provisions, the bill would repeal, phase out or narrow a variety of climate-focused tax credits under the fiscal 2022 reconciliation package, including repealing new credits for solar and wind projects, sustainable aviation fuel and clean fuel production. It would also include the full text of the House-passed energy and permitting package (HR 1) that would require a number of actions to boost the domestic production of fossil fuels and certain critical minerals and accelerate the construction of natural gas pipelines and other energy infrastructure, while reversing or repealing certain presidential actions taken and laws enacted during the Biden administration related to energy policy and climate change.” The bill passed by a vote of 217-215. H.R. 2811, [Vote #199, 4/26/23; CQ, 4/26/23]

The Limit, Save, Grow Act Would Have Repealed The IRA’s Advanced Manufacturing Tax Credit, In Addition To Other Clean Energy Initiatives. “The House Republican bill, called the Limit, Save, Grow Act of 2023, would return federal government discretionary spending to FY-22 levels and limit future increases, dealing sharp cuts to agency budgets. [...] At odds with the Democrats’ clean energy agenda, the bill would repeal or shorten a wave of IRA clean energy and manufacturing incentives backed by Democrats and US President Joe Biden. The House bill would cancel a stand-alone energy storage investment tax credit and a production tax credit for existing nuclear plants, as well as technology-neutral clean electricity credits that are slated to take effect in 2025. A clean hydrogen production credit and advanced manufacturing credits for certain renewable energy components also would be eliminated.” S&P Global, [4/28/23]

Republicans passed the bill along party lines 217-215 in late April, with five GOP members voting ‘present.’ [...] Critical to the EV auto industry, HR 2811 would strip out advanced manufacturing tax credits of the IRA. These credits are split into two categories: •Section 48C, which gives battery manufacturers tax credits for certain wages paid and apprenticeships created to ‘produce or recycle certain energy properties.’ •Section 45X, which ‘pertains to advanced manufacturing production and sale of certain energy components... such as solar, wind, qualifying batteries, and some 50 critical minerals,’ according to The Wall Street Journal.” Autoweek, [5/25/23]

The Limit, Save, Grow Act’s Repeal Of IRA Climate Provisions Would Have Jeopardized More Than 100,000 Clean Energy Jobs In The U.S. “House Speaker Kevin McCarthy’s debt ceiling plan to cut $4.5 trillion in spending would jeopardize more than 100,000 green manufacturing jobs – many in Republican congressional districts – announced as a result of incentives in President Joe Biden’s landmark climate law, the White House said Thursday.” USA Today, [4/20/23]

Molinaro Twice Voted For A New York Fracking Moratorium But Supported Allowing Fracking In The Southern Tier For Job Creation

Molinaro Voted Against Allowing Fracking In New York But Supported Allowing Fracking It In The Southern Tier. “Molinaro has consistently worked to bolster his image as a centrist. He has said that same-sex marriage and protections for members of the LGBTQ community are basic civil rights. He voted against allowing hydraulic fracturing in New York as a member of the Assembly, though he now supports a pilot program to allow the controversial practice in the Southern Tier.” City and State, [10/9/18]

Molinaro Said He Twice Voted For A Moratorium On Fracking So That Local Lawmakers Could Pass Laws Allow It. “Molinaro, meanwhile, voted for a temporary moratorium on fracking in 2010 and 2011 while he was an Assembly member. On Wednesday, Molinaro said the moratoriums were meant to give state and local lawmakers time to create laws to oversee the fracking process. He faulted Cuomo for not giving local governments more of a say in the fracking decision. ‘I voted several times to continue a moratorium because the idea behind a moratorium in the state of New York is to provide local policymakers and state policymakers the opportunity to create legislation to protect against certain impacts,’ he said.” Democrat & Chronicle, [7/18/18]

