Sticker Mule Had A "Kill The Police" Sticker For Sale

Constantino's Company Had Stickers That Said "Kill The Police" For Sale On Their Website. "Constantino has also been criticized by his opponent for what Gendebien has described as 'anti-police stickers,' when the Sticker Mule marketplace that allows users to design and sell their own designs included stickers including one that said 'Kill the Police'. Constantino has said that and other offensive stickers were uploaded to the marketplace but never sold or printed, and have since been removed from the platform." NNY 360, [9/30/26]

A Sticker Mule Sticker Said, "Kill The Police." "He's had enough. In May, after the conclusion of their only televised debate, Smullen refused to shake Constantino's outstretched hand. Four days later, Smullen called reporters down to a windowless, air conditioned Albany hotel conference room to explain why. After the press assembled, he quietly placed posters on easels arrayed around him. The 'evil' text message on one poster. The Facebook post by a Vermont-based Constantino supporter accusing Smullen of politicizing his son's death blown up on another. A Sticker Mule sticker that said, 'Kill the police.' 'Let it sink in,' Smullen said. 'This is the temperament of the lifelong Democrat asking you to send him to Congress as a Republican.' (Constantino says he previously registered as a Democrat to support a friend running for Albany mayor.)" Politico, [6/21/26]

Constantino Said, "I Am Not A Fan Of Unionization." "It's all about business with Anthony T. [...] Constantino said he doesn't disagree with those statements even today. 'I am not a fan of unionization,' he said. With diesel over $6 a gallon in New York, Upstate families and farmers are already struggling to keep up with rising costs, but Anthony Constantino wants to make everything even more expensive. He supports a trade war with Canada and another forever war in the Middle East that DC politicians chose to fight, no matter how much they raise the costs of our groceries, gas, and heating bills.

Rising Diesel Prices Were Continuing To "Burn A Hole" In New Yorkers' Pockets And Could Result In Higher Prices For Consumers

Bay News 9: Rising Gas And Diesel Prices Were Continuing To "Burn A Hole" In New Yorkers' Pockets. "Rising gas and diesel prices are continuing to burn a hole in New Yorkers' pockets. According to AAA, the state average for a gallon of gas currently matches the national average at $4.49 a gallon. For diesel, it's $6.51 a gallon. With rising prices connected to a war some say is one of "choice," some political analysts say the price at the pump is becoming a growing political issue." Bay News 9, [9/25/26]

Higher Diesel Prices Could Result In Higher Prices For Consumers Because Of Rising Transportation Costs. "Higher diesel prices are squeezing trucking companies in New York and could soon translate into higher prices for consumers as transportation costs rise. Robert Benuzzi, transportation manager for Adirondack Beverage and a board member of the Trucking Association of New York, said diesel prices are the highest he has seen them. He said the issue is straightforward: nearly everything that moves from manufacturers to stores requires transportation, and much of it moves by truck. As fuel costs climb, trucking companies face a choice of absorbing the added expense or passing it along. Benuzzi said his company has been absorbing some of the higher costs for its customers, but he said that approach has limits.” WRGB Albany, [9/18/26]

2026: New York Farmers Were Crushed By Rising Diesel Prices

2026: A Study Showed That During The Peak Spring Planting Season An Average New York Farmer Paid An Extra $1,500 Each Time They Refueled Their Fuel Storage Tank. “A recent Joint Economic Committee report quantifies the impact of high diesel prices on our agricultural sector. At the peak of the 2026 spring planting season, a typical New York farmer paid an extra $1,500 each time they refilled their fuel storage tank. That farmer would also have shelled out an additional $200 per fill-up for a grain truck and $240 for a tractor. Diesel prices have risen significantly since then, and the fuel-intensive work of harvest is already underway.” Rockland County Business Journal, [9/28/26]

Constantino Repeatedly Supported Trump’s Tariff Plan

Constantino Supported Trump’s Tariff Plan To Bring Back Manufacturing To The U.S. “Anthony Constantino built his company, Sticker Mule, from the ground up in America and using American workers. As CEO, he supports President Donald Trump’s tariff plan to bring manufacturing back to the U.S. Sticker Mule started 15 years ago using the internet to work directly with the customer. Since then, the company’s grown to over 1,000 people. During all those years of growth, Constantino kept the company’s production in the United States. ‘There’s a big opportunity to bring more and more manufacturing back to the United States using machines that are more sophisticated than what we were using ten or 20 or 30 years ago,’ He said. Constantino is all for the president’s tariffs and thinks the change is long overdue.” Fox 11 News, [4/24/25]