July 2018: Molinaro Supported A Limited Fracking Pilot Program In The Southern Tier For “Job Creation.” “Molinaro made news this week when he said he supports at least limited hydrofracking, the controversial gas drilling technique that Cuomo banned in 2014. Molinaro said he advocates ‘a DEC-monitored pilot program’ to test fracking in the Southern Tier. The pilot program would be undertaken only after state environmental officials map the state’s water sources to protect them, he said. Molinaro declined to provide more specifics on his fracking proposal, other than to say his motivation was ‘job creation.’” Syracuse.com, [7/20/18]

Molinaro Voted Against Ending A Moratorium On Duties On Solar Energy Cells And Modules

Molinaro Voted Against Ending A Moratorium On Duties On Solar Energy Cells And Modules. “Red Hook, broke with Republicans on Friday to vote against a bill that would end a two-year moratorium on duties placed on imported cells and modules used on solar farms. Molinaro supports the continuation of importers’ tax-free status on the grounds that resumption of the tariffs would hurt domestic solar energy development and the job economy of Upstate NY. ‘Repealing this moratorium could force domestic companies, including those in New York’s 19th Congressional District, to pay over $1 billion in retroactive duties, eliminate thousands of domestic jobs, and cancel planned solar projects. I broke with my own party and voted against today’s legislation because it would kneecap our advances in domestic solar energy and eliminate jobs in Upstate New York. Solar energy producers have made significant investments in our communities and are supporting hundreds of good-paying, local union jobs. We can’t turn our backs on the progress we have made. I said I would be an independent voice for Upstate New York in Congress. I’m proud to be fulfilling this commitment by breaking with my own party to put people over politics,’ according to Molinaro’s April 28 statement. ” Hudson Valley 360, [5/2/23]

Molinaro Said He Agreed With Cuomo's Proposal To Get New York To Fifty Percent Renewable Energy By 2030, But Wanted A Market-Based Plan To Achieve That Goal. "Molinaro also said he agrees with the governor's idea to get New York to 50 percent renewable energy by 2030, but that rather than the state investing large amounts of money in private companies, government 'ought to create an economic climate where the industry can actually compete and thrive.' 2014: Molinaro Opposed Constructing Additional Transmission Power Lines Through Dutchess County, A Necessary Step To Increase Use Of Renewables In New York

Molinaro Opposed Constructing New Transmission Power Lines Through Dutchess County. "Many Dutchess County residents along with business, civic and environmental leaders are concerned about impacts that transmission lines proposed under the Energy Highway initiative could have on property values, farms and local tax bases. These concerns led me, as county executive, to formally intervene in the proceedings of the state Public Service Commission and join with the Hudson Valley Smart Energy Coalition in filing constructive comments and meeting with officials to determine how New York's energy system can be strengthened without unfairly burdening towns along the lines' proposed path." - New Transmission Lines Between Upstate And New York City Were Needed In Order To Increase The Use Of Renewable Energy In New York State. "Clean power is being generated in upstate New York, but it is not reaching New York City, the area that relies most heavily on power from fossil fuels. That is because New York effectively has two separate electrical grids: one upstate, where most of the state's growing clean-power supply is generated, the other in and around New York City. The transmission lines that connect the two cannot carry more power. Gov. Kathy Hochul has announced two massive transmission-line projects to help bridge the divide and deliver renewable energy directly to New York City. Environmental advocates hope the two projects are a sign that she is stepping up the state's efforts to address climate change." New York Times, [11/30/21]