Constantino Backed Trump’s Canadian Tariffs. “President Donald Trump’s decision to impose 50% tariffs on many Canadian products just over two months before the midterms is reverberating across northern border states and congressional districts where cross-border trade and tourism are major economic drivers. [...] Constantino explained that when it comes to the tariffs, he is backing Trump’s decision. Negotiations between Canada and the U.S. broke down over the weekend and a fresh round of 50% U.S. tariffs on some Canadian goods took effect on Saturday, leading Canada to retaliate with a set of its own levies. ‘Canada has been taking advantage of us,’ he said. ‘We had an insecure border. We secured it, and we need fair trade with Canada. We need to be able to deal with them on a fair basis and rebuild American manufacturing.’” ABC News, [9/28/26]

Constantino Supported Trump's Tariffs And Defended His Policies With Canada. "The issue of tariffs and the U.S. relationship with Canada is likely to play a role in the upcoming election in New York's 21st Congressional District, which includes the North Country. Republican candidate Anthony Constantino has supported Trump's tariffs, while Democrat Blake Gendebien has opposed them and said he supports a more equitable deal between the two countries. In a lengthy social media post on Monday, Constantino defended Trump's policies with Canada, while also defending the president's desire to rename Lake Ontario as 'marketing genius.'" Constantino Commended Trump For Enacting Tariffs Against Canada. "During the interview, Eschen asked Constantino whether he would push Congress to play a bigger role in the rollout of tariffs and whether he would make any changes. Constantino said he has developed a great relationship with President Donald Trump and wants to use that relationship to fight for the people of New York's 21st Congressional District. 'I want to commend the president for fighting for us to have a fair trade with Canada,' said Constantino. 'They unfairly tariff us. But this is a fight between politicians. I want to help bring that negotiation to a prompt resolution, get things done for the citizens.'" WRGB Albany, [10/6/26]

2025: Tariffs Were One Of The Largest Tax Increases In The Country's History

Center For Economic And Policy Research: Trump's Tariffs Were The Largest Tax Increase In The Country's History. "Donald Trump is putting in place the largest tax increase in the country's history with his big import taxes (tariffs). We won't know the full size of Trump's taxes until after Liberation Day III (August 1), and probably not even then, but we already know that they are huge. This is evident from the tariff revenue the government is collecting. In June the government collected $26.6 billion in tariff revenue. That is up from around $6 billion a month in 2024 before Trump's tax hikes. The difference of $20 billion comes to $240 billion on an annual basis. Summed over a decade, as we do with other measures, this comes to $2.4 trillion. This would be a substantial tax hike in itself, roughly $1,900 per household, but we know that the figure is almost certain to go much higher. Trump is threatening taxes of an additional 10 to 30 percent on imports from our major trading partners, such as Mexico, Canada, the European Union, and Japan. The tax take could easily end up being twice its current level, making Trump's tariff frenzy by far the largest tax increase in US history." Center For Economic and Policy Research, [7/17/25]

2026: Tariffs Were Estimated To Cost American Families $1,700 Per Year

Tariffs Increased The Cost Of Living By More Than $1,700 Per Family

Trump's Tariffs Increased The Cost Of Living By More Than $1,700 Per Family. "Following the Supreme Court's decision today to overturn Trump's tariffs, the Joint Economic Committee – Minority released an updated report estimating that American families have already paid more than $1,700 each in tariff costs since President Trump took office. Combining Treasury Department data on the amount of tariff revenue collected across the first year of Trump's term with independent estimates from the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office of the percent of each tariff dollar that is paid by American consumers, the Committee found that they paid more than $231 billion in total tariff costs between February 2025 and January 2026, an average of more than $1,700 per family. 'President Trump's tariffs have been a disaster for American families, driving costs up at the worst possible time,' said U.S. Senator Maggie Hassan, Ranking Member of the Joint Economic Committee. 'While the Supreme Court has thankfully and correctly ruled that much of Trump's tariff agenda was an illegal exercise of presidential power, today's ruling cannot undo the damage that tariffs have already caused.'" 2026: The Joint Economic Committee Estimated That Tariffs Would Cost American Families More Than $2,500 On Average

Joint Economic Committee Minority: “American Families Will Pay More Than $2,500 Each In Tariff Costs In 2026.” “Even though the Supreme Court ruled that the bulk of President Trump’s tariff agenda was illegal, the administration moved immediately to enact new tariffs that Treasury Secretary Bessent claims will result in ‘virtually unchanged tariff revenue in 2026’. If Bessent’s estimates hold true, the Joint Economic Committee – Minority estimates that American families will pay more than $2,500 each in tariff costs in 2026. Building on its previous tariff cost estimates, the Committee combined official data from the U.S. Treasury Department on the amount of tariff revenue collected since the start of 2025 with independent estimates from the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office of the percent of each tariff dollar that is ultimately paid by American consumers. The Committee found that if tariff revenue stays at the level recorded in January 2026 for the rest of the year, American families would in total pay more than $330 billion in tariff costs in 2026, an average of more than $2,500 per household in tariff costs this year. This is substantially higher than the more than $1,700 in average tariff costs that the JEC – Minority previously estimated that families paid during the first year of Trump’s second term.” Joint Economic Committee Minority, Fact Sheet, [March 2026]