November 2023: Molinaro Voted Against Passing FY 2024 Interior And Environment Appropriations With Republican Riders. In November 2023, Molinaro voted against: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide $37.7 billion in discretionary spending, including $25.4 billion subject to the measure's discretionary cap and $9.4 billion offset by rescissions. It would provide $14.6 billion for the Interior Department, including $3 billion for the National Park Service; $1.5 billion for the Fish and Wildlife Service; $1.3 billion for the U.S. Geological Survey; and $1.3 billion for the Bureau of Land Management. It would provide approximately $11.2 billion for Native American programs in fiscal 2024, including $2.6 billion for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, $1.4 billion for the Bureau of Indian Education and $7.1 billion for the Health and Human Services Department’s Indian Health Service (an IHS total that includes $5.1 billion in advance appropriations enacted in the fiscal 2023 spending measure). The bill would provide an additional $5.9 billion in fiscal 2025 advance appropriations for IHS. The bill would provide $6.2 billion for the EPA, which includes $2.4 billion for environmental programs and management and $561 million for science and technology. It would provide $8 billion for the Forest Service, including $4.4 billion for wildfire management and response. Between the Forest Service and Interior Department, it would provide $619 million for wildfire preparedness and $1.4 billion for fire suppression activities. The bill would also provide $960 million for the Smithsonian Institution; $178 million for the National Gallery of Art; and $373 million combined for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Among its policy provisions, it would prohibit the use of funds to promote “critical race theory”; block a January 2023 EPA and Army Corps of Engineers rule on the definition of “Waters of the United States”; prohibit the EPA from issuing a waiver to allow California to issue its own emissions standards for small off-road vehicle engines; require the Interior Department to conduct quarterly onshore oil and gas lease sales; and prohibit the use of funds to implement certain regulations under the Endangered Species Act, including protections for the lesser prairie-chicken and the northern long-eared bat. It would rescind $9.4 billion in funding for the EPA, Interior Department and Council on Environmental Quality provided under the fiscal 2022 budget reconciliation bill (PL 117-169), including $7.8 billion for renewable energy projects and $1.4 billion for environmental and climate justice projects. As amended, the bill would bar the use of funds provided by the bill for the American Climate Corps; prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to enforce any COVID-19 mask mandates; bar the use of funds provided by the bill to implement, administer, apply, enforce or carry out any plastic straw prohibitions; prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill for the cancellation or suspension of oil and gas leases in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge or the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska; and prohibit the use of funds provided by the bill to reduce the number of oil and gas leases issued by the Interior Department, among other provisions.” The bill passed by a vote of 213-203. Molinaro Called The Withdrawal From Afghanistan “Abandoning Our Allies Overseas”

Molinaro Called The Withdrawal From Afghanistan “Abandoning Our Allies Overseas.” “The Democrats in Congress and the Biden Administration seem committed to abandoning our allies overseas. Following an embarrassing and deadly retreat out of Afghanistan, congress is refusing to provide funding to the critically needed 'Iron Dome' defense system in Israel.” Marc Molinaro, Twitter, [9/22/21]

Molinaro Voted For Passing Fiscal 2024 State-Foreign Operations Appropriations Including Republican Riders. In September 2023, Molinaro voted for: “Passage of the bill, as amended, that would provide $53.3 billion in federal funding for fiscal 2024. The bill includes a $12.9 billion offset, including $11.1 billion from a rescission of funding from the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund from the fiscal 2022 budget reconciliation bill (PL 117-169). The bill would provide $4.4 billion to counter the Chinese Communist Party’s influence and prohibit the use of funds to repay loans to the Chinese government or to support forced labor, crimes against humanity or genocide in China. The bill would provide $3.1 billion for Israel, $1.5 billion for Egypt and $1.7 billion for Jordan. The bill would also require the executive branch, within 60 days of enactment, to report to Congress on a strategy to prioritize U.S. national security interests in responding to the Russian invasion of Ukraine, and create new monitoring and oversight mechanisms. Among other provisions, the bill would provide $10 billion for global health programs, strike funding for the Green Climate Fund, and reimpose the prohibition on federal funding for international non-governmental organizations that provide abortion services. As amended, the bill would reduce the salary of Secretary of State Antony Blinken to $1, prohibit the use of funds for the Office of Palestinian Affairs, and add language to expand eligibility for security upgrades to soft targets to include places of worship for U.S. embassy staff and their dependents.” The bill passed by a vote of 216-212.