Constantino Approved Of Trump’s Handling Of The Iran War And Said He Trusted Him To Use His Judgement

Constantino Approved Of Trump’s Handling Of The Iran War. “The war with Iran is another hot-button issue this election cycle. Gendebien believes Congress should decide on military action. ‘Don’t you think it’s time that our rural legislators have a vote or a say before we get into international conflicts that put our young people’s lives at risk and disproportionately drive up costs for all of us?’ Gendebien said. Constantino approves of President Donald Trump’s handling of the war. ‘If we show weakness that emboldens them, so we have to have the president’s back. Constantino said he wants the world to be happier and understands people are dying. ‘I think President Trump’s more towards peace,’ Constantino said. ‘But he has way more information about regards to matters of war and peace’ Constantino said Trump viewed an imminent threat and viewed himself as someone who could handle it and create lasting peace. ‘I think his actions in Iran are direct records towards creating a lasting peace,’ Constantino said. Gas Prices Increased Since The Start Of The Iran War

May 2026: Gas Prices Increased 50% Since The Start Of The Iran War

Gas Prices Increased 50% Since The Start Of The Iran War. "The price of a gallon of regular gasoline climbed 31 cents in the past week, spiking to an average of $4.48 per gallon Tuesday, according to AAA, hitting the wallets of drivers after rising 50% since the war with Iran began. The main reason drivers are paying more at the pump is because of the global energy crisis caused by the Iran War. The price of crude oil, which is the main ingredient in gasoline, has been climbing for most of the past two months because the Strait of Hormuz, the narrow passage of the Persian Gulf through which a fifth of the world's crude oil normally passes, has effectively been shut, and oil tankers have been stranded there unable to deliver crude." May 2026: Gas Prices Were Near $5

May 2026: Gas Prices Were Near $5. "Rising gas prices are changing the driving behavior of many Americans, according to a new poll released by ABC News, The Washington Post, and Ipsos. The poll conducted among 2,560 U.S. adults between April 24-28, found that 44% of respondents had cut back on driving due to high gas prices. The finding comes as gas prices rose to an average of $4.55 per gallon on May 7, up from $4.30 a week earlier on April 30, according to AAA. 'U.S. gas price scorecard for May 6- $3.99/gal is no longer the most common price in the U.S., and now the top 10% of gas stations average over $6/gal,' Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy, wrote in an X post." March 2026: Gas Prices Increased About 20% Since The U.S. And Israel Attacked Iran. "Gasoline, diesel and jet fuel are made from crude oil. As the cost of crude climbs, so do the prices of those widely used products, which keep equipment, cars, buses, delivery trucks and airplanes running. Across the U.S., drivers were paying an average of $3.58 for a gallon of regular gasoline Wednesday, compared with $2.98 before the war started. New York Times: Grocery Prices Climbed At Their Fastest Rate In Four Years As The Effects Of The Iran War Weigh On The U.S. Economy. "Grocery prices climbed at their fastest rate in nearly four years, putting increased pressure on Americans' wallets at a time when many are already feeling pessimistic about the economy. Prices for groceries spiked in April, according to data released Tuesday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, while broader inflation reached its highest level in nearly three years, as the effects of the war in Iran start to weigh on the U.S. economy." The Iran War Led To Higher Energy And Utility Prices

New York Times: Energy Costs Increased Because Of The Iran War. “Daily life in America is getting more expensive, according to the latest inflation report from the Labor Department. Consumer prices rose 3.8 percent last month from a year earlier, their fastest rate in nearly three years, outpacing U.S. wage growth. Productivity is rising at a brisk pace, but the share of national income that goes to workers has sunk to its lowest point on record. The price increases were driven largely by energy costs, which have shot up sharply since the U.S. went to war with Iran. Airline fares are also up significantly. And the price of tomatoes surged nearly 40 percent over the last year because of bad weather, high tariffs and climbing transportation costs.” New York Times, [5/12/26]

New York Times: The Iran War Disrupted The Strait Of Hormuz Which Led To Higher Utility Bills. “Americans are starting to pay more for goods and services, from airline baggage fees to package deliveries. Companies have warned that higher energy costs tied to the war in Iran are forcing price increases across industries. Oil and gas prices surged after the United States and Israel launched attacks on Iran, disrupting shipments through the Strait of Hormuz, a narrow passageway through which roughly a fifth of the world’s oil and gas supply typically passes. After more than five weeks of conflict before a cease-fire was called, the economic effects are becoming clearer. Gas prices have topped $4 a gallon on average. Utility bills have climbed and consumers are facing higher costs for groceries and air travel — prices that are unlikely to return to prewar levels anytime soon.” New York Times, [4/10/26]
